Senate OKs Increase in Security Pay

Compromise on Seven Per Cent to Avert Veto

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate late Saturday passed the Social Security liberalization bill after trimming the increased public assistance program in an effort to avert a veto by President Eisenhower.

Passage was by a roll call vote of 79-0.

The bill now goes back to the House which passed it 375-2 July 31. Some senators said they understood the House would accept it without any conference committee meeting.

Its chief feature is a 7 per cent increase in Social Security insurance benefits.

* * * *

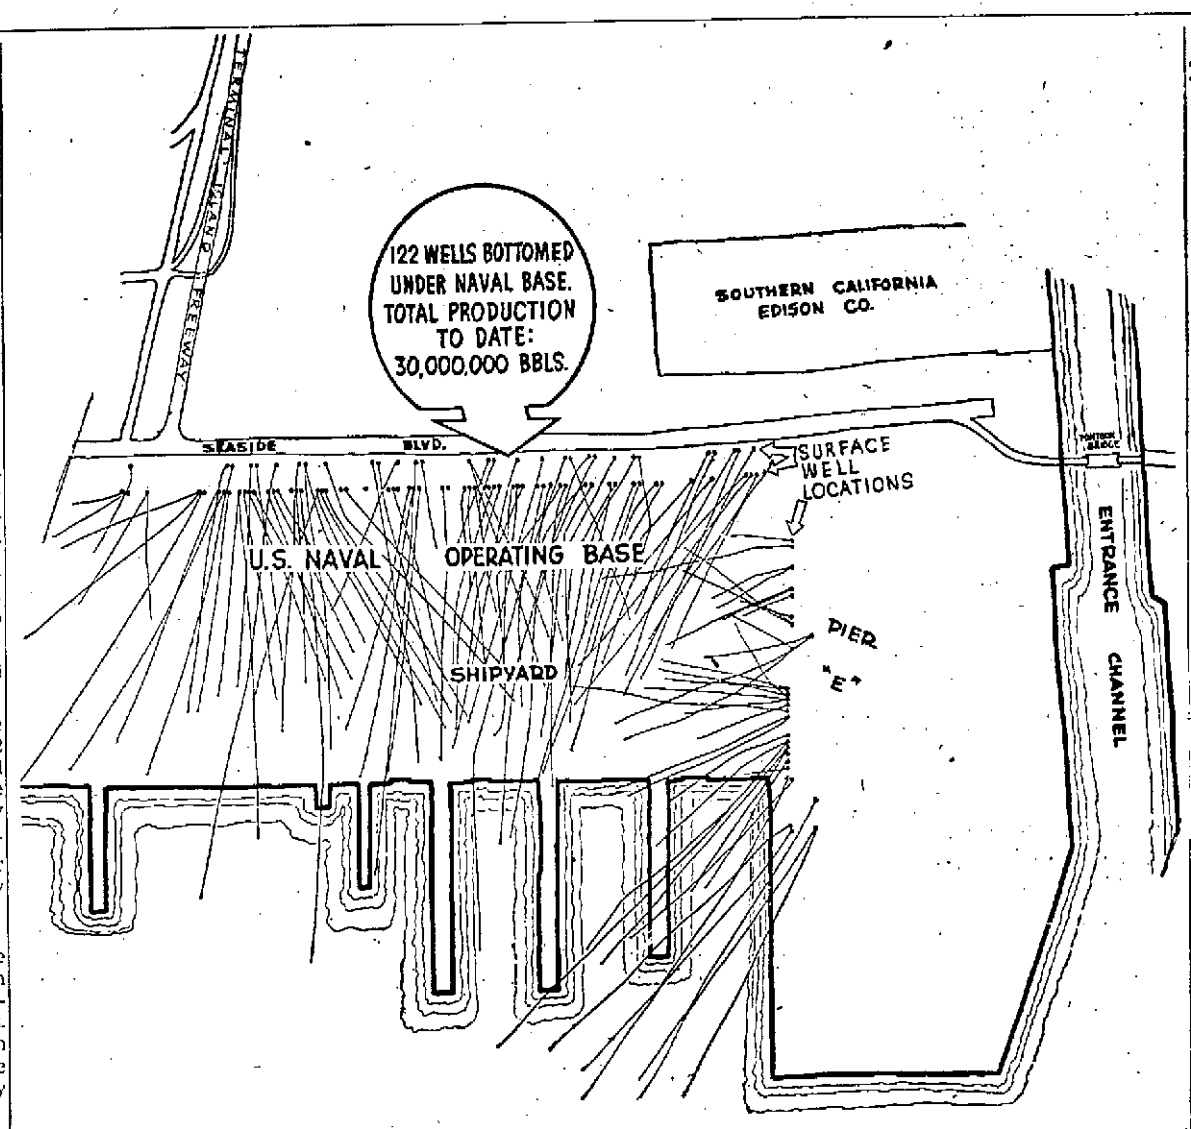

PAYROLL TAXES would be raised by a bigger amount than necessary to pay for the immediate new insurance benefits. The tax boost is designed in part to insure the long-range soundness of the Social Security system.

The bill as it passed the House also increased federal grants to the states for the four public assistance programs by 288 million dollars. These programs are for the needy, the aged, blind, and disabled and dependent children.

This led the administration to send word to the Capitol that the measure would be vetoed.

* * * *

THE SENATE chopped this increase down to 197 million. Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla), who sponsored the two floor amendments to reduce the public assistance cost, said he was sure that their adoption would prevent a veto.

WHY THE NAVY COMPLAINS

The U. S. Government's momentous suit to stop subsidence in the Long Beach area is partially explained by this map, which illustrates the extent of subsidence-causing oil production from under the U. S. Navy's Operating Base itself. From drill sites on the perimeter, wells have been slantdrilled to tap the big oil pool under the base, which embraces the shipyard where extensive damage has resulted from sinkage. The light black lines show the well courses from surface locations . . . to the well bottoms.

The Navy has received none of the proceeds from this huge harvest of black gold, but has been and is still paying the cost of subsidence repairs on its installations. The wells shown are only a fraction of the total in the Wilmington Field, and contribute only in part to subsidence resulting from field-wide oil withdrawal. In its gigantic legal action filed last week, the government asked for court action to force a field-wide anti-subsidence program.

Center of the subsidence bowl is at the Southern California Edison property, shown at upper right, where the earth surface has subsided 25 feet. In the shipyard, subsidence from two to 22 feet has occurred.

INGLEWOOD TENSE

Scientists Set to Track Flight

By LOU JOBST

INGLEWOOD—An air of tension settled over the Space Technology Laboratory here Saturday night as the zero hour for man's first lunar exploration approached.

Activity had stepped up perceptibly at the STL complex, the world command post of the Air Force project to send an untested multistage rocket 226,000 miles across space to the vicinity of the moon.

Still clothed in official secrecy, indications were that the Southern California-produced composite rocket would be fired from Cape Canaveral at the speculated time, between 4 and 8 a.m.

Special quarters for receiving, analyzing and computing from the moon rocket's instruments and five far-flung tracking stations have been set up in a 20x50-foot bunker here.

* * * *

ANOTHER ROOM in the Arbor Vitae St. plant has been remodeled as a news-media center for point-by-point television, radio and newspaper coverage of the historic journey.

Scores of newsmen, who began gathering here for the first of five lunar probes by the three services, will follow the 2.6-day flight across outer space on a specially constructed probe-o-graph. This is a three-dimensional plotting board upon which the analyzed data will be posted. (The Independent, Press-Telegram is represented by James Allen, military editor.)

The Inglewood scientific center is tied by direct cable, telephone and radio communications with the launching site and tracking stations at Manchester, England, Hilo, Hawaii, and in Southern California and India.

Other communication networks put it in direct contact with International Geophysical

Nasser Wary of Ike Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man with real power of decision in the Middle East, Arab leader Gamal Abdel Nasser, was reported Saturday to be extremely suspicious of President Eisenhower's six-point Mideast peace plan.

Diplomatic officials said reports from Cairo show that Nasser is very wary of the whole idea, although he has not turned it down. His reaction is being watched with intense interest here because almost independently of the backroom negotiations now under way at United Nations headquarters, Nasser's decision can make or break the project.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time, it is believed in official quarters here that Eisenhower's move has put the ambitious president of the United Arab Republic in a very difficult spot.

Eisenhower has confronted Nasser with the necessity for making a choice which in the long run may be vital to the Cairo leader's own success.

The President offered through his speech at the United Nations, Wednesday, to throw American support and backing behind a great new Middle East economic program. Although details of the program were deliberately left vague, the President was quite specific on one point. The point is that the Arabs themselves would run the operation.

Giant Rocket Readied for Initial Test

Douglas Technical Crew in Charge at Cape Canaveral

Combined Wire Services

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The preliminary countdown for launching of the first United States moon rocket began Saturday, indicating that the spectacular shot will be attempted early today.

Months of secret preparation reached a climax as Douglas Aircraft Co. technicians started the lengthy checkout that could lead to an unprecedented 220,000-mile journey through space.

The weather station at Patrick Air Force base forecast partly cloudy conditions. Hurricane Cleo was too far out at sea to have any effect on the firing, officials said.

* * * *

THERE STILL WAS no official announcement on when the launching—the most ambitious venture in man's bid to conquer space—was due, but observers expected the try to be made shortly after dawn.

Authoritative sources said earlier that the shot would be attempted early today.

The moon-probe vehicle, a mighty three-stage Thor-Able rocket, still was under wraps in its huge red and white service tower.

Its immense size, dominating the cape skyline, left little doubt that this was the missile that the Air Force hopes will carry a satellite to an orbit around the moon.

* * * *

THE HOPES OF A complete success on the first try were very dim, however, because of the complex problem in celestial mechanics involved.

The missile experts figure it is a 10-1 chance that the satellite will plop into a planned orbit some 10,000 to 50,000 miles from the moon. They probably will be quite satisfied if the missile's three stages per-

Telescopic Radio Set for Rocket

JODRELL BANK, England, (AP) — Scientists here at the world's largest radio telescope have been fully briefed on the expected firing of a U. S. Air Force rocket to the moon, it was announced Saturday.

The official spokesman for the Jodrell Bank Experimental Station refused to confirm, however, reports that the rocket firing may come Sunday.

The atmosphere in the shadow of the huge saucer-shaped radio telescope was one of anxious expectancy. Near the main control building U. S. Air Force engineers worked all day in their large blue trailer.

* * * *

"THE ROCKET will be in our range only about eight hours at a time," the spokesman said, "since of course anything in space rises and sets like a star. We are prepared to follow it throughout most of the time it will be above the horizon.

"Radio signals received from the rocket will be sent immediately to the United States. The exact position of the probe during its flight and the scientific measurements it reports will be worked out in the United States."

Oil Field Gross $1.3 Billion So Far

By HARRY FULTON

Samuel M. Roberts, the city's subsidence administrator, Saturday said that oil operators in the Wilmington Oil Field have taken gross profits amounting to about $1,300,000,000 from the field to date, and declared that the public has a right to demand that they help finance a program to halt subsidence.

Although the city, through its contractors—Long Beach Oil Development Co. and the Richfield Oil Corp.—is one of the largest operators in the field, Roberts said, "Stopping subsidence is more important to the city than continued oil production."

He joined with other city officials involved in the fight against subsidence in expressing the hope that the U. S. Government's suit against the state, the city and almost 400 other oil producers will lead to a speedy solution of the earth-sinking problem which is damaging the Long Beach area in general and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard in particular.

* * * *

"IT IS A CLEAR AND DEFINITE POLICY established by the City Council of Long Beach that everything possible must be done to stop subsidence," said Roberts. "We hope that all the oil producers and owners of oil rights will cooperate immediately in getting full-scale repressure operations under way to stop subsidence as demanded by the legal action filed by the Department of Justice.

"Subsidence damage to date has been suffered almost entirely by landowners and organizations receiving oil income—with the exception of the Navy. Many less fortunate organizations and individuals will suffer damage in the future if subsidence continues."

The subsidence coordinator said many oil producers are cooperating with the city on a voluntary basis to engineer and organize programs to repressure major portions of the oil field, but he added, "These efforts so far have not been enough to get the job done. There are some obstructionists who richly deserve strong medicine.

"Gross profits (prior to income taxes) to oil producers and owners of oil royalties have probably exceeded $1,300,000,000 to date. The public has a right to demand that some past and future profits be invested in a $32,000,000 program to install water injection machinery to repressure the field."

* * * *

CHARLES L. VICKERS, general manager of the Port of Long Beach, which is in the heart of the earth-sinkage "bowl," also emphasized the importance of obtaining a truly effective subsidence-control program, saying "Oil is important to the economy of Long Beach, but it is secondary at this time." He added:

"Subsidence has to be stopped. There has been over $100,000,000 worth of subsidence damage done to date, and much more will occur if the condition isn't corrected.

"To date, the City of Long Beach and its contractors have produced about 30 per cent of all the oil produced from the Wilmington Oil Field, and the city cannot by itself stop subsidence.

"It is hoped that this suit will be constructive in its

'Copter Crashes, 3 Killed

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A Navy helicopter crashed and burned in a field in suburban Imperial Beach Saturday, killing three of the four crewmen aboard.

The Navy said the Sikorsky anti-submarine helicopter crashed one minute after taking off from Ream Field at Imperial Beach.

Two of the dead were identified as:

Lt. Glen L. Erickson, 24, the pilot, who lived at Imperial Beach. His mother, Mrs. Bruce Sherwood lives at El Cerrito, Calif., and his father, A. F. Erickson at Seattle, Wash.

Robert F. Walker, 26, Sonarman 3-C, son of Mrs. A. Boyarski of Melrose Park, Ill.

Ens. Jerry L. McFerron, 22, the co-pilot, who lives at nearby Chula Vista, suffered second degree burns over 60 per cent of his body. He is the son of Samual O. McFerron, of Rural Route 1, Miami, Okla.

The helicopter crashed 150 yards from houses about a quarter of a mile northwest of Ream Field and burst into flames. Witnesses said there were several explosions.

Meg Eyes Townsend Again; Hopes for Queen's Blessing

LONDON (AP) — The tabloid Sunday Pictorial said Saturday Princess Margaret wants to resume her romance with Peter Townsend—but only if she gets the blessing of her sister, Queen Elizabeth II.

The report, one of several conflicting stories published recently by the British press on the princess and Townsend, took up the front page in early editions of the mass-circulation newspaper.

"Margaret waits for queen's blessing . . . alone," black headlines proclaimed.

The story appeared just one week after a rival Sunday newspaper claimed Margaret finally had ended her friendship with the 43-year-old Townsend in a dispute over a forthcoming book about him.

Townsend, a divorced war hero, was reported by the Pictorial to have flown to England from Brussels five days before the 27-year-old princess came home last Tuesday from a Canadian tour.

"He has spoken to Margaret by telephone but they had not met up to last night," the Pictorial said.

Margaret, the paper said, is alone at Windsor castle this weekend hoping for a message from the queen, now on a yachting vacation in Scotland with her family.

"She (Margaret) is waiting for a blessing for the continuance of her romance with Peter Townsend," the Pictorial said. "The sisters have not met since July 11 when Margaret had tea at Buckingham Palace on the day she left for Canada.

"If the princess and Townsend meet again publicly it will be with the knowledge and acceptance, however reluctantly given, of the queen."

* * * *

TOWNSEND, who went on a world tour after Margaret announced in 1953 that she had decided against marrying him, has denied the romance is still on.

Townsend made the denial to counter romance speculation after he called on Margaret at her London home last March after returning from his tour.

Young Hikers Hurt in Rubio Canyon Fall

A 14-year-old Altadena girl was injured critically when she and a 10-year-old companion fell 40 feet down a rocky cliff near Rubio Canyon Falls above Altadena Saturday afternoon.

The girl's brother received minor injuries while trying to rescue them.

Altadena Sheriff's Sgt. George Hagan said Theresa Ruth Iffert received severe scalp injuries in the fall and was knocked unconscious.

Less seriously injured was Calvin James Burnett, of West Covina, who suffered lacerations of the forehead and abrasions.

Both were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Pasadena.

Sheriff's deputies were notified of the accident when the girl's brother, Robert, 12, sought help from a forest ranger.

Robert, who injured his knee while attempting a rescue himself, led a rescue party of Altadena deputies and mountaineers to the spot from which his sister was carried out on a stretcher and put into a waiting ambulance.

He said he and his companions were on a hike when the accident occurred.

The streets of Manizales, a city of about 160,000 were crowded as she rode from the airport in a caravan of 2,000 cars to the heart of the city where Mayor Pedro Uribe Mejia presided at a welcoming ceremony.

A reception is to continue through Sunday before she starts on a South American tour.

L.A.C. Says: Age of Moguls

A recent book the "Age of Moguls" is a vivid description of the fantastic operations of Vanderbilt, Astor, Carnegie and a score of other financial titans of the last century. It is the story of a period of ruthlessness by railroad builders, developers of oil and of steel. It was a financially lawless period which resulted in laws to curb the powers of these "moguls" of finance and of business and industrial management. The writer of the book says most of these people would be sentenced to hundreds of years in jail if they tried to operate under present laws.

Virtually all of these men grew up from poverty to amass unbelievable fortunes. Some of them left most of their fortunes to foundations which have contributed greatly to the welfare of the world. It may be said their energies and ruthlessness greatly speeded the development of all industries and railroads. But they were so ruthless and disregardful of ethics they had to be restricted by laws.

Today we have another type of "mogul." They do not profit financially as much as did the financial moguls of the 1800's. But they hold the economy of nation at their mercy to an even greater degree than did the money moguls. These new moguls are the labor leaders who hold millions of workers as their captives. They have the power to wreck the entire economy on a week's notice.

We believe John L. Lewis, Samuel Gompers and Phillip Murray contributed more to the welfare of workers than any men living or dead. Only John L. Lewis of these three is still alive. These men have never been accused of personal selfishness in their union activities. They formed the foundation on which all our present labor unions are founded. But they have been succeeded in power by some men who are as ruthless and dishonest as were any of the financial moguls of the past.

Now it is apparent gangsterism is rampant in some of the largest unions. The leaders of some unions have amassed large fortunes while leaders of the unions. They plead the 5th Amendment when asked about their finances. When expelled from the AFL-CIO they become even more powerful. It is apparent they are as ruthless and disregardful of the public as were the financial moguls whose activities had to be curbed by stringent laws.

It is an example of how excesses grow up in this country. The apathy of the people causes them to close their eyes to such practices—until the conditions become so bad that public opinion changes and demands corrections. We may have reached such a point concerning the labor movement in this country. Certainly the Senate rackets investigation should awaken the people's indignation. The fact that labor leaders influence can kill off corrective legislation should awaken the people to their danger.

It took drastic action to curb the financial plunders. It will take equally drastic action to curb the plunderers of labor unions and the public. It is a time when honest labor leaders, office holders and the general public should stand up and be counted. Their moral status is at stake. If they avoid the issue or join in maintaining the unsavory powers of some unions and their leaders, they are digging the economic grave of the nation. It calls for a realization that the problem has reached a point where corrective action must be taken—or the people will be giving approval to the action of labor leaders whose records have become examples of the worst kind of racketeering the nation has known since the days of Al Capone.—L.A.C.

Norwalk Father of Two Plunges to Death Despite Wife's Pleas

ALTADENA — Despite the tearful pleas of his wife, the father of two children leaped to his death from a high-tension tower in the hills above Altadena Saturday afternoon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Detectives said Robert Bruce Carley, a 35-year-old service-station attendant of 14049 Lelbacher Ave., Norwalk, was killed instantly in the 40-foot plunge.

His wife Virginia was taken to Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena after the tragedy and given sedatives for hysteria.

Detectives found three notes:

To his wife he wrote, "Find someone who has character and the strentgh and courage of his own convictions who will love you and the children in a far better way than I did."

A second note addressed to his son read:

"Son, most fathers leave member them by—I have just a few words. Love your mother, think for yourself, and be honest with yourself and everyone else."

The last note was addressed, "To a little five year old angel" which told his daughter to give the world her love and to smile, laugh and be happy.

Fullerton Murder-Suicide Pair's Bodies Found Near Barstow

A 43-year-old Fullerton man is believed to have shot his estranged wife as they drove along a Fullerton street Friday night, and then to have driven the body to the Barstow area before taking his own life.

The suspected murder-suicide of Robert Thomas Quandt, and his wife, Molly, 37, of 1744 W. Huston St., was reported Saturday by San Bernardino County authorities to the Orange County coroner's office.

Deputy Coroner Roger S. Burnham said the bodies were found in Quandt's automobile by a group of hunters about 18 miles west of Barstow near Highway 66.

The woman had been shot several times with a .38-caliber pistol, which Quandt also used to kill himself, Burnham said.

A garden hose was attached to the car's exhaust pipe and placed inside the vehicle, but apparently Quandt decided that method was too slow, the coroner's office reported.

The murder was believed to have been witnessed by an Inglewood couple as they followed the Quandt car east on Orangethorpe Ave., about 7 p. m. Friday.

Bruce Tomalson told Fullerton police that he and his wife noticed the couple in the car ahead scuffling. Then the man, who was driving, raised a pistol and the Tomalsons heard five shots. The car door opened as the woman attempted to escape, but was slammed shut again and the car sped north on Cypress Ave.

Tomalson took the license number before the death car disappeared, and police said the number matched that of Quandt's car. Police conducted a helicopter search in the Fullerton area Saturday morning in an attempt to locate either the car or the dead woman's body.

The Quandts had separated several weeks ago, according to Fullerton police. Mrs. Quandt was living at 319 N. East St., Anaheim, and her husband had been staying at the Pickwick Hotel, also in Anaheim.

Britain's Mideast Chief on Secret Jordan Mission

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Lt. Gen. Sir Roger Bower, commander of British forces in the Middle East, flew into Jordan Saturday from Cyprus for secret conferences.

The visit was not announced and British officials reluctantly acknowledged his presence only after the news leaked out.

They said the visit has no special significance. It was noted, however, he arrived on the heels of a tightening of security in Amman and Jordanian police and army searches of Palestine refuge camps for disloyal elements.

There have been widespread reports of plots to assassinate young King Hussein. The government has accused President Nasser's United Arab Republic of plotting against the monarch.

Western diplomats speculated one reason for Bower's visit was to persuade Jordan to allow Cyprus Airlines to fly civilian charter planes into Jordan to supply the British troops. But the British embassy denied this.

THE "JOBS" PROGRAM will be submitted to the electorate Nov. 4 as two bond issue propositions.

One, a $2,470,000 measure, would glamorize Ocean Blvd., American Ave. and the Long Beach Freeway terminus.

The other, a $4,245,000 proposal, would renovate Municipal Auditorium and expand convention facilities there.

Together, the sponsors say, the two propositions would increase employment, touch off a multimillion dollar construction program and put millions in new money in circulation throughout the community.

Meanwhile, committees are being organized in every section of the city to educate the residents of each area on how "Jobs" will benefit them.

* * * *

AREA CHAIRMEN include George Rochester, North Long Beach; Carl W. Opsahl, West Long Beach; Mrs. Anona M. Buse, Belmont Shore-Naples; Ray Bliley, Uptown Atlantic-California Heights; Mrs. Dean P. Gilmore, Los Altos; Roland R. Bach, Lakewood; Lloyd C. Leedom, East Long Beach; Gus Lueking, downtown, and Edwin J. Wilson, California Ave. area.

Organizations representing more than 15,000 persons already have endorsed the program.

Recent endorsements include those of the Recreation Commission and the board of directors of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employes Assn.

Donald G. Sutherland, president of the shipyard group, said his 5,500-member organization plans to work for the program.

"We're going to do more than just endorse it," he said. "We believe this program is tremendously important to every person who lives or works in Long Beach."

* * * *

THE COST of the program to the average taxpayer, the sponsoring committee said, would be less than a penny a day.

Campaign headquarters have been established at 4560 Orange Ave.

Informed by legal counsel that "Jobs" cannot be placed on the ballot as a package deal, the City Council voted last week to limit the propositions to two in order to avoid confusion. The program, attorneys said, could have been broken down into any number of ballot propositions.

* * * *

ONE PROPOSITION will deal specifically with street improvements. It will call for widening of Ocean Blvd. from Alamitos Ave. to Golden Ave. and creation of a dividing island of flowering trees down the center. It also will propose a similar dividing island up American Ave. from Ocean Blvd. to Willow St. On both streets there would be left-hand turn bays to improve traffic flow. This measure also would provide for glamorization of off-ramps on the Long Beach Freeway terminus from the 9th St. Bridge south to Ocean Blvd.

The other proposition would renovate Municipal Auditorium, create a level-with-Ocean-Blvd. pedestrian mall in front of the Auditorium and provide for a new showcase building to accommodate conventions and trade shows.

AREA CHAIRMEN FOR 'JOBS' PROGRAM

Senate Votes $25,000-a-Year Pensions to Truman, Hoover

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Saturday approved a compromise bill to grant $25,000-a-year pensions, free office space and free mailing privileges to former presidents Truman and Hoover and all future ex-presidents.

The measure, worked out by House-Senate conferees, also authorizes payment of $10,000 annually to widows of ex-presidents, provided they waive all rights to other federal pensions to which they might be entitled.

* * * *

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson are the only surviving widows of former presidents.

The measure now goes to the House, which cannot act before Monday.

The Senate approved the bill by voice vote after brief appeals by Chairman Olin D. Johnston (D-S. C.) of the Civil Service Committee. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), ranking Republican member of the Civil Service Committee.

Besides authorizing pension and free mailing privileges, the compromise permits the general services administration to provide former chief executives with suitable office space. It would also grant them an allowance of $50,000 annually for office help.

Knight Talks to Printers' Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The International Typographical Union, one of the oldest in the nation, opened its 100th anniversary convention here Saturday.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, campaigning for U. S. senator, delivered the principal welcoming address to the 2,000 delegates and guests. He said he always had faith in the union movement and had appointed many union leaders to high state positions "and no single one has turned in a bad record."

Knight, a Republican, said he has been opposed to a "right-to-work" law for many years "and I haven't changed my mind." A "right-to-work" initiative on the November ballot is one of the major political footballs of the campaign.

An ITU spokesman said the principal issue to be resolved during the week-long convention will be the subject of innovations in newspaper back shops which threaten to eliminate compositors' jobs.

Shipyard Case Attorney Deals With Big Issues

Perry Morton's Considered Cool and Competent

By BILL BROOM
L. P.-T. Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — Perry W. Morton, the assistant U. S. attorney general who prepared the government's multi - million-dollar Long Beach shipyard case, deals in big-money legal actions daily.

The Justice Department's Lands Division, which he heads, is currently involved in litigation on $110 million in government land claims. During his five years in the job, the total in claims, many of which never reach the courts, have run into the billions. A one-million-dollar case is a relatively minor item around the Lands Division.

Morton deals with these in calm, unruffled fashion.

"He has a fine and thoroughly disciplined mind," says an old-timer around the Justice Department. "He never goes off half-cocked. He maintains rigid control of his emotions."

People who don't know Morton very well think he'd make a fine poker player because of these qualities. It's doubtful their theories could be tested, because he is a deeply religious man. He is a ruling elder of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, which President Eisenhower also attends. The Morton family occupies a pew across the aisle from the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

* * * *

A NEBRASKAN by birth, Morton never left the state until Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. asked him to take his present job in 1953. Until that time, he conducted his own law practice and for 17 years was counsel for a large insurance company.

Morton graduated from law school in mid-depression, and immediately plunged into civic life. When he speaks of Lincoln, his home town, his voice reflects a deep and abiding affection for it. He was a member of the citizens' committee which drafted and sponsored a change in city government. He stayed with the job and served on the city's personnel merit board without pay from 1938 until 1953.

Arriving in Washington, the new assistant quickly earned the respect and liking of associates.

"He's a helluva hard worker," one of them recalled. "He has a great ability to grasp facts and details with unusual speed but what really impresses you is his memory. He can recall those same details six months later."

* * * *

WHILE THE government's suit was under preparation, Morton flew out to Long Beach to take a look at the lay of the land. Navy officers now say he knows as much about the shipyard's engineering problems as they do.

The tensions of his job are seldom reflected in Morton's speech. He talks in the flat, hard accents of Nebraska, and his inflection seldom reveals his inner feelings.

His primary concern in the Long Beach case is national defense. "The filing of this suit is inevitable," he told a newsman several months ago. "That shipyard site is invaluable. Nowhere else on the West Coast can ships clear the harbor and make the open seas within 30 minutes as they can there. It's irreplaceable and we just can't let it sink into the sea."

* * * *

MORTON HAS DEALT with the case almost daily since October, 1957. For the past month, it has occupied most of his attention.

"He's calm and deliberate," says a government attorney. "Never moves until he has all his ducks in a row."

When he's not guarding the property interests of the nation's largest single land-holder, Morton relaxes with carpentry and photography.

IN THERE PITCHING

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Perry W. Morton last April pitched the first ball in a softball game at Federal Correctional Institution on Terminal Island. Now he is pitching legal strikes as the man who prepared the government's multi-million dollar Long Beach Shipyard case.—(Staff Photo.)

Roberts Says Profits Should Curb Sinkage

effects and that all operators in the field will join in a water-flooding plan for the immediate repressuring of the Wilmington Oil Field."

Said City Manager Sam E. Vickers:

"I am indeed hopeful that the U. S. suit involving oil production in the Wilmington Field will be helpful in the early solution of the subsidence problem.

"It is gratifying to note in the complaint filed by the government that the Long Beach Naval Shipyard is considered by the government as irreplaceable and vital to the national interest."

* * * *

CITY ATTY. Walhfred Jacobson viewed the government suit designed to save the Naval Shipyard from sinking as one of the most important lawsuits in the history of the city and said it wil receive his immediate attention.

"However," he said, "I have not seen the complaint, so consequently I cannot comment on it at this time. I will obtain a copy as soon as possible. Then, after my staff and I have analyzed the complaint, I plan to meet with members of the City Council and advise them as to the legal effect of the claims and issues raised."

* * * *

CONGRESSMAN Craig Hosmer viewed major litigation over the subsidence issue as "inevitable" and said, "It might as well come now as later." He added:

"Although directed specifically in behalf of the Naval Shipyard, this suit may have the added effect of forcing prompt action to permanently halt subsidence in our oil-producing areas. Should this occur, the Navy suit could be considered a benefit to the entire community. The thousands of jobs dependent, directly or indirectly, on the shipyard would be pulled out of danger.

"Many thousands of small property owners in the harbor area, the Belmont Shore area and in those areas adjoining other large oil fields will have their legal rights established for them by the precedent of this suit."

KIERDORF ARRANGED JOB WITH HOFFA

Fugitive in Union Torch Death Aided Parolee

DETROIT (AP)—Missing ex-convict Herman Kierdorf, sought for questioning in the sensational torch death of his union official nephew, was disclosed Saturday to have been instrumental in winning parole for a convict on the promise of a job in Teamster President James R. Hoffa's home local.

The Detroit News said in a copyrighted story that Kierdorf's role as a friend of the prisoner was uncovered in files of the State Corrections Department.

* * * *

KIERDORF, a Teamster business agent himself until very recently, has been missing since Aug. 4—the day his nephew, Frank Kierdorf, appeared at a hospital horribly burned from head to toe. Frank Kierdorf died three days later as a result of the searing which police contend he got in an arson plot that backfired.

Investigators since then have been trying to find Herman Kierdorf who they believe can supply many answers in the puzzling case.

The News said Herman Kierdorf went to bat on July 6, 1956, for David Denning who was serving time in Southern Michigan Prison on a second robbery conviction. Kierdorf at the time was business agent of Teamsters Joint Council 43 and an aide of Hoffa.

The paper said that Kierdorf, in a letter to the State Parole Board, promised Denning would be given a job paying nearly $3 an hour through Teamster Local 299 if his parole were granted. The letter was written on Teamster stationery.

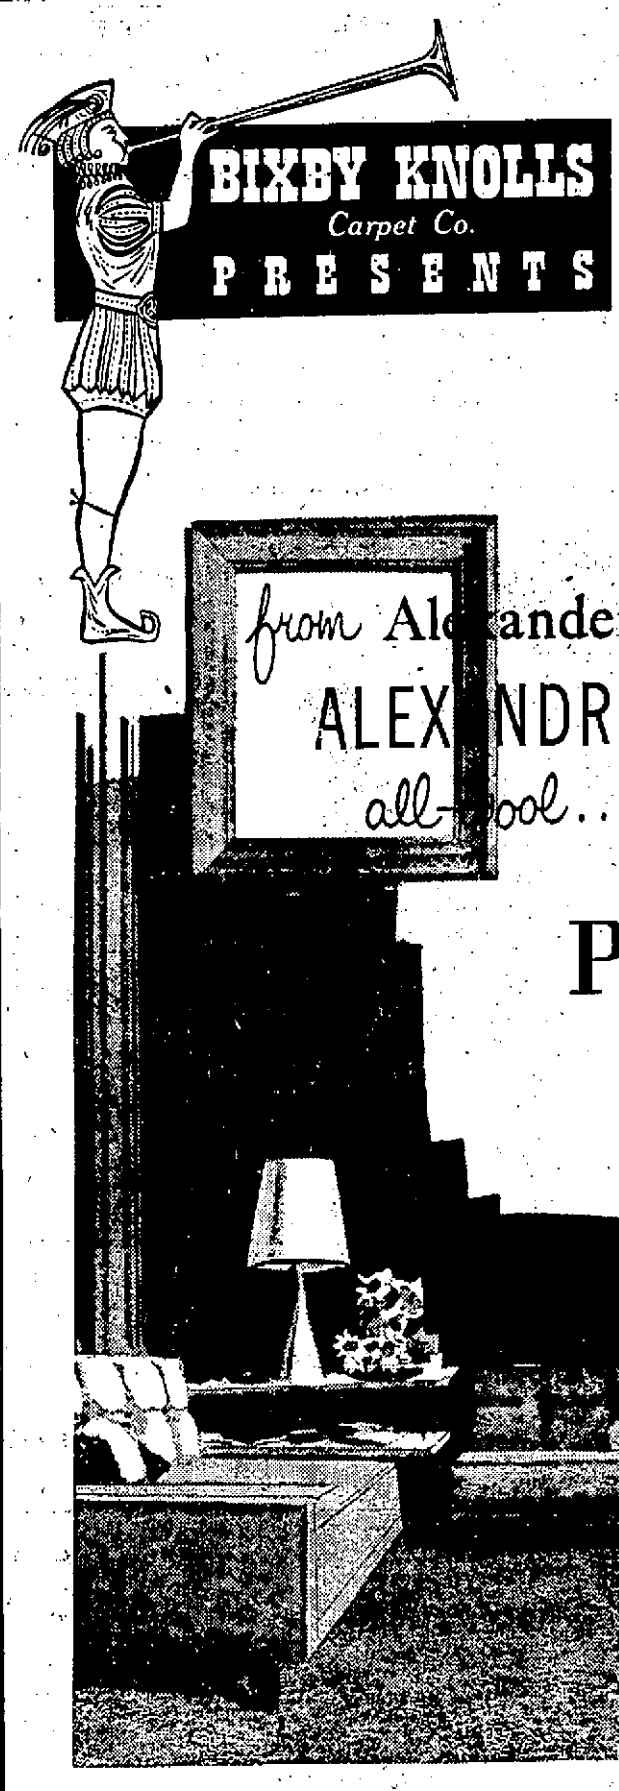

* * * *

DENNING WAS paroled in August of 1956 and went to work out of the local office.

Local 299 is a truck driver's local headed by Hoffa who also is national president of the Teamster Union and president of Joint Council 43.

Gus Harrison, state corrections director and parole officers defended handling of the case. They drew a distinction between Kierdorf, who also had served a prison sentence for armed robbery, as a job-finder and as a prospective employer.

Kierdorf quit his post as a union business agent after being called last month to testify before the Senate Rackets Committee.

Is Dairy Valley 'Lion' Rustler in Disguise?

DAIRY VALLEY — In the cold light of day, reports of a half-grown lion "with a huge mane," seen ambling across the intersection of South St. and Studebaker Rd. here, Friday night, didn't get the lion's share of attention from sheriff's deputies.

After taking photographs of a pawprint of some unknown animal near the site of the reported lion-sighting, deputies sent the film off to a commercial lab. The prints will be ready on Monday.

A veterinarian is to study the track photographs to see if he can identify them when they return from the photo shop.

Deputies from the Norwalk Sheriff's substation did look for a lion in the area Saturday morning after Jerome Franke, 21, and Larry Sayers, 15, both of Whittier, insisted they saw a lion there about midnight Friday.

No lions have been reported missing in any area nearby.

However a small calf has vanished from a dairy near where the "lion" was seen.

Deputies have been alerted to look for the missing calf and/or lion. But a western story-reading deputy suggests another line of investigation.

"Look for a rustler disguised as a lion."

Boy's Fund Legion Stag Traps 250

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Two women and about 250 men were arrested Saturday night in a police raid on an American Legion stag party staged to raise funds for Boy Scout, junior baseball and child welfare programs.

Vice Squad Sgt. Howell T. Ryals, who watched part of the show before the raid started, said "one of the girls was dancing completely in the nude."

The women entertainers were booked as Cynthia Sims, 21, and Shirley Jackson, 29.

Approximately 40 officers participated in the raid. Most of those arrested were released after posting bonds of 15 dollars. They were charged with being "inmates of a disorderly house."

Included among those arrested was J. D. Latture Jr., an off-duty policeman and the son of the recently retired police chief, and two sheriff's deputies.

Judge Favors Dead Sheep, Fines Driver

WHITBY, England (UPI)—Fining motorist Richard Scott one pound ($2.80) for failing to report an accident in which his car struck and killed three sheep on a moorland highway, magistrate Harold Gallaway ruled Saturday:

"Sheeep have as much right on the roads as cars. In fact, they have more right, for they have had a right of stray from time immemorial."

HISTORY-MAKING

85th Congress Due to Quit Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space-age 85th Congress neared the end of its two-year stand Saturday—a period that should long be remembered.

If it does nothing else in its few remaining days, this Congress will go down in history for, among other things:

1. Enacting the first civil rights bill in almost a century.
2. Putting the dollars-and-cents boost behind America's first satellite.
3. Making it more expensive to mail letters.
4. Okaying Alaska's admission to the Union as the 49th State.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said publicly Saturday for the first time that he expects Congress to quit for the year some time next week. How early next week, Johnson said, depends on "how long senators want to talk."

• • • •

JOHNSON made his comment after calling the Senate into an unusual Saturday session to complete action on a House-passed bill raising social security benefits and taxes.

Another matter before the senators, and one that might keep them in a late-night session, was the long-deferred nomination by President Eisenhower of W. Wilson White to be assistant attorney general for civil rights.

The post is a new one—set up under the Civil Rights Bill enacted by the present Congress. Many southern Democrats object to White's getting the job because he did legal research for Eisenhower's use of troops in the Little Rock, Ark., integration dispute.

Johnson told the Senate Saturday there are several other actions on which it must reach a decision before adjourning.

He listed these as the foreign aid appropriation, a boost in the public debt ceiling, farm surplus disposal overseas, and renegotiation of contracts.

ALSO, HE SAID, final action still remains to be taken on bills in conference for adjustment of Senate and House differences.

The 85th Congress already has won a niche as one of the biggest-spending congresses in history. It has voted appropriations of about 140 billion dollars and paved the way for an expected federal deficit of 12 billion dollars this year. It boosted the national debt ceiling once last year and is about to raise it again this year. Hopes for an election-year tax cut had to be abandoned.

It has been a busier than average Congress. Whether its net accomplishments were good or bad will be debated before the November congressional elections are held.

Democrats controlled both houses of Congress, at least technically, but a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats frequently called the shots on legislation.

Moon-Shot Effort Set Today if All Goes Well

Countdown for Launching at Dawn Starts

form satisfactorily and nothing more.

Activity around Thor-Able's gantry service tower was stepped up during the day.

* * * *

COCOA BEACH, the missile town adjacent to the sprawling Air Force test area, also was bustling as thousands of tourists poured in. "No Vacancy" signs were everywhere.

Many bathers stayed away from the beach Saturday because of overcast skies, but the same beach is expected to be packed today.

If the initial blastoff toward space is successful, the world will have to wait 2½ days for an announcement on the results. The rocket must reach unprecedented speeds of 25,000 mph to escape the earth's gravity pull.

* * * *

THE PENTAGON has announced that the best days to shoot the moon this month are today, Monday and Tuesday. This is because the moon is close to earth—about 221,000 miles.

On each day, the Air Force will be limited further by a bracket of minutes in which to launch the missile.

If the Thor-Able is not launched during the optimum period the shoot probably will be postponed until next month.

The satellite — which should be the heaviest payload ever carried aboard a U. S. missile—reportedly is equipped with special instruments to radio back crude pictures of the moon and data on micrometeorite impact and magnetic fields.

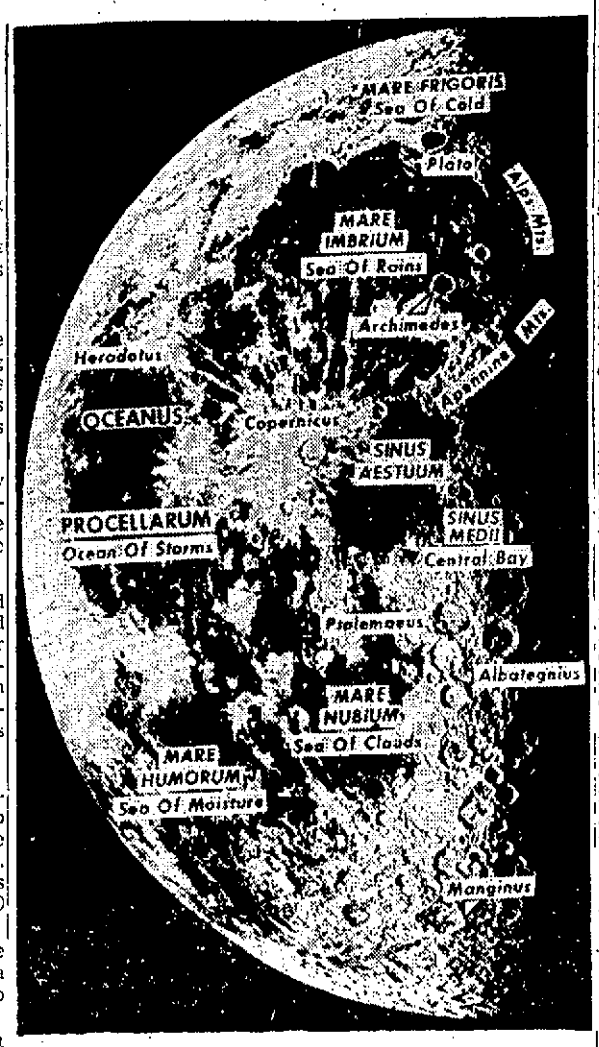

* * * *

THE ROCKET will use a powerful Thor intermediate range ballistic missile for the first-stage vehicle. Two modified Vanguard sections will be the final two stages.

The first two stages, which make up the conventional-Thor-Able, proved to be highly successful on two 6,000-mile nose-cone-recovery tests with a mouse aboard, but the three-stage combination never has been flight tested before.

The complete rocket houses more than 300,000 different parts, any one of which could cause a failure in flight.

The launching will be conducted by Douglas Aircraft Co. technicians working as a team with more than a dozen other contractors associated with the project.

MAP OF THE MOON

The man in the moon may have visitors soon, if humans can whip a few multi-million-dollar problems. Here's a "road map" of Earth's ancient satellite, showing names given to prominent features by the men who have studied it through the centuries. —(AP Wirephoto.)

Year headquarters and Washington, D.C.

Although its firing site is in Florida, the missile and the men responsible for its development are principally Southern California products.

The 100-foot-tall, four-stage rocket is a Southland industries hybrid. The first or booster stage, the 62-foot Thor-Able is an IRBM developed by Douglas Aircraft. It is powered by North American's Rocketdyne engines. It is the only stage that has been operationally tested.

The two succeeding stages are redesigned versions of the skitterish Aerojet General-built Vanguard. The overhaul of the Navy satellite carriers was made by Ramo-Wooldridge Corp., parent organization of STL.

Mission of the first three stages is to reach a speed of 25,000 mph, computed as the velocity necessary to allow the instrument package to escape the earth's gravity.

The fourth stage, although not officially confirmed, is believed to be a development of STL. Known as a toroid, it resembles a mushroom.

The mushroom's cap or hood —2½ feet in diameter—contains the instrument package, including a radio and photoelectric cell camera (sensitive to infrared, natural light and cosmic radiation). The Air Force hopes it will capture the first crude pictures of the moon's unseen "dark side."

* * * *

THE STEM is presumably a small retro-rocket of about 500 pounds thrust. The Thor-Able booster will produce 150,000 pounds of thrust. The stem's nozzle is to be rotated toward the lunar surface and fired by a feeble radio signal from the Hawaii tracking station at an estimated 59 hours after T-time. The rocket is supposed to slow the toroid's hurtling descent and allow the instrument package to slip into orbit around the moon.

An official at the STL command post estimated the chances of successful orbit and obtaining all data desired as "one in a million." Odds are one in ten for a successful launching.

Dr. Simon Ramo, 45, who lives in Westwood Village, near the campus of UCLA, is credited with conceiving the idea of the toroid in 1953. It was developed by his staff at STL.

The youthful missile scientist-executive is a personification of the Southland experts who have worked on the moon project.

* * * *

AS A POOR youth from a Utah agricultural district, Dr. Ramo decided early in life on a career in science.

One story surrounding his already legendary career is that he attempted to enter the University of Utah, but learned there were no scholarships in science, but several in music. He promptly mastered the violin and won tuition-free admission. He repeated the one-year scholarship for three years and graduated with honors in electrical engineering.

At 23, he won his doctor's degree at Caltech, magna cum laude. (His thesis on a million volts is considered the most precise in history.)

* * * *

HIS FIRST JOB was on the research staff of General Electric. (He also played in the GE Symphony Orchestra.) He entered the aeronautical field with Howard Hughes.

A few years later, he was reunited with Caltech classmate, Dr. Dean E. Wooldridge, an Oklahoman, who drifted west to a phenomenal career as a physicist. The two men founded Ramo-Wooldridge Corp.

$500 Shotgun Stolen

Theft of a 12-gauge shotgun valued at $500 was reported to police Saturday by Jed Holley, 27, of 3344 Lewis Ave., Signal Hill. Holley said the gun was taken from his car parked in a lot at 1069 E. Wardlow Rd.

WHAT IS IT? GREEN CHEESE?

Legends Describe Origin of Earth's Moon

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The first man to gather sufficient curiosity to look up at the moon probably turned to the second man and asked: "What in Sam Hill is that?"

Since the second man didn't know either, chances are the two sat down on a rock and tried to figure it out—and men have been doing that ever since.

Any answers turned up by the Air Force rocket which may blast moonward today are likely to prove pretty prosaic compared to those devised in the past without benefit even of a telescope.

What is the moon?

It's a bowl, said a Greek sage named Heraclitus. It's hollow is luminous and its exterior is dark. This is proven by the fact that it goes through phases when much or all of it is dark.

* * * *

IT'S A PARADISE reserved for the souls of departed friends, say the Saliva Indians of the South American jungles. How do they know it's a paradise? There are no mosquitoes there, that's why.

It's a flat disc, just like the earth, and it has rolling plains, mountains, valleys and people, said another ancient Greek named Anaxagoras. But few believed him because he was popularly suspected to be an atheist.

It's a piece of cheese, said 18 of 423 very young children polled by Dr. G. Stanley Hall in 1902. It goes through phases because mice are forever nibbling at it.

How did the moon get where it is?

The North American Indians have had an answer to that since time immemorial. The Greenlanders tell it best. Well, maybe not exactly best. But best for a family newspaper, anyway.

Once there were a brother and sister named Anninga and Matina. One dark night Anninga seized Matina by the shoulders, the sign of courtship. Matina tossed soot in Anninga's face so she would recognize her lover in daylight.

But, come the dawn and positive identification, the horrified Matina fled into the sky to become the sun. Anninga gave chase—perhaps to apologize—and became the moon.

* * * *

EVERY NOW AND then, once a month, in fact, Anninga grows skinny from hunger. So he comes down for a while to hunt seal. Then he returns to the chase, a full moon again.

The soot thrown in Anninga's face still can be seen in the moon as dark splotches on its disc.

Some people have interpreted these as the face or figure of a man. Who is he?

He's a woodsman who skipped church on Sunday morning to gather wood in the forest. On his way home with a bundle of sticks over his shoulder he bumped into a man on his way to church.

"Don't you know this is Sunday on earth and all men must rest from their labors?" asked the churchgoing man sternly.

"Sunday on earth or Monday in Heaven," shrugged the woodsman. "It's all one to me."

"Then bear your bundle forever," replied the churchman, "And as you value not Sunday on earth, yours shall be a perpetual moon-day in Heaven. You shall stand for eternity in the moon, a warning to all Sabbath-breakers."

* * * *

WITH THAT, SAYS the old Teutonic legend, the woodsman was whisked into space to become the Man in the Moon. And he may be there yet, patiently awaiting the arrival of the first rocket from the old home planet.

But the figure in the moon is not always seen as a man. Sometimes he's an animal, a cow or even a rabbit. The Sanskrit word for the moon is sasanka, which also means "having the marks of a hare."

And to some, the man in the moon is an avenging watcher.

In Iceland, they tell of the man who stole a leg of mutton and, as he sat down to eat it under the moon, he stabbed a piece of meat with his knife and waved it on high, crying contemptuously:

"O moon, wilt thou
On thy mouth now
This dainty piece of mutton meat?"

From the heavens came retribution:

"Wouldn't thou, thief, like
Thy cheek to strike
This fair key, scorching red with heat?"

With that, a burning key fell from the sky and put its brand on the thief's cheek.

And now, with a burning rocket instead of a key, earth-bound man is about to put his brand on the watching moon.

CAB Probes Nantucket's Air Tragedy

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP)—Civil Aeronautics Board officers began an investigation Saturday of New England's worst airplane disaster, in which 23 persons—mostly New Yorkers vacation-bound—lost their lives in a Northeast Airlines crash. Eleven others were hurt; some burned seriously.

Twenty-two were killed outright and another man, Don Breswick of Brooklyn, N.Y., died of injuries later in Massachusetts General Hospital.

* * * *

THE TWIN-ENGINED Convair crashed in fog shortly before midnight Friday after cutting through treetops about 300 yards from this summer's resort airfield.

Among the dead were: Gordon Dean, 52, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Harvey Schwamm, 53, prominent Wall Street banker and chairman of the American Trust Co., and John S. Pearson of Manhattan, an executive of the American International Underwriters Corp., an insurance firm.

Seven of the more seriously burned were flown to Boston for treatment at Massachusetts General Hospial. Five others are in Nantucket Cottage Hospital.

* * * *

AIRPORT OFICIALS said the plane, held back in New York because of heavy air traffic,was coming in for landing about 11:30 p.m., using instruments because of a heavy fog that sprang up suddenly.

Witnesses said the plane came in low and ploughed into small pine trees. When it hit the ground it disintegrated.

TOPS IN SOAP SCULPTURE

First prize winners in a soap-carving contest held at Recreation Park Saturday were (from left): Mrs. Bonnie Warrell, 6308 E. Cardale Ave., Lakewood, adult; Russell Peterson, 13, of 311 Roycroft Ave., teenage; and Mike Adams, 8, of 13812 Charleville Dr., Westminster, junior. Why a soap-carving contest? It was part of the program for 1,600 persons who attended the annual Procter and Gamble picnic at the park.—(Staff Photo by Roger Coar.)

Duke in a Bit of 'Pinch,' You Know —Finds Nudism a Bare Necessity

WOBURN, England (AP) — About 200 undressed men and women became guests Saturday of Britain's best dressed aristocrat—the Duke of Bedford.

They are nudists attending a full undressed session of the International Naturist Congress on the expansive grounds of the duke's stately home, Woburn Abbey.

* * * *

HIS GRACE isn't there. He went off to Canada, maybe to get away from the anguished cries of neighbors who resent sun bathing in the altogether.

Actually, the duke's trip was to attend a conclave of thinkers at industrialist Cyrus Eaton's lodge in Pugwash, N.S. Week-long theme there was "the preservation of values of the Anglo-Saxon tradition in a scientific world."

Early Saturday Bedford showed up on a U.S. TV show to exchange badinage with Jack Parr. The duke said the nudists are separated by a fence from a herd of bison he maintains at the abbey and he expressed a serious hope the visitors wouldn't stir up the animals.

* * * *

HE VOICED A fear the sight of an angry bison pursuing a nudist across the lawns would not be a pretty one.

Bedford will appear on the TV show Tuesday night before returning here.

There is a chance, an aide said, that he may be back in time to greet some of the nudists before the congress ends Aug. 31. They'll have clothes on, though, if they are visited by the duke. He isn't a nudist.

Woburn Park has a circumference of 12 miles. The nudists are assembled about five miles from the abbey.

A wattle fence of twisted twigs hides the congress activities from the rude public gaze.

Woburn Abbey is one of the best known of the stately homes open to visitors for an admission fee.

* * * *

THE DUKE, an enterprising man trying to raise money to pay inheritance taxes on the estate, was quite unperturbed by criticism of his decision to let the nudists in.

The wattle fence seemed to overcome objections, and nudists don't undress until they get inside.

Tradesmen drive in with provisions but they have to stop their trucks at a secluded spot and sound their horns. A nudist in a bathrobe comes out to pick up the groceries.

A double-decked bus hit a bonanza. It goes right past the duke's estate and it was loaded with customers as the congress opened.

Wasn't much of a view from the top deck, however. Bus passengers complained the nudist sessions were being held in tents.

Seadragon, Sixth and Most Powerful of U.S. Atomic Submarines, Launched

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI) — The Seadragon, America's youngest and most powerful atomic submarine, glided swiftly and smoothly down the ways Saturday at the Naval Shipyard here to take her place as the sixth of the Navy's nuclear-powered subs.

Conspicuous by his absence at the launching was Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, considered the "father of the atomic submarine." Rickover has said the Seadragon is a better sub than the Nautilus, but has refused to compare the two.

"You may be able to determine that one woman is better looking than another, but you can't put a percentage on it," he said.

Rickover spurned invitations to attend both the Seadragon and Triton launchings amid indications that a snub to his wife might be involved in his decision. The Triton, another atomic sub, will be launched Tuesday at Groton, Conn. Mrs. Rickover was not invited to launch either sub.

Rear Adm. Charles C. Kirkpatrick, chief of Navy information, said Mrs. Rickover would be invited to launch an atomic submarine at some future date. He said he would not be able to say which sub or when as the date has not yet been determined.

Rickover was snubbed, congressmen said, when he was not invited to White House ceremonies celebrating the Nautilus' successful North Pole trip. Later, the Navy publicly apologized for omitting him from the guest list.

The Seadragon was called the "youngest of our brood to be constructed," and "the most powerful, the most maneuverable, the best equipped and the most sought after by our sub force" by Rear Adm. Robert L. Moore Jr., shipyard commander.

Moore said 17 more nuclear-powered submarines are under construction by the Navy.

CONGRESS CALENDAR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress at a glance:

Social Security—Senate Saturday passed House-approved bill to increase Social Security benefits by 7 per cent.

Pensions — Senate approved compromise bill to grant $25,000-a-year pensions, free office space and fre mailing privileges to former presidents. Final House action expected next week.

Farm — Senate Agriculture Committee approved without change House-passed farm bill reducing price supports for cotton, corn and rice but cancelling scheduled sharp planting cutbacks. Senate passage expected next week.

Labor—Senate approved compromise bill requiring union accounting of pension and welfare funds. Bill went to House which expected to approve it Monday. House also expected to act Monday on Senate-passed bill aimed at curbing labor racketeering. Outcome in doubt.

Housing—House to act Monday on Democratic-sponsored omnibus housing bill that is a modification of a Senate-approved bill. Republicans confident they can defeat this under procedure requiring two-thirds vote for approval and force consideration of their more modest housing program.

Minerals—House action pending on Senate-passed bill to subsidize deperessed metals mining industries.

Debt—Senate Finance Committee cut two billion dollars from proposed 285-billion-dollar national debt ceiling approved by House. Senate to act next week.

Johnston Island Traffic Ban Lifted

HONOLULU (AP) — Military and Civil Aeronautics administration officials said Saturday that all restrictions on air and sea traffic around Johnston Island were lifted.

Neither the Navy nor the CAA would say whether lifting of the ban meant completion of nuclear missile testing in that area.

$35,000 Suit Filed in L.B. Auto Death

A $35,000 wrongful death suit has been filed Friday against the estate of a Long Beach man who died of a heart attack June 13, soon after his auto fatally injured a 3-year-old boy.

Sam and Harriet Tomich, 5229 E. Wardlow Rd., parents of victim Paul Tomich, seek the money from Anita Mae Rief, 3833 Chatwin Ave., widow of Carl Rief, 62, and executrix of his estate.

At the time, police said Rief's car hit the boy on Wardlow Rd. near Heather Rd. Rief carried Paul to the Tomich home, told his mother "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to do it" and collapsed.

Plaintiffs' attorney, Arthur D. Guy, alleged Rief was speeding and driving a car with defective brakes.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

World-Renowned Dr. Jackson Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Chevalier Jackson, 92, world-renowned developer of the bronchoscope for ridding the human insides of alien matter died Saturday. Cause of death was not given.

Dr. Jackson, who since his withdawal from active practice had been living on a farm in neighboring Montgomery County, was admitted to Temple University Hospital seven months ago.

He founded Temple's Bronchoscopic Clinic which bears his name and is now headed by his son, Dr. Chevalier L. Jackson. The son, sole survivor, was summoned home from a Brazilian lecture tour.

Dr. Jackson, a native of Pittsburgh, tackled the bronchoscopic technique 53 years ago. The idea for it came in part, he related, from a technique he employed as a younger man for peering down deep oil wells for lost tools. He said it took him 22 years to learn how to remove an open safety pin from children's throats.

Noted Sculptor Starving

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A frail little sculptor who has had presidents, popes and dictators as his subjects was under medical care Saturday after a narrow brush with death by starvation.

Ernest Durig, 62, was rushed to the hospital Friday after being found unconscious from malnutrition in his crammed one-room studio here. He was revived and told to return in the coming week for a full physical checkup.

Durig's poverty-stricken existence is in bleak contrast to his past. Among those who have posed for him were former President Harry S. Truman, three popes, Italian Dictator Benito Mussolini, Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie and philosophers Albert Schweitzer and Rabindranath Tagore.

Legation Gun Battle

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Two young Hungarian refugees fought a half-hour gun battle in Communist Hungary's legation Saturday. Police called it a desperate attempt to seize legation documents.

One of the men, 22-year-old laborer Sandor Nagy, was wounded critically by members of the legation staff. He was not expected to live.

The other, 21-year-old plumber's apprentice Endre Papp, was captured without a fight by steelhelmeted Swiss police who entered the legation armed with tear gas and sub-machine-guns. Both fled to Switzerland after the Soviet Army crashed the anti-Russian revolt in Hungary in 1956.

17 Killed in 13 Hours

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Seventeen persons met death on Pennsylvania highways in about 13 hours, including four members of a vacationing family killed Saturday en route to Niagara Falls.

The worst accident was a violent two-car collision near Butler, Pa., which killed Arthur D. Williams, 43, Penn Hills; his wife, Josephine, 40; their two sons, David, 11, and Stephen, 8, and Ronald B. Small, 25, Clark Mills, Pa., a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe.

Britain's Cyprus Plan Rejected

ATHENS (AP)—Archbishop Makarios, exiled religious and political leader of the 400,000 Greek-language Cypriots, Saturday rejected Britain's revised peace plan for Cyprus.

He said British Prime Minister Macmillan's plan for separate Greek and Turkish Cypriot local parliaments under British rule for the next seven years disregards the rights of the Cypriot people to freedom.

Death Waits for Man in $1.95 Holdup

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A 55-year-old Perry County Negro is being held in Atmore Prison under a death sentence for robbing a white housewife of $1.95 at Marion, Ala., last summer.

Unless the State Supreme Court, which upheld the sentence June 12, changes its mind, or Gov. James E. Folsom decides to commute the sentence to life imprisonment, Jimmy Wilson is scheduled to die Sept. 5.

An application for rehearing is pending in the Supreme Court, now in summer recess. There is a possibility the execution date will be postponed if the court doesn't act on this petition before Sept. 5.

Wilson was given the death sentence for taking the money from Mrs. Estelle Barker at Marion, Ala., the night of July 27, 1957.

The woman testified during the trial that Wilson also tried to rape her but he was not indicted on that charge. Robbery is a capital offense in Alabama.

PENNEY'S FIFTH AND PINE DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

THE STRANGE animal that has been raiding the chicken flock on the Glen Spiller horse farm on Carson St. has been identified.

It is—or was—a mink.

A clean shot from the revolver of J. C. Alderson, an employe at the farm, ended the mink and its depredations among the bantams out there.

But after Alderson had dispatched the creature, a big argument arose as to just what it was. Various experts testified that it wasn't a weasel, a raccoon, a skunk, a possum or a mink.

The issue got to this dept., and I passed it long to City College.

Lloyd C. Hall, an instructor in zoology out there, took time off to run down to the farm at Carson St. and the San Gabriel River. Bro. Hall lost no time in identifying the carcass as that of a mink.

He added, however, that it was not of a species native to this area, and he guesses it was an escapee from some back yard mink breeding operation.

It had taken up its abode, however, in an area that is just about all that is left for wild fauna of our region. That's along the San Gabriel River. The banks and bottoms of the rivers provide refuge for the few wild animals descended from the big population of raccoons, possums, weasels, etc., that used to roam this region before it was almost solidly settled up by two-legged creatures.

BETWEEN EDITIONS Friday, I corrected an "error" in this dept. that wasn't an error. It's a rather painful story about the on-ramp facilities at Del Amo and the Long Beach Freeway.

In early editions, I reported that there was no way for westbound traffic on Del Amo to turn north on the Freeway.

I should have stuck with that story. But at mid-morning a friend of mine, who had driven by the intersection on the freeway, called from Beverly Hills to report that there was a northbound on-ramp for westbound Del Amo traffic.

I took his word for it and changed the story.

Then I drove out there, as I should have done earlier.

My friend was wrong. The highway facilities are deficient as I had reported in the early editions.

So if you're an early edition reader, just forget about it. If you're a late edition reader, please note this correction, and there's no need to take pen in hand.

I'm licked and embarrassed. But I think the highway dept. should add that northbound ramp, thus justifying all this fuss.

AN ACQUAINTANCE of mine, Frank Tucker, paid a visit to the census bureau in Washington, D. C., at 11:15 a.m. on July 31. He was in Washington and he just thought it would be interesting to talk to the agency that keeps track of the population.

He was told that the population of the U.S. at the moment was 174,388,132.

As he started to leave, the fellow in the bureau reminded him that by the time he got back to the hotel 15 minutes later, the total would be 174,388,300 or more.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Laughlin Waters accompanied a couple of visitors from the justice dept. at Washington on a trip around federal facilities here.

After a look at the shipyard, they stopped at the federal prison facility on Terminal Island and fell into conversation with the warden about recreation activities there.

The warden told them about the intramural baseball games.

"They were pretty good for a while," he said, "but we've run out of good pitchers."

"Is that so?" said Waters, who is the prosecuting atty. in this district. "Why didn't you let me know?"

ONE LITTLE LETTER can make a lot of difference. And so there were profuse apologies to the Cream of Wheat people after their advertisement appeared on Radio Station KNXT. It came out "Cream of What."

Omaha—Deadly Pushbutton of Hot War Nests Ominously in Peaceful Rolling Prairies of Cattle Capital

By A. R. SORRELLS
(Copyright, North American Aviation, Inc. 1958)

OMAHA—On the plane to Omaha, the talk is about cattle—cattle that stand belly deep by the scores of thousands in the prairie grass to the west. Gray-haired men in blue shirts and Stetsons, back from cattle business in Kansas City, hitch their legs to the seat rests and recall the old days when they were boys in the land of cattle.

When the plane stops they swing off with the easy grace of cowmen everywhere. They are greeted by wholesome-looking women driving dusty new pick-up trucks. That's Omaha, and everywhere there are signs that tell anybody who doesn't know it already that you are now standing in the world center for getting beef to market.

If you look sharp you will see, among the cattlemen, perhaps an Air Force colonel or a general with a worn brief case. He will thread his way through the prairie men and, acknowledging a smart salute from an airman, will duck into the back of a military sedan for the ride to Bellevue, 11 miles to the south, location of Offutt Air Force Base.

Cattle-country Omaha is what you see on the surface. What you don't see is military Omaha, command post for the next air war if there is one. Because at Offutt, near Omaha, the dialing of a brick-red telephone could, in 30 seconds, order retaliation to destroy the war-making potential of 200 million enemies of the Free World in one mighty holocaust of nuclear power.

* * * *

AS THE MILITARY MAN rides south to 100-year-old Bellevue, through undulating hills on a broad highway, nothing gives away the important secret hidden in the hills. Far to the left are bluffs the Missouri River has etched into the clay banks. Early-day artists who followed the steamboats and wagon trains west to old Fort Crook at Bellevue painted the bluffs along with the wagon trains because there was little else to paint on the unbroken reaches of the land.

Bellevue is small, has been since Fort Crook's cavalry days. Suddenly the driver swings up a long hill rolled smooth by the winds of a thousand years. At the top is a broad sand-colored building, new and plain compared to the picturesque old red brick cavalry stables at the foot of the hill. It is not an imposing building, and gives no hint that it is like an iceberg, with a building of equal size beneath it, under 45 feet of earth and concrete, a target so tough that nothing short of a hydrogen bomb could interrupt the work accomplished there.

In the event of a war the building above ground would be drained of its occupants, the underground building sealed off with its air-filtering machinery and 30-day supply of food. The war would be fought through a communication system that is a wonder of the electronic world. The iceberg building is the headquarters of the U. S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command.

* * * *

THE GLOBE-CIRCLING Strategic Air Command, which has 2,800 combat airplanes—all capable of delivering nuclear weapons—and which keeps up a never-ending 24-hour vigil to insure survival of the free world, is operated from this dun-colored building crowning a Nebraska hill. The whole world is the maneuver area of the Strategic Air Command. That is one of many unique features of the world's mightiest military machine, now in the process of spreading out to many additional bases to increase the number of targets an enemy would have to hit to put it out of action.

In terms of worth, the command is comparable to one of the biggest of America's businesses. Its payroll tops 224,000 men and women, scattered on 70 bases on four continents. It operates nearly a thousand more aircraft than all the airlines in the world outside the Iron Curtain.

But the giant is managed by hard-eyed business executives in uniform to keep it combed of all fat. It is not uncommon for a team from the Inspector General's office to drop in at an air base unannounced and order an immediate alert, just to see if the base is on its toes.

When the whistle blows, an entire wing — planes, crews, maintenance parts and even wing records as well as support aircraft and personnel, must be capable of instantaneous movement to forward bases.

* * * *

THE REASON SAC must be on its toes is a hard fact; the next war, if it comes, will be a quick war. An airman on leave 200 miles away from his base may never get into the war. It could be all over before he reports back to his base. Similarly, an aircraft in a hangar for overhaul might never fly a mission. That airplane will show on the maps of the war room as out of service and not to be counted upon.

But the most startling feature of this giant is its amazing ability to get into action quicker than a frontier sheriff. This it does by practicing, every day, for the hour the world hopes will never come—the time the Communist world might try to outdraw the Free World in a slambang all-out war.

No frontier peace officer, however, had the flexibility and control built into the system of the Strategic Air Command to deter a major war. Quick to draw and quick to fire, our oldtime peace officer could not recall a bullet once sent on its lethal way. The command can not only draw and fire its weapon, but the bullet can literally be stopped in flight!

This is the tremendous difference between manned and unmanned systems as military planners know them today. The manned systems of the command have the ability to be recalled if sent in error, the bullet stopped in its gun barrel after the trigger has been pulled. The whole concept of the command to deter any major war is built on this ability to get the world's mightiest military machine in action in seconds, the trigger pulled, the weapons of destruction sent on their way to pre-selected targets—and stop the entire plan in mid-flight by use of an infallible recall system known as "Positive Control."

* * * *

MANY SURPRISES await any visitor to the command headquarters near Omaha. The first surprise is the reception he gets when he steps through the door into the antiseptically clean and polished hallway. He is greeted by some of the smartest looking soldiers in the world—the air police of the command, wearing blue berets and pearl handled side-arms. This unique uniform is a heritage of General Curtis LeMay, who headed the command through many of its formative years. The general wanted his air police to make a lasting impression, and at the same time make them super-proud of being a part of headquarters operation.

Visitors usually ask first to see the war room in the underground, one of the most important rooms in the world. Down stairs and ramps, through foot-thick doors that would seal shut in case of war, the visitor is guided.

"Don't look now, but you're on television," says the officer escort. A cyclops eye moves above the head of an air policeman at the door of the war room. The visitor is told that it is a camera lens. From inside the war room all visitors are monitored by a closed circuit television even though there is a guard stationed at the entrance.

* * * *

LONG AS a football field, high as a two-story building, with viewing rooms reminiscent of stadium press boxes, the war room has the feeling of a movie or television stage. Under brilliant neon opposite the glass enclosed "press boxes"—actually control rooms for commanding Gen. Thomas Power and his staff—is a long curtain. A part of it is open, showing a great circle of a map. The visitor realizes he is looking at a polar map of the world, from the vantage point of a man in space. Africa is over to the right; to the left is Australia, at the top is India, the Russian states, China; below is the United States and Canada, South America and Greenland.

"What you see are today's SAC missions, the 400-odd routine training flights of the command all over the globe," says the escort. "There are 100 panel maps like this one, and the emergency war plan—which is out of your view—is permanently posted here, and constantly changed as we get new intelligence about targets."

It is hard to believe that this is Omaha, Nebraska, almost the geographical center of the United States. Somehow it is out of keeping with what visitors have understood about war in the past. The old concept was that a war should be fought from a tent or a quonset hut, in a hot, cold or rainy place, far from the familiar sights of home. It is a strange reality that if a war should start at this minute, or today, it would be fought from this room in a three-story underground building in the heart of the cattle country.

Since communication with bases in Britain, North Africa or Spain or Japan is instantaneous from this room, and orders can be given as fast as a man can talk, it stands to reason that the war room can be put in fighting configuration in a mighty short time. And this is true. To put the room in fighting trim means only pulling apart the curtain to expose any number of the huge panels on which the plans are displayed.

* * * *

ON THE PANELS also for the Command to see at a glance is information on global weather, the disposition of every one of SAC's 3500 aircraft anywhere on the globe. Electronic computing machines constantly pour in additional data, telling the exact status of every aircraft and crew.

Two other rooms of equal size flank the war room.

One is the Air Intelligence room, where the Air Defense Order of Battle is posted continuously. In the event of war, results of strikes against the enemy would be fed continuously into the Air Room in terms of target destruction, enemy action and other factors. The second room is for Operations Planning, where orders would be written directing the attack.

Available to the controllers in the glass enclosed "press box" are 60 telephone lines, part of the system for instant voice contact with each of the command's numbered Air Forces—the 3rd Air Division at Guam, the 7th Air Division in England, the 16th Air Force in Spain, the 8th Air Force at Westover, Mass., the 2nd Air Force at Barksdale in Louisiana and the 15th Air Force at Riverside, Calif.

* * * *

THE MOST FAMOUS telephone in the United States is in the controllers' room. This is a red telephone with an enlarged dial. By dialing five digits the senior controller can reach every control room in the United States. When the system is dialed, the nation-wide network sets off alarm bells and flashing lights in more than 40 command control rooms in the United States. Within seconds then the controller is able to order execution of any of the many emergency war plans already in the hands of combat wing commanders. And in from 3 to 15 minutes, aircraft with nuclear weapons in their bomb bays can be wheels-up and flying in remote corners of the globe.

Although its statistics change by the hour, the command, at any hour of the day, has an average of 211 aircraft actually flying their missions. The importance of these statistics is seen in the fact that since every crew has a pre-selected target, the loss of an airplane might well mean that a target somewhere in enemy territory may be temporarily uncovered. That is why great emphasis is placed on flying safety in the Command, which in 1956 had only five accidents per 100,000 hours of flight time.

When an airplane is lost, the commander of the base where the airplane is assigned has to appear personally before Gen. Powers to explain the loss.

* * * *

WHAT WORRIES the Command today more than maintaining its ability to get into action in an eye wink is how to kep its crews of professionals intact. It suffers from loss of highly trained men who move back into civilian life. For example, each month the command loses the equivalent in personnel of one B-47 squadron of 45 aircraft.

One career officer put it this way, "If we could keep all the men we wanted to keep, it would be an unfair fight if a fight got started." What he meant was that if all of SAC's crews were ready for action today, SAC would have an overwhelming advantage over any possible enemy. The only condition that might give the enemy his opening wedge, his chance to start a war and survive, would be if there someday were not enough crews fully trained for their missions.

But let there be no mistake about it, if the red telephone was used today in a real alert, SAC has the capability to deliver a haymaker on the enemy's homeland. One hydrogen-bomb carrying airplane can deliver a punch measured in megatons. All of the bombs dropped during World War II by the British and U. S. air forces only added up to three megatons.

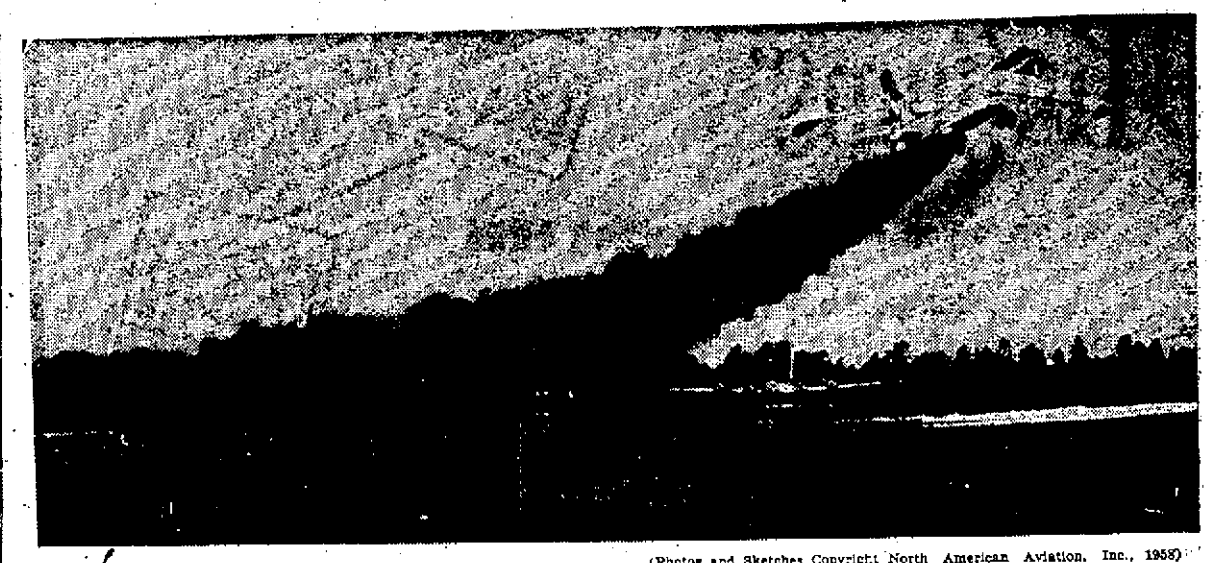

Somewhere in the enemy camp today, and every day, military strategists put all their facts together and always the answer is the same—there's no use starting a war that might mean the end of all their large cities, plus 100,000,000 casualties.

To keep this deterrent, the command needs the most modern weapons American industry can produce. For its arsenal, the command is getting jet tankers to cut the refueling time with its jet bombers. Jet tankers will be able to rendezvous with their thirsty bombers at a more favorable altitude and speed, cutting precious flight time. The Convair B-58 Hustler is scheduled to replace the Boeing B-47 jet bombers. The Boeing B-52 6-jet bomber has replaced the piston-jet Consolidated B-36. New strategic weapons of North American Aviation, the Weapon System 110, now known throughout the command as the B-70 Valkyrie chemical bomber, capable of global range at 2,000 miles an hour at 70,000 feet, will come into SAC wings behind the B-52.

A North American air-to-ground missile will be carried soon by the B-52G. It will allow the bomber to attack targets with atomic weapons while still out of range of enemy defense, then follow up with a lethal atomic punch from its bomb bays. A family of Rocketdyne-powered ground-to-ground missiles will supplement the bomber forces in the command, but manned systems will be used as far in the future as the command can see today.

Kimmel Shifts Blame to D.C. for Pearl Harbor Sneak Attack

By HARRY W. FRANTZ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new chapter in the historical controversy regarding responsibility for the Japanese "surprise attack" against Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, has been written in the Congressional Record.

Husband E. Kimmel, admiral in command of the U. S. Pacific Fleet at the time of the attack, wrote a long letter to Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) which in effect shifted the burden of responsibility from the local naval and military commanders in Hawaii back to Washington.

The letter was inserted in an appendix to the record by Rep. Harry G. Haskell Jr., (R-Del) on Aug. 5. It escaped general public attention because it appeared to be chiefly a renewal of views and claims presented at various official investigations.

Actually, the latest Kimmel statement has assumed historical importance because of his vigorous denials that the "surprise" was made possible by inter-service rivalries in Hawaii and by misbehavior of service personnel.

* * * *

KIMMEL ALSO pin-pointed the report that as early as January, 1941, the Peruvian ambassador at Tokyo had heard rumors that in event of trouble between Japan and the United States, the Japanese would attack at Pearl Harbor.

These rumors, Kimmel said, were communicated to Washington by U. S. Ambassador Joseph Grew on Jan. 27, 1941, more than 10 months before the actual attack.

Kimmel said that a letter from the chief of naval operations on Feb. 1, 1941, had informed him that the Division of Naval Intelligence placed no credence on these rumors, and had added:

"Furthermore, based upon known data regarding the present disposition and employment of Japanese naval and Army forces no move against Pearl Harbor appears imminent or planned for the foreseeable future."

Kimmel charged that the Navy Department had not fully informed him concerning intelligence about Japanese activities in the months prior to the attack.

"The Navy Department sent me various messages quoting from intercepted Japanese dispatches," Kimmel wrote Cannon.

"I believed I was getting all such messages and acted accordingly. After the attack I found that many vitally important messages were withheld from the Hawaiian commanders.

ADMIRAL KIMMEL
Talks of Pearl Harbor

"I was never informed that Japanese intercepted messages had divided Pearl Harbor into five areas and sought minute information of the berthing of ships in those areas."

* * * *

KIMMEL challenged an allegation by Cannon that he and Gen. Walter E. Short, the Army commander, were not on speaking terms at the time the Japanese attacked.

Kimmel stated in his letter: "I know that to be wholly false and believe that I am entitled to the name of the person so testifying, whether or not he testified under oath and his qualifications.

"Moreover, I would appreciate a definite reference to the hearing of the subcommittee of the appropriations committee if printed, and if not, a transcript of that part of the record to which you refer.

"Your (Cannon's) remarks are a continuation of the frantic efforts of the Roosevelt Administration to divert attention from the failures in Washington and to place the blame for the catastrophe on the commanders at Pearl Harbor."

"For four years, from 1941 to 1945, the administration supporters and gossip peddlers had a field day making statements which the wall of government wartime secrecy prevented me from answering."

* * * *

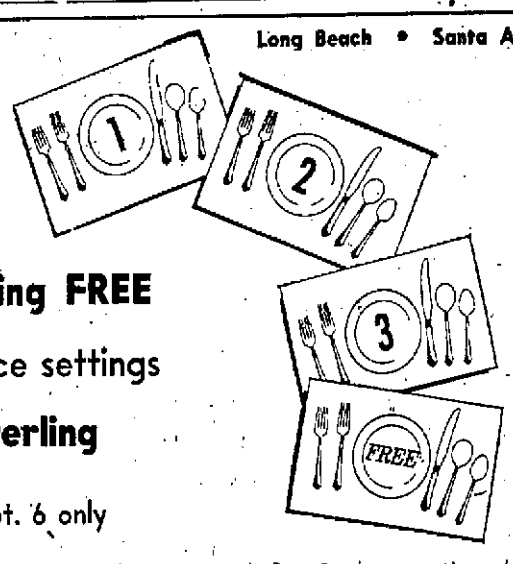

IN CONCLUDING his letter, Kimmel said:

"Finally, Mr. Congressman, the officers and men stationed in the Hawaiian Islands were fine, upstanding and well disciplined young Americans whom the American people should ever remember with gratitude and honor.

"In the attack launched by the Japanese they showed themselves fearless, resourceful, and self-sacrificing, and I shall always be proud of having commanded such men.

Alcorn Vows: GOP to Fight for All Seats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn said today that GOP prospects in the November congressional elections "have vastly improved" and Republicans "are not conceding a single seat."

His forecast was brighter than one he made last April 22 when he said "it's not in the cards" for Republicans to win control of the Senate from the Democrats.

* * * *

THAT STATEMENT drew an indirect rebuke from President Eisenhower. The chief executive said he had "never yet admitted defeat in any fight I had to fight" and "I'm not doing it now."

Alcorn later explained he had not meant he was conceding defeat but was merely trying to "rouse Republicans . . . into a fighting mood."

In a statement Saturday he said he was "confident Republican strength at the polls this November will be a real shock to the arm-chair experts who were writing us off a few weeks ago."

"It's going to be a real battle all the way and we're not conceding a single seat," he added.

Iraq Begins Trials of 100 Charges of Conspiracy With West

BAGHDAD (AP)—Iraq's revolutionary regime Saturday began trials of more than 100 persons with a prosecution charge that the United States, Britain and Israel conspired in 1956 to take over Syria.

The charges were voiced by Lt. Col. Majid Amin, prosecutor for a five-man military court, as Maj. Gen. Ghazi Daghistani, a top-ranking military officer in the old regime, was put on trial as the first defendant.

The trial was carried on Baghdad's TV station.

Amin said the Western Powers and Israel conspired with the old Iraqi monarchy through slain Premier Nuri Said to destroy the independence of Syria and put Iraqi Crown Prince Abdul Illah on Syria's throne.

Daghistani said there was a military plan for Iraqi intervention in Syria but denied conspiring against Syria or with Israel.

Lt. Gen. Rafiq Aref, army chief of staff under the slain premier and himself a defendant, told the court the Americans wanted to use the Iraqi army in Syria to attack Communists they felt had taken over power.

"I withstood this," he testified. He insisted there never was any plan formulated for an attack on Iraqis.

City Joins L. A. in Appeal Challenging Utility Board

Phone Rate Increases Draw Fire

By GEORGE WEEKS

City of Long Beach is joining with Los Angeles in challenging before the United States Supreme Court the right of the State Public Utilities Commission to grant rate increases without first hearing interested persons.

City Atty. Walhfred Jacobson has just added his signature to that of Los Angeles City Atty. Roger Arnebergh to a notice of appeal from a California Supreme Court decision refusing to review an order of the state commission boosting rates of three telephone companies.

The notice will be filed with the State Supreme Court, but the ultimate decision will be that of the United States Supreme Court.

In May the state court rejected, without an opinion, a joint petition of the two cities to set aside interim rate increases totaling some $15,000,000 annually granted General Telephone Co., Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Sunland-Tujunga Telephone Co. by PUC.

* * * *

THE HIGHER RATES were ordered in a case consolidated by the commission at a time when more sweeping applications for increases were pending.

Jacobson and Arnebergh contended that PUC did not fully hear the evidence in the case and did not even make a pretense of finding that the old rates were inadequate or that the raise would not result in excessive profits.

The main basis for the appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court is that the telephone subscribers have been deprived of their property without due process of law in violation of the 14th Amendment.

* * * *

NOTICE OF APPEAL states the question thus:

"Does the due process provision . . . protect utility consumers so as to entitle them to a hearing by a state public utilities commission before such commission may authorize increases in the charges which the customers must pay for the utility's services, in cases where:

"By state law the customers are denied an opportunity to obtain substantially similar services elsewhere;

"The state law does not provide for any judicial trial of the issues, or for conditional increases pending a hearing before the commission and for refunds of such increases according to a subsequent determination upon such hearing, and

"Otherwise under state law the commission's 'interim' order is final and conclusive upon the affected customers, as to the increases which become due according to the 'interim' order of authorization?"

* * * *

THE NOTICE also refers to the alternative, as asserted by the commission, that it is a "fanciful contention that a customer of a utility has a constitutional or statutory right to notice before the commission, lawfully, may increase the rates of the utility."

Deputy City Atty. Leslie E. Still, who also signed the notice along with Asst. City Atty. Alan G. Campbell of Los Angeles, emphasized that the purpose is to get a ruling on the broad constitutional question rather than to attempt reprisal against the state commission or the telephone companies.

PUC recently granted further rate increases to General Telephone Co. but, taking cognizance of a Long Beach argument, the commission excluded Long Beach exchange from the higher rates, apparently agreeing with the city's contention that local subscribers were already paying rates that subsidized other and less active portions of the telephone system.

850 to Use YM's New Camp Oakes

An estimated 850 boys this summer will use Camp Oakes, the new mountain facility of the Long Beach YMCA.

Located on a 160-acre site eight miles southeast of Big Bear City, the camp occupies a broad, pine-studded valley. It was named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe F. Oakes of San Francisco, whose $130,000 cash donation made it possible.

Camp Oakes, formally dedicated recently; replaces Kamp Kole which was destroyed by fire in 1949.

Baby Hurt in Tumble From Auto

A frantic mother trying to keep her 22-month-old daughter from falling out of the car drove into two parked vehicles near the intersection of Cedar Ave. at 27th St., police reported Saturday.

The chain reaction started when the baby, Elizabeth C. Hill, accidentally opened the door of the car being driven by her mother, Virginia Tucker Hill, 31, of 3804 Marwick Ave.

In trying to rescue the child, Mrs. Hill said she lost control of the car and struck headon two parked cars.

The baby fell to the pavement and was admitted to Seaside Hospital for a head injury and numerous cuts and bruises.

Young Worker Hurt in Fall

A 17-year-old construction worker was injured Saturday when he fell through a roof of a one-story building he was working on at 3720 E. 4th St.

Admited to Community Hospital for treatment of a fractured pelvis was Terry L. Weinheimer, of 9061 Imperial Ave., Garden Grove.

Motorist Pulled Out of Car, Beaten by 3

A scalp laceration requiring 10 stitches was suffered by Ray Robinson, 23, when he was pulled from his car and beaten by three unidentified men, on Willow St., Saturday, police reported. He was treated at Seaside Hospital.

Nurses Will Be Trained Here in '59

Establishment of a school for registered nurses in Long Beach was assured today.

The last hurdle was cleared Saturday following a meeting in Los Angeles of the State Board of Nursing Examiners at which the application to establish a school of nursing at Long Beach City College was approved.

The new professional nursing program will be under the direction and control of the Long Beach Unified School District.

Clinical laboratories will be provided through the cooperation of the new Memorial Hospital being constructed at 27th and Atlantic, other community hospitals in the greater Long Beach area as needed, and appropriate community agencies, according to Dr. Robert E. Swenson, dean of the liberal arts division of the Long Beach City College, who attended the meeting of the state board.

* * * *

ALSO PRESENT from Long Beach was Mrs. Claire O'Malley, an administrator of nursing educational programs from Seaside Memorial Hospital, who has worked with the public schools in planning the new school.

Douglas A. Newcomb, superintendent of schools, announced that the new school will be started in September 1959. The initial class will be 32 students, but ultimately there will be 200 students enrolled. Applications for admission to the first class will be taken after Jan. 1, 1959.

In a presentation made to the State Board by Dr. Swenson, it was explained that "Long Beach is suffering from an acute shortage of registered nurses."

* * * *

"IN ORDER to meet the demand for professional nurses now and for the future, it is paramount that a program be established in Long Beach as early as possible," he said.

He further explained that a $10,500,000 hospital bond issue passed in 1955 and a $4,000,000 fund drive completed this year assured financing for badly needed hospital facilities and equipment in Long Beach and that the school for professional nurses was needed to insure a skilled staff to man these new hospital units.

Long Beach has not had a school for registered nurses since 1939 when the training program for professional nurses was discontinued at Seaside Memorial Hospital.

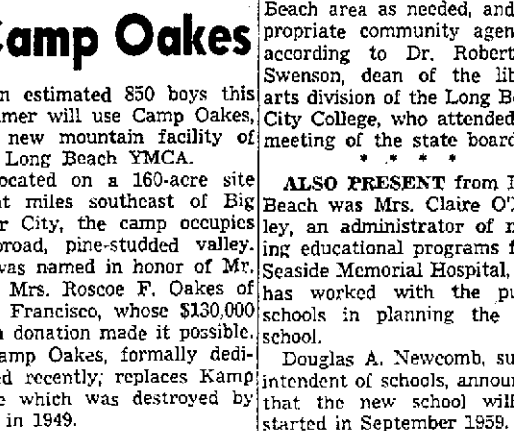

Measles, Mumps Cases Reported

How Sandra Sue and Doctors Battled Back From Darkness

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

This is the story of a courageous little girl, her beloved horse, a near-fatal accident and medical and surgical science that saved her life.

It is the story of 12-year-old Sandra Sue Hall, whose heart refused to stop even though highly skilled surgeons and their aids despaired of her life.

Today, Sandra Sue is walking and seeing again and doctors say that she will lead a normal life with no complications. But back in the dark days of late June and early July the chances were 1,000 to 1 that she wouldn't live and, if she survived, she might not see or walk.

There were so many IFs and 1,000-to-1 chances in those days that medics at Seaside Hospital don't discuss them without shuddering. Most of them would rather not recall those 21 days when Sandra Sue lay in a complete coma while packed in ice and her body temperature kept at a steady 90 degrees.

* * * *

SANDRA SUE'S DARKNESS began on the afternoon of June 23 when she and a friend, Linda Nothern, 10, went for a ride at the Equestrotel Riding Academy at 3800 Golden Ave. It wasn't Sandra Sue's first ride on her beautiful horse, Sugar. She had been riding for several years because she, like her father, Jack A. Hall, loved horses. She had been such a good rider that she once was a member of the Lancerettes. But on June 23 Sandra Sue made a mistake. Instead of putting the saddle on Sugar, she used a surcingle, which is only a belt around the horse's body. Sandra Sue was riding bareback.

What occurred minutes later not far from the stables is not clear, but it is presumed that Sugar stumbled. Sandra Sue fell off. In the ensuing tangle of dirt, flying hoofs, horseflesh and a panicked girl, Sandra Sue was knocked into a state of unconsciousness from which she was not to emerge until three weeks later.

* * * *

SCREAMING FOR HELP, Linda rode back to the stables. Attendants were soon at Sandra's side. They called an ambulance.

At Seaside Hospital, expert surgical and medical teams went into action. Skilled hands made an incision in Sandra Sue's throat and inserted a tube to keep her breathing. X-rays showed that there was injury to the brain and another surgeon was summoned.

The battle to keep the girl alive lasted far into the night as instruments pierced the skull. An enormous blood clot was removed, but the fight for survival was only hours-old.

* * * *

AS HOUR FOLLOWED hour, hopes faded, but one doctor suggested the hydro-thermia process be tried. That entailed packing the patient in ice and lowering the body temperature to 90 degrees.

Sandra Sue's mother, Maudie, joined six special nurses in an around-the-clock vigil. The ice-packing had to be renewed constantly. A special thermometer was necessary, but only one was available and that was at St. Mary's Hospital. St. Mary's rushed it to the patient's bedside.

* * * *

TWENTY-ONE DAYS later, Sandra Sue awakened. The hydro - thermia process was stopped.

Doctors still feared that she would be paralyzed. They discovered that her vision wasn't perfect. They suggested hydro-therapy—swimming in the big Hubbard tank in the physical therapy lab downstairs. They didn't know that Sandra Sue had a terrible fear of water. But then they also didn't understand Sandra Sue's indomitable courage.

She overcame her fear of water and took to the tank like a duck. She had to be carried from room to tank to room again. There followed other principles of physio-therapy — untrasonic and electrical stimulation.

SANDRA SUE . . . 21 Days in Coma

IN THE DAYS that followed, she took the first few steps toward a renewed life, leaning her weight on an adoring physical therapist. That nurse, and others, are calling Sandra Sue the sweetheart of Seaside Hospital.

Sandra Sue returned to her home at 815 Havana Ave. on July 25, but the story isn't ended. She will continue to take hydro-therapy as long as the doctor orders it.

Yesterday, Sandra Sue was walking alone down the corridor of Seaside on legs made thin by long hospital confinement. Her eyes were perfect and she was as alert as any 12-year-old could be. The doctor had just told her that she could return to the 8th grade of the Lutheran Church School next month.

And what about Sugar? Sandra Sue's father sold the horse because he learned that it would be a year or two before she could ride again.

But Sandra says: "He'll buy me another horse later. I just couldn't live without a horse. I've been riding since I was four years old."

Her mother added: "Yes, even before that; she rode hobby horses when she was three."

Sandra Sue doesn't blame Sugar for her near-fatal accident. If any one is unwise enough to mention that Sugar might have kicked her, she says with child-like candor:

"Sugar wouldn't have done that. My head hit a rock when I fell."

And those who have visited the scene said that there was a large rock adjacent to the place where Sugar fell.

Reservists Given Red Star Warning

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian army newspaper Red Star warned reserve officers Saturday to spruce up or lose the right to wear the uniform.

The paper published letters complaining that some officers wear the uniform with bright non-regulation yellow shoes and blue shirts.

Other letters complained that some reservists had been seen drunk in uniform while others walked the streets carrying shopping baskets.

BILL RUNS TO MILLIONS

Army's Market Super for Sure

By JAMES A. ALLEN

If you think shopping for the family at the neighborhood supermarket is a problem, consider the task of the Los Angeles Military Subsistence Market Center.

Each month this super-supermarket buys nearly six million dollars worth of perishable foodstuffs and meat for Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force men.

The market center, commanded by Col. William D. Jackson, veteran Army quartermaster officer, supplies food for 44 military installations in Southern California, southern Nevada and Arizona, plus much of the overseas shipments.

It is one of the 10 market centers in the U. S. under the Military Subsistence Agency, operated by the Army Quartermaster Corps for all the services.

* * * *

THE LOCAL CENTER fills requirements for lettuce and lemons throughout the world, supplies all oranges and grapefruit about six months a year—when Florida is not producing—and furnishes most of the turkeys used by the services.

Southern California also is one of the two approved sources of rabbits for military consumption.

As in the home, meat is the biggest item in the market center's budget. Of the $70 million spent by the local agency last year, nearly $35 million was for meat. Dairy and poultry products took $22 million, fresh fruits and vegetables $8.5 million, tuna (which the Los Angeles center buys for all the services everywhere) took $3 million and frozen fruits and vegetables, $1.5 million.

Translated into pounds, this added up to 75 million pounds of fresh meat, 90 million pounds of vegetables — mostly lettuce, potatoes, celery and melons—50 million pounds of oranges and lemons, three million pounds of poultry, a million dozen eggs and five million pounds of other dairy products.

The center is a big consumer of Southern California dairy products, spening more than a million dollars a month in milk and ice cream.

* * * *

SMALL BUSINESSES provided 72 per cent of last year's purchases, Col. Jackson said.

"We try to buy from the producing organization," he said. "This is our basic tenet."

He said the Los Angeles center prides itself on prompt payment—usually within 10 days of the date of delivery by the vendor.

"We try to eliminate anything which will restrict competition," Col. Jackson said. "We're using the taxpayers' dollars, so we try to spread it around. We try to use standard packs as much as possible, except for items which must be packaged for export. We conform to standard trade practices."

The center also is proud of the speed with which it filled emergency orders during the recent Middle East alert.

In three days, ships were provisioned at Long Beach and San Diego and stocks restored at the Torrance Annex of Long Beach Naval Shipyard and at the Naval Supply Depot in San Diego. In addition, citrus and meat were shipped to the East Coast.

Child Center's Enrollment Set

Registration for parents re-enrolling in the Long Beach City College Child Development Center opens Monday and will continue through Aug. 27 at the General Adult Division office, 4901 E. Carson St.

To retain priority, continuing students should pay tuition fees and pick up enrollment forms before Aug. 28, when registration of new students will begin.

Prince Visits Chou

TOKYO (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the premier of Cambodia, arrived in Peiping on a state visit and was welcomed at the airport by Chinese Communist premier Chou En-Lai, the Red Chinese news agency said Sunday.

Space Film Lecture Set

"Recovery Dynamics," sixth filmed lecture in the City College General Adult Division series on space technology, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Lakewood campus auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Ave. The public is invited.

Speaker will be Dr. Alfred J. Eggers Jr., chief of the Supersonic Wind Tunnel Branch at Ames Aeronautical Laboratory, Moffet Field. Dr. Eggers will discuss the technical problems of achieving non-destructive landings of space behicles.

Funeral Set for Victim of Lightning

Services will be held Monday for Donald Lee West, 27, former Long Beach and Lakewood resident, who was killed Thursday when struck by lightning in the San Bernardino Mountains.

West, a fire control officer for the U.S. Forest Service at Running Springs, was standing with a companion near Green Valley Lake when a lightning bolt hit him. The companion was knocked unconscious, but recovered.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Stevens and Bobbitt Mortuary, San Bernardino.

West is survived by his wife, Barbara; three children, Jeannie, 8, Danny, 3, and baby, six months; his father, Jerry West of Long Beach, and mother, Mrs. Wilma Behm of San Bernardino.

Goldwyn Moans 'They're Biting Hand That Lays the Golden Egg'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The trouble with those directors," says film titan Sam Goldwyn in his own private language, "is that they're always biting the hand that lays the golden egg."

Thus armed with Goldwynisms to improve the king's English, the tall, bald studio boss proved again this week that although he will be 76 years old in 11 days, he is still a tough man to tangle with when he thinks someone has bitten his hand, which has produced many a golden egg.

After three weeks of public tussling with Rouben Mamoulian, whom he dismissed as director of George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," there was still some doubt as to financial settlement.

SAM GOLDWYN
"Porgy" Will Be His

But there was no doubt of the one thing that mattered above all to Goldwyn: He was still boss, and when "Porgy and Bess" is looked back on in years to come, it will be remembered, for better or worse, as Sam Goldwyn's "Porgy and Bess."

* * * *

"This whole thing has nothing to do with Mamoulian's skill. Frankly, the old man simply felt Mamoulian was making too many public statements and people might start thinking of 'Porgy' as Rouben Mamoulian's 'Porgy.'

"You have to understand: This picture is to Sam what 'Ten Commandments' was to DeMille. This is the one he wants to be remembered for. He knows he's not getting any younger. And he can't wait for another 'Porgy.' Money he doesn't need. This is a love project with him."

* * * *

ORDINARILY, THE DISMISSAL would not have caused so much of a stir. Directors frequently are removed from pictures. But Mamoulian was also more than usually attached to the show.

He directed the original stage drama on Broadway in 1927 and also the first presentation of it as an all-Negro opera in 1935.

"Money and credits are unimportant to me at this time," says Mamoulian, a 59-year-old native of Tiflis in the Russian Caucasus. "I've always been obsessed with doing 'Porgy' on the screen.

"I helped convince Sidney Poitier, Dorothy Dandridge and Pearl Bailey to accept roles in the film when they were dubious about whether it would be flattering to Negroes. I helped Goldwyn convince them it would be done tastefully and reflect credit on their race and themselves."

* * * *

THE BLOWUP, according to reliable sources, apparently came when Mamoulian hired a personal publicity man named Russell Birdwell.

It Happened Last Night
By Earl Wilson

BY THE BOOK

BEVERLY HILLS — Comedians Dan Rowan and Dick Martin were telling me how they worked their way up from nothing to become part of the Dinah Shore summer TV replacement.

"Three years ago I was living in a cheap hotel room in New York with a two-burner hot plate," Rowan said.

ROWAN

"I'd buy a dozen franks, carrots, potatoes, anything I could boil.

"For entertainment you'd get on the subway and go catch a 49c movie. I'd look in through the window at Lindy's, envying Fat Jack Leonard and Henny Youngman, but I didn't dare go in."

"We knew one thing," mentioned Martin. "If you go into a bar where there's a show and give the bartender a $1 tip, he won't bug you about buying anything more. I knew that," he added, "because I'd worked as a bartender at all the better joints and some of the worst ones."

* * * *

AND NOW, of course, Dinah's exclaiming about them, and they've co-starred in a movie, "Once Upon a Horse," produced by Hal Kanter, who has said, "They are devout followers of Spinoza and girls."

Rowan, who'd been a writer, teamed up with Dick the bartender five years ago at Charlie Foy's cafe here—and they struggled.

"We used to do miserable, skimpy little things," Rowan said. We got to Chicago and wanted to see what the famous Chez Paree looked like. We couldn't afford to go in.

"We 'kinda peeked through the curtains and said, 'Oh, our party must not be here yet.' And slunk out. It took us five years to headline the place."

They were taken up by the hoodlums in one American city. "These guys would put a red ribbon on your car—" Rowan said.

"Otherwise you ain't got a car," Martin said.

"The red ribbon is a signal to the mob not to steal this car because this guy is o.k. wit' d' boys."

Finally making it to the Club Elegante in Brooklyn and later to the Copacabana, they found all the famous comedians helpful.

"Milton Berle, Jack E. Leonard, Buddy Lester, all gave us jokes," Martin said. Hal March gave us a whole notebook. One of them was about a man who lived to be 102. How did he account for that? 'Toadstools,' he said . . . 'Toadstools!' . . . The old man said 'Yeah, toadstools. I never ate 'em.'"

Then there's the Philadelphia joke, starting out, "What are you doing in Philadelphia?" . . . "Oh, I was the winner on a quiz show and I got a week here. If you lose, you get two weeks."

3 New Ships From Japan Visit Port

SAN PEDRO — Three new Japanese freighters, with a combined total of nearly 35,000 deadweight tons, were in Los Angeles Harbor Saturday on their maiden voyages.

They are Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line's Shiga Maru, 11,540 tons deadweight; Mitsui Line's Megurosan Maru, 11,600 tons, and Daido Line's Kotei Maru, 11,600 tons.

Each of the vessels has a service speed of 18 knots. All will be put on the regular Japan-Los Angeles Harbor run, augmenting present shipping line service.

In the year ending last June 30, Japanese flag arrivals at the port totaled 465, a 26 per cent increase over the preceding year, according to Bernard J. Caughlin, port general manager. Japan has led all other foreign nations in ship arrivals for the past four years.

Suit Offers Oil Operators Hope of Halting Sinkage

CERTAIN INTERESTS are spreading the word that The Independent, Press-Telegram is responsible for the filing of the federal suit against oil producers in the Wilmington Oil Field.

They are saying that representatives of this newspaper went to Washington, D. C., and appealed to the U. S. Department of Justice to sue the state, the city and almost 400 other oil producers with the objective of stopping subsidence.

The inference is that such action—that of endorsing a gigantic law suit—was a wrong thing to do.

It is high time we cleared the air on this subject.

TO KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT, we hereby announce that The Independent, Press-Telegram did send two representatives to the nation's capital to urge Justice Department officials to proceed with its pending suit to save the Naval Shipyard.

They came away convinced that the suit would have been filed sooner or later, and—recognizing the critical nature of the local earth-sinkage problem—they told the Justice Department that the sooner the complaint was filed, the better.

It was not the effort of this newspaper that caused this lawsuit to be filed. It was the disastrous subsidence and damage which resulted from oil production in the field that brought about the suit.

If there is any "blame" involved in endorsing this legal action, then we shoulder that blame with a crystal-clear conscience.

We regard the problem of earth sinkage which results from oil extraction as a threat to the economic future of Long Beach and to the general welfare of its citizens.

WE ARE NOT SATISFIED that operators in the Wilmington Oil Field are taking effective action to correct the problem, and as far as we are concerned we want subsidence halted even if it means shutting off the production of oil.

Obviously the United States Navy and the U. S. Justice Department concur with our conclusions. The very fact that they filed suit to save the sinking U. S. Naval Shipyard here is evidence enough that they believe the oil producers are dragging their feet on fighting subsidence.

THE GOVERNMENT SUIT should in no way be construed to be hostile to Long Beach's interests. On the contrary, it holds the best promise we have of achieving what the city has long sought—a solution to a harassing problem.

The city wants the Wilmington field repressured to stop subsidence that threatens to close the shipyard and, if unchecked, will add immeasurably to the millions of dollars damage it has already caused there and elsewhere.

The government suit asks that the power of the courts be brought to bear to bring about what the city wants.

Therefore, although the city is named as a defendant, it should look upon the federal action as friendly and should be ready with full cooperation.

THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA'S responsibility in the subsidence situation is clearly defined in the government complaint, and it is likewise to the best interest of the state to cooperate. The state has benefited in excess of $160 million from the oil withdrawal that has caused subsidence. It must bear its share of the cost of remedying the sinking. The sooner the sinkage is stopped, the less the cost will be.

Oil companies committed to the principle of repressuring the field also should welcome this legal action which promises to bring about a field-wide program with all interests sharing equitably in the costs and the benefits. One of them already has assumed a cooperative position in the suit, and the others should follow this lead if they are truly concerned about the broad public interest.

This newspaper is dedicated to a policy of stopping subsidence. We feel that the government suit is our best bet for solving the problem.

And He'll Steal This Too!

Demo, GOP Platforms Won't Make the Best-Seller Lists

TWO CURRENT reference works destined for smashing failure among California readers are the Republican and Democratic Party platforms.

But, as charters of principles, they'll serve as keystones of oratory across the state in the 11-week political pageant ending Nov. 4.

Partisans seeking bona fide differences in principle will dramatize the labor planks, and perhaps those on taxation.

HOUSER

"Right-to-work" is opposed in the Democratic platform. Republicans take a neutral stand.

While removing a 1956 plank supporting the union shop—so that its neutrality on R-W is consistent—the GOP supports rights to strike, to bargain collectively, to protection from rival unions during the life of union contracts and to have employers' assurance of bargaining only with certified unions.

For the working man, the GOP favors guaranteed rights: to quit his job at any time, to take part in legal union activities, to remain in his union so long as he pays his dues, to protection against unfair practices by either employer or union officials, to political activity of his own choice, to a job without first joining a union, to secret ballot in any election concerned with his livelihood and to protection from personal financial responsibility in damage cases against his union.

Democrats' lengthy labor section advocates a $1.25 per hour minimum wage, increase in workmen's compensation benefits up to $70 weekly plus $5 each for additional dependents, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, equal pay for equal work for either sex, repeal of the state's Jurisdictional Strike Act, extension of worker benefits to agricultural workers, elimination of the seven-day waiting period for disability benefits and the industrially injured worker be allowed a free choice of medical care.

REPUBLICANS BOIL DOWN THEIR tax plank to advocacy of "living within our means" and within the present tax system. They keep hands off the sales tax revision initiative, Prop. 17.

Democrats oppose Prop. 17—as individual Republican leaders do—because it is "fiscal irresponsibility" and because it would freeze the tax structure into the law of the state, unchangeable except by further statewide vote.

However, Democrats renewed their opposition in principle to the sales tax and advocated its lowering and eventual abolition "when it is economically feasible." They favor increases in severance taxes (on profits from "extraction of irreplaceable natural resources"), inheritance, personal income and corporate taxes—the latter two "on an equitable basis." They oppose a tax on food.

PLANKS PECULIAR to the Democratic platform favor abolition of cross-filing and adoption of a ballot in which candidates of major parties appear in a single column under a party symbol so that one mark would indicate a vote for all candidates of one party, but reserve the voter's right to cross columns and "split" his ticket at his pleasure.

The platform also opposes the requirement of loyalty oaths, citing U. S. Supreme Court decisions in accord, and holding that "respect for constitutional safeguards of the people's liberties is inseparable from true security and true loyalty."

Also opposed by Democrats is "gerrymandering" of state legislative and congressional districts. They support lowering of the voting age to 18.

Gore Rather Than Faubus True Key to South's Mood?

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE and WILLIAM W. BROOM

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders here consider Sen. Albert Gore's successful primary race in Tennessee a more accurate indicator of what the South will accept on racial problems than Gov. Orval Faubus' earlier triumph in Arkansas. This is how they reason:

Faubus, running against two far lesser known Democrats, almost had to win. His primary opponents sharply criticized his use of the National Guard in the Little Rock crisis but, significantly, both also pledged themselves to maintain school segregation. In fact, Faubus himself boasted of some racial integration under his administration in areas other than public schools.

In the case of Gore, one of the Senate's true Southern moderates, the racial issue was the heart of the campaign. Gore's opponent, a former governor of the state, was well-known. He was also well-heeled with campaign funds and plastered the countryside with billboards pointing out that Gore voted for the Civil Rights bill and refused to sign the Southern Manifesto against school integration.

Thus the issue of extremism vs. moderation was clearly drawn in Tennessee where it wasn't in Arkansas, and moderation won.

* * * *

THE SENATE rackets committee investigation of Jimmy Hoffa's financial activities suddenly acquired an international flavor one day last week.

Robert Scott, a former Teamsters union associate of Hoffa in Detroit was in the witness chair. Among other things he said he had been ordered to contact an individual known as "The Chinaman" about a racket operation.

SEN. GORE
True Moderate

GOV. FAUBUS
Bound to Win

"Who is The Chinaman?" inquired counsel Bobby Kennedy.

"Oh, some Greek," replied Scott, deadpan.

* * * *

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT and the Committee for a More Effective Congress, which calls itself nonpartisan, may have pulled a boner by making some premature campaign indorsements of Democratic Senate aspirants. Writing on the committee's letterhead, the former First Lady sent letters around the country seeking campaign funds for Reps. Gene McCarthy (Minn.) and Clair Engle (Calif.), Dr. Fred Anderson of Nevada and Gale McGee of Wyoming.

Nobody has complained about the indorsement of McCarthy and Engle but the plugs for Anderson and McGee raised a big stir because both are engaged in primary contests. The Anderson and McGee opponents in Nevada and Wyoming have seized on the Roosevelt letters and turned them to their own political advantage, while squawking loudly to Democratic campaign strategists here.

A few Republicans have some complaints, too. The handful of persons of the Modern Republican stripe who are interested in the committee's efforts to improve the caliber of Congress are taking a dim view of the affair. Not only do they dislike the all-Democratic indorsement list, they also don't like the mailing list the committee uses. It is one compiled during Adlai Stevenson's last campaign.

* * * *

SPEAKING of Modern Republicans, and almost nobody does any more, the coiner of the phrase retired from government last week. Arthur Larson, who had been writing speeches for President Eisenhower, returned to the academic life whence he had come. This revived, probably for its last gasp, a once-popular story about a Regular Republican being someone who doesn't want to try anything new while a Modern Republican is willing to try new things, but not now.

Excerpts From Subsidence Mail

TO THE EDITOR:

The membership of the Master Mechanics' & Foremen's Assn., in unanimous voice, has directed me to write to you expressing our appreciation for the excellent treatment of the subsidence problem being offered currently in your paper by Harry Fulton.

WE HAVE been following your editorials regarding subsidence and heartily commend your efforts.

YOUR front page cartoon, "Must We Sink to This?" was a neat bit of propaganda, evidently designed to frighten Mr. Citizen into action. For some time now we've been bombarded with propaganda about subsidence. But I have yet to be convinced that oil removal is responsible for the sinkage.

DURING my tenure of office as a City Councilman, I have felt that if the issue were faced squarely by everyone concerned that this problem could be solved. Mistakes have been made and are continuing to be made. The water flooding program is. I am told; the only method by which this program can be licked. It is not a question of how much water goes into the ground that counts. It is how much water is left in the ground to maintain these pressures.

When the water flooding program was presented to the Council, I tried to have written into it that a certain percentage of the water would remain in the ground. In this I was unsuccessful. From the reports that I have read, and I have tried to read most of them, it is obvious that those responsible have been dragging their feet, each group possibly thinking that the other was responsible. The result is that the Ford Plant is lost to Long Beach, the Edison Company is on a stand-by basis, and our Naval establishment may be next. I hope your efforts to prevent this from happening succeed.

What Happens to P.E. Service?

TO THE EDITOR:

Much favorable publicity has been given to the "Jobs for Long Beach" plan, and although I consider it to be a very worthwhile project, I do not think it has been adequately explained.

I cite specifically the proposed street beautification. I have read that the plan calls for the widening of Ocean Blvd. and the planting of trees in its center aisle and that of American Ave. Since these "aisles" are non - existent, their creation would necessarily cause the removal of the tracks of the Pacific Electric Railroad. I have heard nothing of the future status of P. E. service.

* * * *

IS IT GOING to be permanently discontinued or merely interrupted while the tracks are being relocated? If they are to be moved, the logical question is: "To where?" Will they simply be placed a few feet farther from the center of the streets or at an entirely new site? I am not a regular P. E. user, but I'm sure there are many who are depending upon its service as a transportation mode.

It seems to me that if the plan calls for no widening of American Ave., the traffic problem created by the loss of two lanes will partially, if not wholly, offset the advantages of beautification. I think it would be equally as feasible to utilize the excessively broad sidewalks of American for extra road space as those of Ocean.

JIM SHETTERLY
1098 E. 16th St.,
Long Beach

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A spokesman for the Metropolitan Transit Authority has assured "Jobs for Long Beach" sponsors that the tracks will have been removed from Willow St. south by the time the program would go into effect. An island down the center of American Ave. will reduce traffic conflict, not increase it.)

Charter Study Head Refers to Report

TO THE EDITOR:

There appears to be a misunderstanding on the Board of Supervisors Los Angeles County Charter Study Committee.

I refer to Page 22 of our report (yellow pages) where the following language occurs:

"The Committee's recommendations for a larger Civil Service Commission is predicated on an increase in the size of the Board of Supervisors and assumes that the Commissioners will be selected and appointed by the Board on an 'at large' basis."

In other words, the Study Committee recommended an increase in the membership of the Civil Service Commission to five only if the membership of the Board of Supervisors were also enlarged, as recommended by the Committee.

* * * *

THE PURPOSE of that recommendation was to secure collective judgment by the Board, or to put it negatively, to prevent "personal," "district," or special-interest appointments to the Civil Service Commission.

My colleagues and I regret after all the work our committee put in, the rejection of our major recommendations. Nevertheless, I am constrained to request of the Board that the nature of our recommendations should be kept clear, especially with reference to increasing the size of the Civil Service Commission.

HENRY REINING, JR.
Chairman Charter
Study Committee

LETTER OF THE WEEK

How to Be Happy

WITHIN A FEW DAYS—God willing—I shall celebrate my 75th birthday anniversary and I still look to the future with hope and desire. I try never to become discouraged though my aims have often exceeded my grasp. I think of each achievement that I make, not as a stopping point, but as a starting point for some new and better endeavor.

Psychologists say that one is never too old to learn and that elderly people who have lost interest in doing and learning are a liability as citizens. Many oldsters let their thoughts dwell too much on the past—"the good old days." That is regrettable. The past cannot benefit them in any way, except that they use their past experience to help build a brighter and better future.

* * * *

IT IS TRUE THAT OLD PEOPLE have the hard earned dignity and wisdom of years which youth has yet to acquire by growing old; then, let them think of old age as an asset, a God-given privilege and be thankful that they have something of great value to use in giving advice to youth—wisdom if and when occasions arise.

And also, there is so much in this wonderful world that the aged still can and should do that there is no reason for them to sit and pine and re-pine. By doing they will keep brisk and snappy which is a splendid formula for keeping happy.

ESTELLE M. LORD

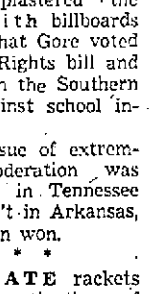

455 E. Ocean Blvd.

(Editor's Note: $5 to Miss Lord for the week's best letter and the week's best advice.)

DREW PEARSON

Fortune Magazine Diplomacy

WASHINGTON—It won't be advertised outside the White House but you can chalk up the President's Middle East speech in New York as a partial score for Fortune Magazine diplomacy. It was inspired by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge plus C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune, who either through himself or his staff, has played an important part in at least two previous highlights of American foreign affairs.

PEARSON

It was Emmet Hughes, brilliant staffer of Fortune, who conceived Ike's "I will go to Korea" speech during the 1952 campaign which led to the President's pilgrimage after the November election.

It was C. D. Jackson who conceived the Atoms-for-Peace speech delivered at the United Nations in the fall of 1953.

Jackson is a believer in fast, dramatic action. He was reared on Madison Ave. techniques, acquired in part from the big advertising agencies which make Time, Life and Fortune publications such gold mines.

To deliver the Atoms-for-Peace speech Jackson got Eisenhower to end abruptly a conference with Winston Churchill and fly to New York.

At that time the dynamic publisher of Fortune was serving as psychological warfare director on the White House staff. Shortly thereafter he went back to New York, officially because Fortune wanted him back; in part, however, because White House operations were frustrating. He was sent back to Washington a few weeks ago by his chief, Harry Luce, to try to breathe new life into the administration's hogged-down policy in the Near East.

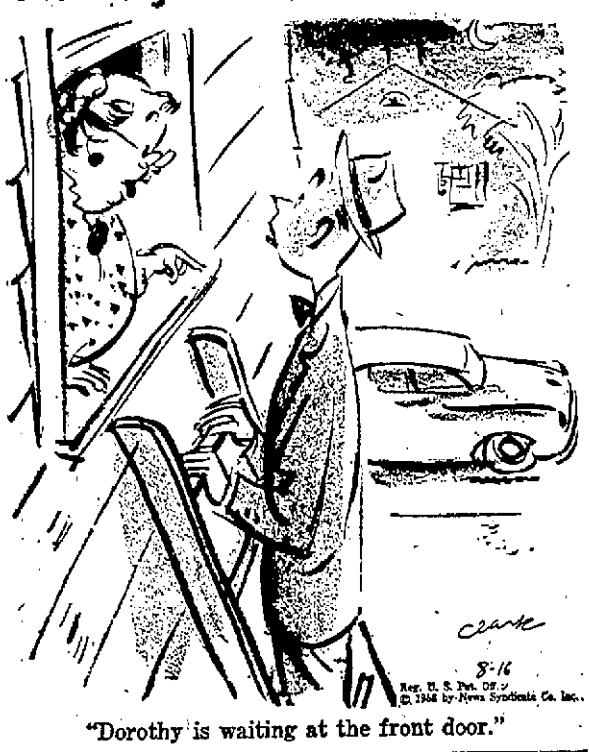

Jackson's presence in the White House recently is one reason why Khrushchev's notes have been answered with more speed. Last winter weeks passed before Ike and Dulles got around to answering the "peace epistles" of Bulganin and Khrushchev. In December, one month and a week passed before Ike replied. In fact Bulganin had written him two letters before Eisenhower got round to answering the first. It caused comment that Moscow had hired a smarter Madison Ave. public relation expert than the B. B. D. & O. firm. It also brought public admission from Eisenhower at a press conference that perhaps he needed a good psychological adviser. From this C. D. Jackson's return to Washington eventually followed.

* * * *

LAST WEEK Jackson seized John Foster Dulles' absence in Brazil a few days earlier, as the moment to resell Dulles' "hard sell" to Ike regarding the UN Assembly meeting.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

In a column a few days ago, this author referred to heavyweight challenger Roy Harris as perhaps a softer touch then face powder. Now, I'm not so sure.

Nobody in California knows much about the Texan who will try to snatch Floyd Patterson's crown Monday night in Wrigley Field, but we're all saying we know one heckuva lot about Mr. Patterson. And is that so much?

It's common knowledge that Patterson didn't have to beat much to win his title and to defend against it. First came Archie Moore and the less said about this Aborigine diet booster, the better. I'm certain Archie still gets embarrassed when he recalls that fight, the only one of his entire career in which his offense consisted of leading with his head.

Next came Hurricane Jackson, followed by Pete Rademacher. If Patterson spent the next year looking in every corner of the globe for any sorrier opponents, he couldn't do it. Both are weaker than used teabags.

I don't think Harris is any great shucks, but is Patterson as good as his bandwagon buddies in L. A. are insisting? (The bandwagon buddies on the uptown afternoon papers both tabbed Rademacher over Zora Folley, by the way.)

I'M STILL STICKING with Patterson to win Monday night, but two incidents of recent days have shaken my confidence somewhat.

No. 1 came last Thursday just before the Dodger-Cub game. Umpire Dusty Boggess, one of the National League's best even if he is a native Texan, was holding court and the upcoming fight was his principal topic.

"Boys," beamed Dusty, "don't underrate my Texas friend, Roy Harris. I've seen him in his last half-dozen fights and I think he's a great bet at those 7 and 8-1 odds being quoted.

"One fight convinced me that Harris may be a real good one, with more experience. That was when he licked Bob Baker. Don't laugh, I know Baker isn't the greatest thing alive. But this night in Houston, Baker rapped Harris with a punch that started from the floor and caught Roy in the ear. It hurt and Roy started to sag. On his way down, Harris was bopped on the back of the head by Baker and I'd have bet right then that Harris couldn't have been revived until he reached the dressing room. I mean that kid was poleaxed.

"He got up before the count reached 10, sweated out the round, then outboxed Baker the rest of the fight for an easy decision. I don't know how hard Patterson hits, but he'll never whack Harris with anything like Roy got that night in Houston."

Incident No. 2 came after I wondered in print why Lew Jenkins was imported to Arrowhead Springs to teach Harris how to use his right—with the big fight only days away!

"It's an old sucker trick," advised veteran boxing writer Jack Cuddy of UPI. "Trainer Bill Gore is an oldtime cutey and he rang in Jenkins with all that baloney about Harris not having a right hand, just to fool the Patterson camp. He did, too. Patterson's boss, Cus D'Amato, was so upset he ordered Floyd to spend two days on an attack designed to take advantage of Harris' right hand weakness.

"What a laugh. Harris' right hand is as potent as any in the heavyweight business today."

RED SANDERS' UNTIMELY DEATH leaves a void in college football coaching ranks that won't be filled for a long time. I'm not alone in the belief that Sanders was the greatest college coach in the U. S. since World War II—and that includes the Wilkinsons, Leahys, Daughertys, et al—but the thing about Sanders that most impressed me was his ability to take defeat. (I'll grant he didn't have to take that very often, either, with a dazzling 66-19-1 record at UCLA.)

A perpetual winning coach takes defeat harder than a fellow with an in-and-out record—and Sanders hated losing with a purple passion—but he wouldn't blow his cork and lay the blame at anybody's feet.

Like the Rose Bowl game he lost a few years ago because his captain, Hardiman Cureton, and his best back, Ronnie Knox, almost came to blows on the field in the waning moments over an argument about play-calling. In the dressing room, Red merely shrugged his shoulders and commented:

"Why should I blame those boys for today's defeat? If it hadn't been for their outstanding work in the past season, we'd never have got to the Rose Bowl."

After the last game he was ever to coach, Sanders showed another side of his character. His heavily-favored Bruins had just squeaked past a ragged SC club on this day in November, 1957, and nobody in the Bruin delegation was overjoyed over the sloppy victory.

"Do you think you were outcoached in this game by Don Clark?" some newspaper character sarcastically asked Sanders. "You were supposed to win by three touchdowns."

"I could very well have been outcoached by Mr. Clark," replied Red, with that infectious grin. "He's a fine coach who hasn't got one break this year.

"But," he concluded, "I don't mind being outcoached, as long as my luck holds out. The best coach in the world will never beat the luckiest."

ONE OF THE FIRST QUESTIONS asked by Carmen Basilio when he arrived in Long Beach Saturday was, "How's the fishing and hunting around here?"

One of the nation's most enthusiastic outdoorsmen, Basilio would rather hunt than eat, sleep, drink—or box. Fishing comes next.

"I'd sure like to fish around here after Art Aragon and I finish our business. I usually go hunting right after my fights, but I guess this is a fishing paradise. So I'll fish," commented Carmen.

"Incidentally," added Basilio, with a big grin. "When I fish, please let me go without Aragon. He talks too much and might scare the fish."

Anderson in Tennis Win

NEWPORT (AP) — His game seemingly sharpened by moist and dreary playing conditions, defending champion Mal Anderson of Australia advanced to the finals of the Newport Invitation Tennis tournament Saturday by defeating Alejandro Olmedo of Peru, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Rain forced postponement of the second semifinal between Australians Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser until today.

Superior in ground strokes and with consistently better service, Anderson dominated the play throughout the match. The swarthy Peruvian's game fell below its usual standard, possibly influenced by the soft footing.

LONG BEACH DELEGATION WELCOMES BASILIO

L.B. Delegation Greets Basilio; Drills Monday

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Carmen Basilio, the former welter and middleweight champion of the world, settled down in a comfortable chair at the Lafayette Hotel—his residence for the next three weeks—and whistled:

"Man, I'm just as beat as if I had gone another 15 rounds with Ray Robinson!"

Basilio arrived in Long Beach Saturday afternoon from New York City after a coast-to-coast plane trip and from the moment his craft landed at International Airport at 3 p.m., Carmen didn't get a moment's rest for the next eight hours.

Basilio was met at the airport by a number of fans, plus a delegation from Long Beach, headed by Oscar Contratto, president of the Long Beach Century Club. After a picture-taking session and a press interview, the ex-champ was whisked to Long Beach in a special caravan.

The car parade was met at Pacific Coast Highway by a police escort, which ushered the personable New Yorker to the Lafayette Hotel, where he will reside and train for his Sept. 5 bout in Wrigley Field against Art Aragon.

* * * *

THE CENTURY Club hosted a cocktail party for the Basilio entourage at the Lafayette, then Carmen gulped a quick dinner and was whisked away again, this time to Los Angeles, where he was a featured guest on the regular Saturday night TV program of—guess who?—Aragon.

Bent, but not broken, Carmen ducked into the Coliseum for a brief look at the Ram-Redskin game, then fled back to the comparative quiet of the Lafayette Hotel.

Because of his extensive activity Saturday, Basilio will not hold a training session today, as he had intended. However, his initial drill in Long Beach will be at 1 p.m. Monday in the Lafayette's Grand Ballroom. The public is invited.

* * * *

BASILIO WAS accompanied here by his co-managers, Joey Nicto and John DeJohn, along with two sparring partners, Willie Dillon and Lee Owens, plus his father. Carmen's wife, Kay, and his two adopted nephews will join the ex-champion here in a week.

Carmen was to attend an early Mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church this morning, then intended to engage in brief roadwork on the beach. The rest of his day will be spent relaxing.

In his brief interview Saturday, Basilio said he definitely hoped to use the Aragon match as a springboard toward a third middleweight title bout against Robinson, the current champion.

When asked what he'd do if he was upset by Aragon, the 5-1 underdog, Basilio broke into a big grin and roared:

"Are you kidding?"

A. A. Stagg Celebrates —He's 96!

STOCKTON (UPI) — Amos Alonzo Stagg, revered elder statesman of football, celebrated his 96th birthday Saturday much to the surprise of two insurance companies.

Stagg, silver-maned and hearty, beat actuary odds of 100,000 to 3 by collecting on his life insurance policies as his own beneficiary.

One policy, issued in 1903 by a young agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company named Harold L. Ickes, was for $10,000. Another was issued in 1892 by the New York Life Insurance Company for $5,000.

* * * *

CHECKS WERE mailed to Stagg as birthday presents which the companies calculate they only have to send to three of every 100,000 policy holders, based on the average life expectancy.

Stagg seemed more pleased by the pile of mail from well-wishers than by the fact he beat the insurance "oddsmakers."

After a quiet afternoon at home he was honored at a football game—a fitting tribute to a man who devoted his life to the sport.

Stagg and his wife, Stella, were honorary chairmen at an all-star high school game in nearby Lodi.

Still quick of mind, the fabled "Grand Old Man of Football" who made coaching history by fielding teams at the University of Chicago for 41 years said he felt the game was more interesting as played by collegians rather than professional specialists.

* * * *

SIFTING THROUGH the more than 400 congratulatory letters and telegrams from well-wishers, including President Eisenhower and California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, Stagg bemoaned the decline in college football attendance at some schools.

Stagg was an All-America back for Yale in 1888. He was one of the founders of the Big 10 and still remains close to football by acting as an advisor to the coaching staff at Stockton College.

Wade Runs Skins Dizzy

by DAVE LEWIS

COLISEUM—Billy Wade passed his first major test as Sid Gilman's choice as his No. 1 quarterback here Saturday night when he hurled two touchdown passes and scored another himself to lead the Rams to a 31-10 victory over the Washington Redskins in their annual charity clash before 73,164 fans.

Although spotty in some parts, Wade grew more effective as the game progressed as he completed 12 out of 22 passes for 125 yards to graduate with flying colors from Norm Van Brocklin's understudy to the Rams' regular quarterback. He also accounted for 65 yards running, carrying the ball seven times.

Wade's first scoring pass was a beautiful 33-yard strike to Jon Arnett, who made a diving catch in the end zone midway in the third period to break a 10-10 tie and send the Rams winging towards their initial triumph of the season over an NFL opponent.

But while Wade generally will receive the major plaudits in the Ram victory, the inspired play of an unheralded rookie defensive end from Georgia by the name of Roy Wilkins set the stage for the Rams' second-half surge to victory.

Wilkins recovered two Redskin fumbles to set up two of the Rams' second-half touchdowns, and scored the third himself on a 29-yard run after intercepting a pass.

His alert play will earn him a "second look" by the Ram coaching staff because he has been so little regarded up to now that his background wasn't even included in the club's annual press book.

The Rams roared into a 10-0 lead in the first 15:43 of play and seemed to be well on their way to a convincing victory when the Redskins came surging back in the final eight minutes of the initial half to gain a 10-10 deadlock at the intermission.

The Redskins appeared to be moving towards another touchdown early in the third quarter when a fumble by quarterback Ralph Guglielmi spelled disaster for Washington.

The Redskins were attacking from the Ram 41 but Guglielmi fumbled when hit from behind while trying to get off a pass, and Wilkins recovered for the Rams on the Washington 44.

Four plays later, Wade fired his 33-yard scoring bomb to Arnett, who out-maneuvered two Redskin defenders to make the grab in the end zone at the 8:41 in the stanza.

Wilkins, who has been in the Army since his final season at Georgia in 1956, broke the game wide open for the Rams at 2:57 of the final period when he barreled into the Redskin backfield to intercept Guglielmi's flat pass intended for fullback Fred Bosseler, and then romped 29 yards for the touchdown that gave the Rams a commanding 24-10 advantage.

But Wilkins — and Wade — weren't through for the evening by any means. As time was running out, the Redskins' Johnny Olszewski fumbled a pitchout and Wilkins again recovered for the Rams, this time on the Washington 32-yard line.

* * * *

ON THE FIRST play, Wade swept around left end for 24 yards to the six-yard line and then, after a penalty, he flipped a 13-yard pass to rookie Jesse Arnelle from Penn State in the end zone for the final touchdown at 12:09.

Thus, the Rams ended the game the same way they started . . . with a rush. They boomed into a 10-0 lead in the first 15:43 of action on Paige Cothren's 22-yard field goal at 11:36 of the first period, and on Wade's 10-yard rollout around left end for a touchdown on the second play of the second quarter.

Cothren also kicked the conversions after all four touchdowns for a total of seven points for the evening.

Cothren's first-period field goal followed a 57-yard Ram drive to the Washington 14 which stalled.

Wade's touchdown 43 seconds into the second quarter was set up by a Redskin fumble.

On the last play of the first stanza, Eddie LeBaron fumbled when hit by Dick Daugherty while trying to get off a pass deep in Washington territory. Larry Morris rushed in to recover for the Rams on the 13. Two plays later, Wade crossed up the Redskin defense by keeping the ball himself and rolling out around his own left end for the score.

* * * *

THE REDSKINS took advantage of a Ram fumble to launch their rally that tied the score at halftime.

Tom Wilson fumbled when he slammed into the Washington line on the Ram 15 midway in the quarter and Johnny Allen recovered for the 'Skins. After three plays netted only six yards, Sam Baker dropped back and kicked an 18-yard field goal at 7:06 to make it 10-3.

The Redskins finally pulled even just a minute and 40 seconds before the half ended when they moved 50 yards in 11 plays with Sid Watson banging over right tackle from the five-yard line for the tally. Baker's kick evened matters.

Washington appeared to be assuming command with a vengeance at the outset of the second half until Guglielmi's costly fumble. From there on in, the Rams manhandled the 'Skins. To take an 8-5 in the series.

The Rams now look forward to their second NFL exhibition test Friday night in the Coliseum against the New York Giants.

Crash, Explosion in Gardena Main

A spectacular three-car crash and explosion on the 30th lap turned the featured 40-lap CRA sprint car dash at Gardena Stadium into a near tragedy Saturday night.

The accident occurred when Tommy Winchester spun out and was crashed into by Al Goelz, who was rammed by Hank Henry. The successive crashes caused Winchester's gas tank to explode, but he escaped with minor facial burns. Nick Valenta copped the featured race.

Once Over Lightly

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

There isn't a man in the boxing business who truthfully thinks Roy Harris has even a ghost of a chance of upsetting Floyd Patterson Monday night at Wrigley Field.

Those who have been "talking it up" for Harris apparently are doing it for the sole purpose of helping the gate.

As we pointed out last Sunday, a fight of this kind usually is "90 per cent buildup, 10 per cent fight."

And the only question in trying to correctly tab the outcome is to pick the round Patterson will finish off the challenger from Cut and Shoot, Texas.

We figure the end will come anytime after the 8th round. We are inclined to single out Round No. 11 as the concluding chapter in the Patterson-Harris story.

For one thing, Patterson has always been a cautious fighter through the opening rounds and he doesn't figure to take any undue chances Monday night against Harris in such an important bout . . . unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

There is always the chance of an upset, of course. But in cases of stunning upsets, you usually can find a good reason behind them . . . an explanation for the result which had not been taken into consideration when the pre-fight odds were set up.

TAKE THE FIRST TUNNEY-DEMPSEY fight. Sure it was a shocking upset, but when a cold, detailed analysis of the result was made, it became obvious that Dempsey never should have been a strong favorite.

Jack was far over the hill and also was very rusty after being inactive for some three years. Tunney, in superb condition, was much under-rated. It was only after the fight that he was recognized for what he was . . . one of the cleverest boxers in heavyweight history.

Probably an even greater upset—at least oddswise—was Jimmy Braddock's victory over Max Baer to win the title. Braddock was an 8-1 underdog.

But those close to the situation knew that Baer had failed to train properly and was not in good condition.

None of these situations are apparent in the Patterson-Harris setup.

Harris doesn't come anywhere near being the journeyman fighter that Tunney and Braddock were. Then, too, the champion appears to be in superb condition, and secondly, despite the fact that there has been much said about Floyd having never seen the Texan fight, the Patterson camp knows exactly what kind of a fight they're going to wage. The strategy was set several weeks ago.

THEN, TOO, PATTERSON and his manager, Cus D'Amato, will be fighting for their "lives" in the fight game. Both will be "dead" in the boxing world if Floyd loses because of D'Amato's bitter feud with the IBC.

Although Harris himself is said to have no IBC ties, there is little doubt among most boxing men that he'll throw in with the IBC if he succeeds in upsetting Patterson.

Thus, there appears to be no underlying reason for a stunning upset this time.

Patterson is the best all-around fighter among the heavyweights. He has all the moves, all the punches, the fastest hands the division has ever seen since Joe Louis was in his prime, and superb condition.

Harris also has wonderful condition and speed, but he is pitifully weak in many departments of the profession.

What's more, Patterson has been looking good against a much better group of sparring partners than Harris has been working against. Don't take Floyd's "knockdown" in a sparring session too seriously. It was more of a slip that was publicized to help the gate by making people think Harris had more of a chance.

Actually, Cal Brad, who was flattened by Patterson in one round a couple of years ago, has been looking real sharp sparring with Harris.

Harris' hopes of waging a fair stand is wrapped up in his condition, speed . . . and a left jab.

WEAK ON THE INSIDE, IT HAS been obvious from his sparring sessions that Harris will try to stay away from the champion.

As trainer Bill Gore says . . . "Harris will keep Patterson on the end of his left hand. That left is very fast and I don't think Patterson slips or brushes aside a jab too effectively. Joey Maxim used his left hand on him and did all right . . . and Jackson lasted several rounds longer than he should have by pawing him with his left."

The only loss on Patterson's record, of course, was to Maxim, the ex-light heavyweight champ who took an unpopular eight-round decision over Floyd while the latter was still under-age and prohibited from fighting more than eight rounds.

Harris' main points, in order, are (1) his condition; (2) his left jab, and (3) he is "awkwardly clever." His most powerful punch is a right uppercut with which he hopes to catch Patterson coming in.

And Patterson will be "coming in." His training sessions at Oceanside make it obvious that he plans to carry the fight to Harris and beat him on the "inside."

Competent observers, backed up by Harris' sparring partners themselves, say the Texan is "pathetic on the inside" and that's where Floyd hopes to set him up for the kill.

He'll bore in and whenever he gets in close, he'll slam away with both hands. Patterson throws the best combinations of any heavyweight in recent years.

Giants' Homers Tell, 7-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda led the San Francisco Giants to a 7-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs Saturday in a free-swinging affair marked by five home runs.

The Cubs' Ernie Banks increased his National League home run lead with his 36th and 37th. His teammate, Tony Taylor, got a two run blast but Mays' and Cepeda's homers meant the difference.

Mike McCormick, 19-year-old Giant lefty, got the victory—his ninth against five losses. Gordon Jones, a new Giant acquisition, relieved him in the sixth and gave up only one run.

A crowd of 17,617 saw right-hander Dick Drott take his 10th loss. The victory kept the Giants in third place and evened the three-game series at one each.

Mays' homer capped a four-run uprising against the Cubs in the fifth and the Giants were never headed. Each team got 10 hits.

Aaron's Hit Gives Spahn 16th Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hank Aaron singled home the deciding run in the eighth Saturday as the National League leading Milwaukee Braves eked out a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies for their fifth straight decision.

Warren Spahn registered his 16th victory of the campaign and 240th of his career after a shaky start. He shut out the Phils after they scored a run in the first.

Southpaw Curt Simmons gave up only three hits through the first seven innings, only to weaken in the eighth and surrender three more hits and the tie-breaking run.

The Phillies pounced on Spahn for one run in the first on Richie Ashburn's leadoff single and a triple by Bob Young.

A single by Aaron, Joe Adcock's double plus Andy Pafko's sacrifice fly evened matters in the second.

Brewer's 8-Hitter Beats N.Y.

BOSTON (UPI) — Mickey Mantle slugged his 34th home run of the season to take the lead in the American League homer derby but it wasn't enough as the Boston Red Sox posted a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees behind Tommy Brewer's eight-hit pitching Saturday.

The Red Sox collected 15 hits off Don Larsen and reliefer Zach Monroe, including four doubles and Dick Gernert's 15th home run.

Mantle's homer, a 450-foot poke into the right-field bleachers with one man on in the sixth, moved him one ahead of Washington's Roy Sievers and two in front of Boston's Jackie Jensen.

Security? 74 Big League Managers in 10 Years

By GEORGE LEDERER

Quick, now: How many major league managers have been hired and fired in the last 10 years?

Ah, ah; don't hesitate, because your answer may be outdated. If you said 74, you're right, at least as this edition went to press.

Seventy-four! And who said the squeeze play is obsolete?

Since 1948 each league has felt the managerial squeeze 37 times, which makes the job of a major league manager about as secure as that of a flag pole sitter.

Only the FPS has the edge. He doesn't have to take the flag in order to stay up.

So far this season, four managers have been let out the back door and a look at the standings indicates that two or three more are suffering from insomnia, for which the only known cure is a stiff shot of pennantcillin.

With the ouster of Jack Tighe (Detroit), Bobby Bragan (Cleveland), Mayo Smith (Philadelphia) and Birdie Tebbetts (Cincinnati), the average tenure of today's major league managers has been reduced to 2.6 years.

* * * *

CASEY STENGEL, now finishing his 10th season as boss of the New York Yankees, is the senior citizen among major league managers. Walt Alston of the Dodgers, completing his fifth year and with a contract for a sixth, tops the National League.

After these two, the turnover has been faster than at the corner flapjack house.

Mike Higgins (Boston) and Paul Richards (Baltimore) have been around since 1955, but 12 others have been hired since 1956. The eight National League pilots have served only 18 years among them and Stengel's stay gives AL managers 24 years of service, including 1958. That boils down to an average of 2.2 years in the NL and three years in the AL.

Four teams, two in each league, have had six managers in the last decade. The champion if-they-can't-beat-'em, disjoint-'em clubs are the White Sox, Tigers, Redlegs and Phillies. Here is a breakdown of the number of managers hired and fired since 1948:

NATIONAL		AMERICAN
Redlegs	6	White Sox	6
Phillies	6	Tigers	6
Cubs	5	Indians	5
Cards	5	Athletics	5
Dodgers	4	Orioles	5
Braves	4	Red Sox	4
Pirates	4	Senators	4
Giants	3	Yankees	2
Total	37	Total	37

The seniority list runs like this:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

1. Alston, Dodgers 1954.
2. Fred Hutchinson, Cards, and Bill Rigney, Giants, 1956.
3. Fred Haney, Braves, June 1956.
4. Bob Scheffing, Cubs. 1957.
5. Danny Murtaugh, Pirates, late in 1957.
6. Eddie Sawyer, Phils, and Jimmy Dykes, Redlegs, during 1958.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

1. Stengel, Yankees, 1949.
2. Higgins, Red Sox, and Richards, Orioles, 1955.
3. Al Lopez, White Sox, 1957.
4. Harry Craft, A's, and Cookie Lavagetto, Senators, during 1957.
5. Bill Norman, Tigers, and Joe Gordon, Indians, during 1958.

The trend in managers is toward the "organization men" instead of former "name" stars such as Rogers Hornsby, Frankie Frisch and Leo Durocher, who ran the show as late as the early 1950s.

Alston, Scheffing, Rigney, Murtaugh and Norman are examples of major league managers who came up through the ranks. Smith and Tighe are examples of those who came up and already have gone down.

Dodgers general manager Buzzie Bavasi, who started the trend with the hiring of Alston, says this practice is likely to continue.

* * * *

"OUR FEELING is that a man who has managed for us in the minors knows the players and how the organization works. Also, there is the advancement incentive. A man likes to know that he can be promoted.

"Naturally, we can't promote everyone. Take the case of Pete Reiser, for example. He manages our Green Bay, Wisc., farm in the Three-I League. He is a great teacher of youngsters and we want him to continue schooling our youngsters. To offset the promotion we pay him according to where we think he should be managing."

In other words, although Reiser is managing only a class B club, he is one of the highest paid managers in the Dodger organization.

Alston has been affiliated with the Dodgers for 13 years. Rigney played eight years with the Giants and managed their Minneapolis farm two years before rejoining the varsity. Scheffing played seven years with the Cubs, managed three years in the system and coached the Cubs one year before moving up.

* * * *

MURTAUGH PLAYED with the Bucs four years, served his managerial apprenticeship three years in the farm system and also coached two years.

There isn't a manager in the majors today who could be classified as a "star" in his playing days.

The highest lifetime batting average of the lot is Higgins' .292, followed by Stengel's .284.

But today the only average that counts is the number of years a manager is employed. And 2.6 isn't a healthy average.

U.S. WOMEN GAIN ESSEX NET FINALS

MANCHESTER (AP) — Unseeded Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, and first seeded Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., staged comebacks Saturday to dash British hopes of an all-England Club Women's Invitation tennis tournament.

Miss Mitchell scored her second upset of the tournament, stopping Wightman Cup heroine, Christine Truman, 1-6, 6-4, 8-6 in one semifinal.

Mrs. Knode rallied from a 5-1 deficit to beat another Wightman Cupper Ann Haydon 7-5, 6-0 in the other semifinal.

A's Nudge Tigers, 8-7

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — A bases-loaded double by Roger Maris in the bottom of the seventh inning Saturday night paced the Kansas City Athletics to an uphill 8-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

It was the second straight night that Maris was instrumental in the A's victory over the Bengals. He rapped a two-run homer and a couple more run-scoring hits in the Athletics' 12-5 win Friday night.

Detroit out-hit the A's, 12-10. Each team used three pitchers. Frank Lary was the victim of Maris' blow and also the loser.

Orioles Win on O'Dell's 2-Hitter, 9-0

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Left-hander Billy O'Dell pitched a two-hitter and Gus Triandos drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and a single Saturday night to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-0 victory over the Washington Senators.

O'Dell permitted only one Senator to reach second base and recorded eight strikeouts while walking only one to win his 11th game against 10 losses.

Gene Woodling started O'Dell on the way to his fourth win over the Senators this season with a 420-foot homer in the first inning.

Struggle for Fourth Place

By GEORGE LEDERER

The crippled but high-flying Dodgers get a chance to move into undisputed possession of fourth place this afternoon when they complete their four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals in another doubleheader.

The Dodger box office, which has already dispensed 1,511,690 tickets this season, is set to accommodate at least 30,000 more customers in the Coliseum this afternoon. The first game begins at 1:30.

Dodger manager Walt Alston plans to start two lefthanded pitchers, but he won't know which ones until he receives Trainer Doc Wendler's medical report this morning. Sandy Koufax (9-5) is a definite starter, but Danny McDevitt (1-5) is only probable.

* * * *

IF McDEVITT'S sore elbow hasn't responded to treatment Alston will go with Fred Kipp (5-4), used exclusively in relief since July 12 when he lasted seven innings as a starter and beat Cincinnati, 4-3.

Toothpick Sam Jones (10-8), one of the league's fastest, and rookie Nelson Chittum will hurl for the Cardinals, who share fourth place with the Dodgers. Chittum, 25, will be making his first major league start. He was recalled from Omaha last week, where he compiled a 12-8 record and 2.73 ERA.

The Dodgers are on a four-game win streak, tying their high for the year, and the Cards have dropped four in a row, two to the Giants and a twin bill to the Dodgers Friday night. Both teams had Saturday off and most of the players attended the Rams - Redskins football opener.

DODGERS DIS AND DATA — Alston's entire lineup depends on the medical report. Both shortstops, Don Zimmer and PeeWee Reese, are injured. If neither is able to play, Alston will shift Charlie Neal from second to short, put Junior Gilliam on second, Gil Hodges on third and Norm Larker on first . . . Zimmer re-injured some bruised ribs Friday night on a dive into second base. Reese has a bad back. . . . The Dodgers have stolen eight bases in 10 attempts in their last four games and have stolen 10 times in eight games on this home stand. Gilliam leads the Dodgers with 13 steals and Zimmer has stolen 12 bases in 13 attempts . . . Carl Furillo has made 22 hits in 59 at-bats during August for a .474 pace, raising his average from .266 to .288 . . . Stan Musial's two singles in the second game Friday raised him to seventh, ahead of Adrian (Cap) Anson, on the all-time hit parade. Musial has 3,083 hits. He also has 2,160 extra bases on long hits, five shy of Mel Ott's National League record. . . . The Dodger fan club will hold its final summer brunch at the Mayfair Hotel at 10 o'clock this morning. Broadcasters Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett are guest speakers . . . Duke Snider has 10 hits in 21 at-bats for his five games in August and has hit .344 (22-for-64) since the All-Star game. His season average is .305 . . . Pitcher Stan Williams' second game home run Friday was the first of his pro career . . . The Dodgers are nearly 100,000 behind Milwaukee's attendance record of last year. The Braves drew 1,618,020 for their first 58 games (54 dates) to the Dodgers' 1,511,690.

Bob Kelley Says—

About 5 p.m. Thursday night, some 10 minutes before I was jolted by the first news of Red Sanders' death, I was winding up a long-distance telephone conversation with Don Paul in Chicago. We had already recorded an interview for my program.

Now the tape had been stopped, and the assistant coach of the College All-Stars asked how his restaurants were going.

"You had a big bar Monday night," I reported.

"No kidding?" Paul asked gleefully.

"What chance do you have against the Lions tomorrow night?" I asked confidentially.

"I'll tell you, Kel," D. P. answered. ". . . Uh, this isn't being recorded, is it?"

"No," I told him. "The tape's stopped."

"Well," he went on, "I wouldn't be surprised if we get beat, 80-0."

"What's the matter, no quarterbacks?"

"We just don't have the outstanding football players we did last year," Don said. "The two best players in camp are Dan Currie and Lou Michaels. But they can't carry the whole team."

"I SUPPOSE you know," I cut in, "that everyone around the NFL is hoping for your gang to get its ears pinned back — because of Graham's articles about dirty football."

"I know," Paul sighed. "Everybody's mad at us."

Some 28 hours later, D. P. proved again that those the closest to the game are the worst predictors. With a large share of the credit belonging to Don's own defensive coaching, the All-Stars routed the Lions much worse than the score indicated, 35-19.

Maybe the Lions got their first touchdown too easily, I don't know. They could have let down after that.

I've been stopped by people who ask: "Kelley, you're about as close to the Rams as anybody. How about it? Are we going to beat the 49ers Sunday?"

I shrug, and reply: "I hope so, but I don't have the faintest idea."

Not only does this pertain to football, but most any other sport as well. Those closest to the facts are often the worst predictors.

AT DEL MAR Friday, the same day Don Paul's football pick turned out poorly, but happily, a horse named Windare was the favorite in the feature. Before the race, Healy went down in the paddock and asked Billy Harmatz if he thought he'd win.

"I should," Billy answered. "They tell me this colt should have won the stake the other day. He ought to beat these horses, shouldn't he?"

Trainer Harry Daniels was asked about Windare's health. "Sound as a dollar, never been better," he replied. "I'll see you in the winner's circle."

One trouble. Neither trainer nor jockey knew Windare didn't especially feel like running that day. He had no speed, and finished out of the money as the 6-5 favorite.

I'm telling you, the closer you get to a thing, sometimes the less you know about the outcome.

So if you want any predictions on Ram games this season, stay away from me. See Hollingworth.

CHAMP TAKES IT EASY

Patterson 5-1 Favorite Over Harris Monday

Floyd Patterson, a question-mark champion, and Roy Harris, lightly-regarded challenger, finished training Saturday for their puzzling heavyweight title fight at Wrigley Field Monday night.

Harris, a modernized backwoodsman from Cut and Shoot, Tex., is unbeaten in 22 professional bouts; but whether he can make even a decent showing against the inactive champion from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., is entirely uncertain. Floyd is favored at 5-1—and higher.

Equally uncertain are the prospects for a crowd and gate and for the sale of seats at 151 theatres in 136 cities where the scheduled 15-rounder will be shown by closed-circuit TV.

There will be no home TV or radio.

• • • •

Regardless of the gate or theatre-TV sales, Harris has been guaranteed $100,000, and Patterson has been assured of at least $210,000, with chances of making more on an involved percentage deal with the Teleprompter Corporation, which has television, radio and movie rights.

Black-haired, glittery-eyed Harris—a strange combination of Li'l Abner, college graduate, 2nd lieutenant in the field artillery reserve, backwoods school teacher and prize-fighter—broke camp at Arrowhead Springs, and motored into Los Angeles with his entourage Saturday.

In his sparring sessions at Cut and Shoot, at Camp Holden, Tex., and at Arrowhead Springs, he did little to boost his stock. He displayed "awkward cleverness," fast hands and a sneaker right—but little power and a weak defense. He is an upright fighter with "good legs," who prefers to let his feet keep him at long range for counter-punching. At close quarters, he merely tries to tie-up his opponent.

Nevertheless, his 22 victories include wins over high-ranked Willie Pastrano, Willi Besmanoff, big Bob Baker and Charley Norkus. He registered nine knockouts.

Harris, 25, hasn't fought since last Oct. 29—nearly 10 months—when he outpointed Besmanoff of Germany.

Patterson, 23, hasn't fought in practically a year; not since the second defense of the crown last Aug. 22, on a sixth-round knockout over "amateur" Pete Rademacher, who had Floyd on the canvas in the second round.

Patterson is a combination boxer-puncher, who scored 24 knockouts while winning 33 of his 34 professional starts. He knocked out 14 of the last 15 men to face him. His only loss was on a questionable eight-round decision to ex-light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim, June 7, 1954.

The champion fights upright or from the bob-weave. Sometimes he leaps into the air with "gazelle punches"—either flying left jabs or straight rights.

Van Brocklin Leads Eagles to 30-28 Win

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, playing for the first time under new coach Buck Shaw, rallied for a fourth quarter touchdown Saturday night and defeated the Baltimore Colts 30-28 before 17,000.

Norm Van Brocklin, 32-year-old quarterback the Eagles acquired from Los Angeles, pitched three scoring passes.

He threw 19 yards to rookie end Bob Gunderman for the final Eagle touchdown with eight minutes to go in the fourth quarter. Bob Walston, who booted a 43-yard field goal in the third quarter, converted.

The Dutchman also threw touchdowns to Tommy McDonald and Walston. McDonald scored again on an 83-yard punt return in the second period.

Baltimore took a 14-0 first period lead after George Shaw threw a seven-yard touchdown pass to L. G. Dupre and Billy Pricer plunged two yards to score. Lenny Moore passed 14-yards to Penn State rookie Lew Walters in the second quarter for another Colt score. The Colts led 21-13 at halftime. The fourth Baltimore touchdown, in the final quarter came when Moore scored on a 22-yard pass from Johnny Unitas.

THROWS 249-3

Seymour Sets Mark

Dr. Steve Seymour of Long Beach hurled the javelin 249-3 on his first throw Saturday to break the Long Beach State College field record but hurt a finger on his second try and failed in an effort to smash Cy Young's Southern Pacific AAU mark of 257 feet.

State College track coach Jack Rose said Seymour was in "great form" and if it hadn't been for the finger injury he probably would have broken Young's record.

Seymour will take another crack at the record in about two weeks.

Browns Blank Steelers

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — A recovered fumble that led to a touchdown and a 22-yard field goal by Lou Groza gave the Cleveland Browns a 10-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers here Saturday night in the opening exhibition game for each team.

The Browns took a 3-0 lead late in the third quarter on Groza's kick and then recovered a Pittsburgh fumble midway through the final period that led to the game's only touchdown.

Buzz Guy recovered Earl Morrall's fumble on the Steelers' 28 and one play later Milt Plum's pass to Leroy Bolton moved the ball to the Pittsburgh 15. Four plays later the Browns had a first down on the five and three more running plays moved the ball to the two.

Billy Reynolds skirted right end on fourth down for the clinching touchdown. Groza added the extra point.

Following the kickoff, Morrall hit on 29 and 14-yard passes to move the ball to the Browns' 15. But the Steelers picked up only nine yards in the next four plays and the Browns took over and ran out the clock.

Cleveland	0	0	3	7	10

Scoring summary: Cleveland touchdown, Reynolds, 2, (run); field goal, Groza (22); conversion, Groza.

Bellflower Ousted by Gardena

Bellflower left fielder Virgil Jones dropped Rich Guy's fly ball with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to give Gardena 2-1 victory Saturday night and send it into tonight's championship game of the State Softball Tournament at Park Ave. Field.

Gardena will play Culver City for the title starting at 8 p.m. General admission is 90 cents with children being admitted for 25 cents.

Before his error, Jones had been Bellflower's hero. He had pitched a two-hitter as Bellflower defeated Mary Star of San Pedro, 3-2, in an earlier game Saturday night and then had sent the second game into extra innings with a score-tying single in the seventh.

Gardena drew first blood in the nightcap with a run in the opening frame. Cy Phelps bunted safely and moved to second on an overthrow. He came home on pitcher Bob Amos' single.

Jones became Bellflower's hero—for the moment—in the seventh when his single drove home Ralph Sangster who had singled and moved to second on Floyd Chandler's sacrifice.

In the Gardena eighth, Terry Schmidt walked and Phelps singled. Don Doucette moved both men up with a fielder's choice, Don Guy was walked intentionally. Amos forced Schmidt at the plate but Rich Guy followed by hitting to Jones.

Tom Sisk pitched a masterful two-hitter Saturday night as Peterson Post won a thrilling 1-0 extra-inning victory over Covina in a Jr. American Legion tourney game at La Palma Stadium. Samuel Thomas Post, the other Long Beach entry in action, received a 12-3 thrashing from Lynwood No. 2.

Sisk's performance over the 10-inning distance was one of the top hurling feats of the tourney. His mates played errorless ball.

Lynwood used five hits, one erro and five walks to push across 11 runs in the fifth inning to rout Samuel Thomas. Jim Hall and Jim Vickers poled two hits for the losers.

Mitchell, Ninowski MVP; Thomas Hurt

CHICAGO (AP)—The stunning forward pass combination of Bobby Mitchell of Illinois and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State Saturday won unprecedented honor as co-winners of the most valuable college player award in the 25th All-Star football game.

The two former Big Ten rivals each collected 39 votes in a poll of sports writers, who covered the College All-Star's surprising 35-19 upset of the Detroit Lions in Soldier Field.

There was only one serious injury. Clendon Thomas, Oklahoma halfback and Ram property, is hospitalized with a fractured leg bone and will be sidelined four to six weeks.

Runnerup with 29 votes was Texas A&M's Bobby Conrad, who kicked a record-matching four field goals and three extra points, and played a brilliant defensive halfback game.

Only other player named in the balloting was Lou Michaels, Kentucky's 235-pound tackle, who collected three votes.

In all, the fleet Mitchell, Big Ten sprint champion, streaked 145 yards with five Ninowski passes. And Spartan star Ninowski completed 14 of 20 tosses for 242 yards.

AT LEGION

Monroe Scores TKO

Boots Monroe, 122, of Compton, was decked for a three count in the second round but got off the floor to score a technical knockout at the end of the fifth round over Roberto Hernandez, 123, of Juarez at the Hollywood Legion Stadium Saturday night.

Monroe, state bantamweight champion, took command in the third round, opened up a cut over Hernandez' right eye and, when Hernandez complained he could not see well enough, referee John Thomas halted the bout. It was Monroe's 17th win in 18 fights.

Snead's 66 Nabs Lead at St. Paul

ST. PAUL (UPI) — Sammy Snead, making his swan song on the 1958 professional golf tour, fired a six-under par 66 over Keller Golf Course Saturday for a 54-hole total of 197, 19 under par, and a 54-hole lead in the $25,000 St. Paul Open.

Snead, the event's all-time leading money winner and winner of the event 21 years ago, held a one-shot lead over halfway leader, Mike Souchak, whose last tournament victory was in this tourney two years ago. Souchak shot a 68 for 198.

Snead fired his second 66 after an opening 65. He picked up four birdies on the front side and slipped over par on the 130-yard par three fourth hole.

Giammalva, MacKay Ice Cup Victory

RYE, N.Y. (UPI) — Young Barry MacKay of Dayton, O., and Sammy Giammalva of Houston, clicking like a pair of twins, clinched the American Zone Davis Cup final against Argentina, 3-0, Saturday by punching out a quick doubles victory over Enrique Morea and Eduardo Soriano, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Hamilton Richardson of Arlington, Va., earlier had made it 2-0 by downing the 34-year-old Morea, 6-1, 6-2, 7-9, 6-2 in the completion of a match postponed because of a rainstorm Friday with Ham trailing 4-5 in the third set.

Then MacKay, who knocked over Soriano in the opening singles Friday, led America's promising young doubles team in a romp to apply the clincher in the five-match series. The remaining two singles today strictly are for the records.

SCHOOL'S IN SESSION

The old master, Bob Waterfield (left), outlines Rams' intricate offense for rookie quarterbacks Frank Ryan (standing) and Bobby Cox. They're contending for No. 2 spot behind Bill Wade.

RAM QBS ROOMMATES

Cox, Ryan as Different as Como, Elvis

By JACK TEELE

Possibly the worst job of matchmaking since Folley and Rademacher was accomplished by the gent who assigned both Bobby Cox of Minnesota and Frank Ryan of Rice to Room No. 320 at the Rams' training camp.

It's not that Cox and Ryan are not good friends, it's just that they are such complete opposites . . . as much alike personality-wise as Como and Elvis.

Admittedly, Cox and Ryan are both rookie candidates for quarterbacking jobs behind Billy Wade, and both are possessed with a recognized talent for launching a football into accurate flight.

But there the likenesses end.

Most obvious contrasts are in physical appearance.

Cox has black, wavy hair and a dark complexion. He's a Latin type, a Sal Mineo with muscles.

Ryan, light-skinned, is slim; almost a bit frail. When he tells you he is a math and physics student, you believe him.

ON THE FIELD, OTHER contrasts become apparent.

Cox is gregarious, mischievous, flamboyant and, though unobjectionably so, downright cocky.

Ryan is quiet, subdued, serious. He will never run through a play until he has received complete instructions on the "why" and "where" of the pattern.

But from this "night" and "day" combination, the Rams must draw their relief for Wade.

Chances are that both will have a year-long shot at the No. 2 job, for Coach Sid Gillman has said, "Our present plans call for three quarterbacks on the final roster."

Breaking into the National Football League as a quarterback is a most difficult task.

Cox and Ryan have been in California since mid-June, reviewing films with QB coach Bob Waterfield and studying the hundreds of pages in Gillman's "Quarterback's Bible."

The two rookies have had to commit to memory 120 basic Ram plays, plus variations.

Further, they have been charged with learning the assignments of all other 10 positions on each of those plays.

Ram signals in the huddle sound like a verbally recited chapter from "Gone With The Wind!"

Broken down, that code gives the team members information on (1) the formation, (2) faking action for backs, (3) quarterback's route, (4) pass receivers' routes, (5) the number on which the ball will be snapped and (6) the order to break the huddle.

For Ryan, the memory work has been easier than for most. Already enrolled for post-graduate work at UCLA in physics and math, Frank is as brainy as they come.

"I went up to his room the other night," Waterfield told his fellow coaches last week, "and there's Ryan playing a game of chess with himself!"

But for all his studious qualities, Ryan sometimes reveals a bit of dry Texas humor.

The Rams have a section in their player questionaires that asks for "records held." Ryan's entry was: "None. Correction—I hold one record. Had pass intercepted and run back 102 yards by Charlie Jackson. SMU vs. Rice, 1958."

COX, OF SPANISH-FRENCH-Irish-Welsh descent, began his college grid career at Washington in 1954 and earned all-Coast honors as a soph. Then the swarthy California-born athlete moved to Minnesota where he won all-America mention as a junior.

Brash Bobby is outspoken in his praise for the Big 10.

"I'm glad I played for Minnesota," he says. "They give you great preparation for pro ball. The Big 10 is tougher than the PCC in all departments."

And it was at Minnesota that Cox played in the split-T where he was obliged to do a lot of ball-carrying.

He became quite proficient at carrying the mail. Ryan can leg it when he has to, also.

And with Wade operating as No. 1, it would seem that the Rams are well-fixed for a refreshing spell of the quarterbacking style wherein a trapped passer has at least a once-in-five chance to nullify the loss.

RAM ROOKIES ROOMIES

Bobby Cox (seated) advises Frank Ryan on proper strategy to employ in unpacking suitcase in room they share at Rams' Redlands training camp. They are complete opposites—except in launching footballs.

AGUA CALIENTE — Nine stars of the local handicap division have been entered for the one-mile Amherst Cap today, the standout race of the week here. This race will mark the first challenge of older horses by the sophomore Mylittlemonkey, winner of her three recent starts.

River Clipper, as usual, is high weighted with 116 pounds against 111 each for Tony's Reckon and So Valiant. The same horses met two weeks ago with just a nose and a head separating the trio, Sir Valiant winning. The latter picks up five pounds, imposts of the other two being unchanged.

Trace O' Irish won the two-mile marathon run Saturday with Call Glory second and Bernstar third.

There were a total of 33 tickets cashed in for five out of a possible six winners in the "5-10" pool. Each ticket was worth $1,053.80. There were 536 consolation tickets for four win-

Khalita Snares Debutante; Like Magic Bests Arrogate

The heavily favored filly, Khalita, lived up to her role Saturday by romping to a two and one-half length victory in the $47,930 Del Mar Debutante Stakes.

Slow to settle into her normal stride, Khalita was hustled along in the home stretch and was drawing clear at the finish. Peter Strub's Satina was second and Miss Uppity finished third.

Khalita, with Jockey Ray York aboard, ran the six furlongs in 1:10⅘ and paid $2.50, $2.40 and $2.30. Satina returned $6.70 and $5.10. Miss Uppity paid $4.50.

In the companion feature, the Solana Beach Handicap, Like Magic hung a head decision on Arrogate. Twentyone Guns finished third. With Ralph Neves in the saddle, Like Magic toured the mile course in 1:36 and paid $4.80, $2.60 and $2.20.

Claiborne Farm's Nadir led wire to wire to win the richest purse ever paid a 3-year-old in Chicago history as he won the American Derby at Washington by three and a quarter lengths. The purse was $160,075.

Ridden by Manuel Ycaza, Nadir covered the mile and one-eighth in 1:48⅘ and paid $6.60, $4 and $3. Victory Morn was second and Talent Show third.

Admiral Vee won the Saratoga Handicap with Inside Tract second and El Bermejo third. Eddie Schmidt, the co-favorite, was fourth. Time for the mile and one-quarter was a slow 2:06⅘ and the winner paid $9.90, $4.90 and $4.

Fall Wind, the even-money favorite, won the Pageant Stakes at Atlantic City. The mile and one-sixteenth turf race was won in 1:50⅘ and Fall Wind returned $4, $3 and $2.60.

Los Coyotes Country Club Holds Aquacade Today

Three of the all-time greats of the diving board and the owners of seven Olympic gold medals among them—Pat McCormick, Sammy Lee and Joaquin Capilla—will headline an aquacade at Los Coyotes Country Club in Bellehurst today at 5 p. m.

Los Coyotes recently dedicated one of the West's most modern swimming and recreational centers.

Pat, winner of four Olympic diving titles in the 1952 and 1956 Olympic Games, is director of diving and coach at Los Coyotes. Dr. Lee won tower diving crowns for the U. S. in the '48 and '52 Olympics.

Capilla, who flew here from Mexico for the event, captured the tower crown for his country at Melbourne in '56.

Athletes of '20s Brash, Free Spenders--Played for Thrills

(Editor's Note—In the Twenties athletes were a brash, free-spending crew that played for the thrill of the game and for the fans' hero-worship — a different breed from the professional businessmen in sports today. Here is a sports flashback to life in the Twenties.)

By TOM HENSHAW

GERMANTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A round, moon-faced baseball player named George Herman (Babe) Ruth ate too many hot dogs and drank too much soda pop one hot, hungry afternoon and he got a tummyache and for days breathless headlines probed every detail of his recovery.

A scowling, blue - jowled boxer, William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, got belted out from under the world heavyweight crown and he explained to his wife: "Honey, I forgot to duck," and even the people who detested him suddenly loved him for it.

* * * *

A RED-HAIRED college boy, Harold Edward (Red) Grange, who could carry a pigskin filled with air better than anyone else, sat on the bench in civvies to watch a professional football game and police had to rescue him from autograph seekers.

An aristocratic golfer named Walter Hagen parked his Rolls Royce outside the most sacred precincts of St. Andrews Golf Club in Scotland and ate his lunch in the car and it embarrassed club officials who wouldn't let an American professional sully the clubhouse by his presence.

Those were some of the big names who played big roles in big events around and about America in the third decade of the 20th century when nothing seemed quite so important as the next pitch, the next round, the next down or the next putt.

OLD DAYS GONE FOREVER

Smooth-stroking Gene Sarazen chips out of rough on way to winning British Open in 1932. Sarazen says the old days were more fun though not so lucrative.

It was a time when money (but not much of it) came easy and went easier; when hero-worshipping fans rubbed shoulders with their idols; and when lithe and hungry young men and women planted the American flag at the very pinnacle of the athletic world.

Those are the 1920s — the golden age of sport—as recalled by one of those lithe and hungry young men, Gene Sarazen, now 56, a golfer who came out of the wings as the decade began and has never really left the stage since.

"The athletes of the 1920s were primarily sportsmen," says Gene. "There was something of the gambler about them, too. Only a few made really big money but just about everybody spent more than he made. Save money? Nobody gave it much thought. We had a good time.

"Athletes today are strictly businessmen. Take golfers, for instance. They finish their rounds and get into their cars and go back to the hotel. They're in bed by 9:30 and they're up early, working around the practice tee or the practice green.

"In the old days we traveled to the tournaments together. We stayed at the same hotels. We palled around together in off hours. We were one big happy family. Golfers aren't that friendly anymore. You seldom get close to them. Business is in the way.

* * * *

"WHAT CHANGED IT? I'd say the depression did. I don't think any athlete of the 1920s quite realized that their money days weren't going to last forever. They realize it today. They save their money. That's the big lesson they learned from the fellows of the 20s."

"Today's athletes are enjoying the fruits planted by the athletes of the 1920s," says Sarazen. "Today American pros are not only welcome in Britain, the tournaments there are actually lonesome for them. Hardly any Americans bother to go over there anymore. They're making too much money over here.

"When I was over in England this year they asked me: 'Where are all the Americans?' I told them they were playing in the East Norwich Open. They asked me: 'What in heaven's name is that?' I told them that was one of our little $50,000 tournaments.

"There are so many tournaments around today that the British Open and even our own National Open have lost their meaning. So you lose or you don't enter. So next week there's another Open. And it's probably worth more money, too.

"Golf—and other sports, too—have been put on sort of a production line. There's a tournament a week on a million dollar circuit. That's what has turned sportsmen into businessmen. There's too much money involved. People have lost that spirit of conquest that motivated them in the 20s."

"The athletes of today," says Sarazen in summing up, "are every bit as good as the athletes of the 1920s and they certainly make more money.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Ray Gise, whose name often appears in this column, is back at his I, P-T auditing desk after another mountain-climbing expedition in the upper Sierra Nevada. Ray is, beyond question, one of this city's best authorities on mountains. He should be because he has scaled most of the peaks in this state.

Normally, Ray takes his wife, Elizabeth, to a spot about 11,000 feet up, pitches camp and leaves her there to fish while he tries every mountain in sight. This year, Liz got a break. Ray left her with friends at a rather elaborate camp in Yosemite Valley.

Friends drove Ray 55 miles to Tuolumne Meadows, from which point he took off on a nine-day trip that eventually put 92 miles behind his fast-moving legs. He wandered on and off the John Muir Trail, visiting such spots as Garnet, Thousand Island and Shadow Lakes; Rush and Shadow Creeks and the Middle Fork of the San Joaquin River.

Ray carried a Kelty Pack, loaded with an even 40 pounds. Ray says that the Kelty is by far the best pack ever made for any one doing mountain work.

TO SAY THAT RAY was impressed by the numbers and size of ferocious mosquitoes this year is putting it mildly. He was impressed, kissed, stuck, stung and even kicked by the pests that have raised havoc with Sierra hikers since May.

Ray admits that the mosquitoes have changed their habits: In former years they hatched every 10 days; now they hatch every hour on the hour.

But things should improve for the September crowds. Ray believes that next month will provide the best weather of the summer, and possibly the mosquitoes will have died out.

After visiting almost every mountainous area of the west, Ray is convinced that the upper Yosemite Park country is the most beautiful. It's far greener, has more water and denser forests.

Although he saw a few hardy souls, who, like Ray, venture far into the back country, he didn't see any large fish. Most of those fishing were dunking fluorescent salmon eggs and just sitting and waiting for a strike. Next month, the same fish should be rising to flies.

Thunderstorms were a dime a dozen while he was in the back country, and experienced guides told him there has never been a year with such unseasonable temperatures. Nights were so warm that his sleeping bag was uncomfortable, even at 11,000 feet.

REMEMBER WHAT A HECTIC time Jed Welsh had about a month ago in landing a marlin? The experience was the subject of a full Sunday FISHIN' AROUND column.

Well, there's a sequel. Jed, Long Beach tackle manufacturer, and Bud Shaver went fishing on E. O. Nay's Nayflower and both hooked the same marlin at the same time. (That marlin must have been hungry).

As in the previous experience, one of the mackerel baits slipped out of the marlin's mouth, up the leader, over the swivels and on to the line. Both anglers really worked the marlin to a listless mass, but they couldn't do anything about that dangling mackerel.

Along came—as before—a bonito shark. But instead of biting off the bait and not damaging the line, this shark was greedier. He took the bait and both lines at one snap and the whipped marlin finally came to life and swam away.

However, there was some consolation—for Jed at least—later in the day when he hooked another marlin and landed it on medium tackle in 1 hour, 8 minutes. It weighed 154½ pounds.

JED, NOW TOURING San Joaquin Valley on a selling trip, sent this department some valuable fishing information this week. He said, in part:

"Isabella Lake fishing is excellent for 1½-pound crappie and large bluegill. Go-Getters (naturally, Jed makes 'em) are taking both crappie and large bluegill. There's no limit on bluegill. I saw one man with 87 large ones.

"Trout fishing in the Kern above and below the lake is good on bait, spinners and flies. A man named Floyd Gann, of Bakersfield, took 9-14 rainbow just below the lake. He now is leading the derby being sponsored by Bob's Sportsmen's Headquarters at Isabella.

"Lake Millerton (20 miles out of Fresno) has been producing kokanee salmon from 14 to 18 inches. The DF&G planted 100,000 two years ago and recently added 200,000. The big ones are full of spawn now.

"Also the DF&G put 50,000 striped bass into Millerton last year. They have to be 18 inches long to be legal, but I saw eight brought into the dock on stringers. They were from 18 to 26 inches and were caught by drifting with dead minnows across the lake from the landing.

"If these stripers survive and grow well on a straight fresh-water diet, won't that be something?"

BERNARD MASQUELIER, importer of the famous Ru reels from France, has had a fling at Long Beach fishing and says that he likes it better than anything he has seen on the Atlantic Coast. In fact, he is so pleased with it that he intends to return here to live after his marriage in France next month.

Fresh Water Summary

Even though campers are thicker than fish in the Sierra Nevada this season, sites for camps are usually available to those leaving here on week days. On week ends, the story is different at all resorts.

Trout plantings continue at a normal rate. In fact, restocking of some streams and lakes is running heavier this month than at any time this year because this is generally regarded as the high pressure period of summer.

Here is what you may expect in the Sierras this week:

All parts of the Bridgeport area are providing good fishing. Some weight limits—even some four- and five-pounders—are being taken out of Bridgeport Lake, Twin Lakes, Robinson Creek and Buckeye Creek, although getting a fighting brown out of Buckeye is a bit difficult because of brush.

The Virginia Lakes chain is at a high peak. Ken's Sporting Goods Store in Bridgeport is signing up anglers for a three-day trip into Anna Lake where golden trout are biting well. Each trip is limited to four persons at $30 each. It's a full package deal. Tioga and Saddlebag Lakes, on the Tioga Rd. into Yosemite, are starting to produce for the fly fishermen.

Grant Lake is good in late evening. Silver, fair for the trollers getting small fish. Heavy plantings going on in all the Mammoth group of lakes. Some nice trout are being taken in the Owens River at Benton Crossing.

Tahoose and Lower Division Creeks best in the Big Pine area. Whitney Pass is open, as is Army Trail Pass to Rock Creek (hikers only). Sabrina, North and the Tyee chain of lakes are best in the Bishop sector.

Traveling up the other side of the Sierras (western slope), we find all of the Kings River back country good. South Fork, Colby and Brewer Lakes are excellent. All upper portions of the Tule River country are good, with heavy plantings at Camp Wishon, Camp Nelson, Cedar Slope and Peppermint Creek. Bloom Lake and the Marble Fork of the Kaweah River are affording fine fly fishing.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA—Crappie and bluegill continue to hold up at Irvine Lake. Trout and bass are slow. Henshaw Lake, in a slump for several weeks, has come to life with bluegill and crappie the top fish; bass are hitting better. The same is true of Lake Hodges. Both Hodges and Lower Otay Reservoirs will remain open for an indefinite period for Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday fishing. Barrett Lake is closed and Sutherland Lake winds up on Labor Day. Railroad Canyon remains fair for all types of fishing and reports that dove and rabbits are quite plentiful, with 5,000 acres of hunting ground around the lake.

Big Bear still is the hot spot for trout in the San Bernardino Mountains. Recent thunderstorms have dumped enough water to maintain the lake level at about the same as it was in May. All other lakes in the southern mountains range from poor to just fair at best.

Ocean Fishing

Barracuda proved to be the biggest catch Saturday as 1,022 fishing boat passengers from Pacific and Pierpoint Landings enjoyed "fairly good" fishing.

A total of 3,124 barracuda, 594 bull bass, 359 bonito, five white sea bass and four yellowtail were taken — making an average of 4.5 fish per passenger—for the day.

Prior to Saturday, Pierpoint and Pacific Landings had racked up a rather imposing total for six days, with 2,913 anglers catching 13,025 fish, or almost an average of five fish per angler. The totals, broken down, read this way: 224 yellowtail, 8,883 barracuda, 51 white sea bass, 1,280 bonito, 2,180 kelp bass and 1,330 miscellaneous species.

Other ports in Southern California:

NEWPORT BEACH (Davey's Locker)—Six-day totals: 1,040 anglers, 113 yellowtail, 4,037 barracuda, 62 white sea bass, 775 bonito and 1,829 kelp bass.

SAN DIEGO—Six-day totals: 2,047 anglers, 1,716 yellowtail, 4,742 barracuda, 541 white sea bass, 43 bluefin tuna, 763 bonito, 1,478 kelp bass and 104 miscellaneous, most of which were halibut.

SAN PEDRO (Norm's Landing)—Six-day totals: 766 passengers, 40 yellowtail, 2,204 barracuda, 6 white sea bass, 1,252 bonito, 3,487 kelp bass and 20 bluefin tuna.

OCEANSIDE—Six-day totals: 1,002 passengers, 27 yellowtail, 5,779 barracuda, 28 white sea bass, 1,217 kelp bass and 174 miscellaneous.

SAN CLEMENTE—Six-day totals: 1,127 passengers, 81 yellowtail, 2,711 barracuda, 56 white sea bass, 1,567 lanceous and four large black sea bass ranging to 180 pounds.

REDONDO — Six-day totals: 1,102 anglers, 40 yellowtail, 4,344 barracuda, 2 white sea bass, 852 bonito and 256 kelp bass.

SEAL BEACH, SANTA MONICA, MALIBU and PARADISE COVE showed impressive catches of barracuda and kelp bass in their daily totals. These seamed to be no favorite spot for the scooters; they were scattered all along the coast.

WEEK'S HIGHLIGHTS—A Beverly Hills dentist caught a 72-pound white sea bass on a boat out of Davey Locker. It's the champion of the year to date. Schenley Sportsmen's Club awards: Ed Chadek, Long Beach, 31-pound yellowtail; John Ritchie, Downey, 18-pound bluefin tuna; Glen Collins, Bellflower, 12-2 barracuda, and Stanley Drake, Lomita, 8-12 barracuda.

SURF FISHING—Picking up everywhere despite dirty water. After all, even surf fish have to eat and they came in all last week to provide excellent sport. Surf casters getting some barracuda and bonito off Redondo and Playa del Rey jetties.

BELMONT PIER—215 barracuda, 12 yellowtail, 15 halibut, 130 bonito, 39 passengers (Dina Lee).

Outboards Vie in Divisional Finals

By BOB RUSKAUFF

Today at 12:30 the hottest stock outboard drivers of the country (barring a few from far quarters) go into final races of the Western Divisional championships on Marine Stadium.

Their numbers, boosted by 54 who made the finals in qualifying heats Saturday, will total 12 each in eight top fleets and eight in two others.

Four ace Southland hydroplane drivers, who had failed by accidents and otherwise to reach regional places, made the list, along with one Northerner.

Ronnie Rima of Newport in Class C; Larry Adams, Buena Park, D; Commdr. Dick Garlow, Los Angeles, of the sponsoring United Speedboat Assn. in Class B and ex-national champ, Ronnie Loomis, Glendora, Class A, were Southland hot-shots among the 55 qualifiers who made the grade into today's finals.

The Northerner was D-Runabout driver, Bill Larson, Neetso, Ore.

One top-rated Southlander who failed was Long Beach's Bob Martin, who blew his B-hydroplane and did a disconsolate sit-out for both of Saturday's heats.

Strangely, there was nary a spill during the qualifying heats on an unusually-placid Marine Stadium. Action this afternoon—and it bids to be close and saucy—may be seen at $1.00 per adult, with program, parking and bleachers free. Drivers pre-celebrated Saturday evening with a luau at Recreation Park.

Youth Fires Ace

Fifteen-year-old Mike Carroll shot a hole-in-one on the par 3, 134-yard No. 7 hole at Virginia Country Club Saturday. Dowell Lawson witnessed the shot.

CHEVY COSTS LESS IN ALL THESE POPULAR MODELS!*

Whatever model you've got in mind, you'll find Chevrolet fills the bill beautifully—at a price that can't be beat! Every one of these Chevy V8 sedans, hardtops and wagons costs less than any comparable model in the leading low-priced three. Yet no other car near the price is so new, so roomy, so right for you in every way!

There's nothing like one of these low-priced Chevies to give you a fast case of new-car fever. But, low-priced as they are, you're likely to find yourself sold on one before you've even considered the cost.

That's because Chevrolet is the only honest-to-goodness new car in its field—new to look at, with a beautiful new Body by Fisher; new to ride in, with two completely new suspension systems; new to drive, with a wider-than-ever selection of engines and a solid, road-snug Safety-Girder frame.

With these plus many more fresh, fine advantages, it's all the more surprising to learn that all the V8-powered Chevies shown here—plus six even lower priced 6's—cost less than any comparable models in the leading low-priced three. Talk it over with your Chevrolet dealer. You won't find the picking or prices better anywhere.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, AUGUST 17, 1958 SECTION W

CVO: Channel for Service

By ELISE EMERY

The telephone buzzed in the Community Volunteer Office, 1213 Cedar Ave.

"Can you supply a layette for a mother of two weeks who's a bride of one week?"

The request, from a social worker at one of the 64 agencies served by CVO was promptly filled.

There are many ways to tell the story of the Community Volunteer Office:

With statistics; by tracing its history; in terms of its civic help; in its dollars and cents value.

But the real story of CVO is a story of people—those served and the ones who reap the richest reward—the volunteers.

* * * *

MEN, WOMEN, teenagers and children, 760 of them from 5 to 82 years of age, spent 86,000 hours last year helping others. "Community service" is an intangible phrase. Let's translate it into action.

Look first at happy partners Cherel Depp and Mrs. Vesta Regli. Though many decades separate the 5-year-old blue-eyed Cherel and buoyant Mrs. Regli, they meet in perfect time when they appear at Day Nurseries, the Sunset Club, Long Beach Girls Club and hospitals, the blonde sprite singing popular tunes, Westerns and hymns to Mrs. Regli's piano accompaniment. Mrs. Regli often puts her fine musical training to use, and, an excellent typist, she also works when needed for the Red Cross office and the Exceptional Children's Foundation. Cherel, whose mother drives her from their Rolling Hills home to entertain others, is delighted when youngsters at the nurseries chime in with her singing.

OR TAKE THE CASE of Mrs. Alphonse J. Knight of Long Beach. Month after month she has devoted four hours a day to preparing and serving snacks at the Volunteers of America's Sunset Club for senior citizens, 140 W. 6th St., where more than 200 men and women daily find recreation and special interest activities. Even major surgery a few months ago hasn't slowed Mrs. Knight's generous help.

Then there's Jan Streeter, 15, one of the many teenage volunteers. Each day this summer she has reported for work. At the Community Chest office she collaborates with Iver L. Ranum in compiling a survey of local industries. Her co-worker, 77, retired, lives with his daughter and her family. He takes satisfaction now in putting his years of training to work again in a variety of clerical jobs. Each week, too, he drives an elderly man to the doctor.

* * * *

SINCE MAY 1956, Mrs. Charles Lindsay of Long Beach and Mrs. Ethan E. Goldsmith of Lakewood have been a team at Long Beach Health Department's Child Health Conference. At Health Department, Savannah Gardens and Lexington Gardens clinics for well children, devoted to preventive medicine, Mrs. Lindsay measures and weighs youngsters and Mrs. Goldsmith records her findings. With a valuable background of work in youth groups, they understand children and find joy in contributing to their well-being. They are on call for office work and driving service as well.

* * * *

UCLA home economics major Bunny Cavaliere, 19, sandwiches her CVO work between summer school classes at Long Beach State College and a job at Disneyland from 4:30 p.m. to midnight—and she thinks the filling is the best part of her day! Three times a week eager moppets at West Long Beach Day Nursery, 16th St. and Chestnut Ave., watch for Bunny and her accordion. Enraptured, enchanted they encircle her as, with accordion, at the piano or with nursery instruments, she teaches rhythms. Warm friendly brown eyes twinkling, she begins a melody and, like the Piper of Hamelin, magnetizes the tots with toe-tapping, tension-melting tunes.

* * * *

HIGH SCHOOL students, a group in the morning and a group in the afternoon, are preparing material and acting as guides at Long Beach Museum of Art. Others completely maned the Los Angeles County Crippled Children's Camp in Bixby Knolls Park. Volunteers from Women of the Moose picked up and delivered milk to the camp daily.

Members of the Hard of Hearing Club do a magnificent job, always on call for any assignment. Among CVO workers are active and retired teachers, nurses, therapists, office workers, accountants, real estate agents—pick an ocupation, a profession, age, race or creed—you'll find them all represented.

* * * *

LIMITED TO an annual budget of about $5,000, the Community Volunteer Office is breathed to life by these people. Not only all Community Chest agencies, but other clubs and organizations as

VOLUNTEERS TAKE OVER many agency jobs, freeing highly trained staff members for specialized work. High school student Jan Streeter and Iver L. Ranum (left center) compile data for the Community Chest. Their families' needs no longer demanding all of their time, Mrs. Charles Lindsay and Mrs. Ethan E. Goldsmith (lower left) spend hours each week working for the City Health Department Child Health Conference. College student Bunny Cavallere (right) holds the rapt attention of Jackie Fletcher, Greg Margossian and Nancy Coughlin at West Long Beach Day Nursery.—

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

(Editor's Note: Iola Masterson is on vacation. In her absence the Wild Waves column is being written by her fellow women's staff members.)

No wonder they call themselves Nightingales. Each one an attractive thrush in her own right, the whole flock together represents a harmonious, flitting band bustling with flights from the nest plus plans for the biggest hop this side of Birdland.

This year, instead of gathering at a smattering of roosts for thirst quenching before the big annual ball Oct. 4, Nightingales in brilliant plumage and male counterparts will band together at the Petroleum Club. Less ruffled feathers that way.

Meanwhile, back on the vacation routes, the Jack Haydens and the sun have been keeping the highway 'twixt here and Vegas warm with back and forth trips. . . . Senora Ann and Senor Berry Merritt siested and fiested at the Rosarita Beach Hotel in Baja California . . . and it was natural that Kathy and Bob Blake were south of here for the La Jolla Country Club invitation golf tourney.

Fooey to This

Golf and swimming in the Mission Valley appealed to Barbara and Jim Evans whose headquarters were the luxurious Town and Country establishment on the outskirts of San Diego. . . . Jackie and Bob Campbell chose Lake Arrowhead for a cool, pine-scented summer's pause with Bonnie and Jeff.

Life of the dude at Alisal ranch had George and Iris Chipman saddle sore but happy. Small fry Robbie and Melinda went along, nursed the same wounds. . . . Back to the days of the dons went the Norm Stows. Fiestas this month are competing with luaus, it appears. Their trek back into early California history took place at Santa Barbara's gala doings.

Three weeks in the Valley of Enchantment for Nightingale Joan and Jerry Barber ended in disenchantment the second they returned to 20th Century traffic.

The Norm Meager family decided to let chance and imagination run their courses. They piled suitcases and children in the car and just started driving. Will stop whenever something interests them. . . . The Bernard Wishneys, on the other hand, minded their charts and compass and found themselves smack on the button at Catalina where they've been boat living and playing host to many a friend from Long Beach who swam, flew, rowed or yachted over to visit.

Nightingales with clipped wings will swim, barbecue and dance Saturday night in the Park Estates aerie of the J. Tyson Ellises. It's the last of a series of summer parties given by the ladybirds.

THOSE BUSY, busy travelers, Lili and Dr. C. A. Wensley of Palos Verdes Estates and Long Beach, have just returned from a few days' celebration at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco on the occasion of their 22nd wedding anniversary. El medico is secretary-treasurer of the Western States of the American College of Osteopathic Internists. And next month they will take off for Brussels (and the fair) for the International Congress of Cardiologists. While in Europe they will visit in Copenhagen, Denmark, travel in France and spend two weeks with friends living in Lausanne, Switzerland.

"Line up, everybody! Ice cream's ready!"

And it wasn't ice cream from stiff cylinders Nell and Louis Gunn referred to, either. No sir, by cracky, it was the real homemade thing. Vanilla it was, great scoops of it for 70 people fortunate enough to be friends of the Gunns.

Good Pickings

Lest you conjure a heartwrenching picture of Louis handcranking night and day for the starving throng, we hasten to add it was done by electric power.

To the strumming of Mexican musicians, a singer and a dancer, the guests happily spooned the cold velvety stuff and forked into several kinds of cake like grandma used to bake.

You know the old bromide about the third time being a charm. Well, Gladys and Frank Calvin aren't so sure of that charm business. When Gertrude and Will Winston made their third trip recently to the Calvin's home in Sitka, Alaska, that most excellent territory — er, state-to-be — had a severe earthquake. Gertrude told her sister it was the worst she could recall since that memorable day here in '33. She did the reminiscing after the front porch quit rock and rolling.

For the Winstons the trip to Alaska was more like going home. That's where Gertrude grew up, married Will . . . and their first two children, now Lorraine Fulton and Willa Gilmore, were born in Alaska.

Reunion greetings eventually graduated to warm and cool discussions about Alaska's proposed statehood. The Winstons got to the core of things by conversing with the Calvins and later Will's nephews and their wives, Cy and Mary Steers and Ed and Norma Winston of Ketchikan.

Click click clicketyclickclick! Get the message? Not Morse code, ninny. Can't you interpret a secretary's sidekick, the typewriter? We heard it ratatattling on some members of Queen Beach chapter, National Secretaries Assn.

Beverly and D. G. Samuel have a new young future secretary, Debra Lynn, and so do Charlene and F. W. Tritten who, it is rumored, swear that they can read the shorthand scrawls of young Heidi Ann. It translates something like "I yike you. I yike this house. I'm hungry now."

Secretary's Life

Instead of writing the chapter news bulletin as she did last year, Lou Burger decided to make some news of her own this year. She and Don Reichert will be married Aug. 30 at St. Bartholomew's, and then trip off to Hawaii in a wake of rice.

Wedded to a typewriter most of the year, Betty Willcoxen who is wedded all the time to Bill, took a leave from office procedure (that includes high heels, nylons and all the et ceteras) to camp out in Nature's Colorado office.

NOW YOU TAKE the neighbors up around 3900 Myrtle Ave. They're not the backslapping, "hi, neighbor" variety with a practical joke up one sleeve and hopes of borrowing the lawn edger up the other. But neither do they ignore the door chimes or stare without recognition at persons who are chalking up their umpteenth year next door.

Fine neighbors!

Up in that particular neighborhood they relish each other as neighbors. The warm regard they have for newcomers was evidenced last Sunday night when Bill and Petain Minshall found themselves guests of honor because they had moved from one part of Bixby Knolls to the Myrtle Ave. block. To their house at 3929 came the invitation from Naomi and Stan Kelso to get acquainted over dinner with all the others. Party was right next door at the Kelso abode, 3935. And not only was the welcome mat spread, but everyone's map was spread with welcome.

"IT WAS TIME for a visit to Long Beach, so I just took a plane from Washington and arrived here Tuesday; I didn't even tell Tom until Friday night." Thus spoke our talented and lovely Virginia Weldon Kelly who reports the social and political life in our nation's capital on the women's and editorial pages of these newspapers. (Tom is her retired admiral hubby.) The popular pair spent many years of their in-service life here . . . so of course they know practically as many people in Long Beach as in Washington. Virginia says she really is trying to get a brief rest . . . between press conferences, embassy and legation parties, VIP gatherings, entertaining their own Southland friends who are in the city, plus their own social group . . . she deserves a rest. Tom arrived Saturday and they will stay another week at the Lafayette before taking off again. This is just to let all of her friends know that if Virginia doesn't call it's because she's gathering strength to get back to her fascinating job of reporting!

FALL VOWS PLANNED

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. von KleinSmid have announced the engagement and fall wedding plans of their daughter, Shirley, and Ricardo Novo of San Francisco and Buenos Aires, Argentina. The bride-elect was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Scripps College where she was president of the junior class, and vice president of the student body in her senior year. Her fiance was graduated from the Universidad Central de Buenos Aires. The pair will reside in San Francisco following an October marriage in Long Beach.

Honor Judy Rupert With Party Whirl

The weeks immediately preceding her marriage to Melvin Rowan have been crowded with parties honoring Judy Rupert.

Her maid of honor, Kathie Flanagan, and two bridesmaids, Barbara Baker and Barbara Dunn Kepler, invited college friends and sorority sisters of the bride-elect to a kitchen shower in Mrs. Charlton Dunn's Arcadia home. Pink and blue appointments were used for the late afternoon party.

Friends of her fiance's mother, Mrs. H. Leo Rowan, feted Judy at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower in the Petroleum Club at Ricart's. Mmes. Burke Khaplan Milton Franklyn, Archie Lloyd, Harold Sloan, David Schneider, Irving Siris, Ted Phillips and Hody Lane, hostesses, circled tables with pink and white bouquets and the honoree cut a pink and white cake inscribed "Judy and Mel."

OUT-OF-TOWN guests were bidden to another luncheon given by Mrs. Harry Cramer at Welch's. Bridesmaids Paula Chace and Lois Baker asked longtime school friends to a brunch and personal shower at the latter's home, 3900 Lemon Ave. Blue and white floral arrangements were placed about the rooms and gifts were arranged on a table decorated in blue and white to simulate a bouffant half-slip.

Paula Chace, bride-elect of Ralph Irwin, shared honors with Judy when Mrs. Sandra O'Malley entertained at luncheon in her home.

Missing Husbands

By ILKA CHASE

The pressures under which we live are mounting, and inevitably they take their toll.

There comes to most of us a time when we have to escape from the routines, the fears and frustrations that beset us. Some people make a temporary getaway by becoming ill. They are taken care of, they can shed for a while their responsibilities. Extreme cases escape into madness. The rich go round the world, the poor seek refuge in daydreams and some people simply disappear. The ones who disappear the most are married men between the ages of 40 and 50.

Dan Eisenberg, president of Tracers Co. of America, is an old hand at dealing with that vanishing American, the middle-aged husband. He agrees that kids and teenagers run away, "but they usually turn up at supper time or within two or three days at the latest."

The dedicated runaway is, if not adult, at least a grown person and a pause-giving statistic is the one stating that in the first six months of 1958 there was a 55 per cent increase in disappearing husbands over the same period in 1957. By the end of June, 8,650 had flown the coop.

* * * *

THE AUTOMATIC first reaction of most wives is another woman. The truth is less flattering. Another woman in the picture is extremely rare. The truth seems to be that in the fourth decade of their lives many men are fed to the teeth with women as a sex, their own little one leading the parade.

At the risk of being stoned I must admit to a sneaking sympathy for the poor guy who has "had" it. Adulation of the common man is currently the mode, but the common man is the one least equipped to cope with his civilization. One has to be uncommonly tough and well-balanced, endowed with a sound sense of the ridiculous to keep from going stark mad.

Eisenberg's company finds that economic factors are, as a rule, a strong goad to the runaway husband, but they are by no means the only one. As he points out, one usually has to have achieved the middle years in order also to have achieved the wherewithal with which to take it on the lam. No, it isn't financial pressure necessarily or exclusively. The standardization of life today goes a long way toward getting a fellow down. The standardization of his home, his mechanical contrivances, of his business and his social life.

COMES THE moment, and apparently it comes more frequently to men than to women, when a human being says to himself, "I am 40, I am 45, half my life has slipped away and what have I done? Where have I been? What became of the high hopes of my youth?" And in longing or desperation he lights out.

Perhaps the dream world will materialize on a boat off the Florida coast or in the peaks of the High Sierra. Maybe, just maybe, the girl who is gay and gentle and never nags will be there too, and if she isn't, it's just as well. He is free. Sure the kids are great, but in Shangri-La there are no dentist's bills, no adenoids and no exclusive summer camps. There the roof never leaks and if you don't belong to the country club, who cares? Perhaps, after all, it isn't too late to grasp the great adventure. So off they go, these husbands, high-hearted or desperate and 85 per cent of them are quickly traced and return, not too unwillingly, to narrow pasture. That is the saddest part of all.

A large portion of the success of any tracer company or missing persons bureau is due to the fact that we never run away from ourselves. A man's tastes or hobbies do not change. If he was a fight fan or a tennis fan at home, if he liked Chinese food or gay sports shirts, he will still cotton to them in Timbucktu. Your bourbon drinker rarely will switch to rum unless perchance he is in the Virgin Islands and rum is cheaper and more plentiful.

* * * *

ALSO, LABOR unions are great nets of catching a wandering mate. Nowadays you scarcely can get a job unless you are a member of something. You always can change your name, but then what about your Social Security card? Welfare is a box.

Still, running away always will have two great appeals. It is a last chance and it is not illegal. Unless a man's wife and family should become a public charge. Then if caught he can be hauled into court and forced to support them, but if financially they can manage without him, while he may be a cad he is not a criminal.

Carol McGrew Wed

Soft rays of sunset filtered into the Wayfarers' Chapel Friday at dusk when 275 guests gathered for the wedding of Miss Carol McGrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Milton McGrew, 301 E. Bixby Rd., and William Gordon Plested III, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon Plested II of Wichita, Kan.

White tapers and white satin ribbons were delicate contrast to the verdant foliage moving gently outside the all-glass enclosure. Lighted for the solemn ceremony, the tapers cast a soft glow upon the bridal gown of ivory satin with an off-shoulder neckline traced with clipped lace flowers. The lace design was repeated about the bride's slender waist. The gown was worn by the bride's two older sisters at their weddings.

* * * *

COMPLETING THE bridal attire was a crown of pearls and satin confining the folds of an illusion veil and a bouquet of white orchids and lillies of the valley.

For her matron of honor the bride asked Mrs. Dennis Stimson. Bridesmaids were Misses Judith Plested, Karen Olsen and Barbara Bower.

All were gowned in spring coral peau de soie with harem skirts and satin cummerbunds. Their shoes and satin bow headbands matched. Little Lisa Robertson, flower girl, preceded the bridal party.

Chosen to serve as best man was William Gaunt. Wedding guests were escorted to their places by Messrs. Duane Hampton, Ray Harrell and Al Carrey. Gregory Mahone was the ring bearer.

Following the ceremony guests wended their way back to Long Beach for a gala wedding reception at the Virginia Country Club.

THE NEWLYWEDS will honeymoon in Colorado before going on to Lawrence, Kan., where both will attend the University of Kansas this fall. The new Mrs. Plested was graduated from Wilson High School and attended the University of Colorado for three years before her marriage. She was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi.

The bridegroom represented the third generation in his family to attend the University of Colorado. A Delta Tau Delta there, he was graduated from that university and will enter the University of Kansas medical school in early September.

The bride's maternal grandfather and grandmother are the late Senator and Mrs. J. A. Rominger of Long Beach. Her paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McGrew who came to this city in 1901.

CVO--Open Door to Joy Through Community Service

well benefit from the volunteers' service. Calls come from the Board of Education, Tuberculosis and Health Association, Long Beach Heart Association, American Cancer Society, Exceptional Children's Foundation, Multiple Sclerosis Drive—from dozens of groups—for aid in campaigns and special projects. No one organization could hire enough clerical help to do their work—even with CVO's total budget.

Established in 1948 by the Junior League of Long Beach as a tentative project, CVO immediately proved the need for a liaison office to recruit volunteers and direct their interests to community agencies, to coordinate volunteer service with agency needs and to counsel clubs and organizations on ways to serve their community. Through annual "Community Understanding Tours" the general public is informed of health, welfare and recreation needs and services.

* * * *

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE continued financial sponsorship until CVO could stand on its own feet two years ago and 10 Junior Leaguers each week still work in the office, which is open from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. Policy is set by a board of 23 directors, headed by Ernest Belcher. Mrs. Clara Andrews, executive secretary for eight years, recently was elected regional vice president of the National Association of Volunteer Bureaus which unites the 42 Community Volunteer offices in the United States.

Each week new demands are made on the Long Beach organization — and each week are answered by its workers, carefully screened for most effective placement. Recently California Youth Authority appealed for foster homes. CVO relayed the need through a newspaper story and 50 immediate calls assured affectionate care for boys ready to try again to be good citizens.

* * * *

EVERY TALENT, ability and training is needed and used by the CVO, but the volunteers have found that happiness, like the mythical, magic wine pitcher of Greek legend, cannot be exhausted —the more you give away the more you have.

In his 1937 coronation broadcast King George VI said it this way:

"The highest of distinctions is service to others."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning put it more loftily:

"A child's kiss
Set on thy sighing lips shall make thee glad;
A poor man served by thee shall make thee rich;
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest."

Ebell Brunch on Wednesday

Something for the Boys

Ol' Ted Deplores the Sloppy Tourist

By TED KREC

You know, I'm awfully glad that I don't live on Catalina Island. I don't think I could stand it—seeing those excursion boats full of ill-dressed clowns arriving daily.

I do not say this on the spur of the moment, it is no off-hand remark, for I, too, have taken the steamer trip to Avalon and know whereof I speak.

And then, just recently, a friend of mine went over to the island with two little boys. She took the lads over on the steamer, and upon her return confided to me that never had she seen such complete disregard for good taste in clothes as that evidenced by her fellow passengers. The two little boys with her were the best-dressed men on board.

I feel sorry for the islanders, but I'll bet they get a big chuckle out of seeing the boat come in. When the sightseers pile off in their lunatic garb it must be a scene similar to World War II days when this country was importing unfortunate and penniless refugees from Europe.

* * * *

THERE'S ONLY one difference—people who go to Catalina aren't penniless and should know better than to go over there looking like frights.

No, Camembert, you DON'T have to wear a full-dress suit for a day on Catalina! Neat sport clothes will do nicely, for after all, it IS a resort. But, please note, I said NEAT.

Just because you're going over to the island is no reason to dress like a lout, and yet that's exactly what many people do. If they're going swimming a goodly number will wear just swimsuits or swimsuits with those ridiculous flowered two-piece ensembles on top of them.

What's wrong with wearing a nice sport coat, sport shirt and slacks and carrying your bathing suit along? Then, if you decide to go into a nice restaurant and eat, you won't look like a fool. Honest to Pete, I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see some dolt on the steamer clad in swim trunks, goggles, oxygen mask and swim fins, looking for all the world like an AWOL frogman.

Many sartorial sins are committed daily in the name of leisure or outdoor living. There are clothes designed specifically for these purposes and these should be worn; a man should not delve into his closet for his most rag-tag pair of old fishing pants and the T-shirt he wore when he repaired the car just because he's going to Catalina.

But tourists are a peculiar bunch. They like to go to beauty spots but they do nothing to make them more beautiful. In fact, they do a lot to make them look worse. Consider for example what happened a few years ago at Gettysburg, Pa. This, of course, is a Civil War shrine and a spot of great beauty. But the United States government, frantic over vandalism, wrote down all the names and addresses inscribed by thoughtless persons in the rest rooms and assessed them for a clean-up job!

* * * *

RIDICULOUS? Not at all in a nation where the latest craze centers around a fiendish device called a Hula Hoop. In case you haven't seen one of these madcap toys, it is just what the name says—a hoop of plastic. It is laid on over the shoulders, encircling the body, and then the wearer begins a mad gyration to keep the thing spinning around his waist and hips.

I thought we had seen the last of Elvis when they took him into the Army and painted his guitar olive drab, but after watching the thousands of Hula Hoop fans I fear we are spawning a whole new generation of Presleys, for their mad performances would out-Elvis Elvis himself.

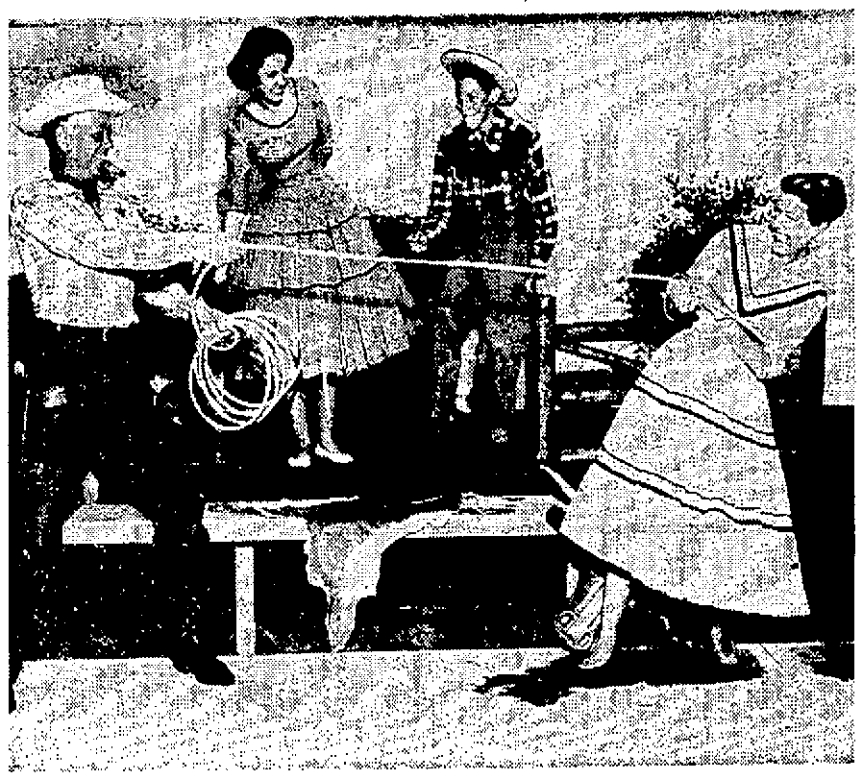

These wild spasms of the human trunk are supposed to be good for us, however I fear that if I tried it, Doc Cowley would have to restitch my recent operation.

But back to Catalina, if you're planning a trip over there to see the sights, dress up a little bit and give the islanders something nice to look at, too.

SWING YOUR PARTNER!

Hand clappin', toe tappin' rhythm by Jimmy Talbert's Band is sure to inspire some fancy stepping Saturday night when Petroleum Club members "ride the range" at their annual family chuck wagon dinner at the club. Enjoying the fun are the Westergards' daughter, Paddy, and Gary Chandler, son of the Charles Chandlers.—(Staff)

Western Fete at Petroleum Club Saturday

Family-size tables covered with red checkered cloths will be centered with familiar brand insignias, and red and blue bandanas also featured in decor will be given as favors.

* * * *

WIELDING the branding irons to prepare the decorations will be Petroleum Club wives, Mmes. Irving Dumm, Frank Ausburn, Herbert Ausburn and Orville Hastings.

Following typical chuck wagon fare, guests will be invited to swing their partners to the music of Jimmy Talbert and his band. Sixteen square dancers from the South Coast Assn. of Square Dance Clubs, directed by Urb Tretter, will entertain.

General arrangements are under the direction of "ranch foremen" Onos Lindsay, Wayne Dunn and Francis Tholen.

School Romance Leads to Altar

A romance which began when Nicoline Ann Kahler and James Oakley Pittman were students at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex., culminated in their marriage Aug. 3, wedding anniversary date of the bride's grandparents.

A profusion of yellow and white chrysanthemums, stocks and gladioli in tall white baskets flanked the altar of California Heights Community Methodist Church for the double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. James H. Hughes before 200 guests. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kahler, 4125 Virginia Rd.; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oakley H. Pittman of Dallas.

* * * *

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the young bride wore a traditional gown of Chantilliy lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. Appliqued motifs of lace were scattered on the full skirt which extended into a fan-shaped chapel train. Her floor-length veil of French silk illusion fell from a cap of matching lace and she wore her bridegroom's gift, a single strand of pearls. Tucked within her bouquet, a corsage of white roses and satin streamers tied with stephanotis atop a white Bible, was an imported heirloom lace handkerchief, gift of her godmother, Mrs. George Gifford.

* * * *

PRECEDING the bride to the altar were maid of honor Paula Smith and bridesmaids Sharon Brimmer, Connie Lu Berg and Mrs. Gabrielle Davies. They were gowned identically in aqua chiffon over taffeta designed with full ballerina-length skirts and shirred waists which draped off the shoulders and molded into tight midriffs. They wore floral headpieces and carried white wicker baskets filled with champagne carnations and Gloria roses. Petite flower girl Leigh Eppling scattered yellow and white petals from a basket of Goldilock roses.

The bridegroom asked his father to serve as best man and his brother, David Pittman, to join Charles Pyron, Richard Brown and Stephen Smith in ushering.

At the conclusion of the church reception, the wedding entourage and out-of-town guests drove to the Kahler home where Mrs. Gilford, Miss Clara Latschar, Mrs. Maurice Brimmer and Mrs. Margaret Bennett acted as hostesses for a buffet dinner served to 50 guests.

Needs Air, too

Many new refrigerators and freezers fit squarely into tight corners. But experts warn of shoving such equipment into too tight a niche. To remove heat from the condenser, air must circulate around the freezer or refrigerator.

Needs Some Help

A "do-it-yourself" fan often needs a little help. Share your plastic kitchen wrap with him. It will help preserve putty and plaster in their moist state. Also it keeps wet paint brushes pliable for day-to-day painting projects.

Nazareth Shrine

Social Club of Nazareth Shrine Eight will meet at noon Monday for a paid luncheon in the home of Mrs. Fred Hancock, 810 Obispo Ave. Mrs. Gladys Jordan will be chairman.

Parties Fete Bride-to-Be

Miss Mona Haberman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry E. Haberman, 4420 Hazelbrook Ave., who will exchange wedding vows with Walter R. Babcock Aug. 23, has been feted at a recent series of parties.

First of the affairs was a luncheon and miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Herbert H. Lockwood, 4421 Hazelbrook Ave. A jeweled pink sprinkling can, holding an arrangement of pink carnations and white stock, sprayed a shower of silver streamers onto the gaily wrapped gifts. Lace bells and tulle bows were suspended from the crystal chandelier above the beautifully appointed luncheon table.

* * * *

PINK ROSES and hearts set the theme at an evening miscellaneous shower complimenting the bride-to-be and hostessed by Miss Judith Cochran, her mother, Mrs. J. W. Cochran, Mrs. L. W. Chaffee and Miss Charlene Anthony in the Cochran home, 2746 Knoxville Ave.

Pink umbrellas gave a charming effect to the patio luncheon given by Mrs. Edwin Hanny in the Park Estates home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Daubney, when she was hostess at a miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. Gordon Tiller chose silver slippers as her theme when members of Mrs. Haberman's bridge club honored the bride-elect with the presentation of a personal gift during a bridge luncheon in the Tiller home, 5330 Village Rd.

Mmes. C. J. Lamb, Floyd Ray and Oscar Dryer selected a lantern motif in pastel shades for their evening party in the Lamb garden, 3972 Rose Ave., when members of Chapter DP of PEO gathered to present Miss Haberman with their favorite recipes as well as the chapter gift.

* * * *

CLEVER invitations in the form of a recipe brought former Wilson High School friends together for a kitchen shower in the patio at the home of Mrs. James P. Nielsen, 4359 Iroquois Ave. Passion flowers and pink hibiscus floating in a crystal bowl centered the buffet table which furthered the pink theme.

The bride-elect entertained Saturday for her attendants at a luncheon in the home of her parents. Honored guests were Miss Judith Cochran, Miss Lynne McCulloch, Mrs. James P. Nielsen, Miss Bethcen Smith of Bartley, Neb., and Miss Charlene Anthony of Sidney, Neb. Miss Anthony, who will be maid of honor, and the bride-elect were roommates and Alpha Chi Omega Sorority sisters at University of Nebraska.

Climaxing the festivities will be a buffet supper given by parents of the prospective bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Babcock, 5802 Parkcrest St., following the wedding rehearsal.

Gollnick-Jones Names Join

Intricately patterned Chantilly lace combined with pure silk organza and tulle over bridal taffeta fashioned the beautiful gown selected by Dolores Louise Gollnick for her recent marriage to Clifton S. Jones Jr. in Hillside Church, Whittier.

The bride's gown featured high beaded Elizabethian collar, long pointed sleeves and fitted bodice embroidered in seed pearls. The V waistline held a full swirling skirt of lace over tulle in a peplum which formed the full-length cathedral train. Her headpiece, a handmade tiny jeweled queen's crown, held her three-tiered fingertip-length veil of illusion. Escorted to the altar by her father, she completed her ensemble with a crescent bouquet of Japhell orchids and stephanotis. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Gollnick of La Mirada.

• • • •

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS, Mrs. Philip Jay Smith, matron of honor, and Mrs. Charles Michael Jones and Miss Helen Wilson, bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of shrimp colored silk shantung combined with nylon organdy and silk organza over taffeta. They carried crescent bouquets of shrimp carnations with stephanotis.

Laurel Ann Smith, flower girl, wore pale yellow crystaline over taffeta and carried a miniature bridesmaid's bouquet of yellow carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton S. Jones, 4103 Country Club Dr., invited Charles Michael Jones to attend as best man and Philip Jay Smith and Roy Otto to usher.

A lavish reception followed in Los Coyotes Country Club, owned by the bridegroom's father, where the wedding cake featured two live lovebirds in a cage atop the third tier. Champagne was served from a silver champagne fountain.

THE NEWLYWEDS departed via helicopter from the country club for International Airport where they boarded a plane for a honeymoon at Hawaiian Village in Hawaii before moving into their new home in Bellehurst.

The new Mrs. Jones was graduated in 1956 from Long Beach State College and prior to her marriage was a member of Long Beach Bachelorettes. She will resume her first grade teaching position in the East Whittier Elementary School District in September.

Her husband, a junior AIA, currently is attending the graduate school of architecture at USC where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta. He attended Menlo and Long Beach Junior Colleges, Long Beach State College, and was graduated from USC School of Business Administration.

LADY LIONS LUAU

A gay "aloha" will greet members and guests of West Long Beach Lady Lions Club when they travel to the secluded garden of the Hayden Bolander home, 4345 Linden Ave., Saturday evening to enjoy their annual luau. The illusion of old Hawaii will be created by the luau torch and other decor shown here by (left to right) Mmes. Newlywed Pair Feted at Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rickey entertained 100 guests Saturday evening at a reception in their home, 445 W. 5th St., honoring their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Rex Nowling Jr., who were married July 11 in Gretna Green Chapel, Las Vegas.

The bride, the former Carol Marie Rickey, wore her wedding dress — a white lace sheath over ice blue taffeta with chiffon drape—in greeting guests.

• • • •

ASSISTING the bride's parents in hosting duties were Mmes. Willis Bon, Byron Bailey, Ronald Munson, James Rickey, Edwin Meade, Don Harmon and Misses Marjory Jenning and Elizabeth Bulkley. The newlyweds cut the first slice of a tiered pink and white wedding cake.

The new Mrs. Nowling was graduated from Polytechnic High School and California College of Commerce. Her bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Nowling of Clearwater, Fla., received his schooling in that city and recently was discharged from the Navy.

Carol Ann Davis Weds

Seed pearls and sequins traced the scoop neckline and bodice on the attractive gown chosen by Carol Ann Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Davis of Long Beach, for her recent marriage to J. Ivan Schuler Jr., also of Long Beach.

The double-ring nuptials were read by Dr. George O. Peck in North Long Beach Brethren Church with 400 guests in attendance.

The bride's dress was of embroidered tulle over tiered tulle and satin with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her crown, aglow with seed pearls and sequins, held her fingertip-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, roses and stephanotis centered by a single white orchid.

Dresses of yellow cotton-satin were selected for bridal attendants, Mrs. Mary Goff, matron of honor, and Mrs. Bill Barnes, Mrs. Charles Course, and Misses Marilynn and Carolynn Kingston, bridesmaids. All carried baskets of white daisies.

Our Children

Take Kiddies Places During Vacation

By ANGELO PATRI

Children freed from school routine are likely to want to be taken places. They are indefinite about where they want to go but "going" is the idea.

This is an opportunity for parents (those who have a bit of time to spare) to take the children to visit places that are worthwhile seeing.

Strange as it may seem, until one thinks about it, there are places in one's home town that they have never seen. A monument in a park, a famous garden, a harbor view or a trip across it on a ferry, the museum. Some towns have children's museums well worth the seeing. There is, for example, a fine one in Fort Worth, Tex., and I am sure, others I do not know about throughout the country.

* * * *

SUCH MUSEUMS have collections that interest school children, special classes during the week and in vacation time, too, in the charge of experts. A visit to any children's museum will not only make the children happy but will give the accompanying parent a pleasant and profitable hour spent with interesting things and people and their own youngsters.

Then there are the big museums like the famous American Museum of Natural History, and the great Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York City, and other like ones in the big cities of other states. Stopping off when on a cross-country trip to visit these museums will be richly rewarding. There is always a place in them where one can rest weary feet. And, as they are huge, so big and extensive that it is impossible to "do" any of them in a short time, there are guides to tell you about, or take you to, the rooms that have most interest to you.

Our country is so rich in "places to go" that no vacationing child should go unsatisfied in his longing to "go." To have a definite place and purpose in the going adds to the interest in getting there and ends in satisfaction of achievement.

* * * *

LOOK OVER the possibilities in the home town. They are there. There are old houses with histories. There are old roads over which the pioneers traveled, highways and backroads carrying signs set there by the historical societies that our children would do well to read and think about.

There is reason in the children's wanting places to go and their elders would do themselves and the youngsters a real kindness to acquaint themselves with a list of the best places. A knowledge of the master works of the pioneers in art, history, religion and politics is enriching. Do take them places.

Medically-Tested Treatment Banishes Blackheads, Whiteheads, Oiliness, Coarse Pores
Only Helena Rubinstein could have created this treatment for you. Before she ever worked in cosmetics, her interest in the study of medicine led her to specialize in the problems of disturbed skins. It was then put to controlled medical tests on a group of women, men and teenage boys and girls with typical blackhead conditions. Just see what happened after a single treatment! Blackheads and whiteheads washed off onto a washcloth. Excess oil dissolved. Enlarged pores looked finer. In two weeks of treatment, magnifying mirrors showed complete transformations from blackhead-loaded skins to clearer, fresher looking complexions.
Helena Rubinstein's Medicated Beauty Treatment
As simple as one-two-three—just three steps...Enlarged pores are an open invitation to blemishes. Your first step is DEEP CLEANSER, a creamy liquid that cleanses deep into the pores and dislodges even the dirt "glued" in by oil—while its exclusive antiseptic R-57 destroys the bacteria that commonly cause surface blemishes.
Step two heals and clears with MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK. Its medications are the self-same ones prescribed by dermatologists as effective in healing surface blemishes. "Unmasking" was a momentous thrill for the women tested. As they washed off the mask they actually washed off blackheads and saw a clearer, smoother, blemish-free complexion emerge!
Last is a tingling skin bath of "WATER LILY" PORE LOTION which quickly helps tighten the pores, leaving a more delicate texture, fresher color.
"My skin never looked really 'pretty' before. Now it does," says Miss Charlotte Kirk, who lives in New York City.
"It's helped me a lot. I don't feel so self-conscious," says Allen Boick of West 53rd St., N. Y. C.
When those blackheads wash off like so many dirt specks, you'll know there's nothing for your skin like Helena Rubinstein's complete MEDICATED BEAUTY CARE. Helena Rubinstein personally guarantees full satisfaction when used as directed or your money will be refunded.
2. HEAL AND CLEAR troubled skin with Helena Rubinstein's MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK. In 10 minutes wash off mask—wash away blackheads! Skin is clearer, finer, with a smoother finish.
1. "STERILE"-CLEANSE, soften with Helena Rubinstein's DEEP CLEANSER containing exclusive antiseptic R-57. It rids pores of dirt, "sterilizes" against bacteria.
3. HELP TIGHTEN PORES with a skin bath of Helena Rubinstein's "WATER LILY" PORE LOTION. Tightens pores, heightens color, vitalizes complexion. Treatment done—see the difference!

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

The following is a release from the San Francisco Opera Co. announcing plans for the opera season at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

With a galaxy of internationally famous singers, new and revived productions lavishly staged and costumed, the San Francisco Opera will present its 22nd Los Angeles season in Shrine Auditorium Oct. 24 to Nov. 9.

The season will open with "La Boheme" in honor of the centennial of Giacomo Puccini's birth. The poignant work had its American premiere in Los Angeles 61 years ago in October.

American stage premieres of three operas, Cherubini's "Medea" and double bill of Carl Orff's "Wise Maiden" and "Carmina Burana," have inspired special interest in the season.

* * * *

NEW TO THE San Francisco Opera repertoire is Verdi's "Don Carlo." Revivals with new decor and staging and production of old favorites includes the following:

Rossini's "Barber of Seville"; Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore"; Smetana's comic "Bartered Bride," Wagner's "Tannhauser," Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," and on a double bill Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" and the Richard Strauss "Electra."

There is special luster to the season in the most brilliant importation of artists ever to come from Europe to the United States in a single season.

The United States debuts with the San Francisco Opera season include Italian soprano Eugenia Ratti, baritone Rolando Panerai and bass Giuseppe Modesti; German tenor Sebastion Feiersinger, French Ernest Blanc, baritone and Dutch bass Arnold Van Mill.

* * * *

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA debuts also include Lisa Della Casa, strikingly attractive Swiss singer who has been a leading soprano of the Vienna Opera since 1947 and of the Metropolitan Opera in 1953. She will sing the role of Mimi in the opening night opera "La Boheme" in Los Angeles.

Christel Goltz, German star, specializes in Strauss roles and sings regularly in Cologne, Dusseldorf, Munich, Salzburg, Cannes and Monte Carlo. She made her Met debut in 1954.

Soprano Joan Moynagh, Irish-American, has leading roles with the Boris Goldovsky group in the Eastern United States. Mezzo Irene Dalis is a dramatic mezzo from San Jose who has won remarkable acclaim in Europe, is member of the Berlin Opera and last season made a successful debut at the Met. She made her Hollywood Bowl debut Thursday. Mezzo Cecilia Ward is a gifted American singer who has appeared on NBC Television Opera and the New York City Center Opera.

Also new to San Francisco Opera are Tenors Piero Miranda Ferraro, Robert Thomas, and Richard Miller; Lawrence Winters, baritone; John Gillaspy and Richard Wentworth, basses.

* * * *

RETURNING AFTER an absence are Eileen Farrell, soprano; Jussi Bjoerling, tenor; Robert Weede, Frank Guarrera, Louis Quilico, baritones; Georgi Tozzi, bass and Salvatore Baccaloni, basso buffa.

Last season's returnees include Leyla Gencer, Dorothy Kirsten, Leontyne Price, Leonie Rysanek, Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Sylvia Stahlman, sopranos; Claramae Turner, contralto; Virginio Assandri, Howard Fried, Richard Lewis, Gianni Raimondi, tenors; Harold Enns and Colin Harvey, baritones; Lorenzo Alvary, bass.

In the conducting department are several newcomers: Leopold Ludwig will be here en route from the winter season at Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires. Bohemian by birth, he is general musical director of the Hamburg State Opera and appears simultaneously as guest conductor at both Berlin opera houses.

Jean Fournet, born in Rouen, France, studied at the Paris Conservatoire. Since 1954 he has been music director of the Opera Comique.

Returning conductors are Francesco, Molinari, Pradelli and Glauco Curiel, and Dr. Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the company. Gianni Lazzari returns as chorus director. Lew and William Christensen and Ghita Hager are choreographers for ballet sequences.

Give Music Top Priority

Van Cliburn is among the great recording artists now. His playing of Tchaikovski's "Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor" may be borrowed from the Long Beach Public Library, along with long-playing recordings of other famous pianists such as Geza Anda playing Schumann "Etudes Symphoniques"; Walter Gieseking playing Brahm's "Klavierstucke";

Van Cliburn

Wanda Landowska performing Mozart's "Sonata in D Major for Piano" and Gary Graffman playing Schumann selections.

* * * *

CONCERTS "under the stars" may be heard at home with the help of borrowed recordings. These old favorites are on the new LP list: Albeniz, "Iberia" (Ormandy conducting); Beethoven, "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor" (Koussevitzky conducting); Brahms, "Symphony No. 3 in F Major" (Fritz Reiner conducting); Holst, "The Planets" (Stokowski conducting); Ravel, "Rhapsodie Espagnole" (Rodzinski conducting) and Tchaikovski, "Nutcracker Suite No. 1" (Toscanini conducting).

East, West, Art Shows Abound

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

From historic murals to decorative kitchen towels is the road traveled by Ivan Bartlett, former Long Beach artist, now in New York.

Bartlett's murals decorate a number of Southern California public buildings, including Polytechnic High School.

His original tablecloths and amusing kitchen towels are featured in the National Linen Trade Show in Hotel Commodore, New York.

Among those shown are "Bounty," groups of fruits and flowers in autumn colors, "Festival," Provincial design with motifs taken from old French prints in fresh modern colors, and "Garden Fresh," brghtly-colored hexagons enclosing tomatoes, peppers and artichokes.

Reproductions of Bartlett's designs appear in leading national newspapers and magazines, especially his coordinated blanket, sheet and bath towel designs.

Bartlett's philosophy of design is based on the conviction that the use of good art in decorative design for household furnishings enriches the daily living patterns of the American home.

PAINTINGS BY Californians and of California scenes dominate the international works of the fourth Hallmark Art Award competition in the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery, Barnsdall Park.

First and second prize paintings are of California-inspired scenes. Three other American artists whose works are represented are California-born.

Edward Hopper, 75, American artist, captured first prize of $2,000 with his painting of the Pacific Palisades area, "California Hills." "Two Against the White," the second place winner of $1,000, is an impressionistic work by Charles Sheller, 74, resulting from two months' travel in northern California.

Millard Sheets, director of

the Los Angeles County Art Institute, is represented in the 50 piece collection by "The Gift Bearers." Sheets is a native of Pomona and lives in Claremont.

Workshop Tells Leads for 'Carousel' in Fall

Snatches of songs repeated over and over from a downtown studio these warm summer evenings mean that Singers' Workshop is in enthusiastic preparation for the fall production, Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical romance, "Carousel."

Long Beach's widely acclaimed musical theater company has assembled an impressive cast of Southland talent for the production to be staged the second week in October in Municipal Auditorium.

Leading characters are John Blackmon, Billy; Delores Burt, Julie; Kaye Elhardt, Carrie; Edward Clark, Mr. Snow; Bob Kyber, Jigger; Jeanette Tracy, Nettie; Ruth Gartler, Mrs. Mullin; Arthur Carah, starkeeper; Dick Hunter, Mr. Bascombe; and Bobbie Miller, Louise.

The cast, company of singers and dancers will total at least 60 persons.

"Carousel" is guided by the trio that made the spring show, "Kiss Me, Kate" an outstanding production. James Brittain, associate producer at MGM is directing; Lauris Jones, conductor of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the music, and Albert Ruiz, choreographer, is supervising the dance numbers.

Reserved seats for "Carousel" are now available. Further information may be obtained by calling the Dance-Drama Center, 518 E. 4th St.

At the Bowl

This week's attractions at Hollywood Bowl are as follows:

Tues., Aug. 19 — Eugene Ormandy, conductor; Rudolf Serkin, pianist, soloist.

Wed., Aug. 20—Jazz Night —Count Basie and Anita O'Day.

Thurs., Aug. 21 — Eugene Ormandy, conductor; George London, baritone, soloist.

Sat., Aug. 23—Fiesta, song and dance presentation. Carmen Dragon conducting.

Opera House Rebuilt

The framework of the new Berlin Opera House has been completed. Located on Bismarckstrasse, on the site of the former opera house which was almost completely destroyed in a 1943 air raid, the new building will be ready for the opening of the 1960-61 opera season.

Shakespeare's Life on Film

A color film, "Shakespeare," which has been filmed entirely in England, will be shown at a Patio "Pop" Concert at Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., on Thursday at dusk.

The life of William Shakespeare is traced from his boyhood in Stratford through his career in the London theater. There are excerpts from some of his plays.

"An Impression of London," a color film which portrays a round-the-clock typical London day, will be shown on the same program.

On recordings Shakespearean songs will be sung and Stanley Holloway presents humorous English songs.

Care for Hi-Fi

According to statistics it is men who buy the hi-fi equipment as well as the records, but they leave its care and upkeep to the women. One of the most important problems she has is to know about the care of the needle, since faulty ones can ruin the most expensive records.

Although many people believe that the diamond needle is "permanent," the truth is that there is no such thing as a permanent needle. A diamond one may have 1,500 hours of play as against 20 hours of another type needle.

Chopin Manuscripts

Representatives of Poland's Frederic Chopin Society have acquired 55 pages of Chopin manuscripts in Paris. The manuscripts will be used for a new edition of Chopin's collected works now in preparation under the editorship of the pianist, Jan Ekier.

A monument to Chopin, modeled after the one built in 1926 and destroyed by the Nazis in 1940, was recently unveiled in Warsaw's Lazienki Park. Chopin Year will be in 1960 to mark the 150th anniversary of the composer's birth.

New Post

Ralph Berkowitz, pianist and dean of the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood, Mass., has been appointed manager of the Albuquerque Civic Symphony of New Mexico.

Readings for 'Winslow Boy' Today

Tryouts for roles in "The Winslow Boy" which will star actor John Carradine will take place today at 1:30 p. m. in The Magnolia Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

The play will open Sept. 16, playing for a four week period, weekly Tuesday through Sunday.

In the cast are four women ranging in ages from 20 to 40 and five men between 20 and 60. One of the central roles is for a teen-age boy.

Readings are open to the general public for both experienced and unexperienced performers. Those interested in assisting in backstage work are also invited to attend.

"The Winslow Boy" by Terrence Rattigen is the story of a prominent English barrister's belief in the innocence of a young school boy expelled from a boy's school on a minor theft charge and the effects his fight for justice invokes on all principals involved. The setting is England preceding World War I. English accents for roles are desirable but not entirely necessary.

Currently playing at the theater is "No Time for Sergeants" starring actor Richard Erdman. The three week run will conclude Aug. 31. Reservations may be made at the boxoffice.

Herman Tours

Woody Herman, one of America's all time jazz greats, is on a three-month tour of South America, made in co-operation with the President's Special International Program for Cultural Presentations, which is administered for the State Department by ANTA.

The first concert was given in Panama City on Aug. 1, the last will be in Guatemala City on Nov. 9.

Rockin' Chair's Not About to Snatch Lively Oldsters

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The Symphony Orchestra of Sirovich Day Center may never star at Carnegie Hall. But it's playing like 60—and 70 and 80—at a lot of other places.

This little symphony is made up strictly of old folks. No one under 60 is allowed, with the exception of the conductor, Horace LoPiano, a mere baby of 56.

The Sirovich Orchestra is one of dozens of music groups among the elderly of our land who are finding that rhythm is more fun than rocking. The American music conference reports that centers for the aged from Maine to California boast glee clubs, string ensembles, rhythm bands, even jazz piano experts.

* * * *

ONE GOLDEN AGE club in Chicago has a 30-piece rhythm band started 11 years ago by Adolf Witte, an engineer and inventor, who at the time was 78. He still is active.

Albany, Calif., has a group of grandmothers who play jazz piano and gather regularly to hear this special brand of music analyzed by such experts as Dave Brubeck.

The Sirovich Orchestra is the first and only one of its kind among New York's day centers, although others have rhythm bands and other music-making groups.

The idea for the symphony originated with Harry A. Levine, consultant on the aged for the City Welfare Department, headed by Commissioner Henry L. McCarthy.

Frances King, a veteran social worker, started organizing the orchestra when she became director of the center in 1949. By 1950, she had a pretty lively band on her hands—even though she had to bail some instruments out of the hock shop. Now, the orchestra has from 12 to 18 members—"depending on the weather," said Miss King. "Our people come from all the five boroughs . . . and in bad weather some of the old folks can't make it."

* * * *

THEY REHEARSE three times weekly and it's a rare week without a public appearance. The orchestra plays for hospitals, schools, homes for the aged, and has made radio and television appearances.

All the concerts, with one exception, are free. At the center's annual spring festival, concert admission is 50 cents to help buy new music, repair instruments and such.

Many of the members are former professionals—one played with the John Phillip Sousa band more than 30 years ago another was with the Philadelphia Symphony. Some had their training and professional experience abroad—"our orchestra is a little U. N.," said Miss King. But most had retired from music making until they started visiting the center.

One member is a former porter at the center, Severino Hernandez, 73, clarinetist, saxophonist, and composer of the "Frances Waltz," named for Miss King.

* * * *

THERE IS ONE woman in the orchestra—Mrs. Ray Alpert, 64, who plays the violin, is taking regular studies at night at a local high school, and studying music at the Brooklyn College of Music.

One of the oldest members, Joseph Marasco, 83, is the tambourine man. "He can't read music," said Miss King. "Matter of fact, we only found out recently he can't read. But oh boy, has he got rhythm! You ought to hear him when we do 'Carmen.'"

The orchestra's repertory runs the gamut of the classics.

No popular tunes?

"Oh," said Miss King, "Bruce Healy, the president and a violinist, likes jazz. The conductor has a terrible time with him."

"Want to Shock the Natives?

The theatrical world has been invaded by the woman of high fashion . . . no longer will wigs be worn only behind footlights by character actors . . . they (the wigs) are becoming common sights on the woman of high fashion at soirees and cocktail parties. The wigs will be a little competition to the judges and barristers in Great Britain, who still cling to the periwig when court is in session. But, then, knowing women, they can invade any stronghold . . . even the British courts!

The fad started in Paris last season when one designer had wigs made for each of his models to wear with specific outfits. Soon, New York and Washington socialites were appearing at smart evening affairs . . . looking equally smart in their "wigs." Prices range from under $50 to more than $300 . . . some are made of natural hair, but the majority are made of miracle fabrics.

* * * *

ROBERT PALMER, millinery buyer for one of our leading department stores in Long Beach, has in stock wigs made of "Sarlon" . . . looks like hair . . . can be washed like hair . . . and set with a hair spray. And the colors . . . mint green, light blond, pink, red, Dior blue or silver grey . . . but Palmer also will accommodate the customers by ordering any color they choose.

"This is the type of fashion novelty that appeals to the very high style woman," said Palmer. "Women who like to change the color of their hair but don't like the bleaching process, may be blondes at breakfast, redheads at luncheon and brunettes at dinner simply by fitting the wig over their own hair."

* * * *

ASKED IF HE thought the style would take in Long Beach, Palmer replied, "Why not? Our women are just as fashion conscious here as any place in the world. If for no other reason, the wig is a wonderful conversation piece at any cocktail party!"

For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at HEmlock 5-1161, Ext. 249, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

FRONT . . . SIDE . . . BACK . . . of new fashion fad called the "wig." Grace Cooney, executive secretary, gleefully wore this silver-gray wig all day Wednesday to prove its versatility . . . or something! These are worn over your own hair; they can be washed and set just as you would your own, and are available in all colors. Paris has now come to Long Beach!—(Staff photos.)

'Date Mates' for Teeners

Because no two young figures are exactly alike, a whole new concept in undergarments for teenagers, "Date Mates," has been developed by Perma-Lift.

Ranging from the first, or "starter" bra, to those in the higher teenage category, "Date Mates" are designed for comfort and wearability. Self-fitting bras conform to the exact cup size, and as the youngster's bust develops, the cups adjust to her larger proportions, continuing to fit her exactly as her figure changes.

* * * *

ANOTHER innovation is the "neveride" band — soft and comfortable, it automatically adjusts to the individual figure keeping garments always in place.

The same emphasis placed on bra design for teen figures also is placed by Perma-Lift on styles in panty-girdles and garter belts. The "Date Mate" line is available locally.

Keep Pores Clean

Models and actresses know many make-up secrets. But one of their best ones isn't a secret, really. It is proper removal of make-up and cleansing the face and neck so pores won't become clogged. Use a cleansing cream to remove all make-up and then wash with soap and water.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Get Peace of Mind First

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My conscience is bothering me. Three years ago I saw a hit-and-run accident. A girl was killed and I'm fairly sure I know who was driving the car.

I think it was my cousin's wife, though they weren't married at the time. She tries to change the subject whenever it is about cars and accidents.

I'm soon to be married and I wonder what kind of a wife I'll make with this all bottled up inside me. I'm just a bundle of nerves. It will wreck several lives if I open my mouth, but I'll probably break if I don't.

CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN

DEAR CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN:

I suggest you see a psychiatrist. He is professionally bound to honor your confession with privacy and at liberty to direct you to the best solution.

Your bundle of nerves need a mental wash and dry. By all means clean the slate before you marry. M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have been wondering if a boy is playing me as a go-between. He writes me, but my friends and my mother say he just wants to make my girl friend jealous. She also likes him.

How can I find out if he is using me or if he likes me?

IN-BETWEEN

DEAR IN-BETWEEN:

Whatever his reason (the worm), you can enjoy the correspondence and learn to write nicely. Put your best pen forward so long as you can afford the stamp.

You may yet stamp out the competition, for all's fair in love and letters. M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My fiance went to a dance the other night and met a girl. He said he had fun with her, more fun than he has with me. Now he wants to break up so he can "get back in circulation."

I told him I thought I was pregnant, so he said he'd marry me if he had to. I just can't believe that deep down he doesn't love me still. What do you advise?

MIXED-UP

DEAR MIXED-UP:

If course, you can hold the young man to his promise to marry you — but what kind of marriage would you have? Besides, why worry about whether he should marry you when you don't know whether you're pregnant or not?

You're stretching matters to assume he "loves you still," when he has come right out and asked to bow out. M. M.

Worry Clinic

Ruckus on Marriage Clinic Quelled by Brave Pastor

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Y-389: Dr. Roy Burkhart, crusading clergyman at Columbus, Ohio, asked me to conduct a marriage clinic at his famous church a few years ago.

I talked to possibly 2,500 wives in the afternoon, giving them the very same data which I reveal to you readers in this newspaper column.

That night the men's club had a big dinner, and afterwards they adjourned to the sanctuary where I gave them the identical address I had offered their wives that afternoon.

But what we didn't anticipate was the fact that the wives eavesdropped in the kitchen!

This great church was modern in all respects so it had loudspeakers in every room, including the kitchen.

When I began my address to the men, one of the ladies in the kitchen said:

"Oh, we should turn off the loudspeaker!"

But she apparently was overwhelmed, for the speaker was left on.

* * * *

THUS, THE large crew of wives in the kitchen got a second exposure to my medico-psychological address.

As I told you, it was the same in content as when they heard it earlier that afternoon.

But two of the wives, I was told by Dr. Burkhart later, had caught their husbands in illicit affairs.

And they had been making those erring mates stay right under their thumbs with threats of divorce.

So when I now informed the men's meeting that wives are usually 50 per cent to blame when their husbands stray, at least because of the wifely sins of omission, these two wives were furious.

They had not protested in the afternoon when I had uttered the same truism. But now they suddenly realized that I had helped their husbands get out from under their dictatorial thumbs.

Next week these wives asked Dr. Burkhart for letters of transfer from his big church.

But Dr. Burkhart was like the 95 per cent of editors who cannot be coerced into cancelling this column when the shoe fits and two out of 2,500 try to put on the pressure.

* * * *

DR. BURKHART met the issue head-on. He told his packed auditorium about the two requests for transfer of church letters.

And he politely informed the group that he had invited Dr. Crane to conduct the annual marriage clinic, partly because Dr. Crane was both a university psychologist (Ph.D.) as well as physician (M.D.).

He said anybody who attended a marriage clinic should certainly go there with the expectancy of getting helpful facts and not sugary platitudes about "birds and bees and flowers and trees."

So he said he would be very happy to sign letters of transfer for any other members of his huge congregation who felt they wanted to move onward.

Nobody else protested, and those two wives probably would never have done so if their husbands hadn't attended the night lecture!

Pick Delegates to Convention

Norma Gilcrease was elected delegates and Neva Blust alternate to the regional convention in Phoenix, Ariz. in November of National Secretaries Assn. Both are member of Queen Beach Chapter, Long Beach.

Their nomination was made at the annual potluck supper of the chapter in Bixby Park. A white elephant sale climaxed the outdoor festivities.

Pair to Wed in September

Sept. 14 is the date selected for their marriage by Sally Anne Spencer and Bill Don Miller whose betrothal has been made known by her mother, Mrs. Beatrice K. Spencer of Long Beach.

The bride-elect, also a daughter of Dwight A. Spencer of Toledo, Ohio, was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and attended Long Beach State College where she affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha.

Her fiance, son of Mrs. Georgia Miller of Compton and the late William Don Miller, was graduated from Compton Junior College and the University of California at Berkeley. He received a master of science degree in business administration from LBSC.

One Consolation

Persons with oily skin have a consolation. Oily skin does not wrinkle as soon as a dry skin. But to keep it fresh and clear, oily skin requires constant scrubbing with warm water, soap and washcloth.

Vacation Upstate

Mrs. Betty H. Wertz, executive secretary of Children's Dental Health Center, left this week for a vacation in Northern California. She will visit friends in Santa Barbara, Oakland, Sacramento and Santa Cruz and on the return trip will visit San Simeon.

DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

Capt. John Rountree

CHEF OF THE WEEK

L. B. Coast Guard Boss Likes Steak

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Semper Paratus! Always ready! He lives by every word—every connotation and every meaning expressed in the Coast Guard motto. Ever on the alert, Capt. John Rountree as district commander, 11th Coast Guard District, Long Beach, practically has the waves of the mighty Pacific under control.

Starting out in life in Swainsboro, Ga., he won acceptance as a cadet to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, and began his extensive tour of bases and boats.

Following graduation in 1924, he spent three years aboard patrol boats and Coast Guard-manned destroyers in the area from New London, Conn., to Boston, Mass. Navigating a cutter off the coast of New York preceded a jaunt back to Georgia. He went as executive officer of the cutter Yamacraw.

* * * *

EVENTUALLY he moved ashore to become a part of the Coast Guard intelligence unit. The Alaskan waters then beckoned and there he stayed for the next five years. In 1942, however, Rountree was appointed captain of the ports of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Charleston, W. Va.

With the advent of World War II, his duties took on an even more profound meaning. In 1943, as commander of Escort Division 20, it was his duty to safeguard convoys in the North Atlantic. For his performance of duty in this post, he was awarded the Legion of Merit with combat V. In late 1944 he was reassigned to the Pacific as commander of the troop transport Gen. William Mitchell.

Returning to the states at the close of the war, he served as deputy commander of the Western Area at San Francisco until '47, when he was transposed to Curtis Bay, Md., as administrative officer at the Coast Guard yard.

In rapid succession, Capt. Rountree continued to climb the rungs of the Coast Guard ladder, first as chief of operations, 3rd Coast Guard District Headquarters, New York City, and then to district chief of staff, the position he held until his present Long Beach assignment in November of '54.

* * * *

IT WAS while on the rocky New England coast that he met his bride, the former Mildred Venetia Morr of Rhode Island. They have three daughters, Joan, married and living in Chicago, Julianne, just graduated from University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Janet, a sophomore at UC, Berkeley.

When "hobbying," he says he goofs around a bit at golf. He's a bridge player with a reputation (execellent), and a gardener who can make growing things do what they are supposed to do.

Today he's gone "landlubber" in a big way with a sizzling steak in tow.

SIZZLING STEAKS

Prepare for cooking a porterhouse or sirloin or New York steak.

Steak never should be cooked over flames—so start your fire about an hour before you want to put the meat on, and let the charcoal burn down to a glowing bed of coals. Grease the rack lightly, place the steak on it, and put the rack 3 inches from the heat. If you're a rare steak fan, allow about 5 minutes for each side: if you like it well done, increase the time. To test for doneness, make a short cut with a sharp knife near the bone. Some of the less expensive cuts, such as prime grade top round, chuck and rump, come out wonderfully well if they are marinated.

Baths Healthful

It isn't a mania toward cleanliness that makes several baths a day essential during summer. During a heat wave, sponging yourself several times a day is healthful. You suds away pore-clogging particles and thus allow perspiration to flow freely.

Dear Abby

There Are Other Things

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady for six months and my boyfriend's religion doesn't permit him to go to movies or to dances.

There is nothing much for us to do except sit out in a car and neck. I like him a lot but this is getting dangerous. What should I do?
AFRAID.

DEAR AFRAID: Get together with other couples and play records (you don't have to dance, even if they do), play scrabble, watch TV, engage in sports (swimming, tennis, bowling), picnic with others. Too much aloneness is dangerous indeed, and you are smart to know it.

ABBY

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I need your help on a subject concerning my husband. He is getting bald but he refuses to do anything about it. I say he should get a hair piece and cover up his head as he isn't even 30 yet and he is too young to be bald. He is very stubborn and says if he is going to be bald he will take it like a man and he doesn't care how it looks. I think just to spite me he brushes his hair more than he has to and harder than usual just to make it fall out.

Please help me to convince him that he needs his head covered.

HATING BALDNESS.

DEAR HATING: If he is getting bald, he is wise to accept it. The only way you'll sell him a hair piece is to show him someone on whom it looks so real he could never believe it.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am in search of feminine companionship. I'd like a good-looking, clean girl between 20 and 35 who is interested in some fun on weekends and holidays. No chance for marriage. I've had it. Thanks.

LONESOME AL.

DEAR AL: Where do you think you are going to find a CLEAN, GOOD-LOOKING GIRL who would go for a deal like this? Sorry, friend, you are barking (and I did say barking) up the wrong tree.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a boy who has money. His birthday comes before mine. I am afraid if I give him a gift he will think I am doing it just so he will give me one. I hate to let his birthday go by without giving him anything, but I don't want him to get the wrong idea. Please help me.

NOT HINTING.

DEAR NOT: Send him a telegram or mail him a birthday card.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY: A woman's tears have been known to generate more power than Niagara Falls. Don't fall for it!

Careful Play Is Required

South went down 1,400 points Saturday in order to save a rubber. Today's hand is the next and final one of that same rubber.

The East-West bidding was very scientific. East's two-spade bid was a definite slam try and West with 10 points was willing to show his club ace. When East continued by showing the ace of diamonds, West jumped to four hearts on account of his good trumps and East contracted for the slam.

* * * *

CAREFUL PLAY was required to bring the hand home. East won the opening spade lead and drew trumps with two leads. Three rounds of clubs allowed him to get rid of his losing spade and he ruffed dummy's last spade in his own hand.

This series of plays had eliminated all black cards from his hand and dummy. Now all he had to do was to enter dummy with a third trump, lead a diamond and finesse his 10 spot.

South won with the jack and was now helpless. A diamond lead would be up to East's ace-queen and a spade or club lead would allow East to ruff in dummy and discard his queen of diamonds.

Manuela Nieto Business and Professional Women's Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Hody's Restaurant, Lakewood. Opal Landy, program coordinator, will present a recording geared to "personalysis," the theme chosen to characterize future club programs. Reservations may be made with Rosemary Bauman.

Bathe Baby Often

Baby will take to the heat more if bathed frequently. And also ease him into the sunshine so there will be little chance of a sunburn. His skin may not show beginnings of a burn while still in the sun, so don't use this as a measure for sunbathing.

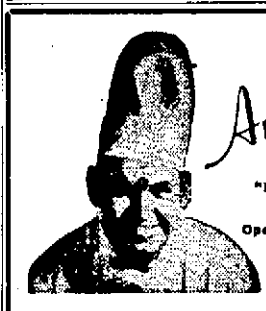

Lunch, Business

Henry W. Lawton Auxiliary 20, Sons of Union Veterans, will meet Friday at 11:30 a.m. in the YWCA for a luncheon and business meeting.

Experts Say Now Is Time to Buy Home

Bottom Reached on Price and Interest

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Buy now, the experts say, if you're thinking about getting a house.

To a man, banking and housing authorities here agree that interest rates and new home prices have touched bottom for the foreseeable future. Mortgage money, meanwhile, continues in abundant supply.

How long before borrowing costs start turning up is one on which the experts hesitate to speculate. They agree, however, that with mortgage interest rates traditionally more sluggish than others, no noticeable upturn is likely before autumn.

* * * *

BUT THEY ALSO AGREE that the recent easing of rates and the availability of loan money has ended.

"Families today are getting a better buy in the housing market than they were just a year ago," W. Franklin Morrison, president of the National League of Insured Savings Assn., told United Press International. "But how long this will continue is a matter of serious question."

Morrison noted that half of this year's output of new houses is selling for $14,300, compared to a median price of $13,000 in 1957.

"The builders have been hungry. They've been going all out" was the way one authoritative building industry source explained it. "But with materials prices and wages rising, they're going to change their tune."

MOST OPINION that the 1958 drop in interest rates has ended was based on the recent dive in prices in the government securities market. Another indication comes from the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) which reported an increase of one-tenth of a point from July 1 to Aug. 1 in prices paid for FHA-insured mortgages traded in the secondary market. That gain compared with an average rise of three-tenths of a point per month in the first six months of the year.

The maximum FHA rate of 5¼ per cent is still competitive and will be for a while, FHA boss Norman P. Mason told UPI. "But the signs are that interest rates are stiffening on long-term (mortgage) money," he added.

On conventional mortgages, the FHA reports, interest rates fell from a national average of 6 per cent to 5.6 per cent in the first half of the year.

* * * *

THIS MEANS A SAVING in monthly payments of about four dollars on a $15,000, 25-year mortgage.

The experts agree that mortgage money is still plentiful for qualified borrowers. The National Association of Real Estate Boards found an "ample" supply of funds for conventional financing in 80 per cent of the nation.

Mason, Morrison and others also reported that mortgage money is easily available. They contrast this situation with a year ago when lenders were turning away many qualified borrowers who were ready to pay the going interest rate.

HOME FOR RETIRED PLANNED HERE

Conversion of the Robinson Hotel, 334 E. Ocean Blvd., into a home for retired persons of moderate means, is planned by the recent buyers, a group headed by Harvey Miller, local Realtor. It will be known as "The New Robinson."

Minor Improvements Boost Valuation of Home

Now is the opportune time for home owners to increase from 10 to 25 per cent the value of their properties by making some proper improvements, declares Larry Miller, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

And, contractors, financing firms, building tradesmen and nursery proprietors all join in a statement that home improvements can be made now at prices far better than later this fall when construction work in the Southland is due for a big jump.

"If you are thinking of selling your home now or in the future, you will make yourself good money in making improvements now," said Miller.

* * * *

BECAUSE REALTORS are engaged in helping people buy homes of their choice, they are familiar with the features that make homes more popular and bring better prices, he added.

As an example of a remodelling job that brought results, Miller cited the case of a prewar house to which a patio had been added and an extra bath installed. The house had been valued at $15,000, Miller said, and after approximately $5,000 in improvements had been made it sold for $25,000.

Housing experts say that families needing more room might well consider plans for improving their present house before venturing into a much higher purchase.

* * * *

SOME OF THE ways to upgrade a home and create a better place in which to live include:

Add a second—or even a third—bathroom and if the fixtures in the present bath are antiquated, convert it to a modern bath.

Combine kitchen and living areas in older home. Install such modern conveniences as built-in automatic appliances.

Give your home a view, is another big improvement. Walls of glass make a home more enjoyable, especially if the view looks upon some good landscaping. Such landscaping can be added at a low cost.

A living room takes on luxury when you panel a wall with the many fine plywood panels offered on the market. Many of these can be installed as a do-it-yourself project.

* * * *

A GOOD PAINT JOB can mean an extra $1,000 on the sales price of a home, the realty board president said.

Interior painting will greatly boost the valuation, he added. New wallpaper brightens any home.

"Many homeowners," Miller said, "think that prospective buyers will be able to visualize the house with these improvements. Such confidence is frequently misplaced, and, moreover, the right use of color often can add $1,000 to the price of your home—it gives a sense of proportion to a house that lacks it."

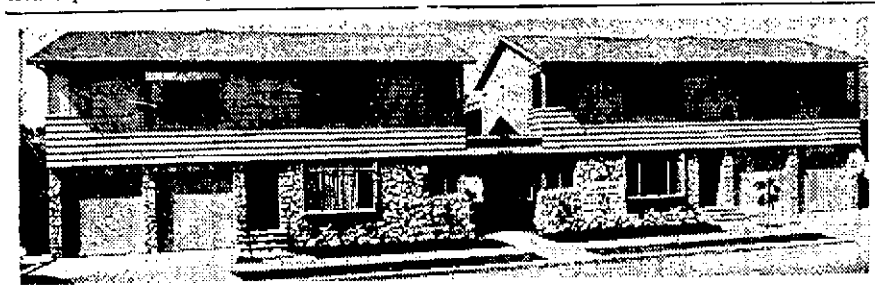

The Long Beach Realtors termed the grounds of a house another vital point. If the lawn is unkempt and neglected, many possible buyers will never cross your threshold in the belief that the inside of the home will be equally discouraging. Furthermore, while you may never be able to add $500 to the asking price of your home by producing the bill for that shrubbery you installed, you may add appreciably to the sales price by the general betterment in appearance.

* * * *

ANTIQUATED bathrooms and an old-fashioned kitchen place your older home at a competitive disadvantage with the many new homes on the market, Miller warned. Therefore, he recommended for many cases the installation of modern fixtures in bath rooms—tile floors in the baths, and new cabinets in kitchens. A second bathroom in a three-bedroom house can often increase its sale price 10 to 20 per cent, he added.

In considering possible improvements and additions, the Realtor advised the use of common sense.

"You don't want to 'improve your house out of its neighborhood,' and thus make it hard to realize the value of improvements," he warned. "An example of this would be a $25,000 house in a $15,000 neighborhood. In these matters as in many others, the counsel of your Realtor will be most helpful to you in planning the improvements that will add to the resale of your house."

ANOTHER BY McKENZIE

The Park Imperial own-your-own apartment building at 1575 Appleton was completed last week by Paul McKenzie Jr., builder and contractor, and will be open to the public for first showing today. Marion Davisson, Realtor, is handling the sales of the double-patio, 20-unit building, which features de luxe styling, private lanais, built-ins and outstanding decorating. Nine of the units were sold prior to completion.

ROBINSON HOTEL SOLD

Will Become Home for Retired Folks

Purchase of the Robinson Hotel, 334 East Ocean Blvd., has just been announced by Harvey Miller, Long Beach, who handled the transaction and is head of the purchasing syndicate.

The building, to be known as "The New Robinson," possesses one of the most scenic and ideally located sites in Long Beach. Located between Ocean Blvd. and Seaside Walk overlooking the Pacific, it lies adjacent to complete transportation facilities, shopping areas, amusements, cultural facilities and other features important to the senior citizens.

* * * *

WORK IS underway to convert the facilities into fine living accommodations for retired citizens of moderate means. Featured will be a TV lounge, roof-top solarium and recreation room, two passenger elevators and other conveniences for the comfort of guests. "The New Robinson" will be nonsectarian and will provide three meals a day, prepared by a skilled professional chef in the new Seaside Dining room.

There will be no entrance fee or hidden charges Miller said. All that will be required is a payment to cover room and board for one month. Rates will be based on the size, location and facilities of the rooms. Meals will be the same for all. Suites will be available at slightly higher rates. A laundry room equipped with washer and dryer will be available to guests free of charge.

* * * *

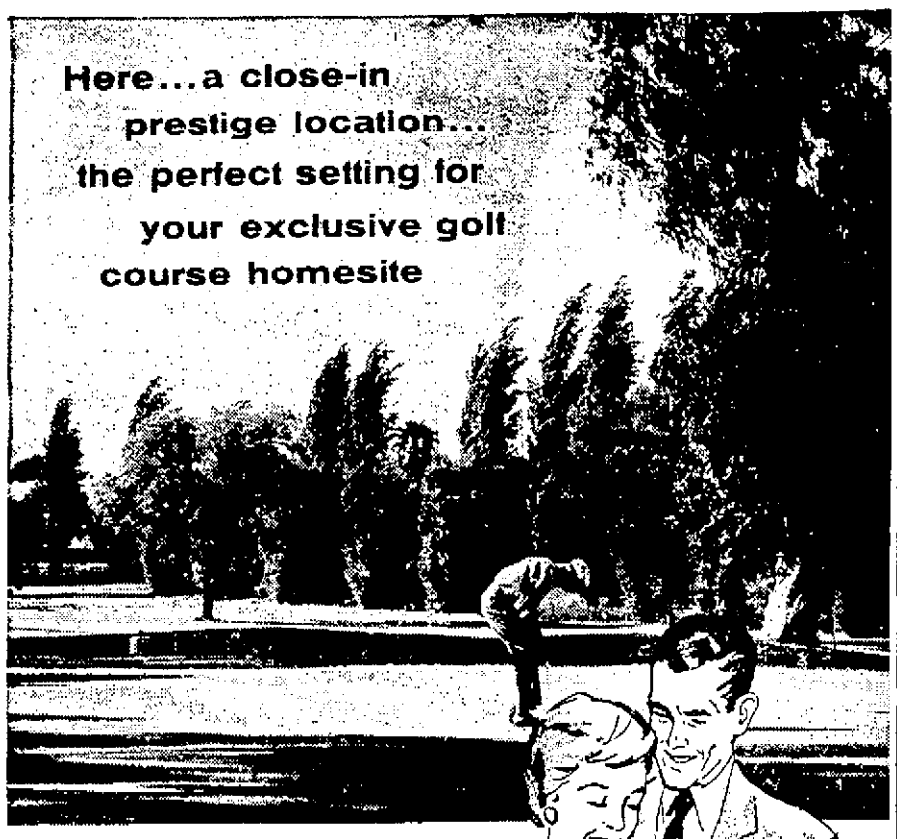

"MY ASSOCIATES and I have long recognized an urgent need for living accommodations for senior citizens of moderate means," stated Miller, "and we are pleased to announce that "The New Robinson" will be dedicated to provide gracious and superb living accommodations for the retirement years of these people." H. A. Stevens, well known in hotel circles, has been appointed manager.

Reservations are now being taken for the grand opening which is scheduled for the early part of September.

Southmoor Village Sales Jump

"Marking the third week of the first Southland area opportunity for the veteran buyer to choose a Frigidaire refrigerator, O'Keefe & Merritt range, RCA washer and RCA dryer for no additional down payment, a major sales increase has been noted each succeeding week at Southmoor Village—resort-area development by Don Wilson Builders," announced Lee Halison, sales agent.

"This $1000 value combines with the attractive homes at Southmoor, the cooler, smog-free climate and beach-area location to offer unusual advantages to the home buyer," Halison stated.

* * * *

SOUTHMOOR ALSO offers the popular two-story styling, which is so much in demand at the present time. The spaciousness and privacy of this design is particularly suited to the needs of the growing family.

The terms offered to vets at Southmoor—featuring the availability of these quality-built homes for no down payment, only $375 costs and impounds on bonafide G.I. terms and monthly payments of $74.33 principal and interest — make them within the easy reach of everyone.

The homes are priced from $13,975. FHA terms for non-vets are featured, too, with a low $600 down payment, plus costs.

Easy-to-reach model homes at Southmoor Village are open daily from 10:00 a.m. til dark. From Long Beach drive east past the traffic circle on Pacific Highway to Garden Grove Blvd, and Southmoor Village. Located just east of Long Beach, these homes are accessible from Los Angeles by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Highway 39. Turn south on 39 past Knott's Berry Farm, to Garden Grove Blvd. Turn right and drive one mile to the Southmoor Village model homes.

Patio for Big Homes

A new concept of western indoor, outdoor living is being introduced in Hallmark Homes in La Mirada with "The California Patio."

The spacious, fully covered patios have separate terraces for barbecues, entertaining or cool lounging.

Priced from $14,300 to $17,950. These homes may be purchased on new low FHA terms, with no down payment for veterans. All lots in the unit are over 8000 square feet.

Previewing showing of these custom built homes is taking place this weekend, and the unit may be reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway to Valley View turnoff, left over Freeway Ramp one block to Alondra, then right. Continue east on Alondra past Stage Road to furnished model homes.

Bellehurst Homes are Big Attraction

The luxurious atmosphere of Bellehurst homes, and the attractive Bellehurst homesites have been seen by increasing crowds during the past few weeks. Discriminating home buyers have been attracted to the area by the country club atmosphere for family living.

Located one mile north of the Santa Ana Freeway on Hwy. 39, Bellehurst surrounds beautiful Los Coyotes Golf Course. The completion of the new $300,000 Recreation Center at Bellehurst has given marked impetus to sales. Three swimming pools accommodate youngsters, swimmers and divers, and since completion of the pools sporting events have been scheduled regularly. The center

Bellehurst homes feature a large selection of styles and sizes, ranging from 3 to 5 bedrooms. Homes are sold with carpeting and draperies in place, landscaping completed and sprinklers installed for easy maintenance.

Prices of models are as low as $29,700 with payments on many models as low as $120 per month. Many homes are available with no down payment on approval of credit.

Lakewood Country Club Estate Homes Built on Choice Sites

Lakewood Country Club Estates area is attracting many visitors daily as several more large executive-type homes have reached the framing stage. The area provides a choice residential site with lots overlooking the famed Lakewood golf course.

In addition to the proximity of the country club, Lakewood Country Club Estates are only minutes away from the yacht harbor, metropolitan centers and shopping areas. Fine schools, churches, and sensible restrictions to protect the investor are added attractions. Many large trees add interest and beauty to the area and assure scenic views from all homesites.

* * * *

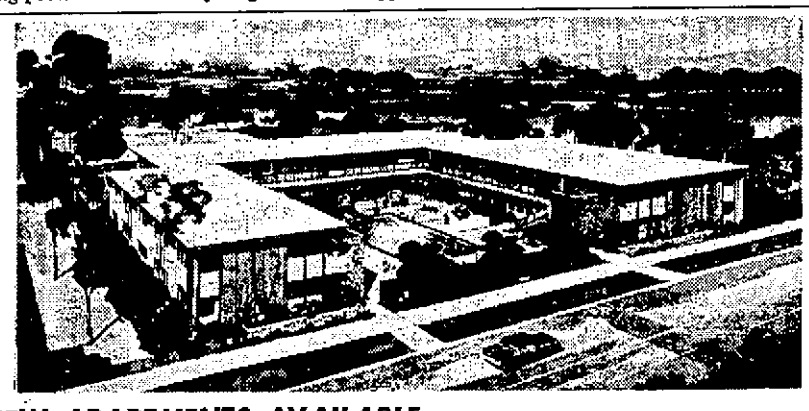

According to Gene Nebeker, exclusive sales agent, this is the last of the truly close-in prestige locations. "It is a common thing in the Southland to pass a choice residential area and remark, 'I remember when you could buy a lot there for only a few dollars down. Wish I had bought one then!' The opportunities available today are just as great as in former years," said Nebeker. "Many of the future residents of Lakewood Country Club Estates are purchasing lots now, realizing the growth potential of this choice property."

O. J. Warren, builder, remarked that rising building costs are a signal to wise investors to get construction plans under way as soon as possible.

* * * *

LOCATED AT Harvey Way and Lakewood Blvd., Lakewood Country Club Estates area is easily reached from Long Beach by driving north on Lakewood to Carson St., turn left at the first signal north of Carson.

Five-year terms are available on choice lots, according to Gene Nebeker, and all improvements are in and paid for. Prices range from $8,450 to $26,000, and terms are available.

Gets Grant

CLINTON, N. Y. (UPI) — Hamilton College has announced a $100,000 grant from the Irene Heinz Given and John La Porte Given Foundation of New York. Robert W. McEwen, president of the upstate college, said the money will be used by Hamilton's teaching departments.

Magnolia Manor in Fast Sale

According to Laramore Construction Co. officers, Magnolia Manor is the most popular of their new home sites. The trend toward suburban living has created high demand for these centrally located models because of their quality construction coupled with easy commuting distances to both coast and metropolitan areas, they say.

Over 75 per cent of these popular homes are already sold with a remaining few available for immediate occupancy, reports Frank H. McFarland, sales agent.

Attractive to average income families, these lovely $12,200 to $12,500 homes offer over 1300 square feet of living area. Three spacious designs contain cheerful open living rooms with adjoining study or dining room. Kitchens with snack bars or nooks reveal step-saving work areas, full cabinet capacity and ample utility space. Three to 4-bedrooms are combined with 1½ or 2 large baths. Modern color-coordination and decorator finishes are outstandingly appealing.

SOUND CONSTRUCTION is emphasized by Laramore spokesmen as a major feature of these value-tested homes. Acoustical plaster ceilings, new cork-tone tile flooring and sturdy pre-tested building materials are incorporated throughout.

Sixteen elevations are shown in both provincial and contemporary modern architecture. Sweeping wide eaves, brick wainscotting and planters complement graceful double-garage entrances. Easy terms suited to average budgets include $195 down and $90 move-in cost, states McFarland, with no balloon payments or due dates.

Models are open daily from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Driving from Long Beach go east to 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Huntington Beach Blvd., south to Westminster then east to models.

Marina Bay Homes Final Unit Now Open for Public Viewing

Holding to the same distinctive designs and quality construction which recently won a national home-building award, Marina Bay Homes' final unit is now completed and open to the public, reported Jim Young, vice president of Brighton-Bilt Homes, builders.

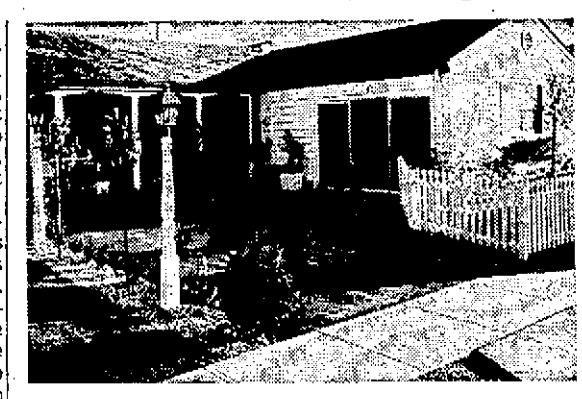

The nation-wide contest covered a variety of model homes all rated by a panel of judges well known in building circles. Contest requirements were especially high in specifying the use of choice materials to insure home owners of low upkeep cost. Top quality construction may be noted throughout Marina Bay's 3-bedroom plus family room and 2-bath homes, from their hardwood parquet flooring to the extensive use of many nationally advertised, quality brand products, Young said.

VETERANS NEED no down payment, merely paying costs and impounds. Monthly payments for veterans are from $133, including everything. Excellent non-veteran terms are also available.

Included in the homes at no extra cost, are deluxe models of the newest Frigidaire refrigerator, washer and dryer, a deluxe built-in O'Keefe & Merritt oven and surface unit for the kitchen as well as a six-foot redwood paling fence, with gates, completely enclosing the rear and side yards.

Special "beach-living" features are: Boat-port in some models, in addition to the oversized 2-car garage, 2 baths with all-glass stall shower plus a "beach-goers" shower on the exterior of each house.

Model homes are open daily, located only 2 miles south of Long Beach on Pacific Coast Hwy.

HOME NEAR BEACH
Here is one of the national award-winning Marina Bay Homes, located only three blocks from the beach and the Long Beach Marina. The final unit of the homes is now open.

OUR COVER

Down through the pioneer years of this nation, the Redskins were noteworthy for a style of barbering that left their "customers" sans a hunk of hide as well as hair. The Milwaukee Braves baseball team would like nothing more than to emulate their namesakes and lift the scalps of the Los Angeles Dodgers on the Coliseum battlefield this coming week as the teams play their final series of the season in Angeleno town. This is the thought of Earl Willis, Independent sports cartoonist, in his merry cartoon of "The Visiting Barber" that appears as today's Southland cover. Strangely enough, the lowly Dodgers have been unappreciative of the mighty Braves whenever they have met this season, dumping them unceremoniously on their sliding pads on assorted occasions. This they hope to do again, with nary a thought to the pennant aspirations of the men from the town certain brewers claim to have made famous. Will it be "Just a leetle off the top," a full scalping party . . . or will the Dodgers rise in wrath and send the Braves home minus their own scalps? It'll be an interesting series!

Sand storm at sea! Bailing in relays for their very lives! Battling giant waves and winds of almost hurricane force! These were some of the perils met and conquered by a Long Beach boy and three young friends who are now home, safe and sound, after one of the strangest sea odysseys of modern times. Theirs is the story of a 1,500-mile ocean journey in a 15½-foot boat powered with an outboard motor—from San Felipe, Baja California, to Cape San Lucas and return. And so they're going to stay home now and take it easy? Not on your life! They're already planning their next cruise—down the outside in the open sea from Ensenada to Cape San Lucas and back to San Felipe! Only, they'll use a sturdier and roomier boat for their 1959 adventure. Southland will tell their story next Sunday.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like analysis on WEBSTER. — C. W., W. W., Long Beach; Mrs. I. M., Huntington Beach; Mrs. J. P., Lehi, Utah.

C. W., W. W., I. M., J. P.: WEBSTER was one of the primary English occupations in the Middle Ages. At first it meant a female weaver, but by the 14th century it was applied to all weavers of cloth. Yorkshire registers for 1379 list William and Robert Webester, who were professional "websters." The Webster coat-of-arms, granted in London, is a silver shield crossed by a red stripe between three red weaver's shuttles, each wound with gold yarn. Daniel Webster, celebrated American statesman born in 1782, was a descendant of early New England settlers.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will appreciate brief history on MYERS. — J. M., Lakewood; S. M., Long Beach.

J. M., S. M.: MYERS can have an English origin, taken from a home located "by the myre" (by the swampland). The English Myers family originated in Lancashire. Fourteenth century records show Henry del Myre and Richard Myre. The English Myers coat-of-arms has an ancient 3-masted ship with furled black sails, centered on a silver shield. The family motto "Non dormiat qui custodit" as translated "The guardian does not sleep." In America, the German surname Meier was frequently re-spelled Myer and Myers. "Meier" was a professional title for a steward of a nobleman's estate, comparable to an American ranch foreman.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy and coat-of-arms for FULLER. Mrs. C. B., Long Beach.

Mrs. C. B.: FULLER was used eight centuries ago in England to identify a man who washed cloth after it was woven, thereby pre-shinking it. This trade resulted in the adoption of Fuller as a surname by one of the artisans. Gilbert Le Fuller was a Hertfordshire resident, with the motto "Semper paratus," meaning "Always ready." Edward Fuller and his wife, as well as Dr. Samuel Fuller, were Mayflower passengers who arrived in Massachusetts in 1620.

DEAR MISS RULE: We wish you would tell about the name ROCKWELL, — R. H., Bellflower; O. S., Anaheim.

R. H., O. S.: ROCKWELL has been in usage in England over 700 years. It is derived from the old French word "roche" meaning "rocky" combined with "well" portraying a hillside spring. Rockwell describes the location of the family's farm home by a rocky spring. The family coat-of-arms has three boar heads on a silver shield. The Rockwells settled in Dorchester, Mass., in 1630, among the earliest New England colonists.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like the analysis of the surname SHEEHAN. — Mrs. E. H., Long Beach.

Mrs. E. H.: The Irish SHEEHAN family are traced back over eight centuries. Their old Gaelic name O'Shiegane is interpreted as "sons of the little, peaceful one." The clan founder was apparently an unusual person among a nation of fierce, warlike clansmen who were seldom at peace with one another. Sheehan descendants lived in Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

DEAR MISS RULE: I should like data on the name TRUEBLOOD.—R. K. T., Lakewood.

R. K. T.: TRUEBLOOD is one of a number of English surnames that were applied to men whom their fellow villagers in ancient ages believed were of excellent character. Similar surnames are Trueman, Truefellow and Truebody. "Trueblood" meant "of good family."

Legal Aid serves persons with below average income in need of legal assistance. Nearly 4,000 persons each year literally beat a path to the door of this agency.

Jerry Silverman, attorney for the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation, interviews a young husband seeking legal help. Agency was set up through Long Beach Bar Assn.

With Justice for All

By Renee B. Simon

LEGAL PROBLEMS ARISE for the rich and the poor alike but the poor often cannot afford to do anything about them.

"All men must be equal before the law," said Charles Rhyne, president of the American Bar Assn. "But unless someone stands ready to inform the poor man of his rights and to take his part against a stronger adversary, equality before the law is a myth."

In Long Beach, that someone is Jerry Silverman, attorney for the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation. Young, energetic and a graduate of UCLA Law School, Silverman sees hundreds of people each month who cannot otherwise get legal counsel and cannot afford to pay a private attorney.

Skeptics often scoff at the pretty phrases about equal justice for all regardless of income. And attorneys and judges are often the first to realize that this ideal has not always materialized. However, the Long Beach Bar Assn., 2½ years ago, set about making a reality of this basic principle of their profession. In October 1955, the Legal Aid Foundation, organized as a non-profit corporation, opened its offices in downtown Long Beach.

NOW SKEPTICS BEWARE! Today, Legal Aid serves nearly 4,000 people a year furnishing advice and legal services to the indigent at no cost beyond a $1 registration fee. Let's take a look at how it works.

The elevator ride up to the fourth floor of the Enloe Building at 115 Pine Ave. is slow and unpretentious. A sign at the end of the corridor indicates the way to Room 420, offices of the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation. The modest waiting room and outer office is usually busy with people—quiet people whose faces reflect the worry and problems which have brought them there.

These are average people with below average incomes. What kinds of legal questions do they have? Generally they fall into three categories: domestic relations, financial matters, and a smattering of general law. Partly, because these are the problems that beset the poor, partly because the office is limited in the kinds of cases it can handle.

"About 40 per cent of our cases," Silverman says, "are domestic relations." Take the case of a young woman we can call Mrs. Adams. She was first interviewed by the secretary to get the facts and determine if she was financially eligible for legal aid. A maximum wage scale which varies with the number of dependents is used by most legal aid offices. That used in Long Beach is comparable to the Los Angeles schedule.

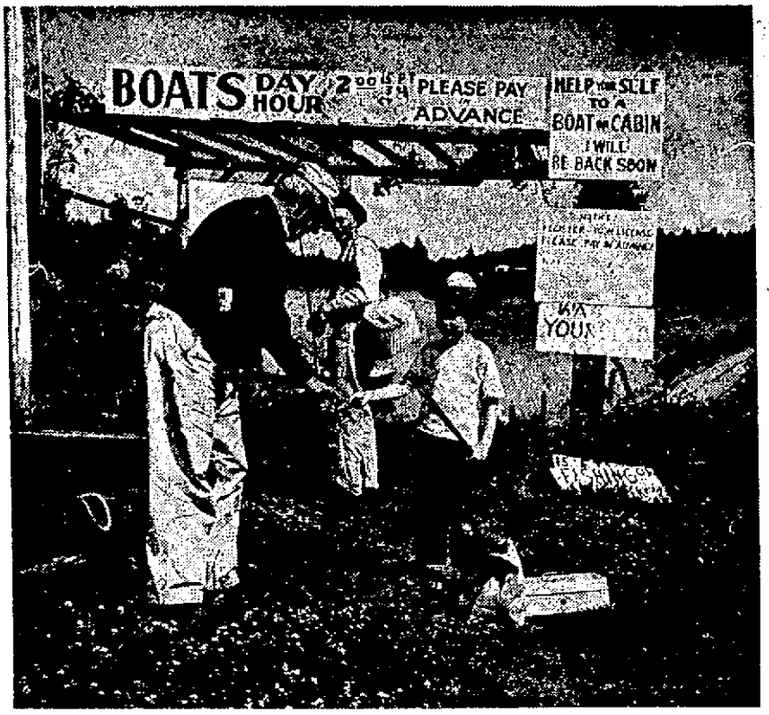

MRS. ADAMS STATED on her application that she has an income of less than $45 a week, is divorced, has two small children and was referred to the office by a social worker.

The questioning is tactful and courteous. Although a court had ordered her ex-husband to pay child support for their two children, he had recently left the state and his legal obligations for points unknown. She had applied to a welfare agency for help with what seemed to be a hopeless financial emergency. Mrs. Adams would have been more optimistic had she known that nearly half the cases in the Legal Aid files are domestic problems like her own. How the law could help her will be seen a little later.

Unmet payments, wage attachments and bankruptcies are usually lumped together as financial matters and total another 40 per cent of the cases handled.

The remaining 20 per cent is a mixture of general legal problems. To the Legal Aid office come uninsured drivers involved in auto accidents resulting in bodily injury to another person. Unlike most such cases which are defended by insurance company attorneys, the uninsured must fend for himself and the indigent uninsured turns to Legal Aid. To the Legal Aid office come people served with eviction papers from a variety of landlord-tenant problems. To the Legal Aid office come people being sued for non-compliance with a contract—people who, perhaps foolish, perhaps gullible and unrealistic, have promised to buy something they can neither use nor afford. Yet they signed on the dotted line contracting, as one little old lady did (she was over 70), for a year's supply of samba lessons costing several hundred dollars—more money than she had in the world.

Two bucks borrowed from Pop—on long-term loan basis—gets boat from the man who rents them. (Gosh, how important can a young man ever be?)

Sobs of frustration are manfully restrained while casting off stubborn mooring line that, finally giving way, has entangled young fisherman.

First Fishin' Trip

There comes a boyhood day when there is a definite break in a young man's ways of life . . . childish things are left behind and important things—like going fishing with Pop, for instance—become the essence of the dream that growing up is made of. Yes, that's it! That first fishing trip with dad cuts ties with the past and opens up a whole new future. Now the dream is, "When are we goin' again, Pop? When are we, huh?" Along about the seventh year the big break comes.

Gotta show Pop he can row a boat. (How in heck does a guy keep it going straight 'stead of in circles?)

Here we are at last. Now let's get some bait on the hook and show up Pop by bringing in the first fish!

Yow-ee! A bite! Or did the line just snag on the bottom? In either case, Pop stands by to lend a hand.

When day is done, a tired fisherman shrinks back to boy size, doing what seagoing men call "Fore and aft drill, athwart ships." Sleeping, that is.

READY ROOM OF L. B. NURSES

Where Mercy Never Sleeps

Photos by Joe Risinger

"Wanted: A nurse, young and pretty." Nurses registry has them. Here, Virginia Bowtok attends a bed patient.

Gean Methwig (right), executive secretary and registrar of the Long Beach Nurses' Assn., and Ann Black confer at the offices of the nurses registry.

By Vera Williams

"I'VE JUST BROKEN a hip. . . . Can you send me a nurse?"

"My wife is home from the hospital with a new baby. Gosh, we need a nurse! Get one over quick, could you?"

"We need a nurse for an industrial plant. We want one that is young and pretty (to give the boys a thrill) but not pretty enough to get married right away."

"I want a nurse, a good, calm, middle-aged motherly type. One that I won't get embarrassed when she gives me a bath."

That's the kind of calls that pour into the office of the Long Beach Nurses' Assn., Inc., District 18, California State Nurses' Assn., Room 311 Kennebec Bldg., 141 W. Ocean Blvd.

THE LOCAL ASSOCIATION, organized in 1921, has maintained a nurses' registry since 1951. It gives service to the public, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. If you need a nurse, and you call the Nurses' Assn. you'll get a nurse—and the chances are very good that she'll be a very good nurse.

"Every job is different. . . . Every nurse is different. We try to match up a nurse to the job," explains Gean Methwig, executive secretary and registrar. A nurse herself, she has held the job since 1954. She is a graduate of St. Mary's in Rochester, Minn., and received her B. S. at Long Beach State College.

REGISTERED AT the office are approximately 600 nurses who may be sent to assignments in Long Beach or nearby towns. Of this number, 3 per cent are male nurses. Most of the 600 nurses are professional registered nurses; one-seventh are practical and licensed vocational nurses.

"We screen all of our nurses," explains Gean Methwig. "We screen them for registration, education, experience. We require personal and professional references in the case of registered nurses. . . . We screen them clear back to their high school days."

Employers do not pay for this service. Professional registered nurses pay through their dues to the association, practical and licensed vocational nurses pay a percentage of their salaries.

If an employer or doctor complains about a nurse, the nurse is counseled.

"If you take care of enough people, somebody somewhere is bound not to like something you do," says Gean philosophically, "but if there is a trend, the nurse is warned to hold her standards."

MOST NURSES registered range from 25 to 40 years of age. One competent professional registered nurse is 72.

"We find lots of times that the older nurses want to do a good job—they want to prove that they still are useful," explains the registrar. "We are pleased when we get a repeat call for an older nurse."

An "older nurse" is considered to be from 62 years up.

A "permanent" nursing job is from 90 days up.

Nurses occasionally are dispatched to foreign countries. They have been sent from the local office, for instance, to England, Holland, France and Germany. And nurses from foreign countries are "shown the ropes" on employment in the United States.

THE PAY SCALE for nurses in the Long Beach area is: Professional registered, $18 for eight hours; starting salary $315 a month for staff duty. Licensed vocational nurses get $13.50 for eight hours, and for hospital duty they get 75 per cent of the salary paid professionals. Practical nurses get $11.75 for eight hours, and for hospital duty they get 8 to 10 per cent below the licensed vocational nurse.

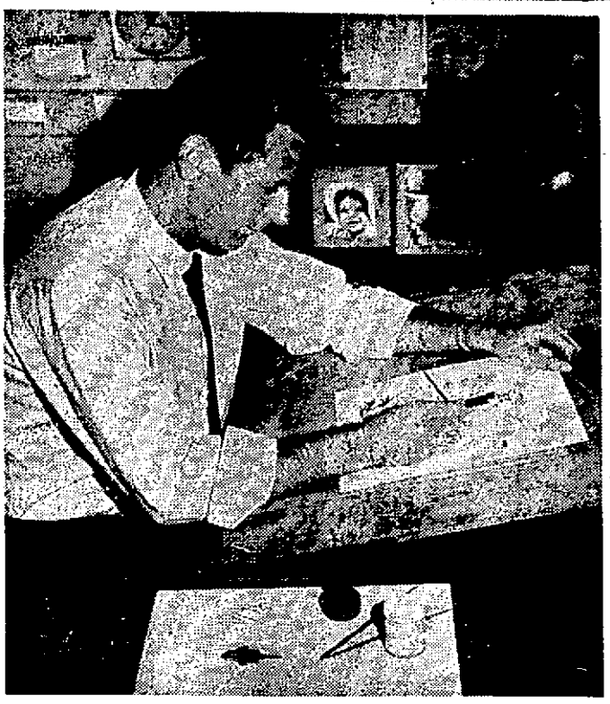

Unless it is specifically understood to the contrary, eight hours means eight consecutive hours.

Male nurses, too, are on the registry list when called for. Norman Leslie, seen administering water to oxygen tent patient, is skilled in the profession.

Some patients want a nurse with long professional experience. Louise Schroeder is one of many to fill bill.

Earl Willis, "Daddy" of the "Leetle Dodger" who often enlivens Independent sports items, is shown at work.

Leetle Bum's 'Daddy'

By John Ronson

MODERN giants of sports cartooning are such great wits and artists as Walt Ditzen, Willard Mullin and Karl Hubenthal.

This select group is now welcoming another to their set—a soft-spoken ex-GI by the name of Earl Willis, who in the short space of eight years has earned the distinction of being one of the brightest sports cartoonists in the country. His work has been a regular and exclusive feature of the sports section of The Independent since 1950—and today his work is brought to the attention of Press-Telegram readers as well on Southland's cover.

The "Leetle Dodger," who took the place of the Little Bum of Brooklyn as a new sports symbol in Southern California when the Brooklyns became the Los Angeles Dodgers, is the brain child of Willis.

WHEN THE BUMS moved West, Willis, like all sports cartoonists, was faced with the problem of developing a new symbol. Mullin's famed "Brooklyn Bum" no longer was suitable.

EARL QUICKLY solved the problem by taking the Little Bum, changing his features to look a little Spanish (to carry out the Southern California background), dressed him up in a baseball outfit, topped him with a big sombrero . . . and thus he has since appeared.

Willis, like Ditzen, was brought into The Independent fold through the interest of Sports Editor Dave Lewis in sports cartoons as a medium of expression. Willis began contributing in the fall of 1950, and his work has given solid backing since to Lewis' judgment in securing his services.

Willis is a native of Southern California and obtained his schooling in Los Angeles, graduating from Dorsey High School there. His major interests have always been art and music. In fact, while attending high school he played the drums in a number of small bands.

He spent two years in the infantry during World War II, serving 18 months in the South Pacific. He received the Purple Heart in the Philippines.

His first real introduction to art came after the war while on occupation duty in Korea.

WHEN HE returned home, he attended the Art Center School in Los Angeles for two years under the GI bill, and during this time he decided to concentrate his efforts on sports cartooning.

But this particular line is one of the toughest in the business to crack. Most newspapers do not carry such specialists.

Earl, naturally, tried the Los Angeles newspapers first. But he ran into blank walls. At that particular time, the uptown papers were cutting down their art departments.

So he decided to free-lance his cartoons and contacted Lewis at The Independent, who was immediately interested.

His first cartoons were devoted to the undefeated Long Beach City College football team that went on to defeat Boise, Idaho, in the Junior Rose Bowl classic.

Since then, Earl's cartoons on all major sports events have appeared regularly and have gained nationwide retognition.

THE ACTUAL drawing of the cartoons is the easiest stage of the operation, according to Willis, one of the finest technicians and craftsman to be found anywhere.

The hard part is the "ideas." There'll be no cartoon at all unless the idea strikes.

In order to reach peak effectiveness, a cartoon must be simple, yet tell the broad story of the subject and inject a humorous note.

BETWEEN HIS cartooning and technical illustrating, Willis still finds time to carry on a normal family life with his wife and two sons, Curtis, 10, and Glenn, 5.

"And that's something for a cartoonist," he adds. "Most of them go around in a world of their own most of the time as they struggle for ideas.

Jayne's a Singing Knitter Now

Howard Benedict

Associated Press Writer

STOP JAYNE Mansfield from cooing about her forthcoming baby long enough and you learn she may no longer play dumb blondes and that she's about to jump into the lucrative business of making records.

The latter is most surprising because the beauteous film star with the ample measurements has never been known as a singer.

"I'm going to start by recording three ballads I sing in my new picture," says Jayne, back in Los Angeles after European trip. "Then I hope to close a deal with a major company to do eight sides a year.

"THE BALLADS are simply wonderful. I'm going to dedicate them all to my new baby."

The 24-year-old actress and her husky husband, Mickey Hargitay, expect their first child about Dec. 5. Although she has a 7-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Jayne seemed as excited as a first time mother-to-be.

"It's a wonderful time in the life of a woman when she's expecting a baby," she says, with an air of discovery.

Blonde Jayne's new picture is as unique as her statistics. Titled "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," the picture is a comedy about an Arizona frontier town that was filmed in London and Spain the last three months.

Jayne Mansfield's knitting these days—looking ahead to having a baby and making debut as recording singer.

"THOSE SPANISH hills where we filmed the outdoor scenes look more like Arizona than Arizona," said Jayne.

Jayne plays Kate, a hard-boiled saloon owner who runs the tough town of Fractured Jaw in the 1880s. "The town doesn't have a sheriff, but the boys generally listen to me," she said.

"It's a complete departure from the dumb blonde, cream puff role I've always played," said Jayne.

ASKED IF that meant she was considering more serious—or ice cream — parts, Jayne said: "Yes, because I know I have the ability. I'm studying several meatier scripts now.

"You know," she said, getting back to her favorite subject, "I was pregnant during the whole filming of the picture and the studio didn't know it. If the studio had known, it might have taken a lot of unnecessary precautions that would have delayed the picture until I never would have fit into those wasp-waisted dresses I had to wear.

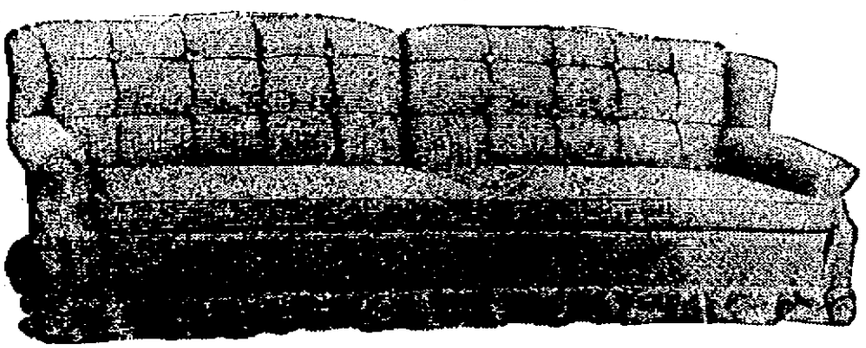

"I even rode horseback in one scene because my stand-in, who is also pregnant, wasn't feeling well. I understood perfectly. Mickey almost died when he heard about it.

"WHEN THE PICTURE opens next Christmas, we're going to take the baby to see it, even if he's only a few days old. Not many people make their picture debut that young."

Jayne shrouds her famous figure in a chemise these days.

"I wear them for obvious reasons," she smiled. "At first I didn't think I would like the sack look, but an incident in Madrid changed my mind. I walked down a street wearing a sack, a big hat and dark glasses. The way the Spanish men—who usually are pretty particular about their women—whistled, you'd think I was in a Bikini."

Pheasant for Dinner

Among pheasant fanciers in Long Beach area is Wm. McDonnell (above).

By Betty DeWeese

NO LONGER is pheasant-under-glass a dish enjoyed only by kings.

To a growing number of Long Beach residents the delicacy is—well, not as common as hamburger, but common enough to rate as a Sunday dish!

Among local pheasant fanciers is William McDonnell, 6518 Orange Ave.

McDonnell started raising Chinese ring-neck pheasants 10 years ago and recently added two adult birds of the larger Mongolian variety to his stock. His present flock numbers two adult cocks, 11 hens, and more than 100 six-week-old chicks.

"ALTHOUGH pheasants are harder to raise than chickens or other poultry," McDonnell said, "it's worth it when the results are on the dinner table."

"Pheasant has a slight game flavor and the meat is whiter, finer textured and firmer than chicken," he said.

McDonnell's favorite recipe for frying pheasant is:

Roll pieces in flour, garlic salt and pepper, dip in milk, roll in flour. Then brown in deep butter, add ½ can mushroom soup, 1 chicken boullion cube and 1 bay leaf. Cover and simmer for two hours over a slow fire.

During the pheasant mating season from March to July, McDonnell puts one cock with five hens in separate pens. Each hen lays approximately 100 eggs throughout the spring laying season.

THE EGGS ARE picked up each day and should be incubated before two weeks old.

McDonnell has found the best method for starting out young pheasants, due to their susceptibility to pneumonia, is in a brooder or box heated to 98 degrees. He lowers the temperature one degree each day until reaching 70 degrees.

"The biggest problem in raising pheasants is cannibalism," he said.

"A red light in the brooder blinds them to blood spots and frequent clipping of the upper bill with a fingernail file helps to control their picking each other."

McDonnell takes his pheasants from the brooder at six weeks and puts them in a 10x10 pen, tightly fenced in by ½ inch galvanized wire mesh.

Exercise or walking boards are placed around the edges of the pen at various heights.

"The higher the pen, the better," McDonnell said.

An Apartment Gets a Rest, ling

Photos by Joe Risinger

Applying decorative skills and carefully selected furniture to the task of revising an older apartment, the Boyd Rileys have wrought a true home.

By Eileen Ball

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Riley bought a multiple-unit apartment building at 1033 Hoffman Ave., they decided to move into the manager's apartment and to make certain improvements to suit their personal tastes and to fit the needs of permanent occupancy.

The building is of an older type and the unit into which they proposed to move, on the second floor, offered less than spacious floor footage and had little to distinguish it except a veranda vantage point overlooking the court below. With no desire to launch into a major remodeling project, the Rileys decided to make do with what was at hand—and what they did is an interesting story.

First of all, the entire apartment was treated to fresh, clear color schemes that visually opened up the rooms and let the light flood in. Ponderous, overscaled furnishings were passed by in favor of smaller pieces. Each item has a particular elegance all its own and, consequently, each piece goes all-out to prove this pretty point: that, given half a chance, even a frankly old domicile can take on a refreshing new lease on life!

A SMALL PORCH fronting the Rileys' apartment was merely a landing at the top of the stairs—an unattractive deck covered in heavy-duty tar paper. Right here is where the rejuvenation began. The deck was resurfaced with durable, silver-toned material that is more pleasant to walk on and far more pleasing to the eye. An aluminum awning in bright stripes was installed to shelter the porch and lend it a nice feeling of seclusion. An assembly of comfortable and attractive garden furniture was installed, thereby turning the porch into a usable outdoor living area.

Inside, the living room has a small alcove that provides a hint of an entry area. A sea-foam sculptured carpet meets walls of matching green, brightened by a chalk white ceiling, creating a cool, restful air. For contrast, and demure as a blush, are soft rose antique satin draperies that cover and camouflage rather stingily proportioned windows with generous cascades of fabric.

AS FOR FURNISHINGS, these follow the dictates of the French provincial style which borrows softly undulating lines from the period of Louis XV—a happy choice, both for its delicate scale and graceful line. Included in the group are lovely tables in cherrywood, occasional chairs and a stunning dining group. Less definitely styled is a sofa upholstered in soft brown damask interwoven with gold to fabricate a subtle floral motif. A channel-back ladies chair is upholstered in rose to match the draperies.

More decidedly provincial in flavor is a chair upholstered in muted plaid tweed, blending cocoa-to-beige tones. Adding spark to the scene are crystal and cranberry appointments used throughout the living room and dining room. One notable exception is seen in a handsome table lamp of Italian hand-decorated ceramic capped with an ivory, bell-shaped, taffeta shade defined with moss green silk ruching.

An interesting feature of the Riley's apartment is the manner in which the unseparated living and dining area has been given a feeling of division by the simple arrangement of furniture. In this instance, the sofa has been placed with its back to the dining area. Against it, on the dining side, stands a cherry French provincial server, a handsomely styled, functional item of furniture that happens to be the same length as the sofa, thereby forming an ideal "unit." Hence, with the sofa facing one way and the server the other, the room quite agreeably takes on a "split personality."

THE END WALL of the area, in the dining room, has been decorated with a scenic-print paper in tones of moss rose, green and cocoa. The dining set of rich, warm cherrywood adds considerable prestige to the furniture group as a whole. A dropleaf table stands out of the way where it serves as an attractive console between dinner parties. Companion provincial chairs, elegantly crafted, are upholstered with delustered brocade in pale green figured with tiny blossoms in moss rose. A cherrywood break-front displays Mrs. Riley's fine china and cut glass. Throughout the living and dining room are hand-made bisque figures, extraordinarily fragile objects made by the

Figurines of bisque that decorate this table were made by Rileys' daughter.

Placement of a traditional sofa has enabled Rileys to turn large living room into visually separated areas.

Rileys' daughter, Mrs. Mary Hoffer. With a delicacy of workmanship comparable to that of fine European imports, these lovely pieces are not only aesthetic treasures but are of great intrinsic value to the family.

Located off the dining room is a tiny room—an alcove, really—that serves handily as a den. It accommodates a writing desk and file, as well as Mrs. Riley's "African violet tree"—a tall, revolving, three-level metal bracket that holds a dozen or more clay pots of the African violets. It is truly surprising what special charm is given a room with even such a contrived addition of natural greenery.

THE KITCHEN has undergone no major face-lifting, save the wondrous changes brought about with paint and paper. Walls are enameled pinkish-mauve, a delicate flush of color that blends perfectly with the dinette wallpaper that has a gourmet motif expressed in tones of coral, turquoise, pink and soft lavender. Carrying out this delicate, parfait color scheme are double-tiered, polished cotton curtains, scalloped and embroidered in white butterflies.

The guest bedroom is as delicately feminine as one might imagine a boudoir might have been to the taste of Marie Antoinette. Antique ivory, French provincial furnishings are pale reflections of the fruitwood pieces used throughout the living room.

TAFFETA WALLPAPER has been flocked in a plush Victorian print, the tone-on-tone effect establishing an excellent background for the furnishings. Nutria carpet blends compatibly. A bedspread of handmade Queen Anne's lace overlays champagne satin. The room's single large window has been given dramatic treatment with shell pink nylon panels diaphanous under dusty rose satin swags trimmed in looped silk fringe in matching rose tone.

Mrs. Riley surveys newly decorated porch-patio which has extended living space of apartment to outdoors.

Arizona's Fighting Pig

By Joe Houston

THE ferocious nature of the javelina is the subject of more wild rumors and adventure stories than any other big game animal in the United States. The fierce way this native pig charges a hunter is often due to his blind blundering rather than belligerence.

Though not actually blind, he is extremely near-sighted and when startled by a gun or sudden sound, he will bolt in the direction he is pointed. Frank J. Hardesty III, who hunted javelina in Arizona last season, said:

"Actually, the javelina is quite docile and will turn and run rather than stay to fight. But if he is cornered, he attacks with surprising speed. The slashing hook of one's sharp tusks ripped open a dog's side from shoulder to hip.

"For a little guy, a javelina can put up quite a fight when cornered, but it is mighty hard to corner him."

That is because the animal's highly developed sense of smell and keen hearing compensate for his notoriously bad sight.

Hunters, therefore, must develop stalking abilities and patience so they can remain absolutely silent for a long time while hidden in likely feeding or rooting areas.

JAVELINA LIVE in desert country but the hunting season is usually in February when temperature conditions are ideal. Arizona javelina range in the central and southeastern portions of the state at elevations up to 6,500 feet.

If hunters can familiarize themselves with the washes and canyons where they plan to hunt, they will have better luck. It also is important to understand the javelina's habits.

The javelina group into packs of from 10 to 50 and set out in search of food. For the first 3 or 4 hours of the day they scatter over a space of 50 yards eating their favorite foods. Of these, the first choice is prickly pear cactus. They munch not only the fruit but also the thick flat pads and roots. Mesquite and century bush are also basic to their diet.

WHILE FEEDING, individual members of the herd will often stop to stand perfectly still and sniff the breeeze. They are testing the wind for unfamiliar sounds or smells which would warn them of danger. Jaguars are their special menace. To warn the pack, the observing javelina utters a series of short, loud grunts.

Immediately all set out on a dead run followed by a trot which takes them swiftly away.

The herd more often than not will return to the same place when the animals think it is safe unless it is getting hot and is time for their siesta.

They sleep through the heat of the day. As the day begins to cool, they move out again to feed.

Javelina are pronounced hava-lena from the local Mexican name given these collared peccaries along the Rio Grande. The "collared" designation is due to the whitish band around the neck and shoulders.

The basic color is gray though

1557 RIVER STREET. A home-made sign, on a fresh cardboard, tacked on the shack like a quarantine sign. Or a warning.

I stopped in the shade of the big eucalyptus in front of the house and pulled off my hat, wiped my forehead; wiped the damp band inside, then fanned my face with it. I wished that I was somewhere else — anywhere else — on the shores of a lake, preferably, or an assignment up at Arrowhead, maybe.

But instead of that I had to find Tony the Mug—try to locate his hideout, if possible. And no clue whatever, except that it was somewhere in Geery, California.

Well, it could be this house as well as any of a hundred sordid small buildings on the outskirts of this hot little town. Why not? 1557—on a new cardboard. Not too neat, but squarely placed. Could be. . .

I WALKED AROUND the house slowly, looking it over. The blinds were down. There were car tracks leading to the rear of the shack. But the door was open. . . .

I stood still and listened, watched, too, of course, but didn't know what I was watching for. Listened for the swift staccato of Italian words, maybe; the click of a lock at my approach; the purr of a car too good for this district. Watched for the slight movement of a window blind; for recent changes, a new patch on a leaky roof, maybe, a reinforced door.

Suddenly I disliked the little town of Geery, sprawling along the roaring highway in the sun. I didn't like River Street, either, sloping away to its sad little dried-up creek, overgrown with weeds.

At a sudden harsh blare of sound, my nerves tightened. It was the mill whistle, probably. Noon. Just 12 o'clock.

IN THE ACT of checking my watch I was alerted by a scream—a woman's high, full-throated scream of terror. There was a crash, then the sound of running feet inside the shack. Then the door of 1557 framed the figure of a man. A young man, big, with a shock of blond hair in his eyes. He was clothed only in undershirt and slacks. And even in that first moment my eyes were riveted to the horrifying splotch of red that widened on the whiteness of his T-shirt.

He staggered, came on with distorted face, turned half around. His knees buckled, and he fell full length almost at my feet. His head bent weakly. He clutched at his side. Then, writhing, he came up on one elbow — gasped; drew a long shuddering breath.

An then came the most surprising sound I'd ever heard in my life — an astonishing sound, uncanny. A long-drawn, convulsive peal of laughter!

AT THE SAME INSTANT I became conscious of another person in the doorway. A woman's figure. Tall and strong and straight, her eyelids drawn tight to fighting slits, her fists pushed hard onto slender hips. And the dish towel apron around her waist was splotched with red!

She stamped her foot, advanced a step, glaring at the fallen man.

"Jack Scott, if I'd got my hands on you, just one minute sooner, I'd have murdered you! What's the big idea, anyway; Sneaking up and grabbing me. And I thought—I thought you were—" She choked, caught her breath.

"What are you doing here this time o' day, anyhow? You said you wouldn't be back till six. Special job up at Pearson's. Bosh!" She fairly shook in her rage.

HE LAY ON THE GROUND, holding his side, writhing again. Groaned, gasped. Her eyes widened. Her expression changed. Quickly she was at his side.

"Honey! Are you hurt? Did you? Are you - - -?" Now she was on her knees beside him, kissing him, smoothing back his hair. "Shall I get the doctor?"

He relaxed a little, controlled himself.

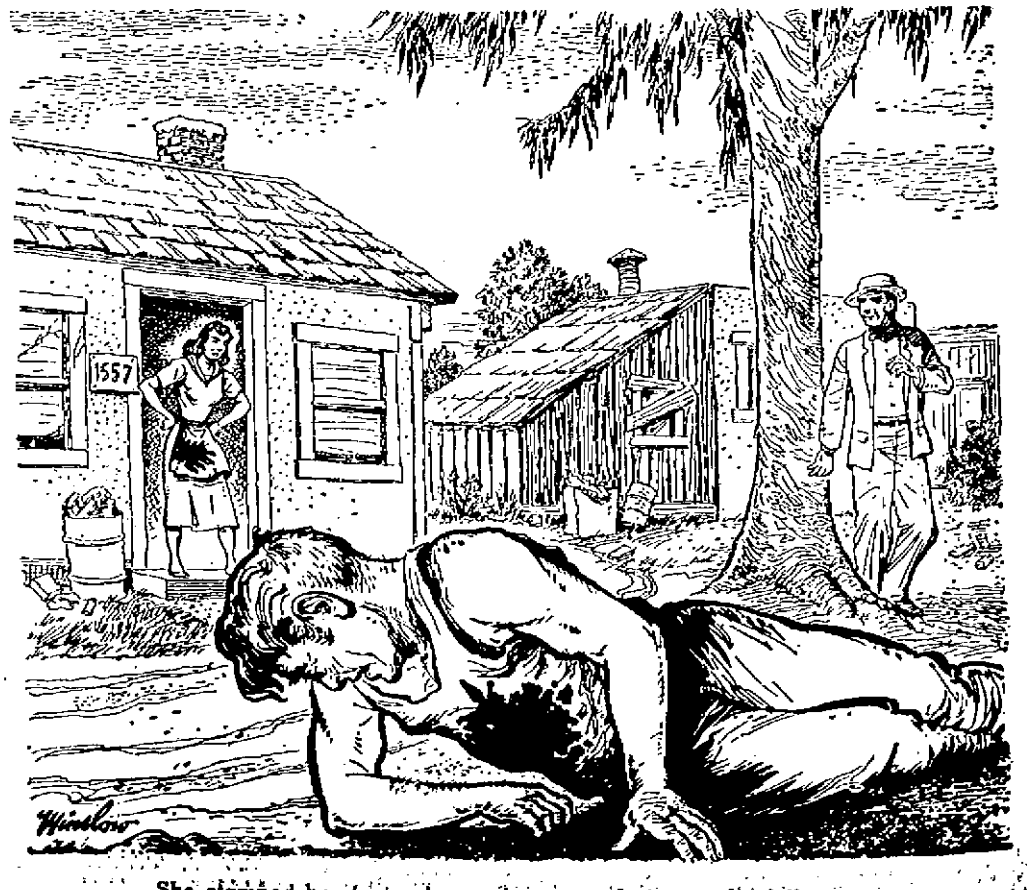

"No. No—I'm all right," he gasped. Just an awful—awful pain in my side . . ."

She got up, grabbed him under the arms, began to hoist. Weakly, with her help, he struggled to his feet.

"Jack Scott, you get in that house. And help me clean up that awful mess. It's all over the place . . ."

WELL. I TOOK a long breath. My arm remained extended, where I raised it to check the time. The watch still stared up at me, its hands now pointing to exactly two minutes

She stamped her foot, advanced a step, glaring at the fallen man.

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

Basketry's an Art

Surrounded by examples of her artistry and craftsmanship, Mrs. Helen Geiger works on a pine-needle basket.

By Fanny M. Leasure

NOT EVEN total deafness, suffered in infancy as a result of scarlet fever, has prevented friendly, 83-year-old Mrs. Helena Geiger of 3310 Vista St. from setting a challenging pace in originality for other hobbyists. Meanwhile through her pine needle basketry she is capturing a breath of forest fragrance for the seaside homes of friends, neighbors and relatives — recipients of gifts resulting from her creative activities.

It was under the direction of the Long Beach Recreation Dept. that she learned to value the long leaves of the Torrey pine. "They can be picked up right here in Bixby Park," Mrs. Geiger says. "They are pliable and adaptable when moistened. Then, too, I make rapid progress with them, because the Torrey needles are not only long but coarse as well. This builds bulk for faster workmanship."

HER ONLY tool is a needle which she threads with the grass-like raffia available at nurseries. This fiberous material she uses in its natural beige tone or dyed a magenta red or brown.

In preparing her materials she removes the sheath from the base of the moistened needles keeping the bundles-of-five intact for speedier weaving.

A center (usually circular or oval) of quarter-inch plywood often forms the starting point and the bottom of her basket. Holes are made by a one-eighth-inch drill one-half inch from the edge and a like distance apart.

Fastening a single strand of raffia in one of these openings, she feeds in a few needles. By adding more gradually the needle-rope soon reaches the desired size and becomes continuous to the basket's finish.

THE TERM basketry seems a misnomer on seeing the articles created by Mrs. Geiger—a decorative table top, an attractive suitcase, and a bassinet to name a few. The bassinet, inspired by the arrival of a grandson, was so durable that it gave service to seven neighborhood babies in all before it began to show signs of wear.

To those who contend that a hobby helps to preserve youth and vigor, Mrs. Geiger gives point to their argument.

BOOK REVIEWS

The King Who Lived

DO YOU remember from your school days the tales about Theseus? The thread that guided him through the Cretan labyrinth of King Minos? The dreadful Minotaur and the lovelorn Ariadne? The white sail that should have been hoisted to tell his anguished father he had survived the ordeal?

That legendary hero is brought warmly to life for you in Mary Renault's fine novel "THE KING MUST DIE" (Pantheon, $4.50), with Theseus himself the narrator from his childhood until he returns past fateful Sounion promontory to become rightful king of Athens.

The boy hears of the ancient tradition from his grandfather, ruler of Troizen citadel. He has grown fond of the proud and untamed King Horse, seen the sacrifice, and heard it explained that it is a king's fate to die an early death, that the longer the life the less the glory. With this harsh lesson, he reaches for manhood, learns to ride, to wrestle and fight, to meet an enemy on the battlefield, to brave the fierce bull, to love the maidens at court. And at last he learns, too, something of his birth: To appease an angry god, his mother had been given in a sacred grove to the first comer, Aigeus, the hitherto childless king of Athens who had swum up out of the sea like Poseidon himself.

So the boy speeds off to announce himself to his father on the towering Attic rock. On the way he overthrows the matriarchy of Eleusis, and for a time he delights in the company of the beautiful queen whose master he vanquished in fair combat. In Athens he outwits Medea and then at last commits himself fearlessly to the lot of his friends packed off to the lair of the ravenous Minotaur.

The gaunt foundation stones of Knossos, the law-making ruler of Athens, the Eleusinian matriarchy—these are some of the materials known to history. So facts have been combined with this novelist's fine free fancy. Miss Renault tells no child's story, but here, out of the dim dark past is conjured up the lusty, romantic, youthful hero Theseus for all to admire.

Christopher Hibbert

London came near being leveled by riots in the 1780s, and the man behind the violence was Lord George Gordon, an eccentric. A sharply-drawn account of the riots and the man behind them is told by Christopher Hibbert, English historian, in "KING MOB" (World, $4.95). A strange book, but good reading all the way.

"THE TIME OF THE DRAGONS" by Alice Ekert-Rotholz (Viking, $4.95): The author of this lengthy novel seems more concerned with the workings of the Far Eastern mind and Far Eastern traditions than with the telling of a story. However, the story is clearly defined and the characters delineated distinctly despite the hard way she does it. She goes out of her way to talk about the many customs, religions and points of view of that part of the Orient she knows. All of these she takes pains to contrast with those of Europe and America. It also is something of a historical novel, although the story deals with modern people and events. The time runs from the 1920s to the 1950s. Main characters are members of a Norwegian family whose father's consular positions have made them more familiar with Southeast Asia than with Norway. Most of the action is in Bangkok and Shanghai before, during and after World War II. But the setting also includes Trondheim, Paris, Tokyo — and a town in New Hampshire. The story includes adventure, horrors, intrigue, counter-intrigue and counter-counter-intrigue—and a generous sprinkling of romance. It is to be read not only for "the story" but for the appraisals of the Asiatic mind as opposed to the Western way of looking at life—and death. Because of this it is of real value in the striving and hope of civilized peoples everywhere for common grounds for understanding and peace. This book, translated from the German language, is a Literary Guild selection.

"THE APRIL ROBIN MURDERS" by Craig Rice and Ed McBain (Random House, $3.50): If you're a Craig Rice fan you know Bingo and Handsome, partners in street photography who shuttle in and out of some mighty strange mystery and adventure. Now they're back to get into more hilarious, if not ridiculous, situations—not the least of which is murder — after making a down payment on an old mansion that was the home of April Robin, a big star whose light went out when talkies came in. Craig Rice had the book two-thirds finished when she died and it was completed by McBain. Who's he? Hey, you, Bingo and Handsome, you found out a lot about Miss April Robin. What about Ed McBain?

"HIDDEN POWER FOR HUMAN PROBLEMS," by Frederick Bailes (Prentice-Hall, $4.95): Have you ever said "I can't go through with it!" or "This is more than I can bear?" If you have, Dr. Bailes, who frequently has lectured in Long Beach and counts many friends and followers here, wrote this book for you. He thinks if you expect the best you will get it; if you expect the worst, you'll meet delay, frustration, obstruction. Competition, he believes, becomes an opportunity of accomplishment when the thought of hostility gives way to the thought of the world as a friendly place. He believes that parent thoughts of illness, lack, bad treatment bring about those results. He gives definite techniques for developing what he calls Creative Force and putting it in motion.

"A NOVEL, A NOVELLA AND FOUR STORIES" by Andrew Lytle (McDowell, Obolensky, $4.95): Mr. Lytle demonstrated last year that he could write a powerful story with his best-selling "The Velvet Horn." He writes with no less authority in this collection which is representative of the wide range of a fine talent. The novel, "A Name for Evil," is a ghost story; the novella, "Alchemy," and one story deal with Spanish adventurers who followed Columbus to the New World; and the other three stories are set in the South, of which the author is a native. In addition, Mr. Lytle has an introduction on the craftsmanship of fiction writing.

Barbecued Turkey: Buffet Delight

Turkey gets a continuing play on Southland tables as a barbecue specialty, either in halves or in quarters.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

TURKEY is more than a holiday specialty in modern times and, with the summer beckoning to fun in the out-of-doors, turkey is on many a barbecue menu in the Long Beach area. The respected bird also can be fitted to dining on any scale, with quarters to suit the small party and eliminate the leftovers for days afterwards.

Make your next buffet dinner a turkey barbecue party and plan this type of gathering often during the warm summertime. California turkey is widely available and plentiful with many markets featuring the turkey quarters at very reasonable prices. The new quarter style of merchandising turkeys is gaining popularity. Quarters are particularly suitable for smaller gatherings.

Cook the turkey over glowing coals using a zippy barbecue sauce prepared California style with a delicious soy sauce, plus orange juice, wine vinegar, peanut oil, onion, assorted seasonings and salt.

TO THE MENU add zucchini cooked over coals in aluminum foil, an assorted platter of pineapple, cubed jellied cranberry sauce, sliced cantaloupe, bananas and oranges. Serve with a cranberry nut sour cream dressing. Complete the menu with Roquefort cheese bread, and for dessert, burnt sugar layer cake and coffee.

Thaw California turkey quarters and sprinkle body cavities with salt and pepper. Skewer wing to breast or tie leg to tail, depending upon whether fore or hind quarter is used. Place on grill six to eight inches from glowing coals. Turn occasionally, and baste frequently with California basting sauce. Turkey is done if meat is tender when pierced with a fork or no red appears when small portion of meat is cut close to the bone. Total cooking time is 1½ to 2 hours. If meat thermometer is used, insert at last turning and continue barbecuing until thermometer reaches 185 degrees. (Note: Additional briquets may be needed to maintain proper heat for cooking.)

California Basting Sauce

½ cup peanut oil
⅓ cup wine vinegar
¾ cup fresh or frozen orange juice
2 tblsp. soy sauce
½ cup catsup
1 small onion, minced
Dash Tabasco sauce
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. chili sauce
1 tsp. oregano

Combine all ingredients in pint size jar. Cover and chill several hours. Shake sauce well before using.

Assorted Fruit Platter

Choose a ripe pineapple and remove top. Cut around the sides almost to the bottom; cut center in quarters and remove meat, leaving sides of pineapple intact. Fill hollowed out pineapple with cranberry nut sour cream dressing. Remove core from pineapple meat and slice into long strips. Arrange around filled pineapple on serving tray with cubed jellied cranberry sauce, and sliced cantaloupe, bananas and oranges. Garnish with whole strawberries.

Cranberry Nut Sour Cream Dressing

1 large carton commercially soured cream (2 cups)
½ cup orange juice
½ cup whole cranberry sauce
¼ cup powdered sugar
½ cup chopped walnuts

Combine all ingredients and chill before using.

Roquefort Cheese Bread

1 loaf French bread
½ cup soft butter or margarine
⅛ tblsp. finely grated onion

Slice bread diagonally in 1½ inch pieces, leaving one side hinged. Combine butter or margarine with Roquefort and onion. Spread on bread and wrap in single thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Put bread on grill and barbecue, turning often, about 20 minutes, or until thoroughly heated.

Foil Barbecued Zucchini Squash

Cut zucchini squash into ¼ inch round slices. Place enough for an individual serving on a double thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Add seasonings such as salt and pepper to taste, butter or margarine and any additional vegetable desired such as a hint of chopped green onion, fresh tomato or diced celery. Wrap in foil square securely and heat over coals on grill for 20-25 minutes, turning once.

Corned Beef and Panned Cabbage

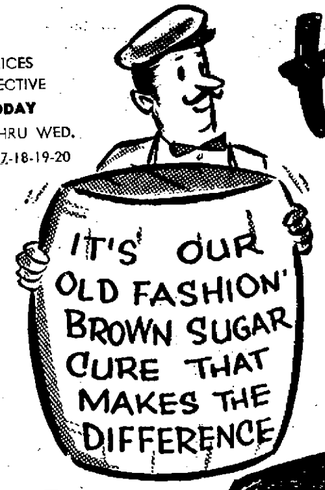

6 to 8 slices cooked brisket of corned beef
2 tblsp. butter or margarine
1 small head cabbage, shredded
½ cup water
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Melt butter in skillet. Add cabbage, water, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over low heat 5 minutes. Arrange slices of corned beef over top of cabbage. Cover and continue cooking until meat is hot and cabbage cooked, 5 to 10 minutes. Serve immediately.

SERVE WITH: Tomato Juice, Browned Potatoes, Cornbread, Mustard Sauce, Pear and Grated Cheese, Baked Peaches.

The Case of the Vanishing Doves

By Tamara Andreeva

Mourning doves once were numerous in the Southland. Now, to photograph two, the author had to go to zoo.

RELENTLESS harassment has finished up the passenger pigeon as a species. The Great Auk was hunted out.

The fashion for a tall beaver topper sent brigades of cutthroats and "mountain men" after the beaver plews. They hunted the beaver until nature's little engineer was nearly out of the picture. The species was saved by a felicitous stroke of the presidential pen which put the beaver and his work under governmental protection.

The Whooping Crane was pursued by trophy hunters until its numbers were reduced to an all-time low of 28. The barn door was closed after the cranes were almost extinct. Conservationists are now hovering over the pitiful little flock remaining, treating them as if they were made of gold.

SO-CALLED SPORTSMEN have done their bit to deplete the population of the prairie chicken, woodcock, woodland caribou, key deer and tule elk. Ranks of all of these are dwindling, while the arms companies are supplying hunters with more and more powerful rifles, equipped for killing with greater deadliness.

The outlook for many species is dark, but it is the darkest for the California mourning dove, a beautiful small bird, for centuries associated with the symbol of peace . . . dark on almost the eve of another season of shooting which starts Sept. 1.

Warmongers took care of the olive branch. Now the dove is about to be blasted out of the American skies by none other than the nation's own sportsmen . . . Twenty million doves were bagged LEGALLY in the U.S. by licensed hunters last year. The study now under way by the Committee for Dove Protection in California uncovered that this number is not covering all of the doves killed. Fifty per cent were maimed, but unretrieved; thus an estimated 10 million more were destroyed. Add 20 per cent more — the young left in the nests to die of starvation.

CRITICS POINT OUT that while shooting doves—which is about as difficult as hitting a barn door—is not truly sporting, the shooters also kill them during nesting season, for the Mourning dove nests almost the year around. Its young cannot fend for themselves for longer periods of time than the young of other birds. They have to be fed special "dove milk," half digested food the dove disgorges from her own crop. Without this care the young die.

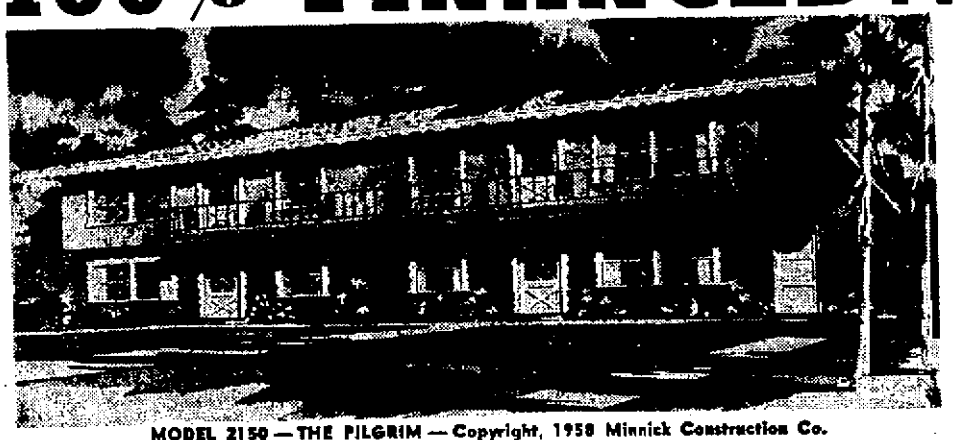

The Committee for Dove Protection, a militant body of farmers, scientists, conservationists, and common sense laymen, claims that unless the slaughter is stopped, the dove as a species is doomed. In addition to legalized killing, the dove, possibly through continued harassment, is now also prey to some mysterious disease which is destroying it in large numbers.

The committee points out that by allowing the killing of doves the farmer is cutting off his own nose. Doves have been designed by nature for weed control and farmers lose from the depletion of these birds. Audubon once found 9,200 various noxious seeds in one dove's stomach. Yet, in Los Angeles County alone, an estimated 50,000 armed boys and men bang away at these birds, using them as live targets.

MILTON D. THOMPSON, assistant museum director of the Illinois State Museum, says that actually the dove cannot be considered a game bird, for it lacks essential characteristics of this classification—rapid reproduction and young which can readily shift for themselves. Realizing that the dove is on its way out, 17 realistic states have banned dove killing. Canada has the dove under protection. But California still permits dove hunting.

Law violations, damage to property, endangering lives of humans and livestock, danger of extinction of doves and increased cost of farm weed control are some of the adverse factors related to dove hunting cited by authorities.

Claudia Dehring of NBC plays with dining table and chairs, child size, developed from pattern.

Here's a Table for Playtime

By Steve Ellingson

OUR neighborhood philosopher says, "by the time the children are 7, their parents will have done at least half of all that can ever be done to determine their children's future enterprise."

All little girls dream of the day when they will be grown up and have a husband. And lucky is the man who marries a girl that learned to be a homemaker as well as a wife. That is one of the purposes of the little dining table and chair set pictured here with NBC's child entertainer, Claudia Dehring. It helps to inspire little girls to take a lifelong interest in cooking and other homemaking activities. And, of course, they do have lots of fun with their tea parties.

ANY FATHER (or mother, for that matter) can build this set by using a full-size pattern. All that's necessary is to trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and finally put them together. Simple tools are all that's needed. The cost is slight and the project can easily be completed in a couple of evenings.

To obtain the full-size child's table and chairs pattern No. 103 send 50 cents in coin to Steve Ellington, Long Beach Independent, Press - Telegram, 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuy, Calif.

Short Story

after twelve.

The man was speaking again. "Gee, Sugar—you sure did tickle me! I'm almost dead, I laughed so hard. Boy, oh boy! What a stitch in my side. Believe it or not, I almost passed out." He put his hand on her shoulder. "Don't be sore, Sugar. All I did was play mad dog. Just growled a little. Unexpected like."

"Well, listen, Big Boy—if you must be funny—if you can't act your age, have to show off worse than my little brother . . ."

STILL LISTENING, unseen, under the old eucalyptus, I put on my hat, gave it a jerk. Started to leave. Disgusted. But hey—what about that blood-Maybe they were only pretending not to have seen me. Putting on an act. Then, distinctly, I heard the girl say, "Well, next time you try to scare me, Big Boy, pl-ease wait till I've got nothing in my hands. Just supposin' I'd thrown the baby, as I did that jar of beets?"

Suddenly they were in each other's arms, laughing together. I watched them a moment, then started down the road again to try for Tony the Mug's hideout . . . It certainly wasn't 1557 River Street.

Outstanding L. B. Area Private Schools

BELMONT SHORE School and Day Nursery, 30 Termino Ave. and COUNTRY LANE Pre-School, 4161 Green St., Los Alamitos are proud of the variety of interest they offer children in the greater Long Beach area.

Mrs. Ruth Baker, director of Belmont Shore School and Day Nursery, and Mr. and Mrs. Darold Baker, directors of the newly opened Country Lane Pre-School, remember in 1946 when they opened the Belmont Shore School with only one pupil. At the time it was the smallest facility of its kind in the area. They now have the largest enrollment in the city. Locations both on the beach front and in rolling countryside provide a healthy atmosphere for youngsters. All areas of Long Beach, including Belmont Shore, Rossmore, Lakewood and Seal Beach, are within the areas serviced by these two schools.

The schools are for children aged 2 through 8 years and are housed in beautiful modern buildings. Transportation and hot, nourishing meals are provided. They are open 6 days a week.

Horseback riding and hayrides have been added to the schools' recreational programs.

HOBBY HORSE NURSERY, 1710 Redondo Ave., in operation 7 years, has built up a full program for children aged 2 through 6 years. The nursery features Spanish lessons, dancing, music appreciation and many other activities pleasing to youngsters.

The modern building, which has been completely redecorated, was designed especially for a nursery and the large, well equipped playgrounds have all the facilities to keep children happily occupied. Half-day sessions are now available. The large, experienced staff is headed by Mrs. Ina Cunningham, director. Mrs. Cunningham is particularly proud of the delicious nutritious hot meals served to the youngsters. Various educational field trips throughout Long Beach are scheduled for private kindergarten pupils. Reservations should be made now for the kindergarten class which starts Sept. 15 by calling GE 4-2015.

PROGRESS SCHOOL, 647 Locust Ave., enters its 25th year with the opening of school Sept. 15. A complete academic course is offered for normal and superior mentalities, from primary grades through high school. A testing program is maintained whereby the individual's needs are analyzed and special instruction given to build a balanced personality. Emphasis is placed on instruction in the basic skills and development of good study habits. Classes in typing begin with the sixth grade and a basic commercial course is available in the high school. A speech program is offered beginning with primary grades, with special speech correction work given when needed. A special reading program is maintained, emphasizing vocabulary development, comprehension and speed in reading.

FOR ONCE in their lives, 140 boys and girls will return to school with a gleeful rush. They are the elementary school pupils enrolled at COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL and they are looking forward to the use of the school's new 40-foot open air pool when the new term begins September 8. They will have many hours of swimming but the new pool was really constructed for teaching something of value while making learning a pleasant experience. Classes in swimming and water safety will become a regular part of the physical education program during the warmer months of the term.

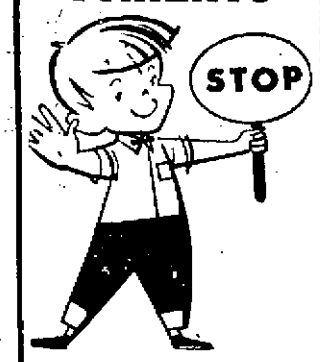

Three new classrooms have been completed for the new pupils from Long Beach, Santa Ana and Garden Grove who will now benefit by attending school in a rural setting where the neighboring farmer and his crops as well as the care of the school's farm animals will be part of busy days with the highly regarded Three Rs.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MILITARY ACADEMY has long had the motto: "Character Before Career." While entirely non-sectarian, this academy is pledged to develop wholesome Christian Americanism. Southern Military Academy adheres to the same high academic standards and Christian ideals as each of the other John Brown Schools.

Weekly chapel services and sympathetic counseling of the individual cadet by the academy chaplain make a valuable contribution in each cadet's training. On Sunday mornings each resident cadet is taken to the church of his faith.

The academy's education program, covering pre-school through grade 9, stresses fundamentals in small classes. Rapid and accurate reading which is considered a necessary tool for learning all subjects is emphasized by an experienced staff.

PLAYMATE DAY SCHOOL, 2650 Pacific Ave., is now starting its seventh year under the direction of Mrs. Elbe Harris and Maurine Smith, enrolling children for kindergarten, first and second grades. Mrs. Harris stresses there is a limited number of vacancies for the fall term which starts September 15. The directors are particularly proud of the two modern buildings that were built expressly for the purpose of conducting school and caring for youngsters of nursery age. There are three large playgrounds for supervised play. Several outside buildings permit the children to busy themselves with activities in the fresh air. Both morning and afternoon classes are held with or without extended day care.

TOWN AND COUNTRY SCHOOL, 4829 Long Beach Blvd., stresses individualized attention for its 2½ to 8-year-old pupils, with experienced teachers conducting small classes. According to Mrs. Edith Drollinger, owner-director, accredited teachers instruct the pre-school and kindergarten children in singing, dancing, arts and crafts, number concepts, social studies, and reading readiness. Well-balanced meals at noon, followed by a rest period, also help keep the youngsters happy. Play time is supervised. Town-and-Country School is open from 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

MORRIS MANOR SCHOOL was established about 22 years ago at 1130 Locust Ave., the same convenient location in use today. Parents have found the combination of good care, fine schooling under excellent teachers at moderate rates, and trained supervision until called for or delivered to their homes, is a service essential to the welfare of children ranging from kindergarten age through seventh grade. Ethel Morris, the founder, invites inspection of the school, and says a brochure will be mailed on request.

CAROUSEL PRE-SCHOOL, 366 Cherry Ave., was purchased April 28, 1958, by C. E. Robison. Mrs. Emma Pepping, who has been with the school approximately six years was appointed director.

As director, Mrs. Pepping praises the efforts of the highly qualified teachers with whom she has been associated for many years. The school is for children in the 2 to 6 age group, and is now accepting enrollment for kindergarten class which begins Sept. 15. A large, supervised playground with a special "2-year-old yard" enables the children to play with others of their own age. Hot, nutritious meals are served daily. Special emphasis is on music and group singing. The school is open Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGE OF COMMERCE offers to selected secondary school and college graduates a sound program of business training and higher accounting, including background courses in secretarial training and business administration under the supervision of a California state certified faculty. With enlarged facilities and staff, the secretarial department will offer courses in stenotype, speedwriting, and Gregg shorthand, in executive secretarial and secretarial service, and specialized refresher courses for the short-term student. Jack Flanders, director and dean of the accounting department, announces many new courses in higher accounting, business administration, and CPA coaching. He announces the beginning of a new term for the career-minded young person who wishes to take executive training to qualify for the business office, in the near future.

Opening date for evening classes will be Sept. 8 with classes in session each Monday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. All business subjects are available. Full day classes begin Sept. 22.

California College of Commerce is located at 851 Pine Ave.

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL for Boys and Girls, 1416 East Ocean Blvd., is now enrolling children for upper and lower kindergarten, first and second grades. Directors and owners, Mrs. Florance Lewis and Miss Eloise Wallace, are particularly proud of the large turf playground, which includes hand-made custom play equipment designed on an animal motif and is completely fenced for the children's safety.

The school is the oldest private school in Long Beach, founded approximately 27 years ago. All teachers are accredited and hold degrees in education. Balanced diet meals are served daily. School hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Transportation is available. A summer camp program also is offered.

Justice for All

WHAT CAN BE DONE for the 300 people each month who come here for help? Although he spends an average of two days a week in court, Silverman finds that a large percentage of the cases can be handled by phone calls, letters, mediation and an abundance of advice. However, as in the case of Mrs. Adams, the ways of the law are intricate but efficient. Her husband was located in an eastern city. Through a reciprocity system, the district attorney there ordered him to appear in court where it was proved that he was deficient in his support payments in California. The eastern court then had the authority to enforce the California ruling that he make equitable monthly allotments for his children. Daily co-operation with legal officers in other states is just one of the many techniques at Silverman's disposal.

In the cases of debts and wage attachments, often the mediation of an attorney will work out a solution of gradual repayment equitable to both parties. At other times, problems can be resolved in one office conference where Silverman makes use of the lawyer's best known resources — time and advice.

HOWEVER, HE IS quick to add that these services, though free, are not charity. "In a complicated judicial system such as ours," he explains, "there really can be no equal access to law and justice without the services of a qualified lawyer." If only the financially able could retain attorneys, something would be obviously wrong with our concept of justice.

According to a Legal Aid pamphlet, "this service will not be furnished to any applicant who simply does not want to pay—it is only for those who cannot pay." For that reason and because of limited personnel, certain cases are automatically excluded. Matters, therefore, involving the recovery of money or property, criminal cases and divorce (except in certain emergency situations) are referred, upon the client's request, to a revolving list of private attorneys through the Lawyers' Reference and Criminal Reference Services or to such public offices as the City Prosecutor or Public Defender.

THE LONG BEACH Legal Aid Foundation is entirely lawyer-supported. However, it has been extremely fortunate in getting invaluable assistance from various service organizations. Volunteers from the Junior League and the Community Volunteer Organization come in regularly to assist with interviewing applicants, while the Lawyers' Wives have taken the responsibility of furnishing the offices.

Free legal service to those in need goes deeper than the mere sense of obligation of the Bar. Justice Brennan of the U. S. Supreme Court recently said, "The very foundation upon which a democracy is founded and without which it must inevitably fail is that equal justice shall be available to all citizens."

Throughout the country, lawyers are supporting legal aid offices because they know that justice is indeed a right—not a privilege.

FULLER'S SPECTACULAR NEW HOUSE PAINT

ADDS AT LEAST 2 EXTRA YEARS OF PAINT BEAUTY TO YOUR HOME

Revolutionary new kind of paint for wood! Gives your home a fresh new-painted look for 2 years longer than the finest paint you've ever used! Holds its colors, keeps its gloss for years! Spreads faster, easier than the best of them! Dries hours sooner! And costs no more than ordinary house paint!

THERE'S NEVER BEEN A PAINT LIKE IT BEFORE . . .

The original formula was developed in 1951.

Fuller chemists, through know-how and continuous research, found that by combining certain new "miracle" materials, they could produce an exterior paint so resistant to wear, so amazingly superior in every way that it made even the finest house paint seem old-fashioned by comparison.

Two of America's largest chemical laboratories tested and confirmed these findings.

FULLER WANTED TO BE SURE

Out into the field went Fuller's men. Homes all over the West were painted with this astonishing new kind of paint. As the number of these test-painted homes grew . . . and today there are hundreds of them . . . Fuller's chemists watched, tested, compared.

RESULTS WERE PHENOMENAL

Fuller House Paint met every rigorous test of weather and wear . . . it outperformed the finest house paints.

Today, because of this tremendous 7-year field experience, Fuller can offer you this revolutionary new house paint, without qualification, as THE FINEST HOUSE PAINT YOU CAN BUY.

If you're going to paint . . . get 2 extra years of beauty for your home . . . at no extra cost! Get new Fuller House Paint!

W. P. FULLER & CO.

This native American swine, the javelina, is noted for his poor vision and occasional belligerence.

the bristles are marked by rings of gray, straw-color and black. The peccaries are the only native swine in America and are especially prevalent in Mexico.

After the kill, the musk sac has to be removed at once in the field lest it taint the meat.

The game department considers any centerfire rifle legal for shooting in Arizona but suggests small bore guns as they don't tear up the meat so much. Bows and arrows also are used. One section of the Tucson Mountain Game Management Unit is restricted to archers. The only license needed is the javelina license and seal.

DON'T RISK YOUR MONEY ON A NEW HOME THAT CAN'T OFFER THESE 4 GUARANTEES

Two out of three homes built today are electrically obsolete.

They're not wired properly. They're not lighted properly. They offer few, if any, built-in electric appliances. You can never be assured of getting full resale value out of one of these "new" homes.

Don't risk your hard-saved money in an obsolete home when you can buy a Medallion Home that need cost no more.

PROTECT YOURSELF. MAKE SURE THE HOME YOU BUY WEARS THE MEDALLION HOME AWARD.

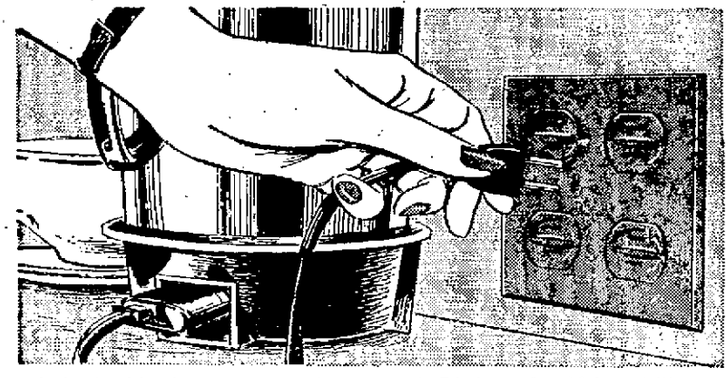

1. Major electric appliances already built in. They're part of the original house plan, not out-of-pocket extras.

2. Provisions for proper lighting. Eye-saving lighting that is both decorative and functional—located where you need it.

3. Ample wiring for present—and future—needs. It's in and paid for—it'll accommodate today's appliances and those you'll want tomorrow.

4. Insured resale value. Because the future is all electric, a Medallion Home will remain modern—your investment is protected.

"DOC" CHA-KEM-CO SAYS:

if the LEAVES ARE FALLING OFF YOUR TREES

...they could be DYING from LACK OF WATER!

NOT SURFACE WATER THAT RUNS OFF AS FAST AS YOU APPLY IT BUT DEEP DOWN WATER AT THE ROOT SYSTEM

Terr-O-Vite will correct this fast BECAUSE:

The exclusive ingredients in Terr-O-Vite makes WATER WETTER for maximum penetration deep down to the vital root area.

This deep penetration in all types of soils not only eliminates surface run-off of the vital life-giving water but it carries the fast acting plant nutrients and the magic working Chelates (Kee-lates) down to the area where they can become immediately available to the deepest roots. The combination of plant nutrients plus the available life giving water should immediately check all premature leaf-drop and restore your weakened trees to their full vigor. For beautiful lawns, healthier plants, fast growing trees and shrubs buy economical easy to use Terr-O-Vite from your garden supply dealer.

Tips on Cymbidiums

By Joe Littlefield

CYMBIDIUMS grow and bloom just about as sensily as do camellias, provided they are fed periodically during their active growing season, watered regularly, their foliage is bathed frequently, and the plants get lots of light. They seem to like the filtered sunlight of a lath house, or the light and shade of tree.

Ask a half dozen cymbidium specialists what fertilizer to feed the plants, and you'll possibly get four different answers. The consensus seems to be, to feed them a fish base fertilizer for about the first half of the feeding season. Last half of the feeding program is to use a complete balanced liquid fertilizer that contains more phosphorus.

Feeding season starts about the time they're through blooming. Then they begin their vegetative active growth. Last feeding takes place in late summer.

POTTED CYMBIDIUMS may be sunk in the ground during hottest part of the summer. Last inch of plant pot top should be above the soil level, so dirt doesn't wash into the pot. An inch of pea size gravel in bottom of hole discourages soil worms from burrowing into the plant root zone area through the hole in bottom of the pot, possibly clogging up the drainage hole. Soil is firmed around the pot, as if the plant were set out in the ground. Watch for snails, and particularly slugs. Snail and slug powder scattered frequently and lightly over the soil surface around the plants prevents possible damage from this source.

Cymbidiums need porous soil, frequent watering and periodic fertilizing.

Now is the time to pull up your old sweet peas, if you haven't already done so, and begin preparing your soil for the new ones.

Preparation of the soil is highly important, and doing so about three weeks before planting is advisable.

Due to the fact that many sweet pea plants succumb to pests and disease before they have a chance to get started, one of the most important things you can do to safeguard their early health is to disinfect the soil in which you are going to plant them with a combination of copper and ether (dichlorethyl ether) . . . a material widely used as a soil disinfectant.

New Queen Among Camellias

All-America Camellia Sections winner for 1959, a pink beauty, takes its place among the greats of the garden.

By Ralph M. Dasher

"SWEETHEART," the All-America Camellia Selections Winner for 1959, is a lovely pink, formal double C. japonica, beautiful in form and coloring and as attractive as its very appropriate name.

The All-America title, the most important honor which can be attained by a camellia, is awarded by All-America Camellia Selections, Inc., an independent organization of America's leading hybridizers and nurserymen.

Sweetheart was placed under test in 1953 in competition with other important new varieties and, during its three-year trial period, was scored upon many different qualities considered essential in a camellia worthy of AACS honors.

A HANDSOME shrub, bushy and compact in habit, Sweetheart has foliage of thick texture, dark green and profuse, which makes the plant attractive even when not in bloom. Buds are produced quite evenly throughout the plant and, as plants age, are borne very generously. Young plants seldom are overloaded, but blossoms are of such quality that each is a treasure.

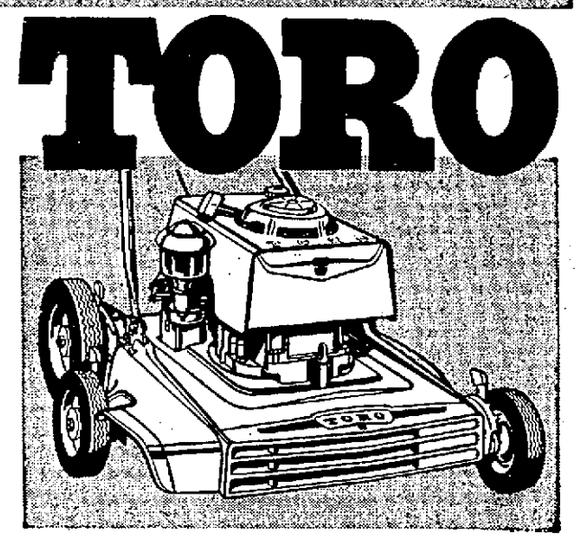

The flower form of this All-America winner is best described as full formal double, tight bud centered until complete maturity, when a cluster of short, golden tipped stamens may appear. Occasionally, there may be a semi-double flower with fluted petals, which displays the attractive golden stamens. Flower size averages about 3½ inches, but has been known to attain 4½ inches, particularly along the West Coast.

Coloring of Sweetheart is unique and to term it pink is to do the flower an injustice. Shadings are more of an apricot pink, as observed at times in tuberous-rooted begonias, a color rarely found in camellias. Such coloring constitutes a shade difficult to reproduce, either by the printer's or photographer's art, but it possesses the advantage of avoiding the bluish cast which other pinks often show under artificial light. Sweetheart remains a clear and pure pink, even under fluorescent lighting. Veining may be a deeper pink on occasion and, infrequently, a bloom may be softly marbled with white, an attractive variant.

SUBSTANCE is excellent, making Sweetheart excellent corsage material, and florists who have worked with the blossoms find it a most rewarding subject. Cut flowers last exceptionally well.

During testing, plants survived temperatures of 15 degrees above zero in Atlanta without apparent injury, and the variety appears equally adapted to outdoor and greenhouse culture. It is adapted also to container culture, remaining compact, well-foliaged, producing quantities of flowers. In Southern California, where the variety has been observed since 1943, the year of discovery, blossoms will appear as early as Thanksgiving and will continue to appear as late as the middle of March, an exceptionally long period for bloom.

Deep in the green forests of Oregon is Red Higgins' Wallowa Horse Ranch, a spot which the Nick Pastor family (above) of Los Angeles terms "ideal."

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

'Lucky' Dude Ranch

By Al Krieg

NICK PASTOR, a Southern California businessman, reined up his horse on the crest of Backbone Ridge and said, "I sure was lucky to find this place."

He was talking about Red's Wallowa Horse Ranch, a cluster of neat log cabins lying in a narrow grassy valley near La Grange, Ore. The ranch, surrounded by tall pines and low-growing ferns, vine maple and huckleberry, had been the vacation home for his family for the previous three weeks.

Before Pastor remarked about his good fortune he had been thinking about the dozen foot-long rainbow trout in his creel, the four jack salmon he had caught on previous afternoons in the Big Minam River just a mile from the ranch, and his daughters Lisa, 5, and Michele, 11, who had been introduced to horses this trip and now rode like Indians.

HE WAS ALSO thinking about the remoteness of the ranch which can only be reached

"We have a two-day stopover in Shannon. Can we see much by renting a car?"

BETTER, there's a two-day excursion tour out of Shannon now. Less expensive and less bother. You can get information on this by writing Shannon Free Airport, Ireland.

* * * *

"What about Guatemala for a two-week vacation?"

I think it is pretty good if you get out of Guatemala City. That's a rather uninteresting town. Nothing much to do. Mediocre hotels and restaurants.

The country though is great. There are a couple of good tour agencies there — I use Hayter Travel Service.

If you want to stay in one place for awhile, Antigua is the place. This is the old capital. But wonderfully built up for the tourist trade.

"Do you think it is all right for three girls to hitchhike through Europe? We do not have too much money. . . ."

NO. Save just a little more money and ride second-class trains and buses. Stay in youth hostels for $1.50 a night.

Hitchhiking is very uncertain. Mainly because there are not as many cars in Europe. The cars are smaller than ours. And you'll be lucky to catch cars that can add three more passengers to the load.

If you hitchhike, you can't be certain where you'll end up at night. And that means you may be forced to take more expensive hotels instead of the youth hostels.

* * * *

"What was the Japanese barbecued chicken you wrote about and where can you get it?"

It is called yakitori. Served in bite-size chunks on a bamboo skewer. And I have never seen it in the States. Too bad because it is great.

* * * *

"We are going to Hong Kong and want to buy some of those handmade lace tablecloths. Can you suggest a store?"

THERE is a store run as an outlet for refugee work, a half block from the Peninsula Hotel toward the ferry. Same side of the street.

They may have them. But most of the lace work you want comes from interior China and will NOT pass U.S. Customs. Any work like this must have a clearance slip from the U.S. Consulate—a Certificate of Origin, they call it.

That is, it must show the work was not done inside China. Be sure you get it or they'll take the stuff away from you in Honolulu. A paper from the store may be offered to you. But this is not enough — even though the store may tell you it is.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

on horseback or by flying in with Oregon bush pilots, and of how his wife, Evelyn, was enjoying her vacation "roughing it" in a new log cabin, all fitted out with a fireplace, a modern bathroom, maid service and the pleasant murmur of the river just outside the front door.

Red's ranch represents quite a change from most dude ranch operations. It is out-of-the-way and will remain so because it is surrounded by a national forest the law says is and must remain a primitive wilderness area. That's why the fishing is so good — salmon, rainbow and steelhead trout in the Big and Little Minam Rivers, golden trout in Swamp Lake, eastern brook trout in Chavel Lake, and rainbows in Diamond, Tombstone and Steamboat lakes. Even with a liberal 30 fish-a-day limit, those under 12 inches are reserved strictly for streamside fish-fries, a picnic experience guests never forget.

In the fall the emphasis is more on hunting. First with the blue and ruffled grouse season in September, then deer in October and elk in November. Some of the largest deer and elk herds in the Northwest hang around these mountains—which helps account for the record of 100 per cent hunter success on deer and about 85 per cent on elk.

THE OWNER and operator of the ranch is Red Higgins, an unforgettable character whose personality continues to add to the charm of the place.

Red says the ranch was first established in about 1860 by horse thieves who used it as a base for stealing horses in Washington and selling them in California and vice versa.

In 1894, a doctor built a hunting lodge here which has been enlarged and is used today as the main lodge and dining room. In 1900, the first legal deed was issued on the 190-acre spread and a second log building was put up four years later by a logging company. The wranglers bunk there now.

Red says Chief Joseph, leader of the Nez Perce Indians, used the valley as summer hunting grounds and spent much time there when he carried on his pesky four-year resistance against the U. S. Army.

RED SAYS he likes his regular guest operation, but his real pleasure comes from the boys' and girls' camps operated in conjunction with the main ranch. Here he takes city youngsters, teaches them the fundamentals of horsemanship, fishing, tracking and camp cooking, then puts them with cowboy guides to explore this wilderness area and become intimately acquainted with the outdoors.

One thing all guests find themselves saying is the prefatory phrase, "Red says." You may try to hold off, but you won't see the first sunset at this ranch without finding it a regular part of your conversation, because Red Higgins is the authority on the horses, the fishing, the history and the lore of this area, and the best friend of every guest on the ranch, horse thieves excepted.

Break for Golfers

Golfers who fly to Scotland via Scandinavian Airlines System can leave their clubs behind and avoid excess baggage costs. SAS will arrange for a set of clubs for their use at many of Scotland's celebrated links—or golfers can purchase a set of famous "Master Makers" from the pro at St. Andrews. This is only one of hundreds of useful tips for the overseas traveler in "Shopping Your Way Through Great Britain and Ireland," a new guide prepared by Sally Ann Simpson, SAS' shopping expert. The booklet is available at all SAS offices.

CAMERA ANGLES

Wives Click Shutters

Warmth and appeal of a prize-winner is found in this box camera snapshot, taken by wife of a news photog.

By The Shutterbug

WHAT DO you need to be a photographer?

Some folks would say, a gadget bag of fancy lenses, light meters, flashguns, exposure meters and other equipment that totals up to several hundred dollars investment.

Not necessarily, declares one group of individuals who should know—the wives of some of the leading news photographers in the nation.

To the delight of 80 members of the National Press Photographers Assn., their wives have snapped pictures that stand out as good photography.

THEY DID THIS in a novel experiment.

Before the recent national convention of the Press Photographers in Minneapolis, 80 photographers and their wives were guests of Minnesota resorts for a week. The occasion: a picture-taking salute to the Minnesota State Centennial.

Naturally, the men brought along the expensive cameras that are tools of their trade. Each of the women on this pictorial holiday was provided with a Brownie Starflash camera outfit.

Candid shots, scenic landscapes, indoor flash pictures and snaps that had the human interest their husband's editors would welcome showed up when the wives' photographs were judged by a panel of leading newsmen. In all, these judges looked at 7,000 pictures made by men and women.

Here are 10 quick tips for better snapshots:

1. Hold the camera steady. Most box camera shutters are set for about 1/50th second. That's fast enough to freeze some action on the part of the subject . . . unless the photographer jiggles the camera.

2. Squeeze the shutter release gently. Jabbing jars the camera and causes fuzzy pictures.

3. Shoot when there is enough sunlight to cast shadows. Midmorning or afternoon sun is kinder to the people in pictures than the straight down sun that can cause harsh shadows over facial features at high noon. Let the sunlight come from over your shoulder and a little to one side.

4. Shoot from as close as you can without cutting off any important part of the picture. Some simple cameras can be used as close as 3½ feet. Five feet is minimum for many others.

5. Snap from a viewpoint which lets your camera catch the meaning of what's going on in a situation.

6. Keep backgrounds simple. Good backgrounds for pictures of people are these: sky, trees, grass, sand or a wall.

7. People in snapshots should be doing things. Catch them busy and unaware or ask them to pose as if they were in action.

8. Speaking of action, the best method for snapping moving people is to have them come right toward the camera.

9. When shooting landscapes, have a foreground object lead into or frame the picture. If the picture is primarily a scenic and you have a person in it, have him look at the scene instead of the camera.

10. To do justice to a sky full of puffy clouds, your camera needs a cloud filter. Black-and-white snapshots pack more punch this way.

PET PARADE

Tale of the Shy Dog

By Eleanor Avery Price

BECAUSE dogs, like people, vary in disposition just as they do in size, coloring and other features, the subject of a dog's temperament is difficult to discuss.

Most people prefer the friendly, bold puppy that comes eagerly forward to be petted and cuddled, and those who attend the dog exhibitions admire the showy canines that are not afraid of crowds, confusion, the show ring, and examining judges.

In spite of puppy testing laboratories, the complete answer as to whether a puppy's unsoundness lies with its owner or with its inheritance is not known, although it is generally assumed that temperament is mostly hereditary but that the potential of the puppy is strongly affected by the environment in which the pet finds itself over a period of time.

EVERY PUPPY should be given a chance to belong to society. It should live with the family, come into the home, see and hear television, look into mirrors, be taken into stores, into traffic, ride in the car, visit strange homes and meet strange people.

If it becomes a one-man dog, be proud of this fact or keep looking until you obtain a gregarious pet. Be kind, get to know the dog, play with him, feed him by hand, groom and tend him, talk to him, forgive his imperfections as you would be forgiven by your fellow men.

If, however, the dog seems afraid of any member of the family, or if it runs for cover when it hears noises or strangers approach, it should be given a "try" in a new environment if a suitable home can be found. In some instances, after being safely settled in another home, the shy dog has changed almost miraculously.

THIS DOES not necessarily reflect badly on the original owner. The first owner usually is the one who housebreaks the pet, corrects it when it chews at the furniture, and all attendant restrictions. A new owner might not have to do more than love and care for the dog. There is no tension between this master and the dog, so it becomes a contented, happy and useful part of the household, even to the point of eventually accepting noises and the presence of strangers.

If the dog does not adjust in any home, there is one more alternative. Providing there is money enough to pay for professional help, the dog can be put in the hands of a reputable trainer.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE

Adoration for little Christine Latimar shines through the eyes of Suzie, a happy, emotionally sound boxer.

EVERYTHING FAILING, the dog should be considered permanently harmed or irrevocably weak and it would be better off if quietly and humanely put to sleep. A miserably unbalanced dog is completely unreliable even to the point where it might attack its owner, or, worse yet, a child.

HOW TO Get New Look for Garden Structures

1. PAINT THE FENCE: Scrub off loose, powdery flakes with a wire brush before you start, so the paint will stick better. Remove rain-splashed dirt and dust with a whisk broom or dry paint brush. For renewal painting, thin the paint only enough to get smooth brushing qualities.

2. LOOK FOR LOOSE nails, weak joints. When ordinary nails are used on garden structures, they often work loose. If heads pop out, pull the nails and replace with rust-resistant nails. Tighten up bolts and lag screws in benches and gates at the same time.

3. STRENGTHEN POSTS. Trellises, arbors, and screens last no longer than their posts. If a post is weak at the soil line, reinforce it with an angle-iron brace. A 36-inch section is about right. Drive flush with the post, using another section to simplify hammering.

4. USE TWO ANGLE irons at opposite corners if the post is very weak and must support a heavy structure. Fasten with three or four heavy screws, staggered to give maximum bracing. Paint the angle irons to match the posts, and the repair will be inconspicuous.

A New Wrinkle in Men's Shirts

By Walter Finch

CARE AND folding of men's shirts often causes bickering between husbands and wives. Husbands naturally view with alarm any scorched, wrinkled or spotty starched condition of their shirts after ironing. Many a wife has sprinkled her spouse's shirts with tears while vainly trying to iron them perfectly and fold them precisely the way it's done at the laundry.

At this point, the wife could answer, "The laundry doesn't iron shirts the way I do. If I had the equipment they have I'd do shirts perfectly every time, too." But she doesn't say this because she probably has never visited a modern laundry to see the six different machines upon which each shirt is fitted in turn, to be pressed or baked dry and smooth before folding and packaging. It is most unlikely that she has seen the newest wrinkle in automatic shirt folding machines because there are only two on the West Coast.

THIS FOLDING machine operates by a new method. Its flying steel arms move rapidly to tuck under the sleeves and tail while it folds the spread-out shirt into a compact size upon a stainless steel projection. Then an attendant slips over it a polyethylene plastic bag to keep it fresh until used.

The new-style fold leaves a shirt collar at its natural angle, as worn, and folds under the lower section of the shirt, not across the pocket but below it, in a less conspicuous place. The resulting packaged shirt can actually be stepped on by a heavy man without being marred at all. The automatic table which does all this in a few seconds is called "Prosperity" by the manufacturer and the cost runs into four figures.

The new method of ironing shirts is done by two operators working six machines. The folding table is only one. First, a worker shakes out a washed wet shirt and then puts the sleeves over two adjustable frames, cuffs up. The frames are then tightened to fit the sleeves which are smoothed over it quickly by hand. A button is pressed and the shirt sleeves are guided into a cabinet of this first machine which releases them automatically when thoroughly dried and pressed by metal sleeve irons inside. The cuffs are next on a mangle press, padded and curved for correct fit. The device is electrically gauged and controlled to raise the hot iron when the cuffs are just right and not scorched. Cuffs are not turned up.

Machine No. 3 is a collar press, shaped like a collar and able to iron inside and out without wrinkles or buckles. Like the other ironing devices, it has a safety starting-control feature which requires two starting lever on either side to be pressed simultaneously.

The yoke, difficult to do by hand, is ironed on the next device which is molded to fit the contour of a man's shoulders. Like the cuff and collar machines, it is padded with sponge material which is covered with double-faced nylon.

THE FINAL OPERATION finishes the body of the shirt. Placed over steel springs, shaped to body form, it is stretched to proper tension for smooth, unwrinkled results.

BOAT TALK

Speedboat Showdown

By Bob Ruskauff

"I'LL GUARANTEE," said driver Bob Martin "that you'll see the closest racing you're likely ever to witness in Long Beach Marine Stadium."

Martin is one of 152 members of the United Speedboat Assn., which today plays host to final race action of the Western Divisional Stock Outboard Speedboat Championships.

On hand from 10 western states are more than 225 drivers in the prime racing fleets of stock outboards, both hydroplanes and runabouts.

For those emerging champs in some 10 classes, it will mean they're in free, a week hence, when 1958 National Championships are held at Miami, Fla.

ALL 225 WON'T battle today. They were to separate the men from the boys in elimination heats Saturday. Only the top 12 boats in each fleet (the maximum number APBA safety rules allow on the course) will see action, starting at noon.

By the numbers, stock outboards rate 3-to-2 over all other divisions in the huge roster of the American Power Boat Assn. —including the unlimited, racing outboard and limited inboard hydroplane-runabout classes. In all, more than 3,800 drivers race stock throughout the nation.

Youngest of the speedboat breed, stock outboards are strictly post-War II racing babies. They jumped by numbers from the beginning, but only in the past three years has an important ingredient (spectator-wise at least) been added. The item is speed.

THIS IS IN SOME part due to advanced hull designs, but mostly because of tremendous strides made by the manufacturers of stock engines all engaged in a mighty struggle for supremacy. To win it, the kingpin must come up with two items: Performance and horsepower. With both, speed is an important item. The proving ground is stock racing. The willing guinea pigs are the drivers.

Some of today's boats will be able to hit 75 miles an hour before they skid into those dangerous, single-buoy turns of Marine Stadium. Speeds are 15-25 miles faster than they were three years ago.

Bronco-busting outfits and sell-for-leather drivers will be needed. Action is close-knit—which is why Martin was doubtless right.

BOAT HOOKS: Star boat sailors, 30 strong, Monday sail the first of five world championship races off San Diego; Newport Harbor Yacht Club's traditional "Race Week" ends this afternoon; fall-summer series sailing continues at Alamitos Bay.

PENNANTS

Do not be confused by the word pennant. A mooring pennant is a line used to make fast to a mooring. A pennant is a flag. Irish pennants are loose rope ends in the rigging or even useless bits of gear found in a boat.

CHARLIE COLE
They're Large

FOR YEARS the cuisine at Hoefly's, 4911 E. 2nd St., Belmont Shore, has enjoyed a reputation which has attracted the patronage of local civic leaders, top businessmen and quite often a movie or TV celebrity from Hollywood.

It's no coincidence that during all these years the head chef at Hoefly's has been Charlie Cole.

Charlie, who was hired by owner Irving Solomon 'way back in 1946, is known in the trade as a chef's chef. Or an expert's expert.

He has an extra sense which tells him how long a steak should be left on the charcoal broiler so it comes out perfectly seared outside and the exact shade of pink inside. He also has a remarkable talent for preparing prime rib fit for a sultan's taste. A 16-ounce cut of prime rib (eastern quality, of course) is $3.75 at Hoefly's and worth every penny. The price includes an elegant tossed salad with choice of dressing, a quality baked potato with cheese sauce and chives or melted butter, and choice of beverage.

CHARLIE'S STEAKS run large. The handsome 16-ounce fillets, New Yorks and top sirloins are priced from $3.95 to $4.50. For persons whose appetites are smaller, he prepares an eight-ounce top sirloin for $2.75. The steaks are accompanied by the same side dishes as the prime rib.

In the complete dinner department, Hoefly's offers such entrees as charcoal-broiled northern whale halibut steak, $2.50; swordfish steak, $2.50, and charcoal-broiled chicken (a two-pound portion) for $2.75. These items are accompanied by soup du jour, tossed salad, potato, choice of beverage and dessert.

The restaurant, which features piano entertainment nightly by stylist Keith Carver, serves from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, dinners to 1 a.m. Sunday dinners are from 3 to 11 p.m.

A young boy's heart-to-heart talk with the President

August 17, 1958
REG. U.S. PAT.

Ike chats with White House visitor Glen Bayless, Jr., 11

CURLED UP for a film scene, Sophia came to U. S.—land of her benefactor—to make That Kind of Woman.

I'll always remember . . .

To me, he was 'Giorgio'

by SOPHIA LOREN

During World War II, the Nazis bombed us out of our home in the little town of Pozzuoli, Italy. My mother, sister and I went to live with relatives in Naples. Seven of us shared one tiny room. I was 8 years old.

We had almost nothing to eat. A half pound of bread, divided among all of us, seemed like a feast—when we could get it. I was ragged, skinny and sick with malnutrition. One day I went hunting for food in the streets. I had no luck.

On the way back, I wandered into a shoe-repair shop. There sat a tall, handsome soldier having his shoes shined. I had heard someone say that the American G.I.'s had just come to town.

He must have known I was hungry. Although I didn't understand his language, I realized that he wanted to know my name. I told him, and asked him his. "George," he said, repeating it in Italian—"Giorgio." From a knapsack he pulled a package of G.I. food. I thanked him and ran all the way home.

That day we had a feast—concentrated coffee and other G.I. rations. After that I saw George quite often. I remember him best seated at a piano in a room where the G.I.'s gathered. He wore glasses and played boogie-woogie.

Once he took me to the medical station at his camp where the American doctors fixed a wound on my chin. It had been hurt during the bombing. And always, George gave me food to take home.

During those lean months, he helped keep me and my family alive. He was my first contact with America. Then one day I didn't see him any more. George had gone to fight the war somewhere else.

Now I am in his country to make a motion picture. I find myself staring at faces in the street in the hope of meeting him. I don't know his last name or what state he came from. Probably I shall never see him again. And yet, maybe he will read this and know that all these years later, I still thank him from the bottom of my heart.

On Parade

On today's cover you see a scoop in the making. The scoop: an unprecedented heart-to-heart talk with President Eisenhower. The scoop-maker: Glen Bayless, Jr., of Arlington, Va., all of 11 years old.

At the request of PARADE, Glen was allowed into the White House to peep behind doors marked "Private," to talk to the President's top aides, like economic adviser Gabriel Hauge (below), and finally—as a surprise—to chat with the President himself.

While Ike took time to answer Glen's questions, photographer Larry Fried documented the meeting with candid pictures.

Our Glen was a news-getter. Escorted by PARADE's Fred Blumenthal, he learned Ike's favorite popular song, discussed the nation's economy with expert Hauge and learned from Ike's own lips what he considers the hardest part of his job. For Glen's scoop, turn to page 8.

What's your opinion of the Salk anti-polio vaccine?

Some 3,500 Americans were recently asked this question. Their answers, reported today by PARADE's Robert P. Goldman, revealed some startling misconceptions. As a result, some 40 million Americans are risking death or paralysis — needlessly. To find out if you are, see page 24.

Wesson Oil

takes the smoke out of frying!

SOLID SHORTENINGS SMOKE BECAUSE they contain an emulsifier. This additive is good for baking, but smokes at frying heat. Shortening that smokes is breaking down, and that can hardly be good for you.

WESSON OIL DOES NOT SMOKE BECAUSE it is vegetable oil in its purest form—nothing added. So clear and delicate, you never taste it. No other oil as fresh, as pure and as light—or more highly rated for good nutrition.

Smoke's out! Flavor's in!

Enjoy cleaner frying with no clinging odor

Brighter flavor in foods—no greasy film even after they've cooled

Thrifty, too—you can use Wesson again and again

For good nutrition—Wesson is America's most readily available source of pure vegetable oil—unsaturated and unhydrogenated.

New idea—
Wesson Schnitzel Skillet

Dip veal steaks into beaten egg and then into bread crumbs—remember the salt and pepper. Chill slightly—it helps hold on the crumbs. Brown meat very slowly in Wesson Oil. Remove veal to warm platter and top each serving with a sunny-side-up, Wesson fried egg. Garnish with lemon wedges and perky sprigs of parsley.

CURAD®—the bandage that won't pull the scab off

New CURAD® with non-sticking Telfa® pad won't hurt when you take it off...won't reopen healing wounds

Not this!

Bandage with ordinary gauze pad sometimes pulls off scab, reopens wound, causes bleeding.

Now this!

CURAD Bandage with Telfa pad, free of scab, peels off without sticking to wound, doesn't hurt.

Here's why: The pad in the Curad adhesive bandage is the exclusive new Telfa.

Telfa is "the mercy dressing" that the nation's leading hospitals are using to prevent damage to healing skin tissue . . . speed wound recovery.

It has a plastic surface with scores of tiny holes in it that does the trick—allows wound to drain, but doesn't stick to the scab. So when you take it off, it won't reopen the cut.

Don't take a chance on hurting your children. Get a new Curad (the waterproof plastic bandage with germ-fighting medication right in the pad, too).

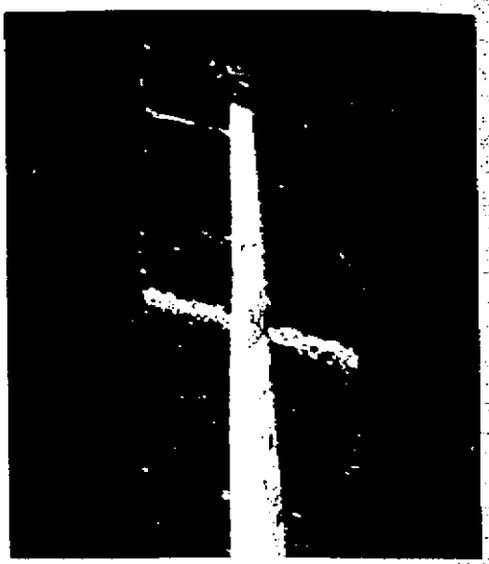

CURAD bandages for small wounds.

TELFA sterile pads for larger wounds.

MIAMI, FLA.

Now you see it. Now you don't. Under the floodlights at night, the steeple of the new South Miami Lutheran Church appears to have a cross. But comes daylight and the cross vanishes.

The phenomenon is caused by an unplanned flaw in the poured concrete which manifested itself only after the church was completed and lit. ■

How to keep your head —in 12 languages

WHEN NINE U. S. AIR FORCE men were shot down over Soviet Armenia last June, one of them was almost lynched by farmers because he couldn't tell them who he was.

"Americano! Americano!" shouted Major Bennie Shupe. But the farmers prepared a noose. Only after he screamed the names of a half dozen U. S. cities, did his captors stop the hanging party and realize that the airman was an American

If Major Shupe had known the eight Russian words printed below, he might have been spared an anxious hour and several kicks and bruises.

As Charles F. Berlitz, vice-president of the Berlitz Schools of Languages, who helped PARADE prepare this glossary of self-help phrases, points out, "It's not enough to know the word for something in a foreign language. You also must put the stress on the right syllables."

By learning this chart, you will be able to communicate — in an emergency — with over one billion people, or about half the world's entire population. These languages, plus English, are called world languages, which means that each is spoken by at least 50 million persons.

This phonetic system, developed for the Berlitz self-instruction books, uses letters instead of marks. Pronounce italicized letters as you would in English, and put the stress on capitalized syllables. For languages with different alphabets, only phonetics are given. ■

Eleven-year-old Glen Bayless, Jr., makes an unprecedented tour behind the scenes at the White House and is thrilled by...

A heart-to-heart talk with the President

by FRED BLUMENTHAL
Parade Washington correspondent

Today PARADE is proud to present a unique story. It is a simple story, but one as rich in humanity as it is in importance. It is the story of the biggest day in a boy's life—the day that Glen Bayless, Jr., 11-year-old seventh-grader of Arlington, Va., scooped the world by securing a candid and moving statement from President Dwight D. Eisenhower (see opposite page).

Not only was Glen accorded 15 minutes of the President's precious time, but drew from him—with a single, direct boyish question—a revealing glimpse of Eisenhower the Man, which any of the world's great reporters would be proud to call his own. What the President told young Glen is more than news. It is history. For the President opened his heart and for the first time revealed his innermost thoughts about the burdens that rest upon him. Here is the story of Glen's memorable day.

"SURE," said White House press chief James Hagerty, "the younger generation should know how the White House works."

So began the great adventure of Glen Bayless, Jr.

This is the season when thousands of American boys and girls come to see their capital and gain inspiration from its beauty and history. Because PARADE wanted its readers to share in a dream of youth, the editors requested and received Jim Hagerty's permission to accompany young Glen on a tour of the White House. Not just the tourist trip of the White House, but a peep behind those doors marked "Private," where the work is done, and a meeting with some of the men and women who are shaping the country's destiny.

Hagerty cautioned that a meeting with the President would be a million-to-one chance. But unknown to PARADE and Glen, luck and the President himself were on his side. Glen not only met the President but got from him a rare assessment of his daily problems and personal philosophy.

Glen was chosen by PARADE to visit the White House because he is a typical, alert, intelligent, inquisitive American boy. Sturdy, crew-cut, a student at Fairlington School, Arlington, Va., he also is a left-handed first baseman and a pitcher in Arlington's Little Major League. He comes from a typical, comfortable middle-class home. He has a pretty sister, Cindy, two years older, who can be critic or confidante as occasion demands. But most important of all, Glen is at the age when youth's dreams are brightest.

Glen's big day actually began the previous evening. As his mother and Cindy were busy pressing and polishing, inspecting shirts and selecting a tie, Glen paid a special visit to the barber and then came home to study up on White House lore. He learned that:

- The White House, whose cornerstone was laid on October 13, 1792, stands on 18 acres of ground, was originally called the President's Palace, has been called the President's House and is officially known as the Executive Mansion. President Theodore Roosevelt first labeled it "The White House."

Washington Never Slept Here

- The White House was designed by Irish-born architect James Hoban in a competition that won him a $500 prize, and is supposedly based on the Duke of Leinster's house in Dublin.
- Although George Washington selected the site, he never lived in the house. The first President to do so was John Adams, who took up residence in November 1800.
- The White House really should be called the Peering through the doorway of the President's office, Glen spies a familiar figure at his desk.

Rising from his seat, the President thrusts out welcoming hand and says, "How are you, young man?"

Warming up, Glen answers questions with polite "yes, sirs." Then the two sat down for discussion

Photographed for Parade by Larry Fried

President Eisenhower's reply to:

'What is the hardest part of your job?'

WHEN YOU SIT IN THIS CHAIR you are faced not only with the problems of the United States, but with those of the entire world. Every position you take and every decision you make is like throwing a pebble into a pool. Thus, the ripples spread out touching the lives of millions of people here and abroad.

In studying all the problems that come to this desk you have to ask yourself always two questions: What will be the short range effect of a decision? What will be the long range effect?

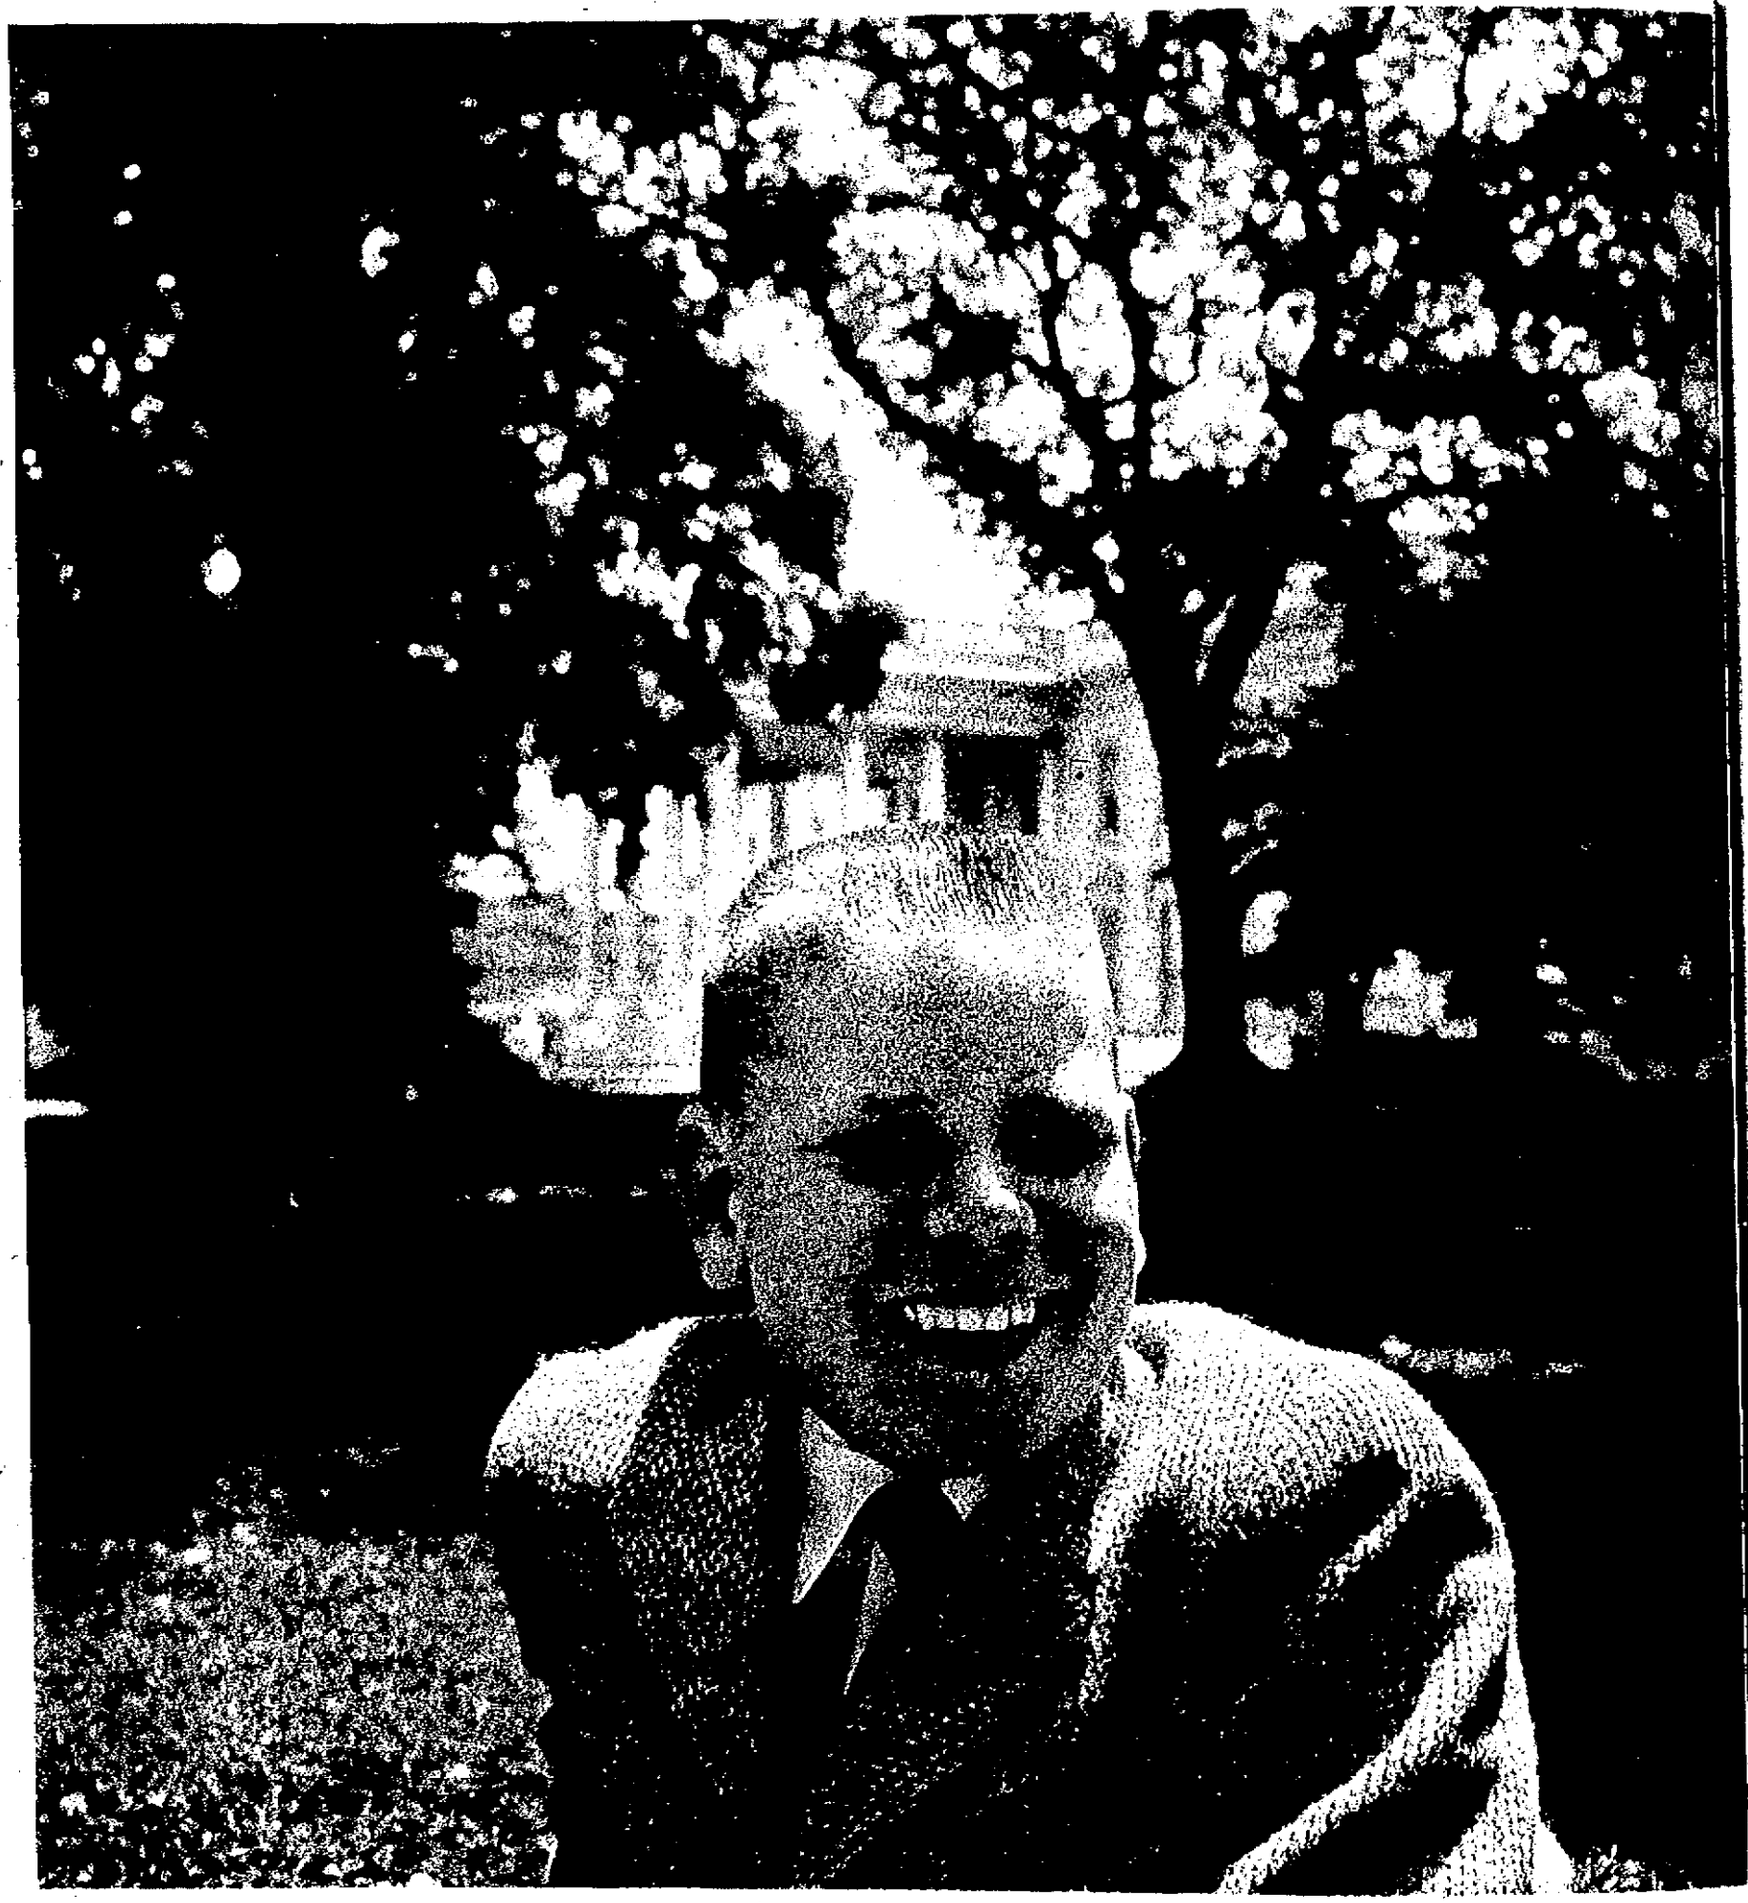

When I first sat down behind this desk I used to think that weighing the problems was the most difficult part of my day. But over the years my opinion has changed somewhat. Many problems come across this desk—economic problems, foreign policy problems, military problems, even space-flight problems. Possibly today there are more problems than ever. On the surface it would appear that working on these problems and trying to resolve them is the hardest part of the job. But the fact is that this is only the beginning.

As President I am first of all responsible for the welfare of the American people, not only for today, but for tomorrow, too.

What I do today cannot fail to influence the work of the man who follows me. Knowing that, I have come to the realization that making a decision is only the beginning. The true test is that it must be the very best decision of which I am capable and the test for that must be one's own conscience.

If I had to answer your question in two words, I would say the hardest part of the job is satisfying yourself. And by that I mean satisfying yourself that you have done your level best for the American people for today and tomorrow.

All smiles, Glen pauses on the White House lawn on his way to the West Gate entrance. Fortified with a peanut butter sandwich and milk, Glen stood up very well against "White House nerves."

The President's top aides show Glen the inner workings

At gate Glen is greeted and checked for security by White House Police sergeant.

Gray House, because its walls are of gray sandstone, quarried at Aquia Creek, Va. But after it was burned by the British on August 14, 1814, the walls were whitewashed to hide the marks of the fire.

- The White House was rebuilt a second time — by President Truman in 1948 — for safety's sake.
- There are 54 rooms and 16 baths in that part of the White House used as the President's living quarters, and in the entire building 132 rooms and 20 baths and showers.

A Policeman Clears an Obstacle

Early next morning, Glen was standing at the West Gate, looking up at the tall, blue uniformed White House policeman and explaining that he had an appointment with Mr. Hagerty. As the guard telephoned to check his credentials, he looked across the lawn and thought at once what a wonderful baseball diamond it would make. "If I were President," he mused, "I'd take out the fountain, cut down the trees on the right and have my own diamond. I could probably get a team together out of the Cabinet."

At last, cleared by the big sergeant, he strode briskly up the curving drive. Close by, tourists were making their way towards the public tour entrance to the White House. He could see them pointing at him, nudging each other and saying: "Why that must be the President's grandson, David." Glen didn't mind being a case of mistaken identity at all.

After that, impressions came so fast that Glen had a hard time keeping up with them. And there were so many questions to be asked. Those dazzling lights which seemed to be everywhere. How much electricity did the White House use? (159,000 kw per month.) Those portraits in the Cabinet room of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. He knew the Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington from his history book, but was it the original? (It is.) And were the portraits of Jefferson and Lincoln originals, too? (They are.)

He peered, one by one, at the name plates on the backs of the chairs of Cabinet members, and was intrigued by the fact that chairs used by other officials, called in to Cabinet meetings, had lower backs.

Suddenly, history took Glen in her arms. There, in the cool room, with its thick green carpet and massive windows, he sensed the glorious past and the challenge of the future. The thunder of great events echoed here, historic names took life.

Glen moved to the window and looked out, as he was to look out every window he came to during his visit. He was hoping for a glimpse of the President, the man in command today.

But now it was time for his appointment with James Hagerty ("the most important man I thought I'd ever meet") and to take his place with the White House press corps at their morning briefing. Glen was excited as he edged into the crowded office and found himself standing right beside Hagerty. But he did not expect a V.I.P. introduction, and he blushed as the President's press chief announced: "Gentlemen, we have a new correspondent with us today, Glen Bayless, Jr. Here's today's press release, Glen."

Glen Gets a Souvenir

Glen was not quite sure what a press release was, but before he could gulp twice, he had been handed some papers and the briefing was on. A good deal of it was baffling to Glen. But it was a thrill just the same. And when the briefing was over, there was a private chat with Hagerty and a souvenir to carry away—the press release, inscribed: "To Glen Bayless, Jr. Glad to have you at my news conference today. All my best. Jim Hagerty."

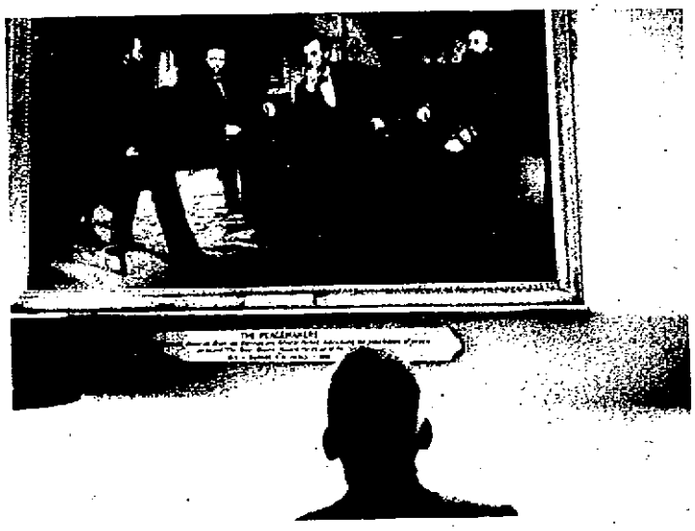

The moment now came to go behind the scenes: To meet Dr. James Killian, the President's chief scientific adviser and expert on such fascinating things as earth satellites, rocket ships and flights to the moon. To meet Chief U. E. Baughman of the Secret Service, the man responsible for the President's safety, and Capt. Robert Richardson of the Army Signal Corps, head of the White House's vast communication network. To meet and discuss stocks with Gabriel Hauge (see page 2), the President's economic adviser, and finally to meet Bob (Red) Redmond, the chief gardener, who mercifully was not told about that plan to convert his front lawn into a baseball diamond!

Moving through the corridors, Glen was puzzled by a soft buzzing sound. It was a new discovery in White House security. Glen learned that whenever the President moves through the White House the Secret Service men on duty always are warned in advance that "the President is approaching your post."

Dr. Killian was fatherly. He knew the kind of questions a boy of 11 would want to ask, and tried his best to answer them. He made it clear to Glen that flights to the moon still were some way off.

Captain Richardson told Glen that he was the youngest visitor ever to see the White House communications room where all the President's speeches

"Off-the-record" talk with White House scientific adviser, Dr. Killian, is about space travel and rockets.

Waiting to talk to the President, Glen sits patiently in leather chair in the anteroom outside Ike's office.

Glen makes a happy discovery: history can be exciting and statements are recorded, and from which in a matter of minutes he can address the nation.

He was told that the President always speaks into two live microphones—"because we cannot risk a mike going dead when the President is on the air." He was told about the elaborate recording equipment, the coding machines, two-way radios and teletypes which travel with the President so that no matter where he may be, Ike is always in touch with the world.

Naturally, Glen wanted to know President Eisenhower's favorite music. The answer: the theme song from High Noon and songs of West Point, which the President likes to hear in the evenings.

Secret Service Chief Baughman is the man with probably more answers about the White House and the President's habits than any other. Glen asked about the President's routine. (Up at 7:00 a.m., breakfast at 7:30 a.m., at work by 8:00 a.m., lunch at 1:00 p.m., then an hour's nap and back to work, sometimes till late at night.)

A Career for Glen

Impressed by lean, athletic Mr. Baughman, Glen decided there and then that he would like to be a Secret Service man, too. How many were in the White House and how many were in the Service?

Said Mr. Baughman: "The number of Secret Service men on duty here is a secret. That is part of the President's protection. But there are 270 agents throughout the United States in 57 offices."

It was a breather for Glen to get out in the sunshine with chief gardener Redmond and to admire his silky grass and priceless trees, each with a history. All presidents, Glen learned, plant trees. The oldest tree, an American elm towering 90 feet, was planted by President John Q. Adams. The youngest are those planted by Ike, a scarlet oak and a black walnut.

Then came a message that Mr. Hagerty wanted to see Glen again. "Golly," Glen later confided to Cindy, "I thought I'd done something wrong."

But there was a bigger surprise in store for him. Jim Hagerty smiled and said without any preliminary, "I think it may be possible for you to see the President. Just wait outside."

Glen's eyes bulged. His lips formed words that somehow got lost on the way out. He still could only nod, when Associate Press Secretary Mrs. Anne Wheaton hurried out and said: "Follow me, Glen, the President will see you now."

Glen does not remember how he came to the President's door and passed through it. His eyes only started to focus and his brain to register again when he faced a sun-tanned man in green sports jacket and dark slacks sitting behind a wide desk. It was the President.

The Biggest Moment

Ike looked at his young visitor for a moment, then took off his glasses and rose, stretching out a welcoming hand and grinning his famous grin. "How are you, young man? I've been anxious to meet you."

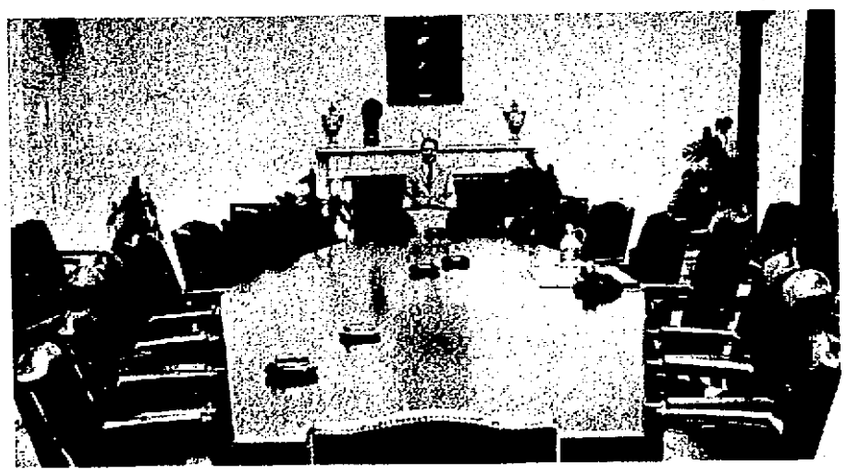

Glen was standing rigidly at attention, thumbs to the seams of his trousers. With his back like a ramrod, he marched to the desk and took the firm hand held out to him. His words came out crisply, though just a little hoarse. "How do you do, Mr. President." Then he proceeded to lose his tongue again.

But Ike, as a father and grandfather, knows how to deal with small boys. He coaxed Glen along by asking about the things he knew and gradually restored his confidence. At first it was a rather one-sided conversation. Questions about school and what Glen was studying. A series of "yes, sirs" from Glen. Glen was studying history, of course. "Yes, sir." What kind of history? "All kinds of history, sir." Had Glen heard of the Battle of Thermopylae? "No, sir, we haven't come to that yet." Had he ever heard of Carthage? Glen perked up at once. Yes, he knew about Carthage. The President listened, obviously pleased. The President agreed that Glen had the broad outlines of the Carthage story. He listened raptly as the President enlarged on the story of that famous city. (Later, Glen told Cindy: "I sure wish history was as interesting at school!")

His White House visit over, Glen goes home to wrestle with a pal

And then filled with new courage, Glen put his own question to the President—the one that had been in his mind all day:

"What, sir, is the hardest part of your job?"

For a moment the President was taken aback. Then he threw his hands up, with a big laugh, and said: "Sit down, son, I want to talk to you about that."

What the President said (see page 9) is one of the most moving statements he ever has made. His language was simple, for he never forgot that he was talking to a boy. Yet he talked as he has talked so often, over the greatest issues, to his closest colleagues in Government—thinking aloud, as he loves to do, not searching for fine phrases, but for the words that will express just what is deepest in his mind.

"Goodbye, Young Man"

He did not count the time. A boy of 11 had asked a question which was as important to the President as it was to the boy. And Ike meant to answer it.

And then, satisfied at last that he had done so, Ike was rising and holding out his hand again, as a signal that the interview was over.

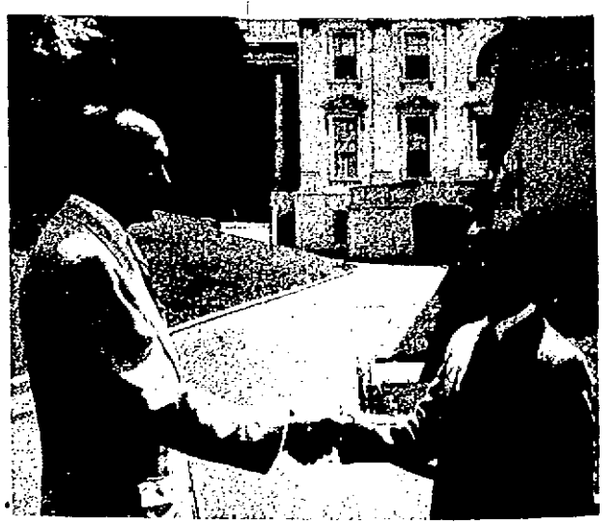

"Goodbye, young man, I am delighted to have been able to meet you."

"Goodbye, Mr. President."

It was a sparkling-eyed Glen who met Dr. Killian once more on the other side of the President's door, where he was waiting for an appointment. But there was no impatience in Dr. Killian's smile. He knew that this had been the biggest moment in the biggest day of a boy's life, and there are occasions when even affairs of state can mark time.

And so Glen's day was over. All the way home in the bus he was quiet, absorbed. Hardly saying a word to his mother and dad, he changed into jeans and T shirt and went off to find his friend, Mike Griffin, to wrestle him in the yard.

It was a late bedtime for Glen Bayless, Jr. He had so much to tell to Mother and Dad and Cindy, so much to say about the man who had made a boy's dream come true. ■

Glen's farewell handshake with Secret Service Chief Baughman outside White House ends an 11-year-old's rarest day.

One of the oldest forms of decorative pattern—the grille—has surged strongly back into favor this year. Airy wooden fretwork, metal filigree, open work in wrought iron, sculptured screens of cast cement are ornamenting houses, gardens, interiors, even furniture. Their lacey designs also have been borrowed to make decorative motifs for fabrics and wallpaper.

This "see-through" trend was sparked, say designers, by a recent development in contemporary architecture—the new use of a three-dimensional screen in place of a solid wall and a window or sliding glass wall. Similar grille-walls have been used for centuries to filter the strong Mediterranean sunlight that floods the houses of Morocco and southern Spain. Wrought iron grilles, too, are native to Spain.

Still another type of grille—a lattice of flat metal—has become a familiar sight this year, thanks to its use by architect Edward D. Stone for the United States Pavilion at the World's Fair in Brussels. All grilles, whatever their form or substance, have one quality in common—a look of airiness. On a wall, a grille pattern actually tricks the eye. The illusion that you can see through the open work makes the wall seem less confining and the room larger.

A great movie era ends with

Robert Taylor

Last of the big stars to leave MGM, he now looks to TV, independent films

Taylor and present wife, Ursula Thiess, were married in 1954.

by LLOYD SHEARER
Parade West Coast correspondent

HOLLYWOOD.

Twenty-five years ago, Spangler Arlington Brugh, a tall, blue-eyed cello player from Filley, Neb., went to work at $35 a week as an actor for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The studio changed Brugh's name to Robert Taylor, seasoned him in a series of short subjects. In one of these, Buried Loot, Taylor struck pay-dirt when he tapped a strong vein of feminine fan mail.

MGM decided the handsome young actor was blessed with star potential, and in 1934 began to feature him in full-length movies. In 1935 he was loaned to Universal Pictures to act opposite Irene Dunne in Magnificent Obsession. His stardom was assured, largely because women found his near-perfect features (6', 170 lbs., wavy black hair, natural widow's peak, glistening white teeth) cinematically irresistible.

Last month, after a steady but undistinguished career of 58 films and a quarter of a century at one studio, Robert Taylor left MGM. His last film as a contract player was a cheapie opposite Cyd Charisse called Party Girl.

Enviable Record

Taylor left the studio as he came, quietly, sedately, without fuss or fanfare. In 25 years at Metro, he had seen the company decline from a position of first rank to one of greatly reduced production. He had seen the biggest MGM stars of his era leave or die: Greta Garbo, Jean Harlow, Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, Rosalind Russell, Robert Montgomery, Wallace Beery, Jimmy Stewart, Norma Shearer, Mickey Rooney.

Now the last to depart, Bob Taylor has left behind an enviable record: He had never quarreled with studio executives no matter how wrong he considered their reasoning, how outrageous their demands. He had never been suspended or turned down a part, and had stubbornly insisted that "these fellows must know their business, or they wouldn't be where they are."

He had never caused any trouble, hurt any player's feelings, been involved in any Hollywood scandal. He had proved a shining credit to the industry.

True, he had divorced actress Barbara Stanwyck (four years his senior) after a childless, 12-year marriage (1939-51), but the divorce had been amicable. Unassuming and reserved, Taylor had taken his $5,000 a week, bought horses which he loves to ride, planes which he loves to pilot, a Wyoming cabin in which he likes to vacation with his second wife Ursula Thiess, stepchildren Manuela and Michael, and 3-year-old son Terence.

For a movie star of his magnitude, Taylor has been exceptionally modest. A few years ago he was having a cup of coffee at a restaurant counter in New York. A man approached. "My wife says you look like Robert Taylor," he began. "Anybody ever tell you that before?"

Taylor merely grinned sheepishly.

The man apologized. "I should've known better," he conceded. "A movie star like Robert Taylor with all his dough—he ain't gonna be drinking coffee in a joint like this."

SHYNESS was characteristic of young Brugh, shown here as Pomona College graduate in '33.

Imperturbable Cook

His fans probably don't know it, but Taylor is recognized as the foremost chef in the movie colony. His specialties: roasts, steaks, sauces, cakes and pies. Possessed of the most unruffled temperament in the movie business, Taylor has been angry, intimates say, only once in his life, and that was about food. It happened in London. Taylor and Ralph Couser, his best friend and co-pilot, ordered steaks sent up to their hotel room. When the steaks arrived, they were spoiled.

"Bob didn't say anything, of course," Couser relates. "But he shut the door to the room a little extra hard when we walked out."

In 25 years, Taylor has played opposite enough female stars to qualify as something of an authority on the subject of women. What does he say about them? Just this: "The first thing I notice in a woman is her voice. After that I look for sincerity. I can't stand coy women, clinging vines and domineering women who think they know all the answers."

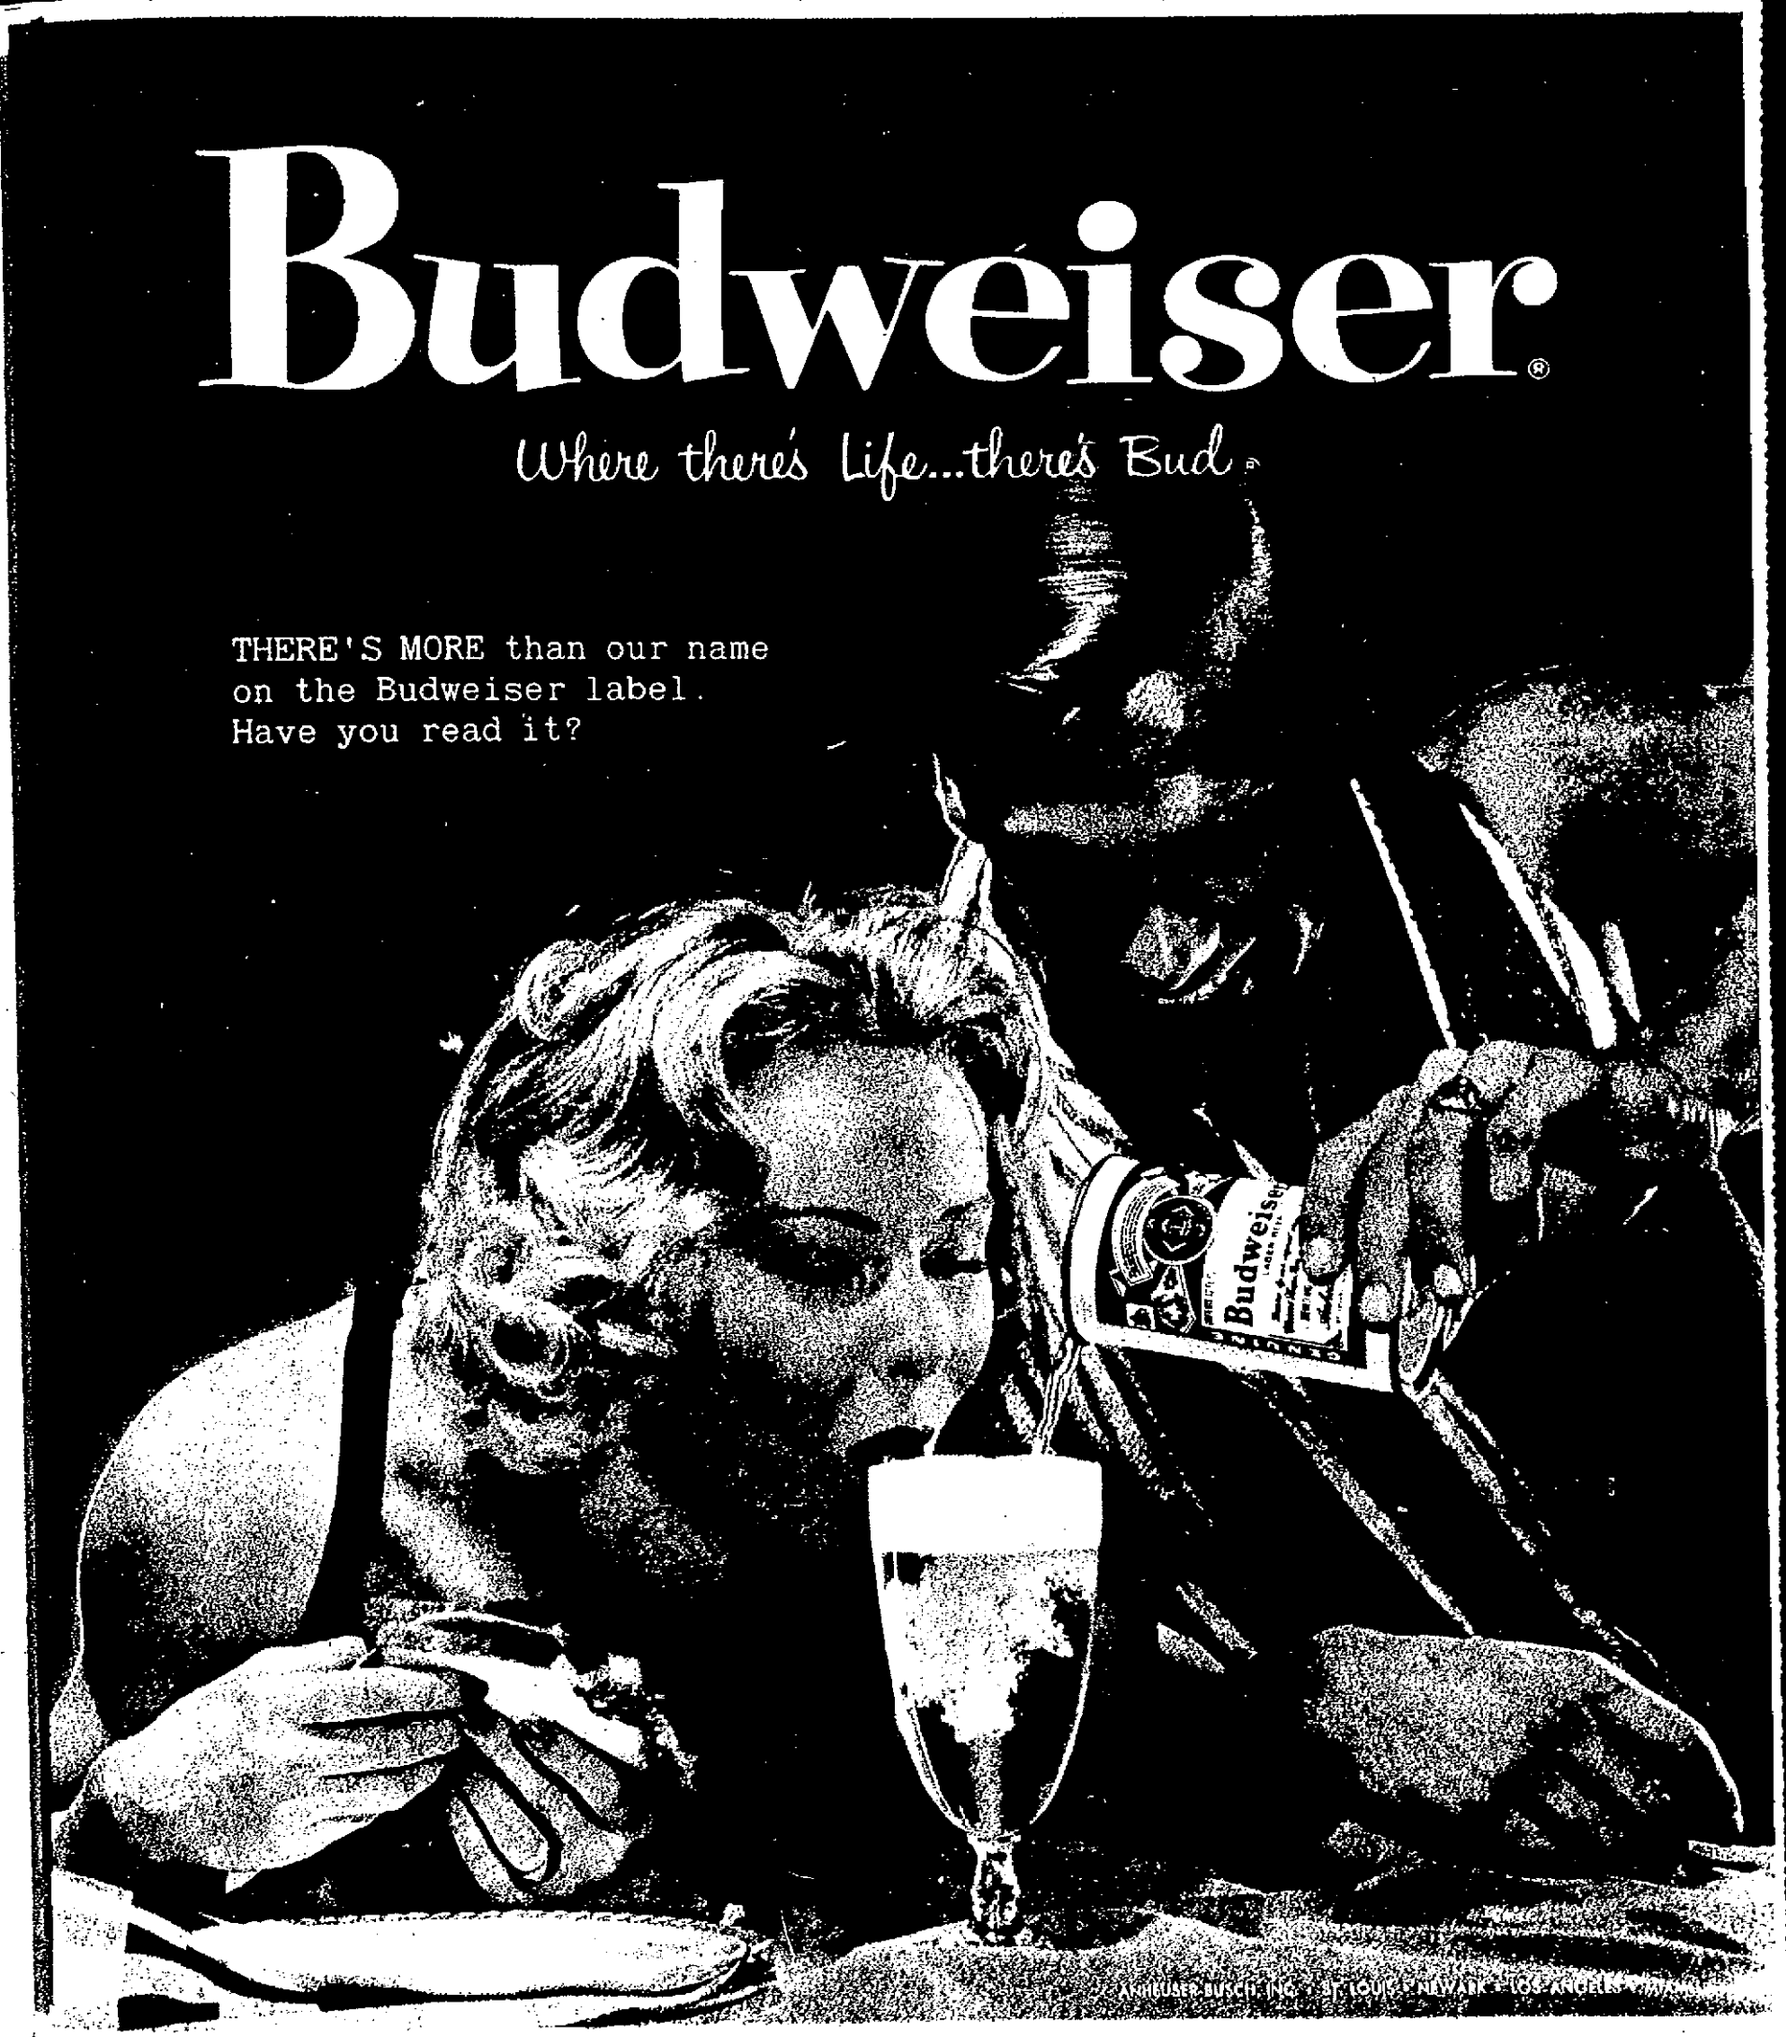

Although he has never been nominated for an Academy Award, actor Taylor at 47 has played everything from westerns to sophisticated comedies, knows as much about film-making as any actor alive. Like other studio-free stars, Taylor plans to investigate independent film production, perhaps even wet his feet in television. In today's star-shortage market, he is worth a minimum of $250,000 a film.

When Taylor drove off the Metro lot last month, one of the few remaining executives said with quiet regret, "There goes the nicest actor we ever had. In all the years he worked on this lot, he never once behaved like an actor."

PARTY SNACK FOR KIDS

Blackberry Mallows and Frosty Pink Fizz are the kind of cool, good-tasting mid-afternoon refreshment kids love.

by BETH MERRIMAN
Parade food editor

Part of the success of a children's party lies in keeping the refreshments simple—easy to make, easy to serve and not too difficult to eat.

Even more important, party treats should be dreamy to the taste and just different enough to appeal to a child's sense of fantasy. Luscious, fluffy Blackberry Mallows (recipe below) that melt in the mouth will whet the most finicky appetite, especially when accompanied by Frosty Pink Fizz.

The food is so light, the youngsters will have a mid-afternoon quick pickup, yet not go home too droopy-eyed or stuffed for dinner. It's party fare they'll remember with delight.

BLACKBERRY MALLOWS

2 packages blackberry gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
¾ cup light corn sirup
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ cup confectioner's sugar

Empty gelatin into small saucepan. Pour boiling water over gelatin; stir well. Stir over very low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved. Pour corn sirup into large bowl of electric mixer. Add dissolved gelatin; beat 15 minutes on high speed or until mixture is thick and of marshmallow consistency. Combine cornstarch and sugar; sprinkle two tablespoons in bottom of 10" square pan. Pour marshmallow mixture into pan; smooth top. Sprinkle with two tablespoons cornstarch mixture. Let stand in cool place (not refrigerator) about one hour. Loosen around edges with knife dipped in cold water. Turn out on a board sprinkled with two tablespoons cornstarch mixture. Cut into 1½" squares with wet knife; sprinkle cut edges with cornstarch mixture.

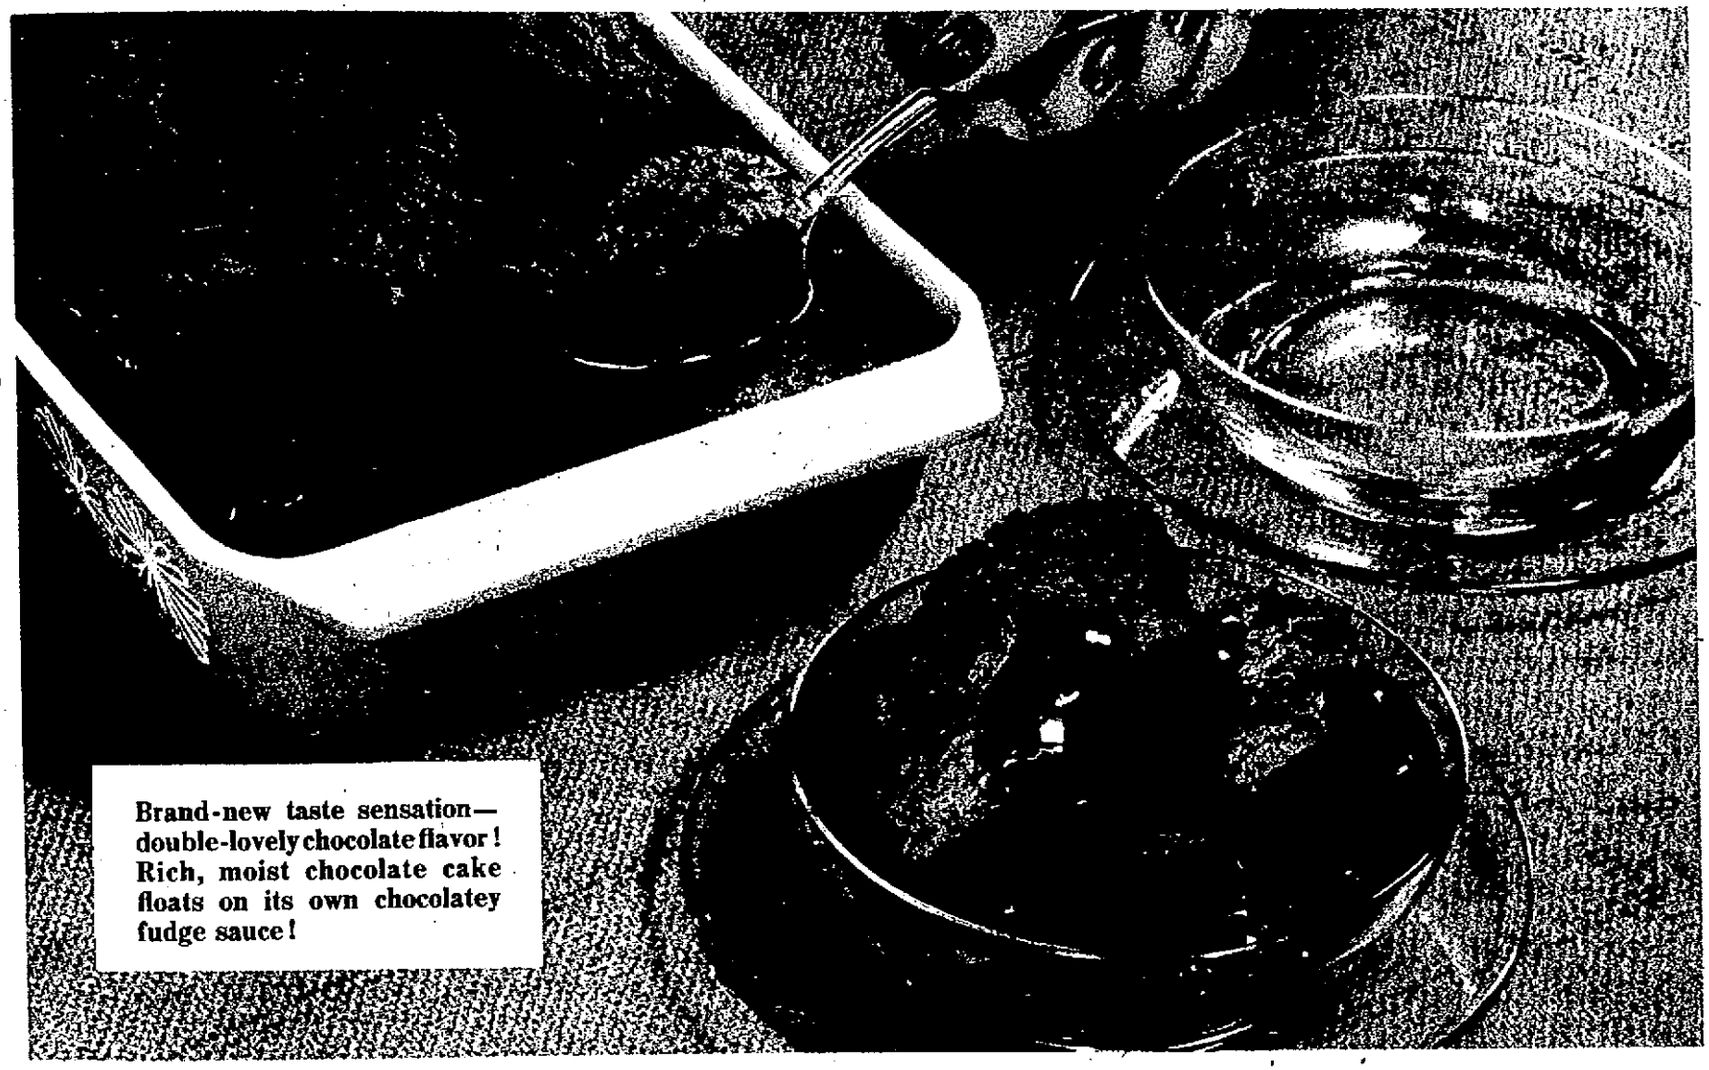

FROSTY PINK FIZZ

Place one scoop of lemon sherbet and one scoop of raspberry sherbet in each tall glass. Fill glasses with carbonated lemon-lime beverage.

Salk vaccine wastes away, but...

Millions still are

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

The photo (above) points up a distressing irony of our times. While millions of batches of polio vaccine rot on the shelves, 40 million Americans under age 40 have not yet received a single Salk shot.

What's more, 10 million of the unvaccinated are under age 5—the most vulnerable of all groups to polio. This, despite the vaccine's proven value (see timetable, right) in preventing paralytic, sometimes fatal, polio.

Disturbed, the National Foundation (formerly the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis) has asked more than 3,500 people across the U. S. their opinions about shots. The replies show:

1) Some parents of teenagers do not believe polio strikes the teen group. Thus, they do not feel a strong need for Salk shots.

2) Most uninoculated persons are in below-$5,000-a-year income groups. They are said to be less aware of the availability of vaccine than higher income groups.

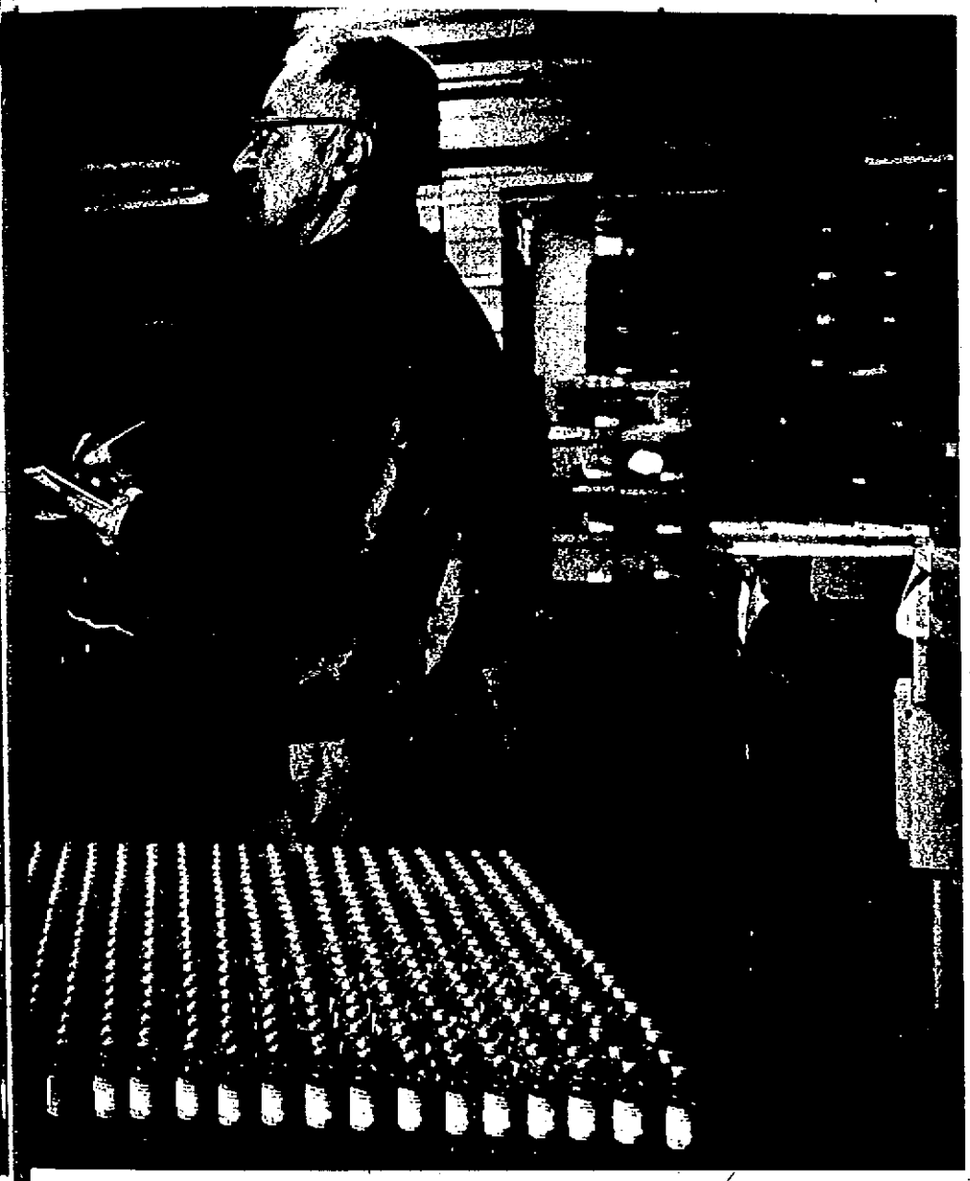

3) Some doctors are lax in recommending shots to parents.

4) Some parents resist the vaccine because they say they cannot afford it.

Despite these and other reasons, more than 65 million Americans have received shots. Still, Dr. Leroy E. Burney, Surgeon-General, U. S. Public Health Service, points out:

"During the first half of 1958, about 300 Americans became crippled or were killed by poliomyelitis. The number would have been far greater except for the Salk polio vaccine.

"There is still danger of polio outbreaks, however. Late August and early September are times of special risk for the unvaccinated and partially-vaccinated (three shots are recommended) because this is the time of year that polio usually reaches its peak.

"Many a child and adult now in perfect health will be stricken before the season ends.

"Since protection is so easy to obtain, it is hard to understand why so many have failed to act. Hardly a day passes that I do not hear of some family that took a chance and lost—a young father, too busy to see his doctor, who is now a lifetime cripple; a mother who failed to take her pre-school child to the clinic and is now childless; a young woman who believed 'it couldn't happen to me.'.

"Health agencies throughout the country are working hard to change such attitudes. The readers of PARADE can help this vital cause by getting vaccinated and urging their friends to do the same.

"Until everyone under age 40 is reached, none of us can rest easy." ■

Hay Fever Patients now open Nose-Sinus Zone with New 3-Layer Tablet

Clear, free breathing restored in minutes as congested nasal zone is decongested—stops sneezing, watery, itching eyes

Chicago, Ill. (Special) Observers here are hailing a remarkable new advance against the most unrelenting misery of hay fever – congestion in the nose-sinus zone.

A way has been found to decongest this congestion. This is the central fact which has aroused so much interest on the part of hay fever sufferers who have never found satisfactory relief from other medications.

Up to now, nose drops, eye drops, inhalers, sprays and antihistamines have given some measure of relief. But today you can expect much more complete comfort. This new compound reaches all the congested nasal areas from all sides, through the blood stream. It opens stuffed-up, blocked nasal passages. Free breathing is restored in minutes. Stops unpleasant sneezing; watery, itching eyes are cleared.

New Tablet Discovery

It took a new kind of tablet—made in three separate layers—to combine the special ingredients which make this formula so amazingly effective. Among them is a new decongestant substance so effective it has become the single ingredient most prescribed by doctors for relief of congestion in the nose-sinus area.

Available without Prescription

Now available without prescription—this new 3-layer tablet is called Dristan®. Its unique combination of ingredients—(1)opens up blocked breathing, (2) stops unpleasant sneezing, (3) clears red, watery, itching eyes. At the same time, Dristan helps the body meet the great demands put upon it by the stress and strain of hay fever, and bolsters the body's resistance to infection.

Hay fever sufferers who want faster, more complete relief than they have ever before obtained are advised to try Dristan Decongestant Tablets—satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.

THINK ABOUT DEATH and START TO LIVE!

It is human nature to put off thoughts of death as long as we can.

This is especially true when our years are young, our health is good, and we're having a wonderful time.

But even in this life, the true values and real joys of living come into clear focus only when we face up to the facts of death and ask ourselves: "What does it mean?"

Once we do this, the terrifying specter of death becomes less fearsome. We see it as a teacher, cautioning us to shape our lives in a manner pleasing to God. We see it not as a Grim Reaper, robbing us of our worldly pleasures, but as the golden gateway to God's greatest of all gifts—eternal life.

There are some people, of course, who believe that after this life there is no more. The pure and the sinful, they contend, all meet the same gloomy end of eternal nothingness; there is no judgment, no punishment, no reward. But if our reason did not tell us this is wrong, we have the clearer assurance of God Himself that man shall live on earth, shall eventually meet death, that he shall be judged and, upon that judgment, shall live eternally either in joy—or misery.

This has been the teaching of the age-old Catholic Church since the time of the Apostles. It is a doctrine that compels a Catholic to think of his life in terms of his death. It sounds like a gloomy doctrine to those who dislike to face up to the facts of death and the certainty of divine judgment, but Catholics are inspired rather than depressed by it.

However gloomy the prospect of death may be, Catholics are constantly reminded by the Church of the importance of facing up to it instead of trying to ignore it. In the month of November each year, the thoughts of the faithful are especially directed to the special considerations of that occasion when every human being must take off on that final "flight" to God's vast unknown.

If you would like to know how to think about death, what happens after death, how to think about heaven, how the Church helps its people at death, what's the right attitude toward death as Catholics see it, write today for our free pamphlet. It will be sent in a plain wrapper . . . nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. PR-53.

HOW TO COURT A JURY

by HERMAN E. KRIMMEL

A Milwaukee man who failed police sobriety tests was acquitted of a drunk driving charge when he suddenly flipped over and walked steadily across the courtroom on his hands.

An Iowa attorney, charged with running a stop sign, won his case by flipping a coin. "Under the law of gravity," he told the court, "the coin had to stop before it fell. However, you didn't see it stop in the air. I think that proves I stopped at the sign, but so fast that the officer didn't see me." Judge agreed, dismissed the case.

A Syracuse, N. Y., man was excused from jury duty when the judge discovered that the plaintiff in the damage suit was the prospective juror's daughter and the defendant his wife.

Acquitted of a wife-beating charge, a defendant in Galena, Alaska, was so overjoyed that he rushed over to the jury and blurted out: "I promise never to beat her again!"

• • •

In Torquay, England, a man, who was fined for being drunk and entering a lady's bedroom, remarked: "I thought it was the Y.M.C.A."

When a municipal court judge in Dayton, Ohio, asked a woman accused of bigamy if she wanted to waive to the grand jury, she promptly turned around and waved to the spectators.

A California judge ordered a new trial for a man charged with receiving stolen goods. He discovered the defendant had been escorting one of the lady jurors home from court.

In Chicago, a man asked to be sent to the county jail instead of the city jail because, he said, the latter didn't have a chorus and he already was committed to "the talent scout at the county jail." Request granted.

• • •

Told to raise her right hand to testify, a witness in Maryland raised her left. When the judge repeated the instruction she said indignantly: "This is my right hand. I'm left-handed."

In an Arizona courtroom, a solid wooden railing was built in front of the jury box after lady jurors complained spectators were ogling them.

Protesting to police that he had not been driving while drunk, a man in Colwyn Bay, Wales, proved it. He got down on the floor, placed a jar of water on the back of his neck, picked up a coin with his teeth, then rose without spilling a drop.

A Vancouver, B. C., woman who drove her car for the first time in 14 years was charged with "driving while her ability was impaired." Her lawyer contended it was impossible for her ability to be impaired "because she had none to begin with."

• • •

Accused of larceny for tampering with slot machines in order to hit the jackpot every time, a man in Illinois offered this defense: He said he had not violated any law because "slot machines are illegal in the first place and have no business being where they are. So—legally—they aren't there. And you can't take money illegally from something that isn't there." ■

Scheffy

Peter and Mary, teamed up for laughs on their own daytime radio show (CBS, Monday through Friday) and in the current Broadway hit, Who Was That Lady? chose these cartoons by Luther Scheffy for today's laughs. Scheffy, 44, was born in West Mansfield, Mass., and now lives in Fallbrook, Calif., with his wife and teen-age daughter. A graduate (cum laude) of Harvard University, he studied art in France and Italy on a Harvard fellowship, later turned to cartooning. As for hobbies, he admits to two: 1) playing the flute—"not quite correctly, but hoping to eliminate the clinkers," 2) soaking up the California sun. R

How a borrowed cup of sugar helped me make $102 in 3 weeks!

Where we live, neighbors are forever dropping in to borrow something or ask about a recipe or just chat a bit — and frankly, I enjoy it. Ordinarily, I wouldn't dream of selling them anything, but for quite a while I'd been feeling sort of depressed — what with Christmas coming and not much extra money around — so I decided to send off the coupon for Chilton cards, just to see if I could earn the extra money I needed, too.

Well, the day my four-box sample kit arrived, my friend Elaine dropped in to borrow a cup of sugar and right away she spied those cards. Like me, she just loved them — and before I knew it, she'd bought one of the boxes and ordered three more! That was just the beginning! In the next three weeks, just by showing my Chilton cards, I made $102! Call it selling if you like — but I call it the nicest, easiest way to make money I ever heard of! Now I know how our club can get the new chairs we need . . . and how I can have enough money for all kinds of extras!

Why not make extra money this pleasant way yourself?

Senate OKs Increase in Security Pay

Compromise on Seven Per Cent to Avert Veto

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate late Saturday passed the Social Security liberalization bill after trimming the increased public assistance program in an effort to avert a veto by President Eisenhower.

Passage was by a roll call vote of 79-0.

The bill now goes back to the House which passed it 375-2 July 31. Some senators said they understood the House would accept it without any conference committee meeting.

Its chief feature is a 7 per cent increase in Social Security insurance benefits.

* * * *

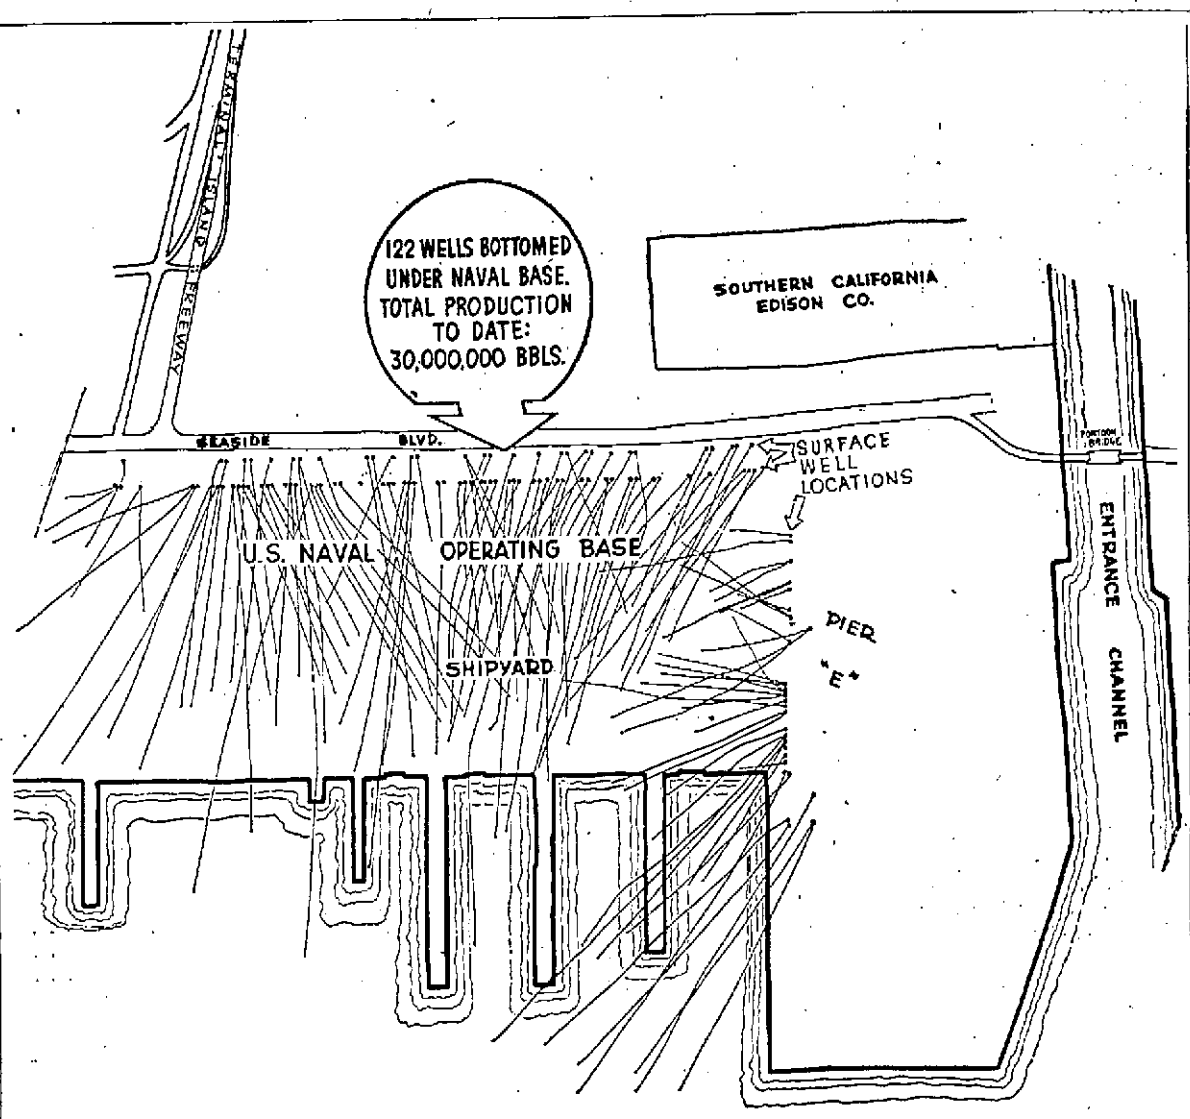

PAYROLL TAXES would be raised by a bigger amount than necessary to pay for the immediate new insurance benefits. The tax boost is designed in part to insure the long-range soundness of the Social Security system.

The bill as it passed the House also increased federal grants to the states for the four public assistance programs by 288 million dollars. These programs are for the needy, the aged, blind, and disabled and dependent children.

This led the administration to send word to the Capitol that the measure would be vetoed.

* * * *

THE SENATE chopped this increase down to 197 million. Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla), who sponsored the two floor amendments to reduce the public assistance cost, said he was sure that their adoption would prevent a veto.

WHY THE NAVY COMPLAINS

The U. S. Government's momentous suit to stop subsidence in the Long Beach area is partially explained by this map, which illustrates the extent of subsidence-causing oil production from under the U. S. Navy's Operating Base itself. From drill sites on the perimeter, wells have been slantdrilled to tap the big oil pool under the base, which embraces the shipyard where extensive damage has resulted from sinkage. The light black lines show the well courses from surface locations . . . to the well bottoms.

The Navy has received none of the proceeds from this huge harvest of black gold, but has been and is still paying the cost of subsidence repairs on its installations. The wells shown are only a fraction of the total in the Wilmington Field, and contribute only in part to subsidence resulting from field-wide oil withdrawal. In its gigantic legal action filed last week, the government asked for court action to force a field-wide anti-subsidence program.

Center of the subsidence bowl is at the Southern California Edison property, shown at upper right, where the earth surface has subsided 25 feet. In the shipyard, subsidence from two to 22 feet has occurred.

INGLEWOOD TENSE

Scientists Set to Track Flight

By LOU JOBST

INGLEWOOD—An air of tension settled over the Space Technology Laboratory here Saturday night as the zero hour for man's first lunar exploration approached.

Activity had stepped up perceptibly at the STL complex, the world command post of the Air Force project to send an untested multistage rocket 226,000 miles across space to the vicinity of the moon.

Still clothed in official secrecy, indications were that the Southern California-produced composite rocket would be fired from Cape Canaveral at the speculated time, between 4 and 8 a.m.

Special quarters for receiving, analyzing and computing from the moon rocket's instruments and five far-flung tracking stations have been set up in a 20x50-foot bunker here.

* * * *

ANOTHER ROOM in the Arbor Vitae St. plant has been remodeled as a news-media center for point-by-point television, radio and newspaper coverage of the historic journey.

Scores of newsmen, who began gathering here for the first of five lunar probes by the three services, will follow the 2.6-day flight across outer space on a specially constructed probe-o-graph. This is a three-dimensional plotting board upon which the analyzed data will be posted. (The Independent, Press-Telegram is represented by James Allen, military editor.)

The Inglewood scientific center is tied by direct cable, telephone and radio communications with the launching site and tracking stations at Manchester, England, Hilo, Hawaii, and in Southern California and India.

Other communication networks put it in direct contact with International Geophysical

Nasser Wary of Ike Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man with real power of decision in the Middle East, Arab leader Gamal Abdel Nasser, was reported Saturday to be extremely suspicious of President Eisenhower's six-point Mideast peace plan.

Diplomatic officials said reports from Cairo show that Nasser is very wary of the whole idea, although he has not turned it down. His reaction is being watched with intense interest here because almost independently of the backroom negotiations now under way at United Nations headquarters, Nasser's decision can make or break the project.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time, it is believed in official quarters here that Eisenhower's move has put the ambitious president of the United Arab Republic in a very difficult spot.

Eisenhower has confronted Nasser with the necessity for making a choice which in the long run may be vital to the Cairo leader's own success.

The President offered through his speech at the United Nations, Wednesday, to throw American support and backing behind a great new Middle East economic program. Although details of the program were deliberately left vague, the President was quite specific on one point. The point is that the Arabs themselves would run the operation.

Giant Rocket Readied for Initial Test

Douglas Technical Crew in Charge at Cape Canaveral

Combined Wire Services

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The preliminary countdown for launching of the first United States moon rocket began Saturday, indicating that the spectacular shot will be attempted early today.

Months of secret preparation reached a climax as Douglas Aircraft Co. technicians started the lengthy checkout that could lead to an unprecedented 220,000-mile journey through space.

The weather station at Patrick Air Force base forecast partly cloudy conditions. Hurricane Cleo was too far out at sea to have any effect on the firing, officials said.

* * * *

THERE STILL WAS no official announcement on when the launching—the most ambitious venture in man's bid to conquer space—was due, but observers expected the try to be made shortly after dawn.

Authoritative sources said earlier that the shot would be attempted early today.

The moon-probe vehicle, a mighty three-stage Thor-Able rocket, still was under wraps in its huge red and white service tower.

Its immense size, dominating the cape skyline, left little doubt that this was the missile that the Air Force hopes will carry a satellite to an orbit around the moon.

* * * *

THE HOPES OF A complete success on the first try were very dim, however, because of the complex problem in celestial mechanics involved.

The missile experts figure it is a 10-1 chance that the satellite will plop into a planned orbit some 10,000 to 50,000 miles from the moon. They probably will be quite satisfied if the missile's three stages per-

Telescopic Radio Set for Rocket

JODRELL BANK, England, (AP) — Scientists here at the world's largest radio telescope have been fully briefed on the expected firing of a U. S. Air Force rocket to the moon, it was announced Saturday.

The official spokesman for the Jodrell Bank Experimental Station refused to confirm, however, reports that the rocket firing may come Sunday.

The atmosphere in the shadow of the huge saucer-shaped radio telescope was one of anxious expectancy. Near the main control building U. S. Air Force engineers worked all day in their large blue trailer.

* * * *

"THE ROCKET will be in our range only about eight hours at a time," the spokesman said, "since of course anything in space rises and sets like a star. We are prepared to follow it throughout most of the time it will be above the horizon.

"Radio signals received from the rocket will be sent immediately to the United States. The exact position of the probe during its flight and the scientific measurements it reports will be worked out in the United States."

Oil Field Gross $1.3 Billion So Far

By HARRY FULTON

Samuel M. Roberts, the city's subsidence administrator, Saturday said that oil operators in the Wilmington Oil Field have taken gross profits amounting to about $1,300,000,000 from the field to date, and declared that the public has a right to demand that they help finance a program to halt subsidence.

Although the city, through its contractors—Long Beach Oil Development Co. and the Richfield Oil Corp.—is one of the largest operators in the field, Roberts said, "Stopping subsidence is more important to the city than continued oil production."

He joined with other city officials involved in the fight against subsidence in expressing the hope that the U. S. Government's suit against the state, the city and almost 400 other oil producers will lead to a speedy solution of the earth-sinking problem which is damaging the Long Beach area in general and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard in particular.

* * * *

"IT IS A CLEAR AND DEFINITE POLICY established by the City Council of Long Beach that everything possible must be done to stop subsidence," said Roberts. "We hope that all the oil producers and owners of oil rights will cooperate immediately in getting full-scale repressure operations under way to stop subsidence as demanded by the legal action filed by the Department of Justice.

"Subsidence damage to date has been suffered almost entirely by landowners and organizations receiving oil income—with the exception of the Navy. Many less fortunate organizations and individuals will suffer damage in the future if subsidence continues."

The subsidence coordinator said many oil producers are cooperating with the city on a voluntary basis to engineer and organize programs to repressure major portions of the oil field, but he added, "These efforts so far have not been enough to get the job done. There are some obstructionists who richly deserve strong medicine."

"Gross profits (prior to income taxes) to oil producers and owners of oil royalties have probably exceeded $1,300,000,000 to date. The public has a right to demand that some past and future profits be invested in a $32,000,000 program to install water injection machinery to repressure the field."

* * * *

CHARLES L. VICKERS, general manager of the Port of Long Beach, which is in the heart of the earth-sinkage "bowl," also emphasized the importance of obtaining a truly effective subsidence-control program, saying "Oil is important to the economy of Long Beach, but it is secondary at this time." He added:

"Subsidence has to be stopped. There has been over $100,000,000 worth of subsidence damage done to date, and much more will occur if the condition isn't corrected.

"To date, the City of Long Beach and its contractors have produced about 30 per cent of all the oil produced from the Wilmington Oil Field, and the city cannot by itself stop subsidence.

"It is hoped that this suit will be constructive in its

'Copter Crashes, 3 Killed

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A Navy helicopter crashed and burned in a field in suburban Imperial Beach Saturday, killing three of the four crewmen aboard.

The Navy said the Sikorsky anti-submarine helicopter crashed one minute after taking off from Ream Field at Imperial Beach.

Two of the dead were identified as:

Lt. Glen L. Erickson, 24, the pilot, who lived at Imperial Beach. His mother, Mrs. Bruce Sherwood lives at El Cerrito, Calif., and his father, A. F. Erickson at Seattle, Wash.

Robert F. Walker, 26, Sonarman 3-C, son of Mrs. A. Boyarski of Melrose Park, Ill.

Ens. Jerry L. McFerron, 22, the co-pilot, who lives at nearby Chula Vista, suffered second degree burns over 60 per cent of his body. He is the son of Samual O. McFerron, of Rural Route 1, Miami, Okla.

The helicopter crashed 150 yards from houses about a quarter of a mile northwest of Ream Field and burst into flames. Witnesses said there were several explosions.

Meg Eyes Townsend Again; Hopes for Queen's Blessing

LONDON (AP)—The tabloid Sunday Pictorial said Saturday Princess Margaret wants to resume her romance with Peter Townsend—but only if she gets the blessing of her sister, Queen Elizabeth II.

The report, one of several conflicting stories published recently by the British press on the princess and Townsend, took up the front page in early editions of the mass-circulation newspaper.

"Margaret waits for queen's blessing . . . alone," black headlines proclaimed.

The story appeared just one week after a rival Sunday newspaper claimed Margaret finally had ended her friendship with the 43-year-old Townsend in a dispute over a forthcoming book about him.

Townsend, a divorced war hero, was reported by the Pictorial to have flown to England from Brussels five days before the 27-year-old princess came home last Tuesday from a Canadian tour.

"He has spoken to Margaret by telephone but they had not met up to last night," the Pictorial said.

Margaret, the paper said, is alone at Windsor castle this weekend hoping for a message from the queen, now on a yachting vacation in Scotland with her family.

"She (Margaret) is waiting for a blessing for the continuance of her romance with Peter Townsend," the Pictorial said. "The sisters have not met since July 11 when Margaret had tea at Buckingham Palace on the day she left for Canada.

"If the princess and Townsend meet again publicly it will be with the knowledge and acceptance, however reluctantly given, of the queen."

* * * *

TOWNSEND, who went on a world tour after Margaret announced in 1955 that she had decided against marrying him, has denied the romance is still on.

Townsend made the denial to counter romance speculation after he called on Margaret at her London home last March after returning from his tour.

Young Hikers Hurt in Rubio Canyon Fall

A 14-year-old Altadena girl was injured critically when she and a 10-year-old companion fell 40 feet down a rocky cliff near Rubio Canyon Falls above Altadena Saturday afternoon.

The girl's brother received minor injuries while trying to rescue them.

Altadena Sheriff's Sgt. George Hagan said Theresa Ruth Iffert received severe scalp injuries in the fall and was knocked unconscious.

Less seriously injured was Calvin James Burnett, of West Covina, who suffered lacerations of the forehead and abrasions.

Both were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Pasadena.

Sheriff's deputies were notified of the accident when the girl's brother, Robert, 12, sought help from a forest ranger.

Robert, who injured his knee while attempting a rescue himself, led a rescue party of Altadena deputies and mountaineers to the spot from which his sister was carried out on a stretcher and put into a waiting ambulance.

He said he and his companions were on a hike when the accident occurred.

Hundreds Homeless

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Floods and landslides left hundreds of persons homeless in the Caracas area Saturday. The high waters were caused by two days of drenching rains.

Nicknamed "Tex" for his mother's home state, the baby left the hospital weighing 7 pounds, 13 ounces.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Big Welcome for Miss U.

MANIZALES, Colombia (AP)—A cheering throng of about 100,000 persons welcomed Luz Marina Zuluaga, Miss Universe of 1958, when she returned to her hometown Saturday.

The streets of Manizales, a city of about 160,000 were crowded as she rode from the airport in a caravan of 2,000 cars to the heart of the city where Mayor Pedro Uribe Mejia presided at a welcoming ceremony.

A reception is to continue through Sunday before she starts on a South American tour.

L.A.C. Says: Age of Moguls

A recent book the "Age of Moguls" is a vivid description of the fantastic operations of Vanderbilt, Astor, Carnegie and a score of other financial titans of the last century. It is the story of a period of ruthlessness by railroad builders, developers of oil and of steel. It was a financially lawless period which resulted in laws to curb the powers of these "moguls" of finance and of business and industrial management. The writer of the book says most of these people would be sentenced to hundreds of years in jail if they tried to operate under present laws.

Virtually all of those men grew up from poverty to amass unbelievable fortunes. Some of them left most of their fortunes to foundations which have contributed greatly to the welfare of the world. It may be said their energies and ruthlessness greatly speeded the development of all industries and railroads. But they were so ruthless and disregardful of ethics they had to be restricted by laws.

Today we have another type of "mogul." They do not profit financially as much as did the financial moguls of the 1800's. But they hold the economy of nation at their mercy to an even greater degree than did the money moguls. These new moguls are the labor leaders who hold millions of workers as their captives. They have the power to wreck the entire economy on a week's notice.

We believe John L. Lewis, Samuel Gompers and Phillip Murray contributed more to the welfare of workers than any men living or dead. Only John L. Lewis of these three is still alive. These men have never been accused of personal selfishness in their union activities. They formed the foundation on which all our present labor unions are founded. But they have been succeeded in power by some men who are as ruthless and dishonest as were any of the financial moguls of the past.

Now it is apparent gangsterism is rampant in some of the largest unions. The leaders of some unions have amassed large fortunes while leaders of the unions. They plead the 5th Amendment when asked about their finances. When expelled from the AFL-CIO they become even more powerful. It is apparent they are as ruthless and disregardful of the public as were the financial moguls whose activities had to be curbed by stringent laws.

It is an example of how excesses grow up in this country. The apathy of the people causes them to close their eyes to such practices—until the conditions become so bad that public opinion changes and demands corrections. We may have reached such a point concerning the labor movement in this country. Certainly the Senate rackets investigation should awaken the people's indignation. The fact that labor leaders influence can kill off corrective legislation should awaken the people to their danger.

It took drastic action to curb the financial plunders. It will take equally drastic action to curb the plunderers of labor unions and the public. It is a time when honest labor leaders, office holders and the general public should stand up and be counted. Their moral status is at stake. If they avoid the issue or join in maintaining the unsavory powers of some unions and their leaders, they are digging the economic grave of the nation. It calls for a realization that the problem has reached a point where corrective action must be taken—or the people will be giving approval to the action of labor leaders whose records have become examples of the worst kind of racketeering the nation has known since the days of Al Capone.—L.A.C.

Smash Big Spy Ring in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Israel has smashed "the biggest spy ring ever discovered" in the country, a government spokesman said Saturday. He said the gang included 12 Israeli Arabs working under the directon of Syrian military intelligence.

Three of the 12 men arrested were known Communists, the spokesman said. One of them was a village Community party secretary.

The spokesman said all 12, who came from villages in western Gallilee, would be charged with espionage, and could be sentenced to death or life imprisonmen if convicted.

The spokesman said some of the men were teachers and graduates of secondary schools in Israel.

It was belived the ring had operated for several months gathering information on ports, air fields, army camps and units and anti-aircraft emplacements, the spokesman said.

MONTREAL (AP)—Judge Bernard Rose held this week that carrying a riding crop is okay if you've got a horse but illegal if you're aboard a scooter. He assessed a $50 fine on a youngster, ruling that his braided leather stick was a concealed weapon.

Britain's Mideast Chief on Secret Jordan Mission

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Lt. Gen. Sir Roger Bower, commander of British forces in the Middle East, flew into Jordan Saturday from Cyprus for secret conferences.

The visit was not announced and British officials reluctantly acknowledged his presence only after the news leaked out.

They said the visit has no special significance. It was noted, however, he arrived on the heels of a tightening of security in Amman and Jordanian police and army searches of Palestine refuge camps for disloyal elements.

There have been widespread reports of plots to assassinate young King Hussein. The government has accused President Nasser's United Arab Republic of plotting against the monarch.

Western diplomats speculated one reason for Bower's visit was to persuade Jordan to allow Cyprus Airlines to fly civilian charter planes into Jordan to supply the British troops. But the British embassy denied this.

Norwalk Father of Two Plunges to Death Despite Wife's Pleas

ALTADENA — Despite the tearful pleas of his wife, the father of two children leaped to his death from a high-tension tower in the hills above Altadena Saturday afternoon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Detectives said Robert Bruce Carley, a 35-year-old service-station attendant of 14049 Leibacher Ave., Norwalk, was killed instantly in the 40-foot plunge.

His wife Virginia was taken to Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena after the tragedy and given sedatives for hysteria.

Detectives found three notes:

To his wife he wrote, "Find someone who has character and the strentgh and courage of his own convictions who will love you and the children in a far better way than I did."

A second note addressed to his son read:

"Son, most fathers leave member them by—I have just a few words. Love your mother; think for yourself, and be honest with yourself and everyone else."

The last note was addressed, "To a little five year old angel" which told his daughter to give the world her love and to smile, laugh and be happy.

Fullerton Murder-Suicide Pair's Bodies Found Near Barstow

A 43-year-old Fullerton man is believed to have shot his estranged wife as they drove along a Fullerton street Friday night, and then to have driven the body to the Barstow area before taking his own life.

The suspected murder-suicide of Robert Thomas Quandt, and his wife, Molly, 37, of 1744 W. Huston St., was reported Saturday by San Bernardino County authorities to the Orange County coroner's office.

Deputy Coroner Roger S. Burnham said the bodies were found in Quandt's automobile by a group of hunters about 18 miles west of Barstow near Highway 66.

The woman had been shot several times with a .38-caliber pistol, which Quandt also used to kill himself, Burnham said.

A garden hose was attached to the car's exhaust pipe and placed inside the vehicle, but apparently Quandt decided that method was too slow, the coroner's office reported.

The murder was believed to have been witnessed by an Inglewood couple as they followed the Quandt car east on Orangethorpe Ave., about 7 p. m. Friday.

Bruce Tomalson told Fullerton police that he and his wife noticed the couple in the car ahead scuffling. Then the man, who was driving, raised a pistol and the Tomalsons heard five shots. The car door opened as the woman attempted to escape, but was slammed shut again and the car sped north on Cypress Ave.

Tomalson took the license number before the death car disappeared, and police said the number matched that of Quandt's car. Police conducted a helicopter search in the Fullerton area Saturday morning in an attempt to locate either the car or the dead woman's body.

The Quandts had separated several weeks ago, according to Fullerton police. Mrs. Quandt was living at 319 N. East St., Anaheim, and her husband had been staying at the Pickwick Hotel, also in Anaheim.

Panzer did all his own stunt work in "The Perils of Pauline," and appeared in hundreds of other silent movie roles. He was one of the screen's most hissed villains.

Judge Miller Named to Lead 'Jobs for Long Beach' Drive

Area Chairmen for Improvement Program Chosen

By BEN ZINSER

Superior Judge Fred Miller has been named chairman of a citywide executive committee to gain additional support for the proposed "Jobs for Long Beach" program.

Completion of the executive committee also was announced Saturday. Members include Mrs. Roger T. Huffman, Eugene Tincher, Dr. William S. Cheney, Jerry S. Jacobs, Thurlyne B. Waite, C. Standlee Martin, Mrs. Everett M. Findlay, Col. C. S. Smith and Carleton E. Webb.

Judge Miller said the proposed public improvement program would create thousands of new jobs and attract millions of dollars in new convention and tourist business.

* * * *

THE "JOBS" PROGRAM will be submitted to the electorate Nov. 4 as two bond issue propositions.

One, a $2,470,000 measure, would glamorize Ocean Blvd., American Ave. and the Long Beach Freeway terminus.

The other, a $4,245,000 proposal, would renovate Municipal Auditorium and expand convention facilities there.

Together, the sponsors say, the two propositions would increase employment, touch off a multimillion dollar construction program and put millions in new money in circulation throughout the community.

Meanwhile, committees are being organized in every section of the city to educate the residents of each area on how "Jobs" will benefit them.

* * * *

AREA CHAIRMEN include George Rochester, North Long Beach; Carl W. Opsahl, West Long Beach; Mrs. Anona M. Buse, Belmont Shore-Naples; Ray Bliley, Uptown Atlantic-California Heights; Mrs. Dean P. Gilmore, Los Altos; Roland R. Bach, Lakewood; Lloyd C. Leedom, East Long Beach; Gus Lueking, downtown, and Edwin J. Wilson, California Ave. area.

Organizations representing more than 15,000 persons already have endorsed the program.

Recent endorsements include those of the Recreation Commission and the board of directors of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employes Assn.

Donald G. Sutherland, president of the shipyard group, said his 5,500-member organization plans to work for the program.

"We're going to do more than just endorse it," he said. "We believe this program is tremendously important to every person who lives or works in Long Beach."

* * * *

THE COST of the program to the average taxpayer, the sponsoring committee said, would be less than a penny a day.

Campaign headquarters have been established at 4560 Orange Ave.

Informed by legal counsel that "Jobs" cannot be placed on the ballot as a package deal, the City Council voted last week to limit the propositions to two in order to avoid confusion. The program, attorneys said, could have been broken down into any number of ballot propositions.

* * * *

ONE PROPOSITION will deal specifically with street improvements. It will call for widening of Ocean Blvd. from Alamitos Ave. to Golden Ave. and creation of a dividing island of flowering trees down the center. It also will propose a similar dividing island up American Ave. from Ocean Blvd. to Willow St. On both streets there would be left-hand turn bays to improve traffic flow. This measure also would provide for glamorization of off-ramps on the Long Beach Freeway terminus from the 9th St. Bridge south to Ocean Blvd.

The other proposition would renovate Municipal Auditorium, create a level-with-Ocean-Blvd. pedestrian mall in front of the Auditorium and provide for a new showcase building to accommodate conventions and trade shows.

AREA CHAIRMEN FOR 'JOBS' PROGRAM

Senate Votes $25,000-a-Year Pensions to Truman, Hoover

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Saturday approved a compromise bill to grant $25,000-a-year pensions, free office space and free mailing privileges to former presidents Truman and Hoover and all future ex-presidents.

The measure, worked out by House-Senate conferees, also authorizes payment of $10,000 annually to widows of ex-presidents, provided they waive all rights to other federal pensions to which they might be entitled.

* * * *

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson are the only surviving widows of former presidents.

The measure now goes to the House, which cannot act before Monday.

The Senate approved the bill by voice vote after brief appeals by Chairman Olin D. Johnston (D-S. C.) of the Civil Service Committee. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), ranking Republican member of the Civil Service Committee.

Besides authorizing pension and free mailing privileges, the compromise permits the general services administration to provide former chief executives with suitable office space. It would also grant them an allowance of $50,000 annually for office help.

Knight Talks to Printers' Convention

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The International Typographical Union, one of the oldest in the nation, opened its 100th anniversary convention here Saturday.

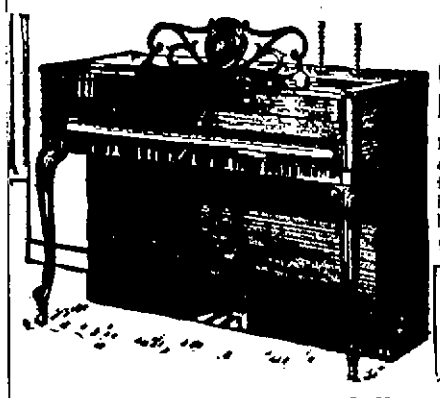

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, campaigning for U. S. senator, delivered the principal welcoming address to the 2,000 delegates and guests. He said he always had faith in the union movement and had appointed many union leaders to high state positions "and no single one has turned in a bad record."

Knight, a Republican, said he has been opposed to a "right-to-work" law for many years "and I haven't changed my mind." A "right-to-work" initiative on the November ballot is one of the major political footballs of the campaign.

An ITU spokesman said the principal issue to be resolved during the week-long convention will be the subject of innovations in newspaper back shops which threaten to eliminate compositors' jobs.

Shipyard Case Attorney Deals With Big Issues

Perry Morton's Considered Cool and Competent

By BILL BROOM
(I.-P.-T. Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON — Perry W. Morton, the assistant U. S. attorney general who prepared the government's multi - million-dollar Long Beach shipyard case, deals in big-money legal actions daily.

The Justice Department's Lands Division, which he heads, is currently involved in litigation on $110 million in government land claims. During his five years in the job, the total in claims, many of which never reach the courts, have run into the billions. A one-million-dollar case is a relatively minor item around the Lands Division.

Morton deals with these in calm, unruffled fashion.

"He has a fine and thoroughly disciplined mind," says an old-timer around the Justice Department. "He never goes off half-cocked. He maintains rigid control of his emotions."

People who don't know Morton very well think he'd make a fine poker player because of these qualities. It's doubtful their theories could be tested, because he is a deeply religious man. He is a ruling elder of the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, which President Eisenhower also attends. The Morton family occupies a pew across the aisle from the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

* * * *

A NEBRASKAN by birth, Morton never left the state until Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. asked him to take his present job in 1953. Until that time, he conducted his own law practice and for 17 years was counsel for a large insurance company.

Morton graduated from law school in mid-depression, and immediately plunged into civic life. When he speaks of Lincoln, his home town, his voice reflects a deep and abiding affection for it. He was a member of the citizens' committee which drafted and sponsored a change in city government. He stayed with the job and served on the city's personnel merit board without pay from 1938 until 1953.

Arriving in Washington, the new assistant quickly earned the respect and liking of associates.

"He's a helluva hard worker," one of them recalled. "He has a great ability to grasp facts and details with unusual speed but what really impresses you is his memory. He can recall those same details six months later."

* * * *

WHILE THE government's suit was under preparation, Morton flew out to Long Beach to take a look at the lay of the land. Navy officers now say he knows as much about the shipyard's engineering problems as they do.

The tensions of his job are seldom reflected in Morton's speech. He talks in the flat, hard accents of Nebraska, and his inflection seldom reveals his inner feelings.

His primary concern in the Long Beach case is national defense. "The filing of this suit is inevitable," he told a newsman several months ago. "That shipyard site is invaluable. Nowhere else on the West Coast can ships clear the harbor and make the open seas within 30 minutes as they can there. It's irreplaceable and we just can't let it sink into the sea."

MORTON HAS DEALT with the case almost daily since October, 1957. For the past month, it has occupied most of his attention.

"He's calm and deliberate," says a government attorney. "Never moves until he has all his ducks in a row."

When he's not guarding the property interests of the nation's largest single land-holder, Morton relaxes with carpentry and photography.

IN THERE PITCHING

effects and that all operators in the field will join in a water-flooding plan for the immediate repressuring of the Wilmington Oil Field."

Said City Manager Sam E. Vickers:

"I am indeed hopeful that the U. S. suit involving oil production in the Wilmington Field will be helpful in the early solution of the subsidence problem.

"It is gratifying to note in the complaint filed by the government that the Long Beach Naval Shipyard is considered by the government as irreplaceable and vital to the national interest."

* * * *

CITY ATTY. Walhfred Jacobson viewed the government suit designed to save the Naval Shipyard from sinking as one of the most important lawsuits in the history of the city and said it wil receive his immediate attention.

"However," he said, "I have not seen the complaint, so consequently I cannot comment on it at this time. I will obtain a copy as soon as possible. Then, after my staff and I have analyzed the complaint, I plan to meet with members of the City Council and advise them as to the legal effect of the claims and issues raised."

* * * *

CONGRESSMAN Craig Hosmer viewed major litigation over the subsidence issue as "inevitable" and said, "It might as well come now as later." He added:

"Although directed specifically in behalf of the Naval Shipyard, this suit may have the added effect of forcing prompt action to permanently halt subsidence in our oil-producing areas. Should this occur, the Navy suit could be considered a benefit to the entire community. The thousands of jobs dependent, directly or indirectly, on the shipyard would be pulled out of danger.

"Many thousands of small property owners in the harbor area, the Belmont Shore area and in those areas adjoining other large oil fields will have their legal rights established for them by the precedent of this suit."

KIERDORF ARRANGED JOB WITH HOFFA

Fugitive in Union Torch Death Aided Parolee

DETROIT (AP)—Missing ex-convict Herman Kierdorf, sought for questioning in the sensational torch death of his union official nephew, was disclosed Saturday to have been instrumental in winning parole for a convict on the promise of a job in Teamster President James R. Hoffa's home local.

The Detroit News said in a copyrighted story that Kierdorf's role as a friend of the prisoner was uncovered in files of the State Corrections Department.

* * * *

KIERDORF, a Teamster business agent himself until very recently, has been missing since Aug. 4—the day his nephew, Frank Kierdorf, appeared at a hospital horribly burned from head to toe. Frank Kierdorf died three days later as a result of the scaring which police contend he got in an arson plot that backfired.

Investigators since then have been trying to find Herman Kierdorf who they believe can supply many answers in the puzzling case.

The News said Herman Kierdorf went to bat on July 6, 1956, for David Denning who was serving time in Southern Michigan Prison on a second robbery conviction. Kierdorf at the time was business agent of Teamsters Joint Council 43 and an aide of Hoffa.

The paper said that Kierdorf, in a letter to the State Parole Board, promised Denning would be given a job paying nearly $3 an hour through Teamster Local 299 if his parole were granted. The letter was written on Teamster stationery.

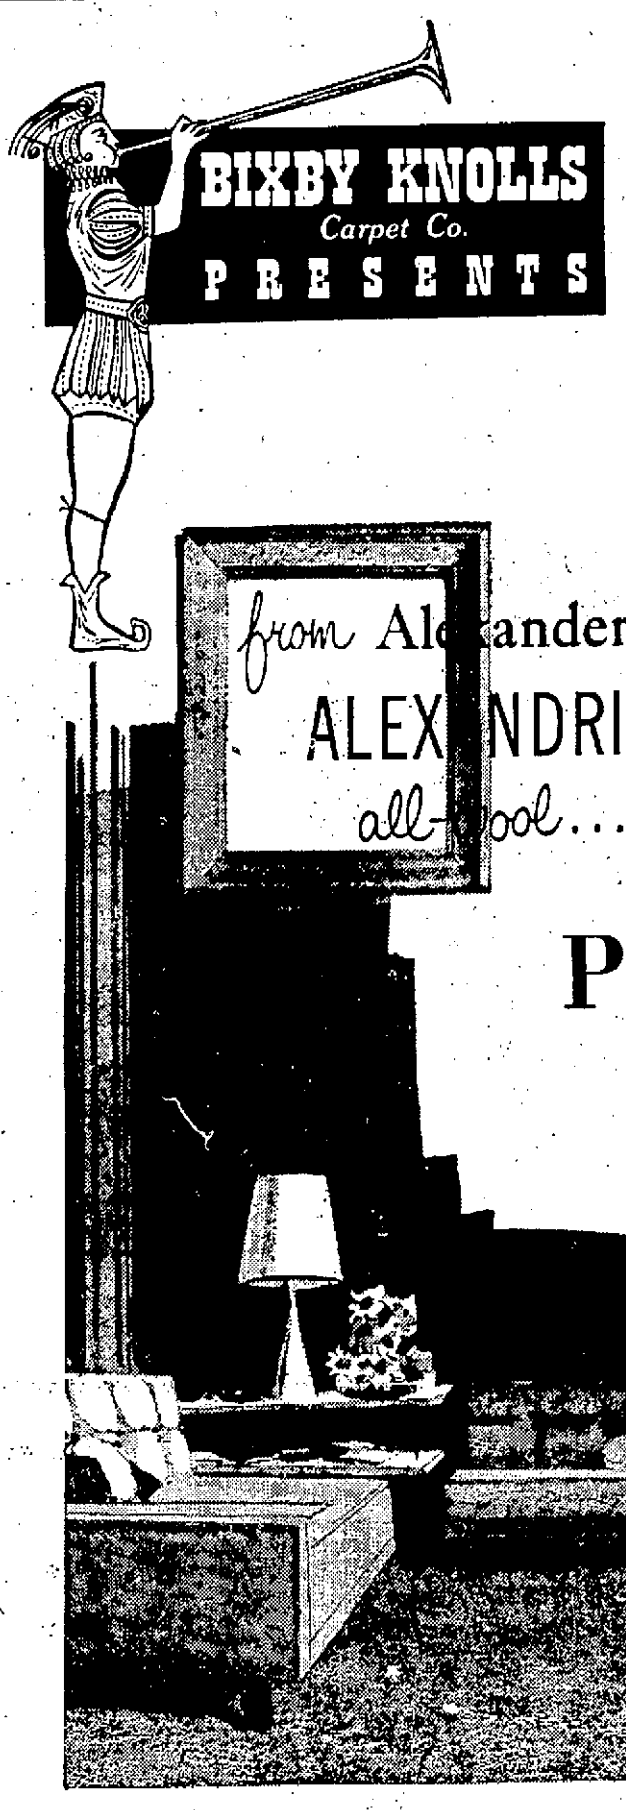

* * * *

DENNING WAS paroled in August of 1956 and went to work out of the local office.

Local 299 is a truck driver's local headed by Hoffa who also is national president of the Teamster Union and president of Joint Council 43.

Gus Harrison, state corrections director and parole officers defended handling of the case. They drew a distinction between Kierdorf, who also had served a prison sentence for armed robbery, as a job-finder and as a prospective employer.

Kierdorf quit his post as a union business agent after being called last month to testify before the Senate Rackets Committee.

HEAVY CATCH

Only five white sea bass were taken by the estimated 1,022 fishermen at sea Saturday and none compared to this catch shouldered by Bill Hall, of Stockton. His catch tipped the scales at 46½ pounds, was snagged on a six-inch hook off Seal Beach Rocks.—(Staff Photo.)

Is Dairy Valley 'Lion' Rustler in Disguise?

DAIRY VALLEY — In the cold light of day, reports of a half-grown lion "with a huge mane," seen ambling across the intersection of South St. and Studebaker Rd. here, Friday night, didn't get the lion's share of attention from sheriff's deputies.

After taking photographs of a pawprint of some unknown animal near the site of the reported lion-sighting, deputies sent the film off to a commercial lab. The prints will be ready on Monday.

A veterinarian is to study the track photographs to see if he can identify them when they return from the photo shop.

Deputies from the Norwalk Sheriff's substation did look for a lion in the area Saturday morning after Jerome Franke, 21, and Larry Sayers, 15, both of Whittier, insisted they saw a lion there about midnight Friday.

No lions have been reported missing in any area nearby.

However a small calf has vanished from a dairy near where the "lion" was seen.

Deputies have been alerted to look for the missing calf and/or lion. But a western story-reading deputy suggests another line of investigation.

"Look for a rustler disguised as a lion."

Boy's Fund Legion Stag Traps 250

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Two women and about 250 men were arrested Saturday night in a police raid on an American Legion stag party staged to raise funds for Boy Scout, junior baseball and child welfare programs.

Vice Squad Sgt. Howell T. Ryals, who watched part of the show before the raid started, said "one of the girls was dancing completely in the nude."

The women entertainers were booked as Cynthia Sims, 21, and Shirley Jackson, 29.

Approximately 40 officers participated in the raid. Most of those arrested were released after posting bonds of 15 dollars. They were charged with being "inmates of a disorderly house."

Included among those arrested was J. D. Latture Jr., an off-duty policeman and the son of the recently retired police chief, and two sheriff's deputies.

Judge Favors Dead Sheep, Fines Driver

WHITBY, England (UPI)—Fining motorist Richard Scott one pound ($2.80) for failing to report an accident in which his car struck and killed three sheep on a moorland highway, magistrate Harold Gallaway ruled Saturday:

"Sheeep have as much right on the roads as cars. In fact, they have more right, for they have had a right of stray from time immemorial."

HISTORY-MAKING

85th Congress Due to Quit Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space-age 85th Congress neared the end of its two-year stand Saturday—a period that should long be remembered.

If it does nothing else in its few remaining days, this Congress will go down in history for, among other things:

1. Enacting the first civil rights bill in almost a century.
2. Putting the dollars-and-cents boost behind America's first satellite.
3. Making it more expensive to mail letters.
4. Okaying Alaska's admission to the Union as the 49th State.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said publicly Saturday for the first time that he expects Congress to quit for the year some time next week. How early next week, Johnson said, depends on "how long senators want to talk."

* * * *

JOHNSON made his comment after calling the Senate into an unusual Saturday session to complete action on a House-passed bill raising social security benefits and taxes.

Another matter before the senators, and one that might keep them in a late-night session, was the long-deferred nomination by President Eisenhower of W. Wilson White to be assistant attorney general for civil rights.

The post is a new one—set up under the Civil Rights Bill enacted by the present Congress. Many southern Democrats object to White's getting the job because he did legal research for Eisenhower's use of troops in the Little Rock, Ark., integration dispute.

Johnson told the Senate Saturday there are several other actions on which it must reach a decision before adjourning.

He listed these as the foreign aid appropriation, a boost in the public debt ceiling, farm surplus disposal overseas, and renegotiation of contracts.

ALSO, HE SAID, final action still remains to be taken on bills in conference for adjustment of Senate and House differences.

The 85th Congress already has won a niche as one of the biggest-spending congresses in history. It has voted appropriations of about 140 billion dollars and paved the way for an expected federal deficit of 12 billion dollars this year. It boosted the national debt ceiling once last year and is about to raise it again this year. Hopes for an election-year tax cut had to be abandoned.

It has been a busier than average Congress. Whether its net accomplishments were good or bad will be debated before the November congressional elections are held.

Democrats controlled both houses of Congress, at least technically, but a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats frequently called the shots on legislation.

Moon-Shot Effort Set Today if All Goes Well

Countdown for Launching at Dawn Starts

form satisfactorily and nothing more.

Activity around Thor-Able's gantry service tower was stepped up during the day.

* * * *

COCOA BEACH, the missile town adjacent to the sprawling Air Force test area, also was bustling as thousands of tourists poured in. "No Vacancy" signs were everywhere.

Many bathers stayed away from the beach Saturday because of overcast skies, but the same beach is expected to be packed today.

If the initial blastoff toward space is successful, the world will have to wait 2½ days for an announcement on the results. The rocket must reach unprecedented speeds of 25,000 mph to escape the earth's gravity pull.

* * * *

THE PENTAGON has announced that the best days to shoot the moon this month are today, Monday and Tuesday. This is because the moon is close to earth—about 221,000 miles.

On each day, the Air Force will be limited further by a bracket of minutes in which to launch the missile.

If the Thor-Able is not launched during the optimum period the shoot probably will be postponed until next month.

The satellite — which should be the heaviest payload ever carried aboard a U. S. missile—reportedly is equipped with special instruments to radio back crude pictures of the moon and data on micrometeorite impact and magnetic fields.

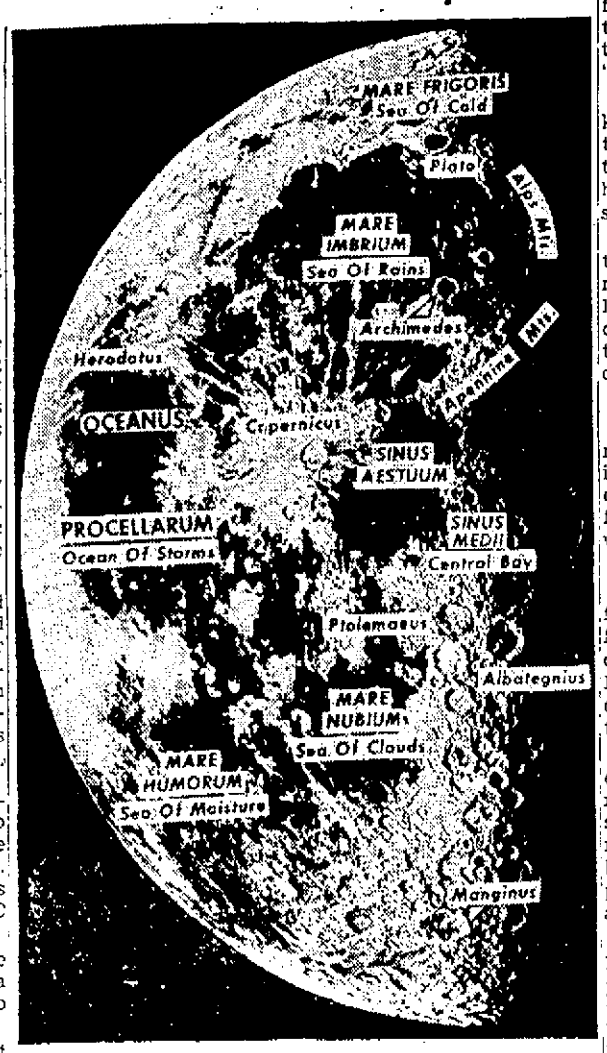

* * * *

THE ROCKET will use a powerful Thor intermediate range ballistic missile for the first-stage vehicle. Two modified Vanguard sections will be the final two stages.

The first two stages, which make up the conventional-Thor-Able, proved to be highly successul on two 6,000-mile nose-cone-recovery tests with a mouse aboard, but the three-stage combination never has been flight tested before.

The complete rocket houses more than 300,000 different parts, any one of which could cause a failure in flight.

The launching will be conducted by Douglas Aircraft Co. technicians working as a team with more than a dozen other contractors associated with the project.

MAP OF THE MOON

The man in the moon may have visitors soon, if humans can whip a few multi-million-dollar problems. Here's a "road map" of Earth's ancient satellite, showing names given to prominent features by the men who have studied it through the centuries. —(AP Wirephoto.)

$500 Shotgun Stolen

Theft of a 12-gauge shotgun valued at $500 was reported to police Saturday by Jed Holley, 27, of 3344 Lewis Ave., Signal Hill. Holley said the gun was taken from his car parked in a lot at 1069 E. Wardlow Rd.

Year headquarters and Washington, D.C.

Although its firing site is in Florida, the missile and the men responsible for its development are principally Southern California products.

The 100-foot-tall, four-stage rocket is a Southland industries hybrid. The first or booster stage, the 62-foot Thor-Able is an IRBM developed by Douglas Aircraft. It is powered by North American's Rocketdyne engines. It is the only stage that has been operationally tested.

The two succeeding stages are redesigned versions of the skitterish Aerojet General-built Vanguard. The overhaul of the Navy satellite carriers was made by Ramo-Wooldridge Corp., parent organization of STL.

Mission of the first three stages is to reach a speed of 25,000 mph, computed as the velocity necessary to allow the instrument package to escape the earth's gravity.

The fourth stage, although not officially confirmed, is believed to be a development of STL. Known as a toroid, it resembles a mushroom.

The mushroom's cap or hood —2½ feet in diameter—contains the instrument package, including a radio and photoelectric cell camera (sensitive to infrared, natural light and cosmic radiation). The Air Force hopes it will capture the first crude pictures of the moon's unseen "dark side."

* * * *

THE STEM is presumably a small retro-rocket of about 500 pounds thrust. The Thor-Able booster will produce 150,000 pounds of thrust. The stem's nozzle is to be rotated toward the lunar surface and fired by a feeble radio signal from the Hawaii tracking station at an estimated 59 hours after T-time. The rocket is supposed to slow the toroid's hurtling descent and allow the instrument package to slip into orbit around the moon.

An official at the STL command post estimated the chances of successful orbit and obtaining all data desired as "one in a million." Odds are one in ten for a successful launching.

Dr. Simon Ramo, 45, who lives in Westwood Village, near the campus of UCLA, is credited with conceiving the idea of the toroid in 1953. It was developed by his staff at STL.

The youthful missile scientist-executive is a personification of the Southland experts who have worked on the moon project.

* * * *

AS A POOR youth from a Utah agricultural district, Dr. Ramo decided early in life on a career in science.

One story surrounding his already legendary career is that he attempted to enter the University of Utah, but learned there were no scholarships in science, but several in music. He promptly mastered the violin and won tuition-free admission. He repeated the one-year scholarship for three years and graduated with honors in electrical engineering.

At 23, he won his doctor's degree at Caltech, magna cum laude. (His thesis on a million volts is considered the most precise in history.)

* * * *

HIS FIRST JOB was on the research staff of General Electric. (He also played in the GE Symphony Orchestra.) He entered the aeronautical field with Howard Hughes.

A few years later, he was reunited with Caltech classmate, Dr. Dean E. Wooldridge, an Oklahoman, who drifted west to a phenomenal career as a physicist. The two men founded Ramo-Wooldridge Corp.

WHAT IS IT? GREEN CHEESE?

Legends Describe Origin of Earth's Moon

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The first man to gather sufficient curiosity to look up at the moon probably turned to the second man and asked: "What in Sam Hill is that?"

Since the second man didn't know either, chances are the two sat down on a rock and tried to figure it out—and men have been doing that ever since.

Any answers turned up by the Air Force rocket which may blast moonward today are likely to prove pretty prosaic compared to those devised in the past without benefit even of a telescope.

What is the moon?

It's a bowl, said a Greek sage named Heraclitus. It's hollow is luminous and its exterior is dark. This is proven by the fact that it goes through phases when much or all of it is dark.

* * * *

IT'S A PARADISE reserved for the souls of departed friends, say the Saliva Indians of the South American jungles. How do they know it's a paradise? There are no mosquitoes there, that's why.

It's a flat disc, just like the earth, and it has rolling plains, mountains, valleys and people, said another ancient Greek named Anaxagoras. But few believed him because he was popularly suspected to be an atheist.

It's a piece of cheese, said 18 of 423 very young children polled by Dr. G. Stanley Hall in 1902. It goes through phases because mice are forever nibbling at it.

How did the moon get where it is?

The North American Indians have had an answer to that since time immemorial. The Greenlanders tell it best. Well, maybe not exactly best. But best for a family newspaper, anyway.

Once there were a brother and sister named Anninga and Matina. One dark night Anninga seized Matina by the shoulders, the sign of courtship. Matina tossed soot in Anninga's face so she would recognize her lover in daylight.

But, come the dawn and positive identification, the horrified Matina fled into the sky to become the sun. Anninga gave chase—perhaps to apologize—and became the moon.

* * * *

EVERY NOW AND then, once a month, in fact, Anninga grows skinny from hunger. So he comes down for a while to hunt seal. Then he returns to the chase, a full moon again.

The soot thrown in Anninga's face still can be seen in the moon as dark splotches on its disc.

Some people have interpreted these as the face or figure of a man. Who is he?

He's a woodsman who skipped church on Sunday morning to gather wood in the forest. On his way home with a bundle of sticks over his shoulder he bumped into a man on his way to church.

"Don't you know this is Sunday on earth and all men must rest from their labors?" asked the churchgoing man sternly.

"Sunday on earth or Monday in Heaven," shrugged the woodsman. "It's all one to me."

"Then bear your bundle forever," replied the churchman. "And as you value not Sunday on earth, yours shall be a perpetual moon-day in Heaven. You shall stand for eternity in the moon," a warning to all Sabbath-breakers."

* * * *

WITH THAT, SAYS the old Teutonic legend, the woodsman was whisked into space to become the Man in the Moon. And he may be there yet, patiently awaiting the arrival of the first rocket from the old home planet.

But the figure in the moon is not always seen as a man. Sometimes he's an animal, a cow or even a rabbit. The Sanskrit word for the moon is sasanka, which also means "having the marks of a hare."

And to some, the man in the moon is an avenging watcher.

In Iceland, they tell of the man who stole a leg of mutton and, as he sat down to eat it under the moon, he stabbed a piece of meat with his knife and waved it on high, crying contemptuously:

"O moon, wilt thou
On thy mouth now
This dainty piece of mutton meat?!"

From the heavens came retribution:

"Wouldn't thou, thief, like
Thy cheek to strike
This fair key, scorching red with heat?"

With that, a burning key fell from the sky and put its brand on the thief's cheek.

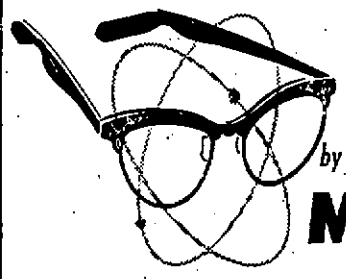

And now, with a burning rocket instead of a key, earth-bound man is about to put his brand on the watching moon.

CAB Probes Nantucket's Air Tragedy

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP)—Civil Aeronautics Board officers began an investigation Saturday of New England's worst airplane disaster, in which 23 persons—mostly New Yorkers vacation-bound—lost their lives in a Northeast Airlines crash. Eleven others were hurt; some burned seriously.

Twenty-two were killed outright and another man, Don Breswick of Brooklyn, N.Y., died of injuries later in Massachusetts General Hospital.

* * * *

THE TWIN-ENGINED Convair crashed in fog shortly before midnight Friday after cutting through treetops abqut 300 yards from this summer's resort airfield.

Among the dead were: Gordon Dean, 52, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Harvey Schwamm, 53, prominent Wall Street banker and chairman of the American Trust Co., and John S. Pearson of Manhattan, an executive of the American International Underwriters Corp., an insurance firm.

Seven of the more seriously burned were flown to Boston for treatment at Massachusetts General Hospial. Five others are in Nantucket Cottage Hospital.

* * * *

AIRPORT OFICIALS said the plane, held back in New York because of heavy air traffic, was coming in for landing about 11:30 p.m., using instruments because of a heavy fog that sprang up suddenly.

Witnesses said the plane came in low and ploughed into small pine trees. When it hit the ground it disintegrated.

TOPS IN SOAP SCULPTURE

Seadragon, Sixth and Most Powerful of U.S. Atomic Submarines, Launched

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI) — The Seadragon, America's youngest and most powerful atomic submarine, glided swiftly and smoothly down the ways Saturday at the Naval Shipyard here to take her place as the sixth of the Navy's nuclear-powered subs.

Conspicuous by his absence at the launching was Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, considered the "father of the atomic submarine." Rickover has said the Seadragon is a better sub than the Nautilus, but has refused to compare the two.

"You may be able to determine that one woman is better looking than another, but you can't put a percentage on it," he said.

Rickover spurned invitations to attend both the Seadragon and Triton launchings amid indications that a snub to his wife might be involved in his decision. The Triton, another atomic sub, will be launched Tuesday at Groton, Conn. Mrs. Rickover was not invited to launch either sub.

Rear Adm. Charles C. Kirkpatrick, chief of Navy information, said Mrs. Rickover would be invited to launch an atomic submarine at some future date. He said he would not be able to say which sub or when as the date has not yet been determined.

Rickover was snubbed, congressmen said, when he was not invited to White House ceremonies celebrating the Nautilus' successful North Pole trip. Later, the Navy publicly apologized for omitting him from the guest list.

The Seadragon was called the "youngest of our brood to be constructed," and "the most powerful, the most maneuverable, the best equipped and the most sought after by our sub force" by Rear Adm. Robert L. Moore Jr., shipyard commander.

Moore said 17 more nuclear-powered submarines are under construction by the Navy.

Duke in a Bit of 'Pinch,' You Know —Finds Nudism a Bare Necessity

WOBURN, England (AP) — About 200 undressed men and women became guests Saturday of Britain's best dressed aristocrat—the Duke of Bedford.

They are nudists attending a full undressed session of the International Naturist Congress on the expansive grounds of the duke's stately home, Woburn Abbey.

* * * *

HIS GRACE isn't there. He went off to Canada, maybe to get away from the anguished cries of neighbors who resent sun bathing in the altogether.

Actually, the duke's trip was to attend a conclave of thinkers at industrialist Cyrus Eaton's lodge in Pugwash, N.S. Week-long theme there was "the preservation of values of the Anglo-Saxon tradition in a scientific world."

Early Saturday Bedford showed up on a U.S. TV show to exchange badinage with Jack Parr. The duke said the nudists are separated by a fence from a herd of bison he maintains at the abbey and he expressed a serious hope the visitors wouldn't stir up the animals.

* * * *

HE VOICED A fear the sight of an angry bison pursuing a nudist across the lawns would not be a pretty one.

Bedford will appear on the TV show Tuesday night before returning here.

There is a chance, an aide said, that he may be back in time to greet some of the nudists before the congress ends Aug. 31. They'll have clothes on, though, if they are visited by the duke. He isn't a nudist.

Woburn Park has a circumference of 12 miles. The nudists are assembled about five miles from the abbey.

A wattle fence of twisted twigs hides the congress activities from the rude public gaze.

Woburn Abbey is one of the best known of the stately homes open to visitors for an admission fee.

* * * *

THE DUKE, an enterprising man trying to raise money to pay inheritance taxes on the estate, was quite unperturbed by criticism of his decision to let the nudists in.

The wattle fence seemed to overcome objections, and nudists don't undress until they get inside.

Tradesmen drive in with provisions but they have to stop their trucks at a secluded spot and sound their horns. A nudist in a bathrobe comes out to pick up the groceries.

A double-decked bus hit a bonanza. It goes right past the duke's estate and it was loaded with customers as the congress opened.

Wasn't much of a view from the top deck, however. Bus passengers complained the nudist sessions were being held in tents.

$35,000 Suit Filed in L.B. Auto Death

A $35,000 wrongful death suit has been filed Friday against the estate of a Long Beach man who died of a heart attack June 13, soon after his auto fatally injured a 3-year-old boy.

Sam and Harriet Tomich, 5229 E. Wardlow Rd., parents of victim Paul Tomich, seek the money from Anita Mae Rief, 3833 Chatwin Ave., widow of Carl Rief, 62, and executrix of his estate.

At the time, police said Rief's car hit the boy on Wardlow Rd. near Heather Rd. Rief carried Paul to the Tomich home, told his mother "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to do it" and collapsed.

Plaintiffs' attorney, Arthur D. Guy, alleged Rief was speeding and driving a car with defective brakes.

GE Reactor Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced Saturday a public hearing will be held Sept. 17 on granting General Electric Co. a license to operate a testing reactor at Pleasanton, Calif.

Johnston Island Traffic Ban Lifted

HONOLULU (AP) — Military and Civil Aeronautics administration officials said Saturday that all restrictions on air and sea traffic around Johnston Island were lifted.

Neither the Navy nor the CAA would say whether lifting of the ban meant completion of nuclear missile testing in that area.

CONGRESS CALENDAR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress at a glance:

Social Security—Senate Saturday passed House-approved bill to increase Social Security benefits by 7 per cent.

Pensions — Senate approved compromise bill to grant $25,000-a-year pensions, free office space and fre mailing privileges to former presidents. Final House action expected next week.

Farm — Senate Agriculture Committee approved without change House-passed farm bill reducing price supports for cotton, corn and rice but cancelling scheduled sharp planting cutbacks. Senate passage expected next week.

Labor—Senate approved compromise bill requiring union accounting of pension and welfare funds. Bill went to House which expected to approve it Monday. House also expected to act Monday on Senate-passed bill aimed at curbing labor racketeering. Outcome in doubt.

Housing—House to act Monday on Democratic-sponsored omnibus housing bill that is a modification of a Senate-approved bill. Republicans confident they can defeat this under procedure requiring two-thirds vote for approval and force consideration of their more modest housing program.

Foreign Aid—Senate action pending on $3,518,092,500 version of House-passed $3,078,092,500 foreign aid appropriation.

Minerals—House action pending on Senate-passed bill to subsidize depressed metals mining industries.

Debt—Senate Finance Committee cut two billion dollars from proposed 285-billion-dollar national debt ceiling approved by House. Senate to act next week.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

World-Renowned Dr. Jackson Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Chevalier Jackson, 92, world-renowned developer of the bronchoscope for ridding the human insides of alien matter died Saturday. Cause of death was not given.

Dr. Jackson, who since his withdawal from active practice had been living on a farm in neighboring Montgomery County, was admitted to Temple University Hospital seven months ago.

He founded Temple's Bronchoscopic Clinic which bears his name and is now headed by his son, Dr. Chevalier L. Jackson. The son, sole survivor, was summoned home from a Brazilian lecture tour.

Dr. Jackson, a niative of Pittsburgh, tackled the bronchoscopic technique 53 years ago. The idea for it came in part, he related, from a technique he employed as a younger man for peering down deep oil wells for lost tools. He said it took him 22 years to learn how to remove an open safety pin from children's throats.

Noted Sculptor Starving

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A frail little sculptor who has had presidents, popes and dictators as his subjects was under medical care Saturday after a narrow brush with death by starvation.

Ernest Durig, 62, was rushed to the hospital Friday after being found unconscious from malnutrition in his crammed one-room studio here. He was revived and told to return in the coming week for a full physical checkup.

Durig's poverty-stricken existence is in bleak contrast to his past. Among those who have posed for him were former President Harry S. Truman, three popes, Italian Dictator Benito Mussolini, Ethiopian Emperor Haille Selassie and philosophers Albert Schweitzer and Rabindranath Tagore.

Legation Gun Battle

BERN, Switzerland (AP)—Two young Hungarian refugees fought a half-hour gun battle in Communist Hungary's legation Saturday. Police called it a desperate attempt to seize legation documents.

One of the men, 22-year-old laborer Sandor Nagy, was wounded critically by members of the legation staff. He was not expected to live.

The other, 21-year-old plumber's apprentice Endre Papp, was captured without a fight by steelhelmeted Swiss police who entered the legation armed with tear gas and sub-machine-guns. Both fled to Switzerland after the Soviet Army crashed the anti-Russian revolt in Hungary in 1956.

17 Killed in 13 Hours

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Seventeen persons met death on Pennsylvania highways in about 13 hours, including four members of a vacationing family killed Saturday en route to Niagara Falls.

The worst accident was a violent two-car collision near Butler, Pa., which killed Arthur D. Williams, 43, Penn Hills; his wife, Josephine, 40; their two sons, David, 11, and Stephen, 8, and Ronald B. Small, 25, Clark Mills, Pa., a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe.

Britain's Cyprus Plan Rejected

ATHENS (AP)—Archbishop Makarios, exiled religious and political leader of the 400,000 Greek-language Cypriots, Saturday rejected Britain's revised peace plan for Cyprus.

He said British Prime Minister Macmillan's plan for separate Greek and Turkish Cypriot local parliaments under British rule for the next seven years disregards the rights of the Cypriot people to freedom.

Death Waits for Man in $1.95 Holdup

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A 55-year-old Perry County Negro is being held in Atmore Prison under a death sentence for robbing a white housewife of $1.95 at Marion, Ala., last summer.

Unless the State Supreme Court, which upheld the sentence June 12, changes its mind, or Gov. James E. Folsom decides to commute the sentence to life imprisonment, Jimmy Wilson is scheduled to die Sept. 5.

An application for rehearing is pending in the Supreme Court, now in summer recess. There is a possibility the execution date will be postponed if the court doesn't act on this petition before Sept. 5.

Wilson was given the death sentence for taking the money from Mrs. Estelle Barker at Marion, Ala., the night of July 27, 1957.

The woman testified during the trial that Wilson also tried to rape her but he was not indicted on that charge. Robbery is a capital offense in Alabama.

PENNEY'S FIFTH AND PINE DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

THE STRANGE animal that has been raiding the chicken flock on the Glen Spiller horse farm on Carson St. has been identified.

It is—or was—a mink.

A clean shot from the revolver of J. C. Alderson, an employe at the farm, ended the mink and its depredations among the bantams out there.

But after Alderson had dispatched the creature, a big argument arose as to just what it was. Various experts testified that it wasn't a weasel, a raccoon, a skunk, a possum or a mink.

The issue got to this dept., and I passed it long to City College.

Lloyd C. Hall, an instructor in zoology out there, took time off to run down to the farm at Carson St. and the San Gabriel River. Bro. Hall lost no time in identifying the carcass as that of a mink.

He added, however, that it was not of a species native to this area, and he guesses it was an escapee from some back yard mink breeding operation.

It had taken up its abode, however, in an area that is just about all that is left for wild fauna of our region. That's along the San Gabriel River. The banks and bottoms of the rivers provide refuge for the few wild animals descended from the big population of raccoons, possums, weasels, etc., that used to roam this region before it was almost solidly settled up by two-legged creatures.

BETWEEN EDITIONS Friday, I corrected an "error" in this dept. that wasn't an error. It's a rather painful story about the on-ramp facilities at Del Amo and the Long Beach Freeway.

In early editions, I reported that there was no way for westbound traffic on Del Amo to turn north on the Freeway.

I should have stuck with that story. But at mid-morning a friend of mine, who had driven by the intersection on the freeway, called from Beverly Hills to report that there was a northbound on-ramp for westbound Del Amo traffic.

I took his word for it and changed the story.

Then I drove out there, as I should have done earlier.

My friend was wrong. The highway facilities are deficient as I had reported in the early editions.

So if you're an early edition reader, just forget about it. If you're a late edition reader, please note this correction, and there's no need to take pen in hand.

I'm licked and embarrassed. But I think the highway dept. should add that northbound ramp, thus justifying all this fuss.

AN ACQUAINTANCE of mine, Frank Tucker, paid a visit to the census bureau in Washington, D. C., at 11:15 a.m. on July 31. He was in Washington and he just thought it would be interesting to talk to the agency that keeps track of the population.

He was told that the population of the U.S. at the moment was 174,388,132.

As he started to leave, the fellow in the bureau reminded him that by the time he got back to the hotel 15 minutes later, the total would be 174,388,300 or more.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Laughlin Waters accompanied a couple of visitors from the justice dept. at Washington on a trip around federal facilities here.

After a look at the shipyard, they stopped at the federal prison facility on Terminal Island and fell into conversation with the warden about recreation activities there.

The warden told them about the intramural baseball games.

"They were pretty good for a while," he said, "but we've run out of good pitchers."

"Is that so?" said Waters, who is the prosecuting atty. in this district. "Why didn't you let me know?"

ONE LITTLE LETTER can make a lot of difference. And so there were profuse apologies to the Cream of Wheat people after their advertisement appeared on Radio Station KNXT. It came out "Cream of What."

Omaha—Deadly Pushbutton of Hot War Nests Ominously in Peaceful Rolling Prairies of Cattle Capital

By A. R. SORRELLS
(Copyright, North American Aviation, Inc. 1956)

OMAHA — On the plane to Omaha, the talk is about cattle —cattle that stand belly deep by the scores of thousands in the prairie grass to the west. Gray-haired men in blue shirts and Stetsons, back from cattle business in Kansas City, hitch their legs to the seat rests and recall the old days when they were boys in the land of cattle.

When the plane stops they swing off with the easy grace of cowmen everywhere. They are greeted by wholesome-looking women driving dusty new pick-up trucks. That's Omaha, and everywhere there are signs that tell anybody who doesn't know it already that you are now standing in the world center for getting beef to market.

If you look sharp you will see, among the cattlemen, perhaps an Air Force colonel or a general with a worn brief case. He will thread his way through the prairie men and, acknowledging a smart salute from an airman, will duck into the back of a military sedan for the ride to Bellevue, 11 miles to the south, location of Offutt Air Force Base.

Cattle-country Omaha is what you see on the surface. What you don't see is military Omaha, command post for the next air war if there is one. Because at Offutt, near Omaha, the dialing of a brick-red telephone could, in 30 seconds, order retaliation to destroy the war-making potential of 200 million enemies of the Free World in one mighty holocaust of nuclear power.

* * * *

AS THE MILITARY MAN rides south to 100-year-old Bellevue, through undulating hills on a broad highway, nothing gives away the important secret hidden in the hills. Far to the left are bluffs the Missouri River has etched into the clay banks. Early-day artists who followed the steamboats and wagon trains west to old Fort Crook at Bellevue painted the bluffs along with the wagon trains because there was little else to paint on the unbroken reaches of the land.

Bellevue is small, has been since Fort Crook's cavalry days. Suddenly the driver swings up a long hill rolled smooth by the winds of a thousand years. At the top is a broad sand-colored building, new and plain compared to the picturesque old red brick cavalry stables at the foot of the hill. It is not an imposing building, and gives no hint that it is like an iceberg, with a building of equal size beneath it, under 45 feet of earth and concrete, a target so tough that nothing short of a hydrogen bomb could interrupt the work accomplished there.

In the event of a war the building above ground would be drained of its occupants, the underground building sealed off with its air-filtering machinery and 30-day supply of food. The war would be fought through a communication system that is a wonder of the electronic world. The iceberg building is the headquarters of the U. S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command.

* * * *

THE GLOBE-CIRCLING Strategic Air Command, which has 2,800 combat airplanes—all capable of delivering nuclear weapons—and which keeps up a never-ending 24-hour vigil to insure survival of the free world, is operated from this dun-colored building crowning a Nebraska hill. The whole world is the maneuver area of the Strategic Air Command. That is one of many unique features of the world's mightiest military machine, now in the process of spreading out to many additional bases to increase the number of targets an enemy would have to hit to put it out of action.

In terms of worth, the command is comparable to one of the biggest of America's businesses. Its payroll tops 224,000 men and women, scattered on 70 bases on four continents. It operates nearly a thousand more aircraft than all the airlines in the world outside the Iron Curtain.

But the giant is managed by hard-eyed business executives in uniform to keep it combed of all fat. It is not uncommon for a team from the Inspector General's office to drop in at an air base unannounced and order an immediate alert, just to see if the base is on its toes.

When the whistle blows, an entire wing — planes, crews, maintenance parts and even wing records as well as support aircraft and personnel, must be capable of instantaneous movement to forward bases.

* * * *

THE REASON SAC must be on its toes is a hard fact; the next war, if it comes, will be a quick war. An airman on leave 200 miles away from his base may never get into the war. It could be all over before he reports back to his base. Similarly, an aircraft in a hangar for overhaul might never fly a mission. That airplane will show on the maps of the war room as out of service and not to be counted upon.

But the most startling feature of this giant is its amazing ability to get into action quicker than a frontier sheriff. This it does by practicing, every day, for the hour the world hopes will never come — the time the Communist world might try to outdraw the Free World in a slambang all-out war.

No frontier peace officer, however, had the flexibility and control built into the system of the Strategic Air Command to deter a major war. Quick to draw and quick to fire, our oldtime peace officer could not recall a bullet once sent on its lethal way. The command can not only draw and fire its weapon, but the bullet can literally be stopped in flight!

This is the tremendous difference between manned and unmanned systems as military planners know them today. The manned systems of the command have the ability to be recalled if sent in error, the bullet stopped in its gun barrel after the trigger has been pulled. The whole concept of the command to deter any major war is built on this ability to get the world's mightiest military machine in action in seconds, the trigger pulled, the weapons of destruction sent on their way to pre-selected targets—and stop the entire plan in mid-flight by use of an infallible recall system known as "Positive Control."

* * * *

MANY SURPRISES await any visitor to the command headquarters near Omaha. The first surprise is the reception he gets when he steps through the door into the antiseptically clean and polished hallway. He is greeted by some of the smartest looking soldiers in the world —the air police of the command, wearing blue berets and pearl handled side-arms. This unique uniform is a heritage of General Curtis LeMay, who headed the command through many of its formative years. The general wanted his air police to make a lasting impression, and at the same time make them super-proud of being a part of headquarters operation.

Visitors usually ask first to see the war room in the underground, one of the most important rooms in the world. Down stairs and ramps, through foot-thick doors that would seal shut in case of war, the visitor is guided.

"Don't look now, but you're on television," says the officer escort. A cyclops eye moves above the head of an air policeman at the door of the war room. The visitor is told that it is a camera lens. From inside the war room all visitors are monitored by a closed circuit television even though there is a guard stationed at the entrance.

* * * *

LONG AS a football field, high as a two-story building, with viewing rooms reminiscent of stadium press boxes, the war room has the feeling of a movie or television stage. Under brilliant neon opposite the glass enclosed "press boxes"—actually control rooms for commanding Gen. Thomas Power and his staff—is a long curtain. A part of it is open, showing a great circle of a map. The visitor realizes he is looking at a polar map of the world, from the vantage point of a man in space. Africa is over to the right; to the left is Australia, at the top is India, the Russian states, China; below is the United States and Canada, South America and Greenland.

"What you see are today's SAC missions, the 400-odd routine training flights of the command all over the globe," says the escort. "There are 100 panel maps like this one, and the emergency war plan—which is out of your view—is permanently posted here, and constantly changed as we get new intelligence about targets."

It is hard to believe that this is Omaha, Nebraska, almost the geographical center of the United States. Somehow it is out of keeping with what visitors have understood about war in the past. The old concept was that a war should be fought from a tent or a quonset hut, in a hot, cold or rainy place, far from the familiar sights of home. It is a strange reality that if a war should start at this minute, or today, it would be fought from this room in a three-story underground building in the heart of the cattle country.

Since communication with bases in Britain, North Africa or Spain or Japan is instantaneous from this room, and orders can be given as fast as a man can talk, it stands to reason that the war room can be put in fighting configuration in a mighty short time. And this is true. To put the room in fighting trim means only pulling apart the curtain to expose any number of the huge panels on which the plans are displayed.

* * * *

ON THE PANELS also for the Command to see at a glance is information on global weather, the disposition of every one of SAC's 3500 aircraft anywhere on the globe. Electronic computing machines constantly pour in additional data, telling the exact status of every aircraft and crew.

Two other rooms of equal size flank the war room.

One is the Air Intelligence room, where the Air Defense Order of Battle is posted continuously. In the event of war, results of strikes against the enemy would be fed continuously into the Air Room in terms of target destruction, enemy action and other factors. The second room is for Operations Planning, where orders would be written directing the attack.

Available to the controllers in the glass enclosed "press box" are 60 telephone lines, part of the system for instant voice contact with each of the command's numbered Air Forces—the 3rd Air Division at Guam, the 7th Air Division in England, the 16th Air Force in Spain, the 8th Air Force at Westover, Mass., the 2nd Air Force at Barksdale in Louisiana and the 15th Air Force at Riverside, Calif.

* * * *

THE MOST FAMOUS telephone in the United States is in the controllers' room. This is a red telephone with an enlarged dial. By dialing five digits the senior controller can reach every control room in the United States. When the system is dialed, the nation-wide network sets off alarm bells and flashing lights in more than 40 command control rooms in the United States. Within seconds then the controller is able to order execution of any of the many emergency war plans already in the hands of combat wing commanders. And in from 3 to 15 minutes, aircraft with nuclear weapons in their bomb bays can be wheels-up and flying in remote corners of the globe.

Although its statistics change by the hour, the command, at any hour of the day, has an average of 211 aircraft actually flying their missions. The importance of these statistics is seen in the fact that since every crew has a pre-selected target, the loss of an airplane might well mean that a target somewhere in enemy territory may be temporarily uncovered. That is why great emphasis is placed on flying safety in the Command, which in 1956 had only five accidents per 100,000 hours of flight time.

When an airplane is lost, the commander of the base where the airplane is assigned has to appear personally before Gen. Powers to explain the loss.

* * * *

WHAT WORRIES the Command today more than maintaining its ability to get into action in an eye wink is how to keep its crews of professionals intact. It suffers from loss of highly trained men who move back into civilian life. For example, each month the command loses the equivalent in personnel of one B-47 squadron of 45 aircraft.

One career officer put it this way, "If we could keep all the men we wanted to keep, it would be an unfair fight if a fight got started." What he meant was that if all of SAC's crews were ready for action today, SAC would have an overwhelming advantage over any possible enemy. The only condition that might give the enemy his opening wedge, his chance to start a war and survive, would be if there someday were not enough crews fully trained for their missions.

But let there be no mistake about it, if the red telephone was used today in a real alert, SAC has the capability to deliver a haymaker on the enemy's homeland. One hydrogen-bomb carrying airplane can deliver a punch measured in megatons. All of the bombs dropped during World War II by the British and U. S. air forces only added up to three megatons.

Somewhere in the enemy camp today, and every day, military strategists put all their facts together and always the answer is the same—there's no use starting a war that might mean the end of all their large cities, plus 100,000,000 casualties.

To keep this deterrent, the command needs the most modern weapons American industry can produce. For its arsenal, the command is getting jet tankers to cut the refueling time with its jet bombers. Jet tankers will be able to rendezvous with their thirsty bombers at a more favorable altitude and speed, cutting precious flight time. The Convair B-58 Hustler is scheduled to replace the Boeing B-47 jet bombers. The Boeing B-52 6-jet bomber has replaced the piston-jet Consolidated B-36. New strategic weapons of North American Aviation, the Weapon System 110, now known throughout the command as the B-70 Valkyrie chemical bomber, capable of global range at 2,000 miles an hour at 70,000 feet, will come into SAC wings behind the B-52.

A North American air-to-ground missile will be carried soon by the B-52G. It will allow the bomber to attack targets with atomic weapons while still out of range of enemy defense, then follow up with a lethal atomic punch from its bomb bays. A family of Rocketdyne-powered ground-to-ground missiles will supplement the bomber forces in the command, but manned systems will be used as far in the future as the command can see today.

Kimmel Shifts Blame to D.C. for Pearl Harbor Sneak Attack

By HARRY W. FRANTZ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new chapter in the historical controversy regarding responsibility for the Japanese "surprise attack" against Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, has been written in the Congressional Record.

Husband E. Kimmel, admiral in command of the U. S. Pacific Fleet at the time of the attack, wrote a long letter to Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) which in effect shifted the burden of responsibility from the local naval and military commanders in Hawaii back to Washington.

The letter was inserted in an appendix to the record by Rep. Harry G. Haskell Jr., (R-Del) on Aug. 5. It escaped general public attention because it appeared to be chiefly a renewal of views and claims presented at various official investigations.

Actually, the latest Kimmel statement has assumed historical importance because of his vigorous denials that the "surprise" was made possible by inter-service rivalries in Hawaii and by misbehavior of service personnel.

* * * *

KIMMEL ALSO pin-pointed the report that as early as January, 1941, the Peruvian ambassador at Tokyo had heard rumors that in event of trouble between Japan and the United States, the Japanese would attack at Pearl Harbor.

These rumors, Kimmel said, were communicated to Washington by U. S. Ambassador Joseph Grew on Jan. 27, 1941, more than 10 months before the actual attack.

Kimmel said that a letter from the chief of naval operations on Feb. 1, 1941, had informed him that the Division of Naval Intelligence placed no credence on these rumors, and had added:

"Furthermore, based upon known data regarding the present disposition and employment of Japanese naval and Army forces no move against Pearl Harbor appears imminent or planned for the foreseeable future."

Kimmel charged that the Navy Department had not fully informed him concerning intelligence about Japanese activities in the months prior to the attack.

"The Navy Department sent me various messages quoting from intercepted Japanese dispatches," Kimmel wrote Cannon.

"I believed I was getting all such messages and acted accordingly. After the attack I found that many vitally important messages were withheld from the Hawaiian commanders.

ADMIRAL KIMMEL
Talks of Pearl Harbor

"I was never informed that Japanese intercepted messages had divided Pearl Harbor into five areas and sought minute information of the berthing of ships in those areas."

* * * *

KIMMEL challenged an allegation by Cannon that he and Gen. Walter E. Short, the Army commander, were not on speaking terms at the time the Japanese attacked.

Kimmel stated in his letter: "I know that to be wholly false and believe that I am entitled to the name of the person so testifying, whether or not he testified under oath and his qualifications.

"Moreover, I would appreciate a definite reference to the hearing of the subcommittee of the appropriations committee if printed, and if not, a transcript of that part of the record to which you refer.

"Your (Cannon's) remarks are a continuation of the frantic efforts of the Roosevelt Administration to divert attention from the failures in Washington and to place the blame for the catastrophe on the commanders at Pearl Harbor."

"For four years, from 1941 to 1945, the administration supporters and gossip peddlers had a field day making statements which the wall of government wartime secrecy prevented me from answering."

* * * *

IN CONCLUDING his letter, Kimmel said:

"Finally, Mr. Congressman, the officers and men stationed in the Hawaiian Islands were fine, upstanding and well disciplined young Americans whom the American people should ever remember with gratitude and honor.

"In the attack launched by the Japanese they showed themselves fearless, resourceful, and self-sacrificing, and I shall always be proud of having commanded such men.

Alcorn Vows: GOP to Fight for All Seats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn said today that GOP prospects in the November congressional elections "have vastly improved" and Republicans "are not conceding a single seat."

His forecast was brighter than one he made last April 22 when he said "it's not in the cards" for Republicans to win control of the Senate from the Democrats.

* * * *

THAT STATEMENT drew an indirect rebuke from President Eisenhower. The chief executive said he had "never yet admitted defeat in any fight I had to fight" and "I'm not doing it now."

Alcorn later explained he had not meant he was conceding defeat but was merely trying to "rouse Republicans . . . into a fighting mood."

In a statement Saturday he said he was "confident Republican strength at the polls this November will be a real shock to the arm-chair experts who were writing us off a few weeks ago."

"It's going to be a real battle all the way and we're not conceding a single seat," he added.

Iraq Begins Trials of 100 Charges of Conspiracy With West

BAGHDAD (AP)—Iraq's revolutionary regime Saturday began trials of more than 100 persons with a prosecution charge that the United States, Britain and Israel conspired in 1956 to take over Syria.

The charges were voiced by Lt. Col. Majid Amin, prosecutor for a five-man military court, as Maj. Gen. Ghazi Daghistani, a top-ranking military officer in the old regime, was put on trial as the first defendant.

The trial was carried on Baghdad's TV station.

Amin said the Western Powers and Israel conspired with the old Iraqi monarchy through slain Premier Nuri Said to destroy the independence of Syria and put Iraqi Crown Prince Abdul Illah on Syria's throne.

Daghistani said there was a military plan for Iraqi intervention in Syria but denied conspiring against Syria or with Israel.

Lt. Gen. Rafiq Aref, army chief of staff under the slain premier and himself a defendant, told the court the Americans wanted to use the Iraqi army in Syria to attack Communists they felt had taken over power.

"I withstood this," he testified. He insisted there never was any plan formulated for an attack on Iraqis.

City Joins L. A. in Appeal Challenging Utility Board

Phone Rate Increases Draw Fire

By GEORGE WEEKS

City of Long Beach is joining with Los Angeles in challenging before the United States Supreme Court the right of the State Public Utilities Commission to grant rate increases without first hearing interested persons.

City Atty. Walhfred Jacobson has just added his signature to that of Los Angeles City Atty. Roger Arnebergh to a notice of appeal from a California Supreme Court decision refusing to review an order of the state commission boosting rates of three telephone companies.

The notice will be filed with the State Supreme Court, but the ultimate decision will be that of the United States Supreme Court.

In May the state court rejected, without an opinion, a joint petition of the two cities to set aside interim rate increases totaling some $15,000,000 annually granted General Telephone Co., Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Sunland-Tujunga Telephone Co. by PUC.

* * * *

THE HIGHER RATES were ordered in a case consolidated by the commission at a time when more sweeping applications for increases were pending.

Jacobson and Arnebergh contended that PUC did not fully hear the evidence in the case and did not even make a pretense of finding that the old rates were inadequate or that the raise would not result in excessive profits.

The main basis for the appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court is that the telephone subscribers have been deprived of their property without due process of law in violation of the 14th Amendment.

* * * *

NOTICE OF APPEAL states the question thus:

"Does the due process provision . . . protect utility consumers so as to entitle them to a hearing by a state public utilities commission before such commission may authorize increases in the charges which the customers must pay for the utility's services, in cases where:

"By state law the customers are denied an opportunity to obtain substantially similar services elsewhere;

"The state law does not provide for any judicial trial of the issues, or for conditional increases pending a hearing before the commission and for refunds of such increases according to a subsequent determination upon such hearing, and

"Otherwise under state law the commission's 'interim' order is final and conclusive upon the affected customers, as to the increases which become due according to the 'interim' order of authorization?"

* * * *

THE NOTICE also refers to the alternative, as asserted by the commission, that it is a "fanciful contention that a customer of a utility has a constitutional or statutory right to notice before the commission, lawfully, may increase the rates of the utility."

Deputy City Atty. Leslie E. Still, who also signed the notice along with Asst. City Atty. Alan G. Campbell of Los Angeles, emphasized that the purpose is to get a ruling on the broad constitutional question rather than to attempt reprisal against the state commission or the telephone companies.

PUC recently granted further rate increases to General Telephone Co. but, taking cognizance of a Long Beach argument, the commission excluded Long Beach exchange from the higher rates, apparently agreeing with the city's contention that local subscribers were already paying rates that subsidized other and less active portions of the telephone system.

Censor Cuts Off Newsmen From Publicity Office

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — The Army reached new heights in blocking information this week while Oklahoma's 45th National Guard Division was training at nearby Ft. Hood.

But the telephone operator at Ft. Hood informed the newsman:

"Sorry, but that number is restricted."

850 to Use YM's New Camp Oakes

An estimated 850 boys this summer will use Camp Oakes, the new mountain facility of the Long Beach YMCA.

Located on a 160-acre site eight miles southeast of Big Bear City, the camp occupies a broad, pine-studded valley. It was named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe F. Oakes of San Francisco, whose $130,000 cash donation made it possible.

Camp Oakes, formally dedicated recently, replaces Kamp Kole which was destroyed by fire in 1949.

Baby Hurt in Tumble From Auto

A frantic mother trying to keep her 22-month-old daughter from falling out of the car drove into two parked vehicles near the intersection of Cedar Ave. at 27th St., police reported Saturday.

The chain reaction started when the baby, Elizabeth C. Hill, accidentally opened the door of the car being driven by her mother, Virginia Tucker Hill, 31, of 3804 Marwick Ave.

In trying to rescue the child, Mrs. Hill said she lost control of the car and struck headon two parked cars.

The baby fell to the pavement and was admitted to Seaside Hospital for a head injury and numerous cuts and bruises.

Young Worker Hurt in Fall

A 17-year-old construction worker was injured Saturday when he fell through a roof of a one-story building he was working on at 3720 E. 4th St.

Admited to Community Hospital for treatment of a fractured pelvis was Terry L. Weinheimer, of 9061 Imperial Ave., Garden Grove.

Motorist Pulled Out of Car, Beaten by 3

A scalp laceration requiring 10 stitches was suffered by Ray Robinson, 23, when he was pulled from his car and beaten by three unidentified men, on Willow St., Saturday, police reported. He was treated at Seaside Hospital.

Nurses Will Be Trained Here in '59

Establishment of a school for registered nurses in Long Beach was assured today.

The last hurdle was cleared Saturday following a meeting in Los Angeles of the State Board of Nursing Examiners at which the application to establish a school of nursing at Long Beach City College was approved.

The new professional nursing program will be under the direction and control of the Long Beach Unified School District.

Clinical laboratories will be provided through the cooperation of the new Memorial Hospital being constructed at 27th and Atlantic, other community hospitals in the greater Long Beach area as needed, and appropriate community agencies, according to Dr. Robert E. Swenson, dean of the liberal arts division of the Long Beach City College, who attended the meeting of the state board.

* * * *

ALSO PRESENT from Long Beach was Mrs. Claire O'Malley, an administrator of nursing educational programs from Seaside Memorial Hospital, who has worked with the public schools in planning the new school.

Douglas A. Newcomb, superintendent of schools, announced that the new school will be started in September 1959. The initial class will be 32 students, but ultimately there will be 200 students enrolled. Applications for admission to the first class will be taken after Jan. 1, 1959.

In a presentation made to the State Board by Dr. Swenson, it was explained that "Long Beach is suffering from an acute shortage of registered nurses."

* * * *

"IN ORDER to meet the demand for professional nurses now and for the future, it is paramount that a program be established in Long Beach as early as possible," he said.

He further explained that a $10,500,000 hospital bond issue passed in 1955 and a $4,000,000 fund drive completed this year assured financing for badly needed hospital facilities and equipment in Long Beach and that the school for professional nurses was needed to insure a skilled staff to man these new hospital units.

Long Beach has not had a school for registered nurses since 1939 when the training program for professional nurses was discontinued at Seaside Memorial Hospital.

Measles, Mumps Cases Reported

Three cases of measles and two of mumps were reported this week by the Long Beach Department of Public Health.

The weekly report showed only two cases of polio in 1958 to date, compared with an average of 25 cases for a comparable period in the years 1953-57.

How Sandra Sue and Doctors Battled Back From Darkness

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

This is the story of a courageous little girl, her beloved horse, a near-fatal accident and medical and surgical science that saved her life.

It is the story of 12-year-old Sandra Sue Hall, whose heart refused to stop even though highly skilled surgeons and their aids despaired of her life.

Today, Sandra Sue is walking and seeing again and doctors say that she will lead a normal life with no complications. But back in the dark days of late June and early July the chances were 1,000 to 1 that she wouldn't live and, if she survived, she might not see or walk.

There were so many IFs and 1,000-to-1 chances in those days that medics at Seaside Hospital don't discuss them without shuddering. Most of them would rather not recall those 21 days when Sandra Sue lay in a complete coma while packed in ice and her body temperature kept at a steady 90 degrees.

* * * *

SANDRA SUE'S DARKNESS began on the afternoon of June 23 when she and a friend, Linda Nothern, 10, went for a ride at the Equestrotel Riding Academy at 3800 Golden Ave. It wasn't Sandra Sue's first ride on her beautiful horse, Sugar. She had been riding for several years because she, like her father, Jack A. Hall, loved horses. She had been such a good rider that she once was a member of the Lancerettes. But on June 23 Sandra Sue made a mistake. Instead of putting the saddle on Sugar, she used a surcingle, which is only a belt around the horse's body. Sandra Sue was riding bareback.

What occurred minutes later not far from the stables is not clear, but it is presumed that Sugar stumbled. Sandra Sue fell off. In the ensuing tangle of dirt, flying hoofs, horseflesh and a panicked girl, Sandra Sue was knocked into a state of unconsciousness from which she was not to emerge until three weeks later.

* * * *

SCREAMING FOR HELP, Linda rode back to the stables. Attendants were soon at Sandra's side. They called an ambulance.

At Seaside Hospital, expert surgical and medical teams went into action. Skilled hands made an incision in Sandra Sue's throat and inserted a tube to keep her breathing. X-rays showed that there was injury to the brain and another surgeon was summoned.

The battle to keep the girl alive lasted far into the night as instruments pierced the skull. An enormous blood clot was removed, but the fight for survival was only hours-old.

* * * *

AS HOUR FOLLOWED hour, hopes faded, but one doctor suggested the hydro-thermia process be tried. That entailed packing the patient in ice and lowering the body temperature to 90 degrees.

Sandra Sue's mother, Maudie, joined six special nurses in an around-the-clock vigil. The ice-packing had to be renewed constantly. A special thermometer was necessary, but only one was available and that was at St. Mary's Hospital. St. Mary's rushed it to the patient's bedside.

* * * *

TWENTY-ONE DAYS later, Sandra Sue awakened. The hydro-thermia process was stopped.

Doctors still feared that she would be paralyzed. They discovered that her vision wasn't perfect. They suggested hydro-therapy—swimming in the big Hubbard tank in the physical therapy lab downstairs. They didn't know that Sandra Sue had a terrible fear of water. But then they also didn't understand Sandra Sue's indomitable courage.

She overcame her fear of water and took to the tank like a duck. She had to be carried from room to tank to room again. There followed other principles of physio-therapy — untrasonic and electrical stimulation.

SANDRA SUE . . . 21 Days in Coma

IN THE DAYS that followed, she took the first few steps toward a renewed life, leaning her weight on an adoring physical therapist. That nurse, and others, are calling Sandra Sue the sweetheart of Seaside Hospital.

Sandra Sue returned to her home at 815 Havana Ave. on July 25, but the story isn't ended. She will continue to take hydro-therapy as long as the doctor orders it.

Yesterday, Sandra Sue was walking alone down the corridor of Seaside on legs made thin by long hospital confinement. Her eyes were perfect and she was as alert as any 12-year-old could be. The doctor had just told her that she could return to the 8th grade of the Lutheran Church School next month.

And what about Sugar? Sandra Sue's father sold the horse because he learned that it would be a year or two before she could ride again.

But Sandra says: "He'll buy me another horse later. I just couldn't live without a horse. I've been riding since I was four years old."

Her mother added: "Yes, even before that; she rode hobby horses when she was three."

Sandra Sue doesn't blame Sugar for her near-fatal accident. If any one is unwise enough to mention that Sugar might have kicked her, she says with child-like candor:

"Sugar wouldn't have done that. My head hit a rock when I fell."

And those who have visited the scene said that there was a large rock adjacent to the place where Sugar fell.

SLOPPY? BEWARE!

Reservists Given Red Star Warning

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian army newspaper Red Star warned reserve officers Saturday to spruce up or lose the right to wear the uniform.

The paper published letters complaining that some officers wear the uniform with bright non-regulation yellow shoes and blue shirts.

Other letters complained that some reservists had been seen drunk in uniform while others walked the streets carrying shopping baskets.

BILL RUNS TO MILLIONS

Army's Market Super for Sure

By JAMES A. ALLEN

If you think shopping for the family at the neighborhood supermarket is a problem, consider the task of the Los Angeles Military Subsistence Market Center.

Each month this super-supermarket buys nearly six million dollars worth of perishable foodstuffs and meat for Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force men.

The market center, commanded by Col. William D. Jackson, veteran Army quartermaster officer, supplies food for 44 military installations in Southern California, southern Nevada and Arizona, plus much of the overseas shipments.

It is one of the 10 market centers in the U. S. under the Military Subsistence Agency, operated by the Army Quartermaster Corps for all the services.

* * * *

THE LOCAL CENTER fills requirements for lettuce and lemons throughout the world, supplies all oranges and grapefruit about six months a year—when Florida is not producing—and furnishes most of the turkeys used by the services.

Southern California also is one of the two approved sources of rabbits for military consumption.

As in the home, meat is the biggest item in the market center's budget. Of the $70 million spent by the local agency last year, nearly $35 million was for meat. Dairy and poultry products took $22 million, fresh fruits and vegetables $8.5 million, tuna (which the Los Angeles center buys for all the services everywhere) took $3 million and frozen fruits and vegetables, $1.5 million.

Translated into pounds, this added up to 75 million pounds of fresh meat, 90 million pounds of vegetables — mostly lettuce, potatoes, celery and melons—50 million pounds of oranges and lemons, three million pounds of poultry, a million dozen eggs and five million pounds of other dairy products.

The center is a big consumer of Southern California dairy products, spening more than a million dollars a month in milk and ice cream.

* * * *

SMALL BUSINESSES provided 72 per cent of last year's purchases, Col. Jackson said.

"We try to buy from the producing organization," he said. "This is our basic tenet."

He said the Los Angeles center prides itself on prompt payment—usually within 10 days of the date of delivery by the vendor.

"We try to eliminate anything which will restrict competition," Col. Jackson said. "We're using the taxpayers' dollars, so we try to spread it around. We try to use standard packs as much as possible, except for items which must be packaged for export. We conform to standard trade practices."

The center also is proud of the speed with which it filled emergency orders during the recent Middle East alert.

In three days, ships were provisioned at Long Beach and San Diego and stocks restored at the Torrance Annex of Long Beach Naval Shipyard and at the Naval Supply Depot in San Diego. In addition, citrus and meat were shipped to the East Coast.

Child Center's Enrollment Set

Registration for parents re-enrolling in the Long Beach City College Child Development Center opens Monday and will continue through Aug. 27 at the General Adult Division office, 4901 E. Carson St.

To retain priority, continuing students should pay tuition fees and pick up enrollment forms before Aug. 28, when registration of new students will begin.

Prince Visits Chou

TOKYO (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the premier of Cambodia, arrived in Peiping on a state visit and was welcomed at the airport by Chinese Communist premier Chou En-Lai, the Red Chinese news agency said Sunday.

Space Film Lecture Set

"Recovery Dynamics," sixth filmed lecture in the City College General Adult Division series on space technology, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Lakewood campus auditorium, Harvey Way near Clark Ave. The public is invited.

Speaker will be Dr. Alfred J. Eggers Jr., chief of the Supersonic Wind Tunnel Branch at Ames Aeronautical Laboratory, Moffet Field. Dr. Eggers will discuss the technical problems of achieving non-destructive landings of space behicles.

Funeral Set for Victim of Lightning

Services will be held Monday for Donald Lee West, 27, former Long Beach and Lakewood resident, who was killed Thursday when struck by lightning in the San Bernardino Mountains.

West, a fire control officer for the U.S. Forest Service at Running Springs, was standing with a companion near Green Valley Lake when a lightning bolt hit him. The companion was knocked unconscious, but recovered.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Stevens and Bobbitt Mortuary, San Bernardino.

West is survived by his wife, Barbara; three children, Jeannie, 8, Danny, 3, and baby, six months; his father, Jerry West of Long Beach, and mother, Mrs. Wilma Behm of San Bernardino.

Goldwyn Moans 'They're Biting Hand That Lays the Golden Egg'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The trouble with those directors," says film titan Sam Goldwyn in his own private language, "is that they're always biting the hand that lays the golden egg."

Thus armed with Goldwynisms to improve the king's English, the tall, bald studio boss proved again this week that although he will be 76 years old in 11 days, he is still a tough man to tangle with when he thinks someone has bitten his hand, which has produced many a golden egg.

After three weeks of public tussling with Rouben Mamoulian, whom he dismissed as director of George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," there was still some doubt as to financial settlement.

SAM GOLDWYN
"Porgy" Will Be His

But there was no doubt of the one thing that mattered above all to Goldwyn: He was still boss, and when "Porgy and Bess" is looked back on in years to come, it will be remembered, for better or worse, as Sam Goldwyn's "Porgy and Bess."

* * * *

"This whole thing has nothing to do with Mamoulian's skill. Frankly, the old man simply felt Mamoulian was making too many public statements and people might start thinking of 'Porgy' as Rouben Mamoulian's 'Porgy.'

"You have to understand: This picture is to Sam what 'Ten Commandments' was to DeMille. This is the one he wants to be remembered for. He knows he's not getting any younger. And he can't wait for another 'Porgy.' Money he doesn't need. This is a love project with him."

* * * *

ORDINARILY, THE DISMISSAL would not have caused so much of a stir. Directors frequently are removed from pictures. But Mamoulian was also more than usually attached to the show.

He directed the original stage drama on Broadway in 1927 and also the first presentation of it as an all-Negro opera in 1935.

"Money and credits are unimportant to me at this time," says Mamoulian, a 59-year-old native of Tiflis in the Russian Caucasus. "I've always been obsessed with doing 'Porgy' on the screen.

"I helped convince Sidney Poitier, Dorothy Dandridge and Pearl Bailey to accept roles in the film when they were dubious about whether it would be flattering to Negroes. I helped Goldwyn convince them it would be done tastefully and reflect credit on their race and themselves."

* * * *

THE BLOWUP, according to reliable sources, apparently came when Mamoulian hired a personal publicity man named Russell Birdwell.

It Happened Last Night
By Earl Wilson

BY THE BOOK

BEVERLY HILLS — Comedians Dan Rowan and Dick Martin were telling me how they worked their way up from nothing to become part of the Dinah Shore summer TV replacement.

"Three years ago I was living in a cheap hotel room in New York with a two-burner hot plate," Rowan said.

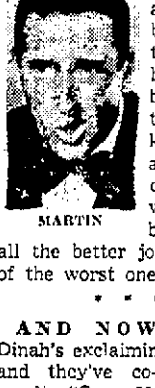

ROWAN

"I'd buy a dozen franks, carrots, potatoes, anything I could boil.

"For entertainment, you'd get on the subway and go catch a 49c movie. I'd look in through the window at Lindy's, envying Fat Jack Leonard and Henny Youngman, but I didn't dare go in."

"We knew one thing," mentioned Martin. "If you go into a bar where there's a show and give the bartender a $1 tip, he won't bug you about buying anything more." I knew that," he added. "because I'd worked as a bartender at all the better joints and some of the worst ones."

* * * *

AND NOW, of course, Dinah's exclaiming about them, and they've co-starred in a movie, "Once Upon a Horse," produced by Hal Kanter, who has said, "They are devout followers of Spinoza and girls."

Rowan, who'd been a writer, teamed up with Dick the bartender five years ago at Charlie Foy's cafe here—and they struggled.

"We used to do miserable, skimpy little things," Rowan said. We got to Chicago and wanted to see what the famous Chez Paree looked like. We couldn't afford to go in.

"We kinda peeked through the curtains and said, 'Oh, our party must not be here yet.' And slunk out. It took us five years to headline the place."

They were taken up by the hoodlums in one American city. "These guys would put a red ribbon on your car—" Rowan said.

"Otherwise you ain't got a car," Martin said.

"The red ribbon is a signal to the mob not to steal this car because this guy is o.k. wit' d' boys."

Finally making it to the Club Elegante in Brooklyn and later to the Copacabana, they found all the famous comedians helpful.

"Milton Berle, Jack E. Leonard, Buddy Lester, all gave us jokes," Martin said. Hal March gave us a whole notebook. One of them was about a man who lived to be 102. How did he account for that? 'Toadstools,' he said . . . 'Toadstools!' . . . The old man said 'Yeah, toadstools. I never ate 'em.'"

Then there's the Philadelphia joke, starting out, "What are you doing in Philadelphia?" . . . "Oh, I was the winner on a quiz show and I got a week here. If you lose, you get two weeks."

3 New Ships From Japan Visit Port

SAN PEDRO — Three new Japanese freighters, with a combined total of nearly 35,000 deadweight tons, were in Los Angeles Harbor Saturday on their maiden voyages.

They are Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line's Shiga Maru, 11,540 tons deadweight; Mitsui Line's Megurosan Maru, 11,600 tons; and Daido Line's Kotei Maru, 11,600 tons.

Each of the vessels has a service speed of 18 knots. All will be put on the regular Japan-Los Angeles Harbor run, augmenting present shipping line service.

In the year ending last June 30, Japanese flag arrivals at the port totaled 465, a 26 per cent increase over the preceding year, according to Bernard J. Caughlin, port general manager. Japan has led all other foreign nations in ship arrivals for the past four years.

Suit Offers Oil Operators Hope of Halting Sinkage

CERTAIN INTERESTS are spreading the word that The Independent, Press-Telegram is responsible for the filing of the federal suit against oil producers in the Wilmington Oil Field.

They are saying that representatives of this newspaper went to Washington, D. C., and appealed to the U. S. Department of Justice to sue the state, the city and almost 400 other oil producers with the objective of stopping subsidence.

The inference is that such action—that of endorsing a gigantic law suit—was a wrong thing to do.

It is high time we cleared the air on this subject.

TO KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT, we hereby announce that The Independent, Press-Telegram did send two representatives to the nation's capital to urge Justice Department officials to proceed with its pending suit to save the Naval Shipyard.

They came away convinced that the suit would have been filed sooner or later, and—recognizing the critical nature of the local earth-sinkage problem—they told the Justice Department that the sooner the complaint was filed, the better.

It was not the effort of this newspaper that caused this lawsuit to be filed. It was the disastrous subsidence and damage which resulted from oil production in the field that brought about the suit.

If there is any "blame" involved in endorsing this legal action, then we shoulder that blame with a crystal-clear conscience.

We regard the problem of earth sinkage which results from oil extraction as a threat to the economic future of Long Beach and to the general welfare of its citizens.

WE ARE NOT SATISFIED that operators in the Wilmington Oil Field are taking effective action to correct the problem, and as far as we are concerned we want subsidence halted even if it means shutting off the production of oil.

Obviously the United States Navy and the U. S. Justice Department concur with our conclusions. The very fact that they filed suit to save the sinking U. S. Naval Shipyard here is evidence enough that they believe the oil producers are dragging their feet on fighting subsidence.

THE GOVERNMENT SUIT should in no way be construed to be hostile to Long Beach's interests. On the contrary, it holds the best promise we have of achieving what the city has long sought—a solution to a harassing problem.

The city wants the Wilmington field repressured to stop subsidence that threatens to close the shipyard and, if unchecked, will add immeasurably to the millions of dollars damage it has already caused there and elsewhere.

The government suit asks that the power of the courts be brought to bear to bring about what the city wants.

Therefore, although the city is named as a defendant, it should look upon the federal action as friendly and should be ready with full cooperation.

THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA'S responsibility in the subsidence situation is clearly defined in the government complaint, and it is likewise to the best interest of the state to cooperate. The state has benefited in excess of $160 million from the oil withdrawal that has caused subsidence. It must bear its share of the cost of remedying the sinking. The sooner the sinkage is stopped, the less the cost will be.

Oil companies committed to the principle of repressuring the field also should welcome this legal action which promises to bring about a field-wide program with all interests sharing equitably in the costs and the benefits. One of them already has assumed a cooperative position in the suit, and the others should follow this lead if they are truly concerned about the broad public interest.

This newspaper is dedicated to a policy of stopping subsidence. We feel that the government suit is our best bet for solving the problem.

And He'll Steal This Too!

Demo, GOP Platforms Won't Make the Best-Seller Lists

TWO CURRENT reference works destined for smashing failure among California readers are the Republican and Democratic Party platforms.

But, as charters of principles, they'll serve as keystones of oratory across the state in the 11-week political pageant ending Nov. 4.

Partisans seeking bona fide differences in principle will dramatize the labor planks, and perhaps those on taxation.

HOUSER

"Right-to-work" is opposed in the Democratic platform. Republicans take a neutral stand.

While removing a 1956 plank supporting the union shop—so that its neutrality on R-W is consistent—the GOP supports rights to strike, to bargain collectively, to protection from rival unions during the life of union contracts and to have employers' assurance of bargaining only with certified unions.

For the working man, the GOP favors guaranteed rights: to quit his job at any time, to take part in legal union activities, to remain in his union so long as he pays his dues, to protection against unfair practices by either employer or union officials, to political activity of his own choice, to a job without first joining a union, to secret ballot in any election concerned with his livelihood and to protection from personal financial responsibility in damage cases against his union.

Democrats' lengthy labor section advocates a $1.25 per hour minimum wage, increase in workmen's compensation benefits up to $70 weekly plus $5 each for additional dependents, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, equal pay for equal work for either sex, repeal of the state's Jurisdictional Strike Act, extension of worker benefits to agricultural workers, elimination of the seven-day waiting period for disability benefits and the industrially injured worker be allowed a free choice of medical care.

REPUBLICANS BOIL DOWN THEIR tax plank to advocacy of "living within our means" and within the present tax system. They keep hands off the sales tax revision initiative, Prop. 17.

Democrats oppose Prop. 17—as individual Republican leaders do—because it is "fiscal irresponsibility" and because it would freeze the tax structure into the law of the state, unchangeable except by further statewide vote.

However, Democrats renewed their opposition in principle to the sales tax and advocated its lowering and eventual abolition "when it is economically feasible." They favor increases in severance taxes (on profits from "extraction of irreplaceable natural resources"), inheritance, personal income and corporate taxes—the latter two "on an equitable basis." They oppose a tax on food.

PLANKS PECULIAR to the Democratic platform favor abolition of cross-filing and adoption of a ballot in which candidates of major parties appear in a single column under a party symbol so that one mark would indicate a vote for all candidates of one party, but reserve the voter's right to cross columns and "split" his ticket at his pleasure.

The platform also opposes the requirement of loyalty oaths, citing U. S. Supreme Court decisions in accord, and holding that "respect for constitutional safeguards of the people's liberties is inseparable from true security and true loyalty."

Also opposed by Democrats is "gerrymandering" of state legislative and congressional districts. They support lowering of the voting age to 18.

Gore Rather Than Faubus True Key to South's Mood?

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE and WILLIAM W. BROOM

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders here consider Sen. Albert Gore's successful primary race in Tennessee a more accurate indicator of what the South will accept on racial problems than Gov. Orval Faubus' earlier triumph in Arkansas. This is how they reason:

Faubus, running against two far lesser known Democrats, almost had to win. His primary opponents sharply criticized his use of the National Guard in the Little Rock crisis but, significantly, both also pledged themselves to maintain school segregation. In fact, Faubus himself boasted of some racial integration under his administration in areas other than public schools.

In the case of Gore, one of the Senate's true Southern moderates, the racial issue was the heart of the campaign. Gore's opponent, a former governor of the state, was well-known. He was also well-heeled with campaign funds and plastered the countryside with billboards pointing out that Gore voted for the Civil Rights bill and refused to sign the Southern Manifesto against school integration.

Thus the issue of extremism vs. moderation was clearly drawn in Tennessee where it wasn't in Arkansas, and moderation won.

* * * *

THE SENATE rackets committee investigation of Jimmy Hoffa's financial activities suddenly acquired an international flavor one day last week.

Robert Scott, a former Teamsters union associate of Hoffa in Detroit was in the witness chair. Among other things he said he had been ordered to contact an individual known as "The Chinaman" about a racket operation.

SEN. GORE
True Moderate

GOV. FAUBUS
Bound to Win

"Who is The Chinaman?" inquired counsel Bobby Kennedy.

"Oh, some Greek," replied Scott, deadpan.

* * * *

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT and the Committee for a More Effective Congress, which calls itself nonpartisan, may have pulled a boner by making some premature campaign indorsements of Democratic Senate aspirants. Writing on the committee's letterhead, the former First Lady sent letters around the country seeking campaign funds for Reps. Gene McCarthy (Minn.) and Clair Engle (Calif.). Dr. Fred Anderson of Nevada and Gale McGee of Wyoming.

Nobody has complained about the indorsement of McCarthy and Engle but the plugs for Anderson and McGee raised a big stir because both are engaged in primary contests. The Anderson and McGee opponents in Nevada and Wyoming have seized on the Roosevelt letters and turned them to their own political advantage, while squawking loudly to Democratic campaign strategists here.

A few Republicans have some complaints, too. The handful of persons of the Modern Republican stripe who are interested in the committee's efforts to improve the caliber of Congress are taking a dim view of the affair. Not only do they dislike the all-Democratic indorsement list, they also don't like the mailing list the committee uses. It is one compiled during Adlai Stevenson's last campaign.

* * * *

SPEAKING of Modern Republicans, and almost nobody does any more, the coiner of the phrase retired from government last week. Arthur Larson, who had been writing speeches for President Eisenhower, returned to the academic life whence he had come. This revived, probably for its last gasp, a once-popular story about a Regular Republican being someone who doesn't want to try anything new while a Modern Republican is willing to try new things, but not now.

Excerpts From Subsidence Mail

TO THE EDITOR:

The membership of the Master Mechanics' & Foremen's Assn., in unanimous voice, has directed me to write to you expressing our appreciation for the excellent treatment of the subsidence problem being offered currently in your paper by Harry Fulton.

YOUR front page cartoon, "Must We Sink to This?" was a neat bit of propaganda, evidently designed to frighten Mr. Citizen into action. For some time now we've been bombarded with propaganda about subsidence. But I have yet to be convinced that oil removal is responsible for the sinkage.

DURING my tenure of office as a City Councilman, I have felt that if the issue were faced squarely by everyone concerned that this problem could be solved. Mistakes have been made and are continuing to be made. The water flooding program is. I am told, the only method by which this program can be licked. It is not a question of how much water goes into the ground that counts. It is how much water is left in the ground to maintain these pressures.

When the water flooding program was presented to the Council, I tried to have written into it that a certain percentage of the water would remain in the ground. In this I was unsuccessful. From the reports that I have read, and I have tried to read most of them, it is obvious that those responsible have been dragging their feet, each group possibly thinking that the other was responsible. The result is that the Ford Plant is lost to Long Beach, the Edison Company is on a stand-by basis, and our Naval establishment may be next. I hope your efforts to prevent this from happening succeed.

CHARLES M. GARRISON
L. B. City Councilman
5th District

What Happens to P.E. Service?

TO THE EDITOR:

Much favorable publicity has been given to the "Jobs for Long Beach" plan, and although I consider it to be a very worthwhile project, I do not think it has been adequately explained.

I cite specifically the proposed street beautification. I have read that the plan calls for the widening of Ocean Elvd. and the planting of trees in its center aisle and that of American Ave. Since these "aisles" are non - existent, their creation would necessarily cause the removal of the tracks of the Pacific Electric Railroad. I have heard nothing of the future status of P. E. service.

* * * *

IS IT GOING to be permanently discontinued or merely interrupted while the tracks are being relocated? If they are to be moved, the logical question is: "To where?" Will they simply be placed a few feet farther from the center of the streets or at an entirely new site? I am not a regular P. E. user, but I'm sure there are many who are depending upon its service as a transportation mode.

It seems to me that if the plan calls for no widening of American Ave., the traffic problem created by the loss of two lanes will partially, if not wholly, offset the advantages of beautification. I think that it would be equally as feasible to utilize the excessively broad sidewalks of American for extra road space as those of Ocean.

JIM SHETTERLY
1098 E. 16th St.,
Long Beach

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A spokesman for the Metropolitan Transit Authority has assured "Jobs for Long Beach" sponsors that the tracks will have been removed from Willow St. south by the time the program would go into effect. An island down the center of American Ave. will reduce traffic conflict, not increase it.)

Charter Study Head Refers to Report

TO THE EDITOR:

There appears to be a misunderstanding on the Board of Supervisors Los Angeles County Charter Study Committee.

I refer to Page 22 of our report (yellow pages) where the following language occurs:

"The Committee's recommendations for a larger Civil Service Commission is predicated on an increase in the size of the Board of Supervisors and assumes that the Commissioners will be selected and appointed by the Board on an 'at large' basis."

In other words, the Study Committee recommended an increase in the membership of the Civil Service Commission to five only if the membership of the Board of Supervisors were also enlarged, as recommended by the Committee.

* * * *

THE PURPOSE of that recommendation was to secure collective judgment by the Board, or to put it negatively, to prevent "personal," "district," or special-interest appointments to the Civil Service Commission.

My colleagues and I regret after all the work our committee put in, the rejection of our major recommendations. Nevertheless, I am constrained to request of the Board that the nature of our recommendations should be kept clear, especially with reference to increasing the size of the Civil Service Commission.

HENRY REINING, JR.
Chairman Charter
Study Committee

LETTER OF THE WEEK

How to Be Happy

WITHIN A FEW DAYS—God willing—I shall celebrate my 75th birthday anniversary and I still look to the future with hope and desire. I try never to become discouraged though my aims have often exceeded my grasp. I think of each achievement that I make, not as a stopping point, but as a starting point for some new and better endeavor.

Psychologists say that one is never too old to learn and that elderly people who have lost interest in doing and learning are a liability as citizens. Many oldsters let their thoughts dwell too much on the past—"the good old days." That is regrettable. The past cannot benefit them in any way, except that they use their past experience to help build a brighter and better future.

* * * *

IT IS TRUE THAT OLD PEOPLE have the hard earned dignity and wisdom of years which youth has yet to acquire by growing old; then, let them think of old age as an asset, a God-given privilege and be thankful that they have something of great value to use in giving advice to youth—wisdom if and when occasions arise.

And also, there is so much in this wonderful world that the aged still can and should do that there is no reason for them to sit and pine and re-pine. By doing they will keep brisk and snappy which is a splendid formula for keeping happy.

ESTELLE M. LORD

Fortune Magazine Diplomacy

WASHINGTON—It won't be advertised outside the White House but you can chalk up the President's Middle East speech in New York as a partial score for Fortune Magazine diplomacy. It was inspired by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge plus C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune, who either through himself or his staff, has played an important part in at least two previous highlights of American foreign affairs.

PEARSON

It was Emmet Hughes, brilliant staffer of Fortune, who conceived Ike's "I will go to Korea" speech during the 1952 campaign which led to the President's pilgrimage after the November election.

It was C. D. Jackson who conceived the Atoms-for-Peace speech delivered at the United Nations in the fall of 1953.

Jackson is a believer in fast, dramatic action. He was reared on Madison Ave. techniques, acquired in part from the big advertising agencies which make Time, Life and Fortune publications such gold mines.

To deliver the Atoms-for-Peace speech Jackson got Eisenhower to end abruptly a conference with Winston Churchill and fly to New York.

At that time the dynamic publisher of Fortune was serving as psychological warfare director on the White House staff. Shortly thereafter he went back to New York, officially because Fortune wanted him back; in part, however, because White House operations were frustrating. He was sent back to Washington a few weeks ago by his chief, Harry Luce, to try to breathe new life into the administration's bogged-down policy in the Near East.

Jackson's presence in the White House recently is one reason why Khrushchev's notes have been answered with more speed. Last winter weeks passed before Ike and Dulles got around to answering the "peace epistles" of Bulganin and Khrushchev. In December, one month and a week passed before Ike replied. In fact Bulganin had written him two letters before Eisenhower got round to answering the first. It caused comment that Moscow had hired a smarter Madison Ave. public relation expert than the B. B. D. & O. firm. It also brought public admission from Eisenhower at a press conference that perhaps he needed a good psychological adviser. From this C. D. Jackson's return to Washington eventually followed.

* * * *

LAST WEEK Jackson seized John Foster Dulles' absence in Brazil a few days earlier, as the moment to resell Dulles' "hard sell" to Ike regarding the UN Assembly meeting.

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

In a column a few days ago, this author referred to heavyweight challenger Roy Harris as perhaps a softer touch then face powder. Now, I'm not so sure.

Nobody in California knows much about the Texan who will try to snatch Floyd Patterson's crown Monday night in Wrigley Field, but we're all saying we know one heckuva lot about Mr. Patterson. And is that so much?

It's common knowledge that Patterson didn't have to beat much to win his title and to defend against it. First came Archie Moore and the less said about this Aborigine diet booster, the better. I'm certain Archie still gets embarrassed when he recalls that fight, the only one of his entire career in which his offense consisted of leading with his head.

Next came Hurricane Jackson, followed by Pete Rademacher. If Patterson spent the next year looking in every corner of the globe for any sorrier opponents, he couldn't do it. Both are weaker than used teabags.

I don't think Harris is any great shucks, but is Patterson as good as his bandwagon buddies in L. A. are insisting? (The bandwagon buddies on the uptown afternoon papers both tabbed Rademacher over Zora Folley, by the way.)

I'M STILL STICKING with Patterson to win Monday night, but two incidents of recent days have shaken my confidence somewhat.

No. 1 came last Thursday just before the Dodger-Cub game. Umpire Dusty Boggess, one of the National League's best even if he is a native Texan, was holding court and the upcoming fight was his principal topic.

"Boys," beamed Dusty, "don't underrate my Texas friend, Roy Harris. I've seen him in his last half-dozen fights and I think he's a great bet at those 7 and 8-1 odds being quoted.

"One fight convinced me that Harris may be a real good one, with more experience. That was when he licked Bob Baker. Don't laugh, I know Baker isn't the greatest thing alive. But this night in Houston, Baker rapped Harris with a punch that started from the floor and caught Roy in the ear. It hurt and Roy started to sag. On his way down, Harris was bopped on the back of the head by Baker and I'd have bet right then that Harris couldn't have been revived until he reached the dressing room. I mean that kid was poleaxed.

"He got up before the count reached 10, sweated out the round, then outboxed Baker the rest of the fight for an easy decision. I don't know how hard Patterson hits, but he'll never whack Harris with anything like Roy got that night in Houston."

Incident No. 2 came after I wondered in print why Lew Jenkins was imported to Arrowhead Springs to teach Harris how to use his right—with the big fight only days away!

"It's an old sucker trick," advised veteran boxing writer Jack Cuddy of UPI. "Trainer Bill Gore is an oldtime cutey and he rang in Jenkins with all that baloney about Harris not having a right hand, just to fool the Patterson camp. He did, too. Patterson's boss, Cus D'Amato, was so upset he ordered Floyd to spend two days on an attack designed to take advantage of Harris' right hand weakness.

"What a laugh. Harris' right hand is as potent as any in the heavyweight business today."

RED SANDERS' UNTIMELY DEATH leaves a void in college football coaching ranks that won't be filled for a long time. I'm not alone in the belief that Sanders was the greatest college coach in the U. S. since World War II—and that includes the Wilkinsons, Leahys, Daughertys, et al—but the thing about Sanders that most impressed me was his ability to take defeat. (I'll grant he didn't have to take that very often, either, with a dazzling 66-19-1 record at UCLA.)

A perpetual winning coach takes defeat harder than a fellow with an in-and-out record—and Sanders hated losing with a purple passion—but he wouldn't blow his cork and lay the blame at anybody's feet.

Like the Rose Bowl game he lost a few years ago because his captain, Hardiman Cureton, and his best back, Ronnie Knox, almost came to blows on the field in the waning moments over an argument about play-calling. In the dressing room, Red merely shrugged his shoulders and commented:

"Why should I blame those boys for today's defeat? If it hadn't been for their outstanding work in the past season, we'd never have got to the Rose Bowl."

After the last game he was ever to coach, Sanders showed another side of his character. His heavily-favored Bruins had just squeaked past a ragged SC club on this day in November, 1957, and nobody in the Bruin delegation was overjoyed over the sloppy victory.

"Do you think you were outcoached in this game by Don Clark?" some newspaper character sarcastically asked Sanders. "You were supposed to win by three touchdowns."

"I could very well have been outcoached by Mr. Clark," replied Red, with that infectious grin. "He's a fine coach who hasn't got one break this year.

"But," he concluded, "I don't mind being outcoached, as long as my luck holds out. The best coach in the world will never beat the luckiest."

ONE OF THE FIRST QUESTIONS asked by Carmen Basilio when he arrived in Long Beach Saturday was, "How's the fishing and hunting around here?"

One of the nation's most enthusiastic outdoorsmen, Basilio would rather hunt than eat, sleep, drink—or box. Fishing comes next.

"I'd sure like to fish around here after Art Aragon and I finish our business. I usually go hunting right after my fights, but I guess this is a fishing paradise. So I'll fish," commented Carmen.

"Incidentally," added Basilio, with a big grin. "When I fish, please let me go without Aragon. He talks too much and might scare the fish."

Anderson in Tennis Win

NEWPORT (AP) — His game seemingly sharpened by moist and dreary playing conditions, defending champion Mal Anderson of Australia advanced to the finals of the Newport Invitation Tennis tournament Saturday by defeating Alejandro Olmedo of Peru, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Rain forced postponement of the second semifinal between Australians Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser until today.

Superior in ground strokes and with consistently better service, Anderson dominated the play throughout the match. The swarthy Peruvian's game fell below its usual standard, possibly influenced by the soft footing.

Wade Runs Skins Dizzy

by DAVE LEWIS

COLISEUM—Billy Wade passed his first major test as Sid Gilman's choice as his No. 1 quarterback here Saturday night when he hurled two touchdown passes and scored another himself to lead the Rams to a 31-10 victory over the Washington Redskins in their annual charity clash before 73,164 fans.

Although spotty in some parts, Wade grew more effective as the game progressed as he completed 12 out of 22 passes for 125 yards to graduate with flying colors from Norm Van Brocklin's understudy to the Rams' regular quarterback. He also accounted for 65 yards running, carrying the ball seven times.

Wade's first scoring pass was a beautiful 33-yard strike to Jon Arnett, who made a diving catch in the end zone midway in the third period to break a 10-10 tie and send the Rams winging towards their initial triumph of the season over an NFL opponent.

But while Wade generally will receive the major plaudits in the Ram victory, the inspired play of an unheralded rookie defensive end from Georgia by the name of Roy Wilkins set the stage for the Rams' second-half surge to victory.

Wilkins recovered two Redskin fumbles to set up two of the Rams' second-half touchdowns, and scored the third himself on a 29-yard run after intercepting a pass.

His alert play will earn him a "second look" by the Ram coaching staff because he has been so little regarded up to now that his background wasn't even included in the club's annual press book.

The Rams roared into a 10-0 lead in the first 15:43 of play and seemed to be well on their way to a convincing victory when the Redskins came surging back in the final eight minutes of the initial half to gain a 10-10 deadlock at the intermission.

The Redskins appeared to be moving towards another touchdown early in the third quarter when a fumble by quarterback Ralph Guglielmi spelled disaster for Washington.

The Redskins were attacking from the Ram 41 but Guglielmi fumbled when hit from behind while trying to get off a pass, and Wilkins recovered for the Rams on the Washington 44.

Four plays later, Wade fired his 33-yard scoring bomb to Arnett, who out-maneuvered two Redskin defenders to make the grab in the end zone at the 8:41 in the stanza.

Wilkins, who has been in the Army since his final season at Georgia in 1956, broke the game wide open for the Rams at 2:57 of the final period when he barreled into the Redskin backfield to intercept Guglielmi's flat pass intended for fullback Fred Bosseler, and then romped 29 yards for the touchdown that gave the Rams a commanding 24-10 advantage.

But Wilkins — and Wade — weren't through for the evening by any means. As time was running out, the Redskins' Johnny Olszewski fumbled a pitchout and Wilkins again recovered for the Rams, this time on the Washington 32-yard line.

* * * *

ON THE FIRST play, Wade swept around left end for 24 yards to the six-yard line and then, after a penalty, he flipped a 13-yard pass to rookie Jesse Arnelle from Penn State in the end zone for the final touchdown at 12:09.

Thus, the Rams ended the game the same way they started . . . with a rush. They boomed into a 10-0 lead in the first 15:43 of action on Paige Cothren's 22-yard field goal at 11:36 of the first period, and on Wade's 10-yard rollout around left end for a touchdown on the second play of the second quarter.

Cothren also kicked the conversions after all four touchdowns for a total of seven points for the evening.

Cothren's first-period field goal followed a 57-yard Ram drive to the Washington 14 which stalled.

Wade's touchdown 43 seconds into the second quarter was set up by a Redskin fumble.

On the last play of the first stanza, Eddie LeBaron fumbled when hit by Dick Daugherty while trying to get off a pass deep in Washington territory. Larry Morris rushed in to recover for the Rams on the 13. Two plays later, Wade crossed up the Redskin defense by keeping the ball himself and rolling out around his own left end for the score.

* * * *

THE REDSKINS took advantage of a Ram fumble to launch their rally that tied the score at halftime.

Tom Wilson fumbled when he slammed into the Washington line on the Ram 15 midway in the quarter and Johnny Allen recovered for the 'Skins. After three plays netted only six yards, Sam Baker dropped back and kicked an 18-yard field goal at 7:06 to make it 10-3.

The Redskins finally pulled even just a minute and 40 seconds before the half ended when they moved 50 yards in 11 plays with Sid Watson banging over right tackle from the five-yard line for the tally. Baker's kick evened matters.

Washington appeared to be assuming command with a vengeance at the outset of the second half until Guglielmi's costly fumble. From there on in, the Rams manhandled the 'Skins. To take an 8-5 in the series.

The Rams now look forward to their second NFL exhibition test Friday night in the Coliseum against the New York Giants.

L.B. Delegation Greets Basilio; Drills Monday

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Carmen Basilio, the former welter and middleweight champion of the world, settled down in a comfortable chair at the Lafayette Hotel—his residence for the next three weeks—and whistled:

"Man, I'm just as beat as if I had gone another 15 rounds with Ray Robinson!"

Basilio arrived in Long Beach Saturday afternoon from New York City after a coast-to-coast plane trip and from the moment his craft landed at International Airport at 3 p. m., Carmen didn't get a moment's rest for the next eight hours.

Basilio was met at the airport by a number of fans, plus a delegation from Long Beach, headed by Oscar Contratto, president of the Long Beach Century Club. After a picture-taking session and a press interview, the ex-champ was whisked to Long Beach in a special caravan.

The car parade was met at Pacific Coast Highway by a police escort, which ushered the personable New Yorker to the Lafayette Hotel, where he will reside and train for his Sept. 5 bout in Wrigley Field against Art Aragon.

* * * *

THE CENTURY Club hosted a cocktail party for the Basilio entourage at the Lafayette, then Carmen gulped a quick dinner and was whisked away again, this time to Los Angeles, where he was a featured guest on the regular Saturday night TV program of—guess who?—Aragon.

Bent, but not broken, Carmen ducked into the Coliseum for a brief look at the Ram-Redskin game, then fled back to the comparative quiet of the Lafayette Hotel.

Because of his extensive activity Saturday, Basilio will not hold a training session today, as he had intended. However, his initial drill in Long Beach will be at 1 p. m. Monday in the Lafayette's Grand Ballroom. The public is invited.

* * * *

BASILIO WAS accompanied here by his co-managers, Joey Nieto and John DeJohn, along with two sparring partners, Willie Dillon and Lee Owens, plus his father. Carmen's wife, Kay, and his two adopted nephews will join the ex-champion here in a week.

Carmen was to attend an early Mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church this morning, then intended to engage in brief roadwork on the beach. The rest of his day will be spent relaxing.

In his brief interview Saturday, Basilio said he definitely hoped to use the Aragon match as a springboard toward a third middleweight title bout against Robinson, the current champion.

When asked what he'd do if he was upset by Aragon, the 5-1 underdog, Basilio broke into a big grin and roared:

"Are you kidding?"

A. A. Stagg Celebrates —He's 96!

STOCKTON (UPI) — Amos Alonzo Stagg, revered elder statesman of football, celebrated his 96th birthday Saturday much to the surprise of two insurance companies.

Stagg, silver-maned and hearty, beat actuary odds of 100,000 to 3 by collecting on his life insurance policies as his own beneficiary.

One policy, issued in 1903 by a young agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company named Harold L. Ickes, was for $10,000. Another was issued in 1892 by the New York Life Insurance Company for $3,000.

* * * *

CHECKS WERE mailed to Stagg as birthday presents which the companies calculate they only have to send to three of every 100,000 policy holders, based on the average life expectancy.

Stagg seemed more pleased by the pile of mail from well-wishers than by the fact he beat the insurance "oddsmakers."

After a quiet afternoon at home he was honored at a football game—a fitting tribute to a man who devoted his life to the sport.

Stagg and his wife, Stella, were honorary chairmen at an all-star high school game in nearby Lodi.

Still quick of mind, the fabled "Grand Old Man of Football" who made coaching history by fielding teams at the University of Chicago for 41 years said he felt the game was more interesting as played by collegians rather than professional specialists.

* * * *

SIFTING THROUGH the more than 400 congratulatory letters and telegrams from well-wishers, including President Eisenhower and California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, Stagg bemoaned the decline in college football attendance at some schools.

Stagg was an All-America back for Yale in 1888. He was one of the founders of the Big 10 and still remains close to football by acting as an advisor to the coaching staff at Stockton College.

A spectacular three-car crash and explosion on the 30th lap turned the featured 40-lap CRA sprint car dash at Gardena Stadium into a near tragedy Saturday night.

The accident occurred when Tommy Winchester spun out and was crashed into by Al Goelz, who was rammed by Hank Henry. The successive crashes caused Winchester's gas tank to explode, but he escaped with minor facial burns. Nick Valenta copped the featured race.

Once Over Lightly

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

There isn't a man in the boxing business who truthfully thinks Roy Harris has even a ghost of a chance of upsetting Floyd Patterson Monday night at Wrigley Field.

Those who have been "talking it up" for Harris apparently are doing it for the sole purpose of helping the gate.

As we pointed out last Sunday, a fight of this kind usually is "90 per cent buildup, 10 per cent fight."

And the only question in trying to correctly tab the outcome is to pick the round Patterson will finish off the challenger from Cut and Shoot, Texas.

We figure the end will come anytime after the 8th round. We are inclined to single out Round No. 11 as the concluding chapter in the Patterson-Harris story.

For one thing, Patterson has always been a cautious fighter through the opening rounds and he doesn't figure to take any undue chances Monday night against Harris in such an important bout . . . unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

There is always the chance of an upset, of course. But in cases of stunning upsets, you usually can find a good reason behind them . . . an explanation for the result which had not been taken into consideration when the pre-fight odds were set up.

TAKE THE FIRST TUNNEY-DEMPSEY fight. Sure it was a shocking upset, but when a cold, detailed analysis of the result was made, it became obvious that Dempsey never should have been a strong favorite.

Jack was far over the hill and also was very rusty after being inactive for some three years. Tunney, in superb condition, was much under-rated. It was only after the fight that he was recognized for what he was . . . one of the cleverest boxers in heavyweight history.

Probably an even greater upset—at least oddswise—was Jimmy Braddock's victory over Max Baer to win the title. Braddock was an 8-1 underdog.

But those close to the situation knew that Baer had failed to train properly and was not in good condition.

None of these situations are apparent in the Patterson-Harris setup.

Harris doesn't come anywhere near being the journeyman fighter that Tunney and Braddock were. Then, too, the champion appears to be in superb condition, and secondly, despite the fact that there has been much said about Floyd having never seen the Texan fight, the Patterson camp knows exactly what kind of a fight they're going to wage. The strategy was set several weeks ago.

THEN, TOO, PATTERSON and his manager, Cus D'Amato, will be fighting for their "lives" in the fight game. Both will be "dead" in the boxing world if Floyd loses because of D'Amato's bitter feud with the IBC.

Although Harris himself is said to have no IBC ties, there is little doubt among most boxing men that he'll throw in with the IBC if he succeeds in upsetting Patterson.

Thus, there appears to be no underlying reason for a stunning upset this time.

Patterson is the best all-around fighter among the heavyweights. He has all the moves, all the punches, the fastest hands the division has ever seen since Joe Louis was in his prime, and superb condition.

Harris also has wonderful condition and speed, but he is pitifully weak in many departments of the profession.

What's more, Patterson has been looking good against a much better group of sparring partners than Harris has been working against. Don't take Floyd's "knockdown" in a sparring session too seriously. It was more of a slip that was publicized to help the gate by making people think Harris had more of a chance.

Actually, Cal Brad, who was flattened by Patterson in one round a couple of years ago, has been looking real sharp sparring with Harris.

Harris' hopes of waging a fair stand is wrapped up in his condition, speed . . . and a left jab.

WEAK ON THE INSIDE, IT HAS been obvious from his sparring sessions that Harris will try to stay away from the champion.

As trainer Bill Gore says . . . "Harris will keep Patterson on the end of his left hand. That left is very fast and I don't think Patterson slips or brushes aside a jab too effectively. Joey Maxim used his left hand on him and did all right . . . and Jackson lasted several rounds longer than he should have by pawing him with his left."

The only loss on Patterson's record, of course, was to Maxim, the ex-light heavyweight champ who took an unpopular eight-round decision over Floyd while the latter was still under-age and prohibited from fighting more than eight rounds.

Harris' main points, in order, are (1) his condition; (2) his left jab, and (3) he is "awkwardly clever." His most powerful punch is a right uppercut with which he hopes to catch Patterson coming in.

And Patterson will be "coming in." His training sessions at Oceanside make it obvious that he plans to carry the fight to Harris and beat him on the "inside."

Competent observers, backed up by Harris' sparring partners themselves, say the Texan is "pathetic on the inside" and that's where Floyd hopes to set him up for the kill.

He'll bore in and whenever he gets in close, he'll slam away with both hands. Patterson throws the best combinations of any heavyweight in recent years.

Giants' Homers Tell, 7-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda led the San Francisco Giants to a 7-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs Saturday in a free-swinging affair marked by five home runs.

The Cubs' Ernie Banks increased his National League home run lead with his 36th and 37th. His teammate, Tony Taylor, got a two run blast but Mays' and Cepeda's homers meant the difference.

Mike McCormick, 19-year-old Giant lefty, got the victory—his ninth against five losses. Gordon Jones, a new Giant acquisition, relieved him in the sixth and gave up only one run.

A crowd of 17,617 saw right-hander Dick Drott take his 10th loss. The victory kept the Giants in third place and evened the three-game series at one each.

Mays' homer capped a four-run uprising against the Cubs in the fifth and the Giants were never headed. Each team got 10 hits.

Struggle for Fourth Place

By GEORGE LEDERER

The crippled but high-flying Dodgers get a chance to move into undisputed possession of fourth place this afternoon when they complete their four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals in another doubleheader.

The Dodger box office, which has already dispensed 1,511,690 tickets this season, is set to accommodate at least 30,000 more customers in the Coliseum this afternoon. The first game begins at 1:30.

Dodger manager Walt Alston plans to start two lefthanded pitchers, but he won't know which ones until he receives Trainer Doc Wendler's medical report this morning. Sandy Koufax (9-5) is a definite starter, but Danny McDevitt (1-5) is only probable.

* * * *

IF McDEVITT'S sore elbow hasn't responded to treatment Alston will go with Fred Kipp (5-4), used exclusively in relief since July 12 when he lasted seven innings as a starter and beat Cincinnati, 4-3.

Toothpick Sam Jones (10-8), one of the league's fastest, and rookie Nelson Chittum will hurl for the Cardinals, who share fourth place with the Dodgers. Chittum, 25, will be making his first major league start. He was recalled from Omaha last week, where he compiled a 12-8 record and 2.73 ERA.

The Dodgers are on a four-game win streak, tying their high for the year, and the Cards have dropped four in a row, two to the Giants and a twin bill to the Dodgers Friday night. Both teams had Saturday off and most of the players attended the Rams - Redskins football opener.

DODGERS DIS AND DATA — Alston's entire lineup depends on the medical report. Both shortstops, Don Zimmer and PeeWee Reese, are injured: If neither is able to play, Alston will shift Charlie Neal from second to short, put Junior Gilliam on second, Gil Hodges on third and Norm Larker on first . . . Zimmer re-injured some bruised ribs Friday night on a dive into second base. Reese has a bad back. . . . The Dodgers have stolen eight bases in 10 attempts in their last four games and have stolen 10 times in eight games on this home stand. Gilliam leads the Dodgers with 13 steals and Zimmer has stolen 12 bases in 13 attempts . . . Carl Furillo has made 22 hits in 59 at-bats during August for a .474 pace, raising his average from .268 to .288 . . . Stan Musial's two singles in the second game Friday raised him to seventh, ahead of Adrian (Cap) Anson, on the all-time hit parade. Musial has 3,083 hits. He also has 2,160 extra bases on long hits, five shy of Mel Ott's National League record. . . . The Dodger fan club will hold its final summer brunch at the Mayfair Hotel at 10 o'clock this morning. Broadcasters Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett are guest speakers . . . Duke Snider has 10 hits in 21 at-bats for his five games in August and has hit .344 (22-for-64) since the All-Star game. His season average is .308 . . . Pitcher Stan Williams' second game home run Friday was the first of his pro career . . . The Dodgers are nearly 100,000 behind Milwaukee's attendance record of last year. The Braves drew 1,618,020 for their first 58 games (54 dates) to the Dodgers' 1,511,690.

Security? 74 Big League Managers in 10 Years

By GEORGE LEDERER

Quick, now: How many major league managers have been hired and fired in the last 10 years?

Ah, ah; don't hesitate, because your answer may be outdated. If you said 74, you're right, at least as this edition went to press.

Seventy-four! And who said the squeeze play is obsolete?

Since 1948 each league has felt the managerial squeeze 37 times, which makes the job of a major league manager about as secure as that of a flag pole sitter.

Only the FPS has the edge. He doesn't have to take the flag in order to stay up.

So far this season, four managers have been let out the back door and a look at the standings indicates that two or three more are suffering from insomnia, for which the only known cure is a stiff shot of pennantcillin.

With the ouster of Jack Tighe (Detroit), Bobby Bragan (Cleveland), Mayo Smith (Philadelphia) and Birdie Tebbetts (Cincinnati), the average tenure of today's major league managers has been reduced to 2.6 years.

* * * *

CASEY STENGEL, now finishing his 10th season as boss of the New York Yankees, is the senior citizen among major league managers. Walt Alston of the Dodgers, completing his fifth year and with a contract for a sixth, tops the National League.

After these two, the turnover has been faster than at the corner flapjack house.

Mike Higgins (Boston) and Paul Richards (Baltimore) have been around since 1955, but 12 others have been hired since 1956. The eight National League pilots have served only 18 years among them and Stengel's stay gives AL managers 24 years of service, including 1958. That boils down to an average of 2.2 years in the NL and three years in the AL.

Four teams, two in each league, have had six managers in the last decade. The champion if-they-can't-beat-'em, disjoint-'em clubs are the White Sox, Tigers, Redlegs and Phillies. Here is a breakdown of the number of managers hired and fired since 1948:

NATIONAL		AMERICAN
Redlegs	6	White Sox	6
Phillies	6	Tigers	6
Cubs	5	Indians	5
Cards	5	Athletics	5
Dodgers	4	Orioles	5
Braves	4	Red Sox	4
Pirates	4	Senators	4
Giants	3	Yankees	2
Total	37	Total	37

The seniority list runs like this:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

1. Alston, Dodgers 1954.
2. Fred Hutchinson, Cards, and Bill Rigney, Giants, 1956.
3. Fred Haney, Braves, June 1956.
4. Bob Scheffing, Cubs, 1957.
5. Danny Murtaugh, Pirates, late in 1957.
6. Eddie Sawyer, Phils, and Jimmy Dykes, Redlegs, during 1958.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

1. Stengel, Yankees, 1949.
2. Higgins, Red Sox, and Richards, Orioles, 1955.
3. Al Lopez, White Sox, 1957.
4. Harry Craft, A's, and Cookie Lavagetto, Senators, during 1957.
5. Bill Norman, Tigers, and Joe Gordon, Indians, during 1958.

The trend in managers is toward the "organization men" instead of former "name" stars such as Rogers Hornsby, Frankie Frisch and Leo Durocher, who ran the show as late as the early 1950s.

Alston, Scheffing, Rigney, Murtaugh and Norman are examples of major league managers who came up through the ranks. Smith and Tighe are examples of those who came up and already have gone down.

Dodgers general manager Buzzie Bavasi, who started the trend with the hiring of Alston, says this practice is likely to continue.

* * * *

"OUR FEELING is that a man who has managed for us in the minors knows the players and how the organization works. Also, there is the advancement incentive. A man likes to know that he can be promoted.

"Naturally, we can't promote everyone. Take the case of Pete Reiser, for example. He manages our Green Bay, Wisc., farm in the Three-I League. He is a great teacher of youngsters and we want him to continue schooling our youngsters. To offset the promotion we pay him according to where we think he should be managing."

In other words, although Reiser is managing only a class B club, he is one of the highest paid managers in the Dodger organization.

Alston has been affiliated with the Dodgers for 13 years. Rigney played eight years with the Giants and managed their Minneapolis farm two years before rejoining the varsity. Scheffing played seven years with the Cubs, managed three years in the system and coached the Cubs one year before moving up.

* * * *

MURTAUGH PLAYED with the Bucs four years, served his managerial apprenticeship three years in the farm system and also coached two years.

There isn't a manager in the majors today who could be classified as a "star" in his playing days.

The highest lifetime batting average of the lot is Higgins' .292, followed by Stengel's .284.

But today the only average that counts is the number of years a manager is employed. And 2.6 isn't a healthy average.

Aaron's Hit Gives Spahn 16th Victory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hank Aaron singled home the deciding run in the eighth Saturday as the National League leading Milwaukee Braves eked out a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies for their fifth straight decision.

Warren Spahn registered his 16th victory of the campaign and 240th of his career after a shaky start. He shut out the Phils after they scored a run in the first.

Southpaw Curt Simmons gave up only three hits through the first seven innings, only to weaken in the eighth and surrender three more hits and the tie-breaking run.

The Phillies pounced on Spahn for one run in the first on Richie Ashburn's leadoff single and a triple by Bob Young.

A single by Aaron, Joe Adcock's double plus Andy Pafko's sacrifice fly evened matters in the second.

Brewer's 8-Hitter Beats N.Y.

BOSTON (UPI) — Mickey Mantle slugged his 34th home run of the season to take the lead in the American League homer derby but it wasn't enough as the Boston Red Sox posted a 7-4 victory over the New York Yankees behind Tommy Brewer's eight-hit pitching Saturday.

The Red Sox collected 15 hits off Don Larsen and reliefer Zach Monroe, including four doubles and Dick Gernert's 15th home run.

Mantle's homer, a 450-foot poke into the right-field bleachers with one man on in the sixth, moved him one ahead of Washington's Roy Sievers and two in front of Boston's Jackie Jensen.

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — A bases-loaded double by Roger Maris in the bottom of the seventh inning Saturday night paced the Kansas City Athletics to an uphill 8-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

It was the second straight night that Maris was instrumental in the A's victory over the Bengals. He rapped a two-run homer and a couple more run-scoring hits in the Athletics' 12-5 win Friday night.

Detroit out-hit the A's, 12-10. Each team used three pitchers. Frank Lary was the victim of Maris' blow and also the loser.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Left-hander Billy O'Dell pitched a two-hitter and Gus Triandos drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and a single Saturday night to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-0 victory over the Washington Senators.

O'Dell permitted only one Senator to reach second base and recorded eight strikeouts while walking only one to win his 11th game against 10 losses.

Gene Woodling started O'Dell on the way to his fourth win over the Senators this season with a 420-foot homer in the first inning.

Bob Kelley Says---

About 5 p.m. Thursday night, some 10 minutes before I was jolted by the first news of Red Sanders' death, I was winding up a long-distance telephone conversation with Don Paul in Chicago. We had already recorded an interview for my program.

Now the tape had been stopped, and the assistant coach of the College All-Stars asked how his restaurants were going.

"You had a big bar Monday night," I reported.

"No kidding?" Paul asked gleefully.

"What chance do you have against the Lions tomorrow night?" I asked confidentially.

"I'll tell you, Kel," D. P. answered. ". . . Uh, this isn't being recorded, is it?"

"No," I told him. "The tape's stopped."

"Well," he went on, "I wouldn't be surprised if we get beat, 80-0."

"What's the matter, no quarterbacks?"

"We just don't have the outstanding football players we did last year," Don said. "The two best players in camp are Dan Currie and Lou Michaels. But they can't carry the whole team."

"I SUPPOSE you know," I cut in, "that everyone around the NFL is hoping for your gang to get its ears pinned back — because of Graham's articles about dirty football."

"I know," Paul sighed. "Everybody's mad at us."

Some 28 hours later, D. P. proved again that those the closest to the game are the worst predictors. With a large share of the credit belonging to Don's own defensive coaching, the All-Stars routed the Lions much worse than the score indicated, 35-19.

Maybe the Lions got their first touchdown too easily. I don't know. They could have let down after that.

I've been stopped by people who ask: "Kelley, you're about as close to the Rams as anybody. How about it? Are we going to beat the 49ers Sunday?"

I shrug, and reply: "I hope so, but I don't have the faintest idea."

Not only does this pertain to football, but most any other sport as well. Those closest to the facts are often the worst predictors.

AT DEL MAR Friday, the same day Don Paul's football pick turned out poorly, but happily, a horse named Windare was the favorite in the feature. Before the race, Healy went down in the paddock and asked Billy Harmatz if he thought he'd win.

"I should," Billy answered. "They tell me this colt should have won the stake the other day. He ought to beat these horses, shouldn't he?"

Trainer Harry Daniels was asked about Windare's health. "Sound as a dollar, never been better," he replied. "I'll see you in the winner's circle."

One trouble. Neither trainer nor jockey knew Windare didn't especially feel like running that day. He had no speed, and finished out of the money as the 6-5 favorite.

I'm telling you, the closer you get to a thing, sometimes the less you know about the outcome.

So if you want any predictions on Ram games this season, stay away from me. See Hollingworth.

CHAMP TAKES IT EASY

Patterson 5-1 Favorite Over Harris Monday

Floyd Patterson, a question-mark champion, and Roy Harris, lightly-regarded challenger, finished training Saturday for their puzzling heavyweight title fight at Wrigley Field Monday night.

Harris, a modernized backwoodsman from Cut and Shoot, Tex., is unbeaten in 22 professional bouts; but whether he can make even a decent showing against the inactive champion from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., is entirely uncertain. Floyd is favored at 5-1—and higher.

Equally uncertain are the prospects for a crowd and gate and for the sale of seats at 151 theatres in 136 cities where the scheduled 15-rounder will be shown by closed-circuit TV.

There will be no home TV or radio.

* * * *

Regardless of the gate or theatre-TV sales, Harris has been guaranteed $100,000, and Patterson has been assured of at least $210,000, with chances of making more on an involved percentage deal with the Teleprompter Corporation, which has television, radio and movie rights.

Black-haired, glittery-eyed Harris—a strange combination of Li'l Abner, college graduate, 2nd lieutenant in the field artillery reserve, backwoods school teacher and prize-fighter—broke camp at Arrowhead Springs, and motored into Los Angeles with his entourage Saturday.

In his sparring sessions at Cut and Shoot, at Camp Holden, Tex., and at Arrowhead Springs, he did little to boost his stock. He displayed "awkward cleverness," fast hands and a sneaker right—but little power and a weak defense. He is an upright fighter with "good legs," who prefers to let his feet keep him at long range for counter-punching. At close quarters, he merely tries to tie-up his opponent.

Nevertheless, his 22 victories include wins over high-ranked Willie Pastrano, Willi Besmanoff, big Bob Baker and Charley Norkus. He registered nine knockouts.

Harris, 25, hasn't fought since last Oct. 29—nearly 10 months—when he outpointed Besmanoff of Germany.

Patterson, 23, hasn't fought in practically a year; not since the second defense of the crown last Aug. 22, on a sixth-round knockout over "amateur" Pete Rademacher, who had Floyd on the canvas in the second round.

Patterson is a combination boxer-puncher, who scored 24 knockouts while winning 33 of his 34 professional starts. He knocked out 14 of the last 15 men to face him. His only loss was on a questionable eight-round decision to ex-light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim, June 7, 1954.

The champion fights upright or from the bob-weave. Sometimes he leaps into the air with "gazelle punches"—either flying left jabs or straight rights.

Van Brocklin Leads Eagles to 30-28 Win

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, playing for the first time under new coach Buck Shaw, rallied for a fourth quarter touchdown Saturday night and defeated the Baltimore Colts 30-28 before 17,000.

Norm Van Brocklin, 32-year-old quarterback the Eagles acquired from Los Angeles, pitched three scoring passes.

He threw 19 yards to rookie end Bob Gunderman for the final Eagle touchdown with eight minutes to go in the fourth quarter. Bob Walston, who booted a 43-yard field goal in the third quarter, converted.

The Dutchman also threw touchdowns to Tommy McDonald and Walston. McDonald scored again on an 83-yard punt return in the second period.

Baltimore took a 14-0 first period lead after George Shaw threw a seven-yard touchdown pass to L. G. Dupre and Billy Pricer plunged two yards to score. Lenny Moore passed 14-yards to Penn State rookie Lew Walters in the second quarter for another Colt score. The Colts led 21-13 at halftime. The fourth Baltimore touchdown, in the final quarter came when Moore scored on a 22-yard pass from Johnny Unitas.

THROWS 249-3

Seymour Sets Mark

Dr. Steve Seymour of Long Beach hurled the javelin 249-3 on his first throw Saturday to break the Long Beach State College field record but hurt a finger on his second try and failed in an effort to smash Cy Young's Southern Pacific AAU mark of 257 feet.

State College track coach Jack Rose said Seymour was in "great form" and if it hadn't been for the finger injury he probably would have broken Young's record.

Seymour will take another crack at the record in about two weeks.

Browns Blank Steelers

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — A recovered fumble that led to a touchdown and a 22-yard field goal by Lou Groza gave the Cleveland Browns a 10-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers here Saturday night in the opening exhibition game for each team.

The Browns took a 3-0 lead late in the third quarter on Groza's kick and then recovered a Pittsburgh fumble midway through the final period that led to the game's only touchdown.

Buzz Guy recovered Earl Morrall's fumble on the Steelers' 28 and one play later Milt Plum's pass to Leroy Bolton moved the ball to the Pittsburgh 15. Four plays later the Browns had a first down on the five and three more running plays moved the ball to the two.

Billy Reynolds skirted right end on fourth down for the clinching touchdown. Groza added the extra point.

Following the kickoff, Morrall hit on 29 and 14-yard passes to move the ball to the Browns' 15. But the Steelers picked up only nine yards in the next four plays and the Browns took over and ran out the clock.

Cleveland	0	0	3	7	—10

Scoring summary: Cleveland touchdown, Reynolds, 2, (run); field goal, Groza (22); conversion, Groza.

Bellflower Ousted by Gardena

Bellflower left fielder Virgil Jones dropped Rich Guy's fly ball with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to give Gardena 2-1 victory Saturday night and send it into tonight's championship game of the State Softball Tournament at Park Ave. Field.

Gardena will play Culver City for the title starting at 8 p.m. General admission is 90 cents with children being admitted for 25 cents.

Before his error, Jones had been Bellflower's hero. He had pitched a two-hitter as Bellflower defeated Mary Star of San Pedro, 3-2, in an earlier game Saturday night and then had sent the second game into extra innings with a score-tying single in the seventh.

Gardena drew first blood in the nightcap with a run in the opening frame. Cy Phelps bunted safely and moved to second on an overthrow. He came home on pitcher Bob Amos' single.

Jones became Bellflower's hero—for the moment—in the seventh when his single drove home Ralph Sangster who had singled and moved to second on Floyd Chandler's sacrifice.

In the Gardena eighth, Terry Schmidt walked and Phelps singled. Don Doucette moved both men up with a fielder's choice. Don Guy was walked intentionally. Amos forced Schmidt at the plate but Rich Guy followed by hitting to Jones.

Sisk Paces Peterson

Tom Sisk pitched a masterful two-hitter Saturday night as Peterson Post won a thrilling 1-0 extra-inning victory over Covina in a Jr. American Legion tourney game at La Palma Stadium. Samuel Thomas Post, the other Long Beach entry in action, received a 12-3 thrashing from Lynwood No. 2.

Sisk's performance over the 10-inning distance was one of the top hurling feats of the tourney. His mates played errorless ball.

Lynwood used five hits, one error and five walks to push across 11 runs in the fifth inning to rout Samuel Thomas. Jim Hall and Jim Vickers poled two hits for the losers.

Mitchell, Ninowski MVP; Thomas Hurt

CHICAGO (UP)—The stunning forward pass combination of Bobby Mitchell of Illinois and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State Saturday won unprecedented honor as co-winners of the most valuable college player award in the 25th All-Star football game.

The two former Big Ten rivals each collected 39 votes in a poll of sports writers, who covered the College All-Star's surprising 35-19 upset of the Detroit Lions in Soldier Field.

There was only one serious injury. Clendon Thomas, Oklahoma halfback and Ram property, is hospitalized with a fractured leg bone and will be sidelined four to six weeks.

Runnerup with 29 votes was Texas A & M's Bobby Conrad, who kicked a record-matching four field goals and three extra points, and played a brilliant defensive halfback game.

Only other player named in the balloting was Lou Michaels, Kentucky's 235-pound tackle, who collected three votes.

In all, the fleet Mitchell, Big Ten sprint champion, streaked 145 yards with five Ninowski passes. And Spartan star Ninowski completed 14 of 20 tosses for 242 yards.

Monroe Scores TKO

Boots Monroe, 122, of Compton, was decked for a three count in the second round but got off the floor to score a technical knockout at the end of the fifth round over Roberto Hernandez, 123, of Juarez at the Hollywood Legion Stadium Saturday night.

Monroe, state bantamweight champion, took command in the third round, opened up a cut over Hernandez' right eye and, when Hernandez complained he could not see well enough, referee John Thomas halted the bout. It was Monroe's 17th win in 18 fights.

Snead's 66 Nabs Lead at St. Paul

ST. PAUL (UPI) — Sammy Snead, making his swan song on the 1958 professional golf tour, fired a six-under par 66 over Keller Golf Course Saturday for a 54-hole total of 197, 19 under par, and a 54-hole lead in the $25,000 St. Paul Open.

Snead, the event's all-time leading money winner and winner of the event 21 years ago, held a one-shot lead over halfway leader, Mike Souchak, whose last tournament victory was in this tourney two years ago. Souchak shot a 68 for 198.

Snead fired his second 66 after an opening 65. He picked up four birdies on the front side and slipped over par on the 130-yard par three fourth hole.

Giammalva, MacKay Ice Cup Victory

RYE, N.Y. (UPI) — Young Barry MacKay of Dayton, O., and Sammy Giammalva of Houston, clicking like a pair of twins, clinched the American Zone Davis Cup final against Argentina, 3-0, Saturday by punching out a quick doubles victory over Enrique Morea and Eduardo Soriano, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

Hamilton Richardson of Arlington, Va., earlier had made it 2-0 by downing the 34-year-old Morea, 6-1, 6-2, 7-9, 6-2 in the completion of a match postponed because of a rainstorm Friday with Ham trailing 4-5 in the third set.

Then MacKay, who knocked over Soriano in the opening singles Friday, led America's promising young doubles team in a romp to apply the clincher in the five-match series. The remaining two singles today strictly are for the records.

SCHOOL'S IN SESSION

The old master, Bob Waterfield (left), outlines Rams' intricate offense for rookie quarterbacks Frank Ryan (standing) and Bobby Cox. They're contending for No. 2 spot behind Bill Wade.

RAM QBS ROOMMATES

Cox, Ryan as Different as Como, Elvis

By JACK TEELE

Possibly the worst job of matchmaking since Folley and Rademacher was accomplished by the gent who assigned both Bobby Cox of Minnesota and Frank Ryan of Rice to Room No. 320 at the Rams' training camp.

It's not that Cox and Ryan are not good friends, it's just that they are such complete opposites . . . as much alike personality-wise as Como and Elvis.

Admittedly, Cox and Ryan are both rookie candidates for quarterbacking jobs behind Billy Wade, and both are possessed with a recognized talent for launching a football into accurate flight.

But there the likenesses end.

Most obvious contrasts are in physical appearance.

Cox has black, wavy hair and a dark complexion. He's a Latin type, a Sal Mineo with muscles.

Ryan, light-skinned, is slim, almost a bit frail. When he tells you he is a math and physics student, you believe him.

ON THE FIELD, OTHER contrasts become apparent.

Cox is gregarious, mischievous, flamboyant and, though unobjectionably so, downright cocky.

Ryan is quiet, subdued, serious. He will never run through a play until he has received complete instructions on the "why" and "where" of the pattern.

But from this "night" and "day" combination, the Rams must draw their relief for Wade.

Chances are that both will have a year-long shot at the No. 2 job, for Coach Sid Gillman has said, "Our present plans call for three quarterbacks on the final roster."

Breaking into the National Football League as a quarterback is a most difficult task.

Cox and Ryan have been in California since mid-June, reviewing films with QB coach Bob Waterfield and studying the hundreds of pages in Gillman's "Quarterback's Bible."

The two rookies have had to commit to memory 120 basic Ram plays, plus variations.

Further, they have been charged with learning the assignments of all other 10 positions on each of those plays.

Ram signals in the huddle sound like a verbally recited chapter from "Gone With The Wind!"

Broken down, that code gives the team members information on (1) the formation, (2) faking action for backs, (3) quarterback's route, (4) pass receivers' routes, (5) the number on which the ball will be snapped and (6) the order to break the huddle.

For Ryan, the memory work has been easier than for most. Already enrolled for post-graduate work at UCLA in physics and math, Frank is as brainy as they come.

"I went up to his room the other night," Waterfield told his fellow coaches last week, "and there's Ryan playing a game of chess with himself!"

But for all his studious qualities, Ryan sometimes reveals a bit of dry Texas humor.

The Rams have a section in their player questionaires that asks for "records held." Ryan's entry was: "None. Correction—I hold one record. Had pass intercepted and run back 102 yards by Charlie Jackson. SMU vs. Rice, 1958."

COX, OF SPANISH-FRENCH-Irish-Welsh descent, began his college grid career at Washington in 1954 and earned all-Coast honors as a soph. Then the swarthy California-born athlete moved to Minnesota where he won all-America mention as a junior.

Brash Bobby is outspoken in his praise for the Big 10.

"I'm glad I played for Minnesota," he says. "They give you great preparation for pro ball. The Big 10 is tougher than the PCC in all departments."

And it was at Minnesota that Cox played in the split-T where he was obliged to do a lot of ball-carrying.

He became quite proficient at carrying the mail. Ryan can leg it when he has to, also.

And with Wade operating as No. 1, it would seem that the Rams are well-fixed for a refreshing spell of the quarterbacking style wherein a trapped passer has at least a once-in-five chance to nullify the loss.

Khalita Snares Debutante; Like Magic Bests Arrogate

The heavily favored filly, Khalita, lived up to her role Saturday by romping to a two and one-half length victory in the $47,930 Del Mar Debutante Stakes.

Slow to settle into her normal stride, Khalita was hustled along in the home stretch and was drawing clear at the finish. Peter Strub's Satina was second and Miss Uppity finished third.

Khalita, with Jockey Ray York aboard, ran the six furlongs in 1:10⅘ and paid $2.50, $2.40 and $2.30. Satina returned $6.70 and $5.10. Miss Uppity paid $4.50.

In the companion feature, the Solana Beach Handicap, Like Magic hung a head decision on Arrogate. Twentyone Guns finished third. With Ralph Neves in the saddle, Like Magic toured the mile course in 1:36 and paid $4.80, $2.60 and $2.20.

Claiborne Farm's Nadir led wire to wire to win the richest purse ever paid a 3-year-old in Chicago history as he won the American Derby at Washington by three and a quarter lengths. The purse was $160,075.

Ridden by Manuel Ycaza, Nadir covered the mile and one-eighth in 1:48⅘ and paid $6.60, $4 and $3. Victory Morn was second and Talent Show third.

Admiral Vee won the Saratoga Handicap with Inside Tract second and El Bermejo third. Eddie Schmidt, the co-favorite, was fourth. Time for the mile and one-quarter was a slow 2:06⅘ and the winner paid $9.90, $4.90 and $4.

Fall Wind, the even-money favorite, won the Pageant Stakes at Atlantic City. The mile and one-sixteenth turf race was won in 1:50⅘ and Fall Wind returned $4, $3 and $2.60.

Los Coyotes Country Club Holds Aquacade Today

Three of the all-time greats of the diving board and the owners of seven Olympic gold medals among them—Pat McCormick, Sammy Lee and Joaquin Capilla—will headline an aquacade at Los Coyotes Country Club in Bellehurst today at 5 p. m.

Los Coyotes recently dedicated one of the West's most modern swimming and recreational centers.

Pat, winner of four Olympic diving titles in the 1952 and 1956 Olympic Games, is director of diving and coach at Los Coyotes. Dr. Lee won tower diving crowns for the U. S. in the '48 and '52 Olympics.

Capilla, who flew here from Mexico for the event, captured the tower crown for his country at Melbourne in '56.

AGUA CALIENTE — Nine stars of the local handicap division have been entered for the one-mile Amherst Cup today, the standout race of the week here. This race will mark the first challenge of older horses by the sophomore Mylittlemonkey, winner of her three recent starts.

River Clipper, as usual, is high weighted with 116 pounds against 111 each for Tony's Reckon and So Valiant. The same horses met two weeks ago with just a nose and a head separating the trio, Sir Valiant winning. The latter picks up five pounds, imposts of the other two being unchanged.

Trace O' Irish won the two-mile marathon run Saturday with Call Glory second and Bernstar third.

There were a total of 33 tickets cashed in for five out of a possible six winners in the "5-10" pool. Each ticket was worth $1,053.80. There were 536 consolation tickets for four win-

Athletes of '20s Brash, Free Spenders--Played for Thrills

(Editor's Note—In the Twenties athletes were a brash, free-spending crew that played for the thrill of the game and for the fans' hero-worship — a different breed from the professional businessmen in sports today. Here is a sports flashback to life in the Twenties.)

By TOM HENSHAW

GERMANTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A round, moon-faced baseball player named George Herman (Babe) Ruth ate too many hot dogs and drank too much soda pop one hot, hungry afternoon and he got a tummyache and for days breathless headlines probed every detail of his recovery.

A scowling, blue - jowled boxer, William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, got belted out from under the world heavyweight crown and he explained to his wife: "Honey, I forgot to duck," and even the people who detested him suddenly loved him for it.

* * * *

A RED-HAIRED college boy, Harold Edward (Red) Grange, who could carry a pigskin filled with air better than anyone else, sat on the bench in civvies to watch a professional football game and police had to rescue him from autograph seekers.

An aristocratic golfer named Walter Hagen parked his Rolls Royce outside the most sacred precincts of St. Andrews Golf Club in Scotland and ate his lunch in the car and it embarrassed club officials who wouldn't let an American professional sully the clubhouse by his presence.

Those were some of the big names who played big roles in big events around and about America in the third decade of the 20th century when nothing seemed quite so important as the next pitch, the next round, the next down or the next putt.

OLD DAYS GONE FOREVER

Smooth-stroking Gene Sarazen chips out of rough on way to winning British Open in 1932. Sarazen says the old days were more fun though not so lucrative.

It was a time when money (but not much of it) came easy and went easier; when hero-worshipping fans rubbed shoulders with their idols; and when lithe and hungry young men and women planted the American flag at the very pinnacle of the athletic world.

Those are the 1920s — the golden age of sport—as recalled by one of those lithe and hungry young men, Gene Sarazen, now 56, a golfer who came out of the wings as the decade began and has never really left the stage since.

"The athletes of the 1920s were primarily sportsmen," says Gene. "There was something of the gambler about them, too. Only a few made really big money but just about everybody spent more than he made. Save money? Nobody gave it much thought. We had a good time.

"Athletes today are strictly businessmen. Take golfers, for instance. They finish their rounds and get into their cars and go back to the hotel. They're in bed by 9:30 and they're up early, working around the practice tee or the practice green.

"In the old days we traveled to the tournaments together. We stayed at the same hotels. We pallied around together in off hours. We were one big happy family. Golfers aren't that friendly anymore. You seldom get close to them. Business is in the way.

* * * *

"WHAT CHANGED IT? I'd say the depression did. I don't think any athlete of the 1920s quite realized that their money days weren't going to last forever. They realize it today. They save their money. That's the big lesson they learned from the fellows of the 20s."

"Today's athletes are enjoying the fruits planted by the athletes of the 1920s," says Sarazen. "Today American pros are not only welcome in Britain, the tournaments there are actually lonesome for them. Hardly any Americans bother to go over there anymore. They're making too much money over here.

"When I was over in England this year they asked me: 'Where are all the Americans?' I told them they were playing in the East Norwich Open. They asked me: 'What in heaven's name is that?' I told them that was one of our little $50,000 tournaments.

"There are so many tournaments around today that the British Open and even our own National Open have lost their meaning. So you lose or you don't enter. So next week there's another Open. And it's probably worth more money, too.

"Golf—and other sports, too—have been put on sort of a production line. There's a tournament a week on a million dollar circuit. That's what has turned sportsmen into businessmen. There's too much money involved. People have lost that spirit of conquest that motivated them in the 20s."

"The athletes of today," says Sarazen in summing up, "are every bit as good as the athletes of the 1920s and they certainly make more money.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Ray Gise, whose name often appears in this column, is back at his I, P-T auditing desk after another mountain-climbing expedition in the upper Sierra Nevada. Ray is, beyond question, one of this city's best authorities on mountains. He should be because he has scaled most of the peaks in this state.

Normally, Ray takes his wife, Elizabeth, to a spot about 11,000 feet up, pitches camp and leaves her there to fish while he tries every mountain in sight. This year, Liz got a break. Ray left her with friends at a rather elaborate camp in Yosemite Valley.

Friends drove Ray 55 miles to Tuolumne Meadows, from which point he took off on a nine-day trip that eventually put 92 miles behind his fast-moving legs. He wandered on and off the John Muir Trail, visiting such spots as Garnet, Thousand Island and Shadow Lakes; Rush and Shadow Creeks and the Middle Fork of the San Joaquin River.

Ray carried a Kelty Pack, loaded with an even 40 pounds. Ray says that the Kelty is by far the best pack ever made for any one doing mountain work.

TO SAY THAT RAY was impressed by the numbers and size of ferocious mosquitoes this year is putting it mildly. He was impressed, kissed, stuck, stung and even kicked by the pests that have raised havoc with Sierra hikers since May.

Ray admits that the mosquitoes have changed their habits: In former years they hatched every 10 days; now they hatch every hour on the hour.

But things should improve for the September crowds. Ray believes that next month will provide the best weather of the summer, and possibly the mosquitoes will have died out.

After visiting almost every mountainous area of the west, Ray is convinced that the upper Yosemite Park country is the most beautiful. It's far greener, has more water and denser forests.

Although he saw a few hardy souls, who, like Ray, venture far into the back country, he didn't see any large fish. Most of those fishing were dunking fluorescent salmon eggs and just sitting and waiting for a strike. Next month, the same fish should be rising to flies.

Thunderstorms were a dime a dozen while he was in the back country, and experienced guides told him there has never been a year with such unseasonable temperatures. Nights were so warm that his sleeping bag was uncomfortable, even at 11,000 feet.

REMEMBER WHAT A HECTIC time Jed Welsh had about a month ago in landing a marlin? The experience was the subject of a full Sunday FISHIN' AROUND column.

Well, there's a sequel. Jed, Long Beach tackle manufacturer, and Bud Shaver went fishing on E. O. Nay's Nayflower and both hooked the same marlin at the same time. (That marlin must have been hungry).

As in the previous experience, one of the mackerel baits slipped out of the marlin's mouth, up the leader, over the swivels and on to the line. Both anglers really worked the marlin to a listless mass, but they couldn't do anything about that dangling mackerel.

Along came—as before—a bonito shark. But instead of biting off the bait and not damaging the line, this shark was greedier. He took the bait and both lines at one snap and the whipped marlin finally came to life and swam away.

However, there was some consolation—for Jed at least—later in the day when he hooked another marlin and landed it on medium tackle in 1 hour, 8 minutes. It weighed 154½ pounds.

JED, NOW TOURING San Joaquin Valley on a selling trip, sent this department some valuable fishing information this week. He said, in part:

"Isabella Lake fishing is excellent for 1½-pound crappie and large bluegill. Go-Getters (naturally, Jed makes 'em) are taking both crappie and large bluegill. There's no limit on bluegill. I saw one man with 87 large ones.

"Trout fishing in the Kern above and below the lake is good on bait, spinners and flies. A man named Floyd Gann, of Bakersfield, took 9-14 rainbow just below the lake. He now is leading the derby being sponsored by Bob's Sportsmen's Headquarters at Isabella.

"Lake Millerton (20 miles out of Fresno) has been producing kokanee salmon from 14 to 18 inches. The DF&G planted 100,000 two years ago and recently added 200,000. The big ones are full of spawn now.

"Also the DF&G put 50,000 striped bass into Millerton last year. They have to be 18 inches long to be legal, but I saw eight brought into the dock on stringers. They were from 18 to 26 inches and were caught by drifting with dead minnows across the lake from the landing.

"If these stripers survive and grow well on a straight fresh-water diet, won't that be something?"

BERNARD MASQUELIER, importer of the famous Ru reels from France, has had a fling at Long Beach fishing and says that he likes it better than anything he has seen on the Atlantic Coast. In fact, he is so pleased with it that he intends to return here to live after his marriage in France next month.

Fresh Water Summary

Even though campers are thicker than fish in the Sierra Nevada this season, sites for camps are usually available to those leaving here on week days. On week ends, the story is different at all resorts.

Trout plantings continue at a normal rate. In fact, restocking of some streams and lakes is running heavier this month than at any time this year because this is generally regarded as the high pressure period of summer.

Here is what you may expect in the Sierras this week:

All parts of the Bridgeport area are providing good fishing. Some weight limits—even some four- and five-pounders—are being taken out of Bridgeport Lake, Twin Lakes, Robinson Creek and Buckeye Creek, although getting a fighting brown out of Buckeye is a bit difficult because of brush.

The Virginia Lakes chain is at a high peak. Ken's Sporting Goods Store in Bridgeport is signing up anglers for a three-day trip into Anna Lake where golden trout are hitting well. Each trip is limited to four persons at $50 each. It's a full package deal. Tioga and Saddlebag Lakes, on the Tioga Rd. into Yosemite, are starting to produce for the fly fishermen.

Grant Lake is good in late evening. Silver, fair for the trollers getting small fish. Heavy plantings going on in all the Mammoth group of lakes. Some nice trout are being taken in the Owens River at Benton Crossing.

Tahoose and Lower Division Creeks best in the Big Pine area. Whitney Pass is open, as is Army Trail Pass to Rock Creek (hikers only). Sabrina, North and the Tyee chain of lakes are best in the Bishop sector.

Traveling up the other side of the Sierras (western slope), we find all of the Kings River back country good. South Fork, Colby and Brewer Lakes are excellent. All upper portions of the Tule River country are good, with heavy plantings at Camp Wishon. Camp Nelson, Cedar Slope and Peppermint Creek, Blossom Lake and the Marble Fork of the Kaweah River are affording fine fly fishing.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA—Crappie and bluegill continue to hold up at Irvine Lake. Trout and bass are slow. Henshaw Lake, in a slump for several weeks, has come to life with bluegill and crappie the top fish; bass are hitting better. The same is true of Lake Hodges. Both Hodges and Lower Otay Reservoirs will remain open for an indefinite period for Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday fishing. Barrett Lake is closed and Sutherland Lake winds up on Labor Day. Railroad Canyon remains fair for all types of fishing and reports that dove and rabbits are quite plentiful, with 5,000 acres of hunting ground around the lake.

Big Bear still is the hot spot for trout in the San Bernardino Mountains. Recent thunderstorms have dumped enough water to maintain the lake level at about the same as it was in May. All other lakes in the southern mountains range from poor to just fair at best.

Ocean Fishing

Barracuda proved to be the biggest catch Saturday as 1,022 fishing boat passengers from Pacific and Pierpoint Landings enjoyed "fairly good" fishing.

A total of 3,124 barracuda, 594 bull bass, 359 bonito, five white sea bass and four yellowtail were taken — making an average of 4.5 fish per passenger—for the day.

Prior to Saturday, Pierpoint and Pacific Landings had racked up a rather imposing total for six days, with 3,913 anglers catching 13,928 fish, or almost an average of five fish per angler. The totals, broken down, read this way: 224 yellowtail, 8,883 barracuda, 51 white sea bass, 1,280 bonito, 2,180 kelp bass and 1,330 miscellaneous species.

Other ports in Southern California:

NEWPORT BEACH (Davey's Locker)—Six-day totals: 1,040 anglers, 113 yellowtail, 4,037 barracuda, 62 white sea bass, 775 bonito and 1,829 kelp bass.

SAN DIEGO—Six-day totals: 2,047 anglers, 1,716 yellowtail, 4,741 barracuda, 541 white sea bass, 43 bluefin tuna, 783 bonito, 1,478 kelp bass and 104 miscellaneous, most of which were halibut.

SAN PEDRO (Norm's Landing)—Six-day totals: 766 passengers, 40 yellowtail, 2,594 barracuda, 5 white sea bass, 1,252 bonito, 3,487 kelp bass and 20 bluefin tuna.

OCEANSIDE—Six-day totals: 1,002 passengers, 27 yellowtail, 5,779 barracuda, 28 white sea bass, 1,217 kelp bass and 174 miscellaneous.

SAN CLEMENTE—Six-day totals: 1,127 passengers, 81 yellowtail, 2,711 barracuda, 56 white sea bass, 1,887 lancous and four large black sea bass ranging to 160 pounds.

REDONDO — Six-day totals: 1,102 anglers, 40 yellowtail, 4,344 barracuda, 2 white sea bass, 652 bonito and 286 kelp bass.

SEAL BEACH, SANTA MONICA, MALIBU and PARADISE COVE showed impressive catches of barracuda and kelp bass in their daily totals. There seemed to be no favorite spot for the scooters; they were scattered all along the coast.

WEEK'S HIGHLIGHTS—A Beverly Hills dentist caught a 72-pound white sea bass on a boat out of Davey Locker. It's the champion of the year to date. Schenley Sportsmen's Club awards: Ed Chadek, Long Beach, 31-pound yellowtail; John Ritchie, Downey, 18-pound bluefin tuna; Glen Collins, Bellflower, 12-2 barracuda, and Stanley Drake, Lomita, 8-12 barracuda.

SURF FISHING—Picking up everywhere despite dirty water. After all, even surf fish have to eat and they came in all last week to provide excellent sport. Surf casters getting some barracuda and bonito off Redondo and Playa del Rey jetties.

BELMONT PIER—215 barracuda, 12 yellowtail, 15 halibut, 130 bonito, 39 passengers (Dina Lee).

LOADED FIELDS, TOP ACTION

The forecast is thrills, chills and perhaps a few spills for today's competition in the Western Divisional championship regatta for stock outboards on Long Beach's famed lanky lagoon, Marine Stadium. Over 200 boat racers from nine states are taking part in the giant speed carnival.—(Bob Ruskauff Photo.)

Outboards Vie in Divisional Finals

By BOB RUSKAUFF

Today at 12:30 the hottest stock outboard drivers of the country (barring a few from far quarters) go into final races of the Western Divisional championships on Marine Stadium.

Their numbers, boosted by 54 who made the finals in qualifying heats Saturday, will total 12 each in eight top fleets and eight in two others.

Four ace Southland hydroplane drivers, who had failed by accidents and otherwise to reach regional places, made the list, along with one Northerner.

Ronnie Rima of Newport in Class C; Larry Adams, Buena Park, D; Commdr. Dick Garlow, Los Angeles, of the sponsoring United Speedboat Assn. in Class B and ex-national champ, Ronnie Loomis, Glendora, Class A, were Southland hot-shots among the 55 qualifiers who made the grade into today's finals.

The Northerner was D-Runabout driver, Bill Larson, Neetso, Ore.

One top-rated Southlander who failed was Long Beach's Bob Martin, who blew his B-hydroplane and did a disconsolate sit-out for both of Saturday's heats.

Strangely, there was nary a spill during the qualifying heats on an unusually-placid Marine Stadium. Action this afternoon—and it bids to be close and saucy—may be seen at $1.00 per adult, with program, parking and bleachers free. Drivers pre-celebrated Saturday evening with a luau at Recreation Park.

Youth Fires Ace

Fifteen-year-old Mike Carroll shot a hole-in-one on the par 3, 134-yard No. 7 hole at Virginia Country Club Saturday. Dowell Lawson witnessed the shot.

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

The battle for talent between CBS and NBC came to a head when Ed Sullivan (2) at 8 p.m., was able to persuade Gregory Peck to appear with him instead of being guest on the "Lawrence - Gorme Show" as was announced.

Ed, who takes off with Mrs. Sullivan for Israel on Monday to judge the first national Israeli Talent Show, will also be introducing the debut in America of Domenico Modugno whose record of "Nel Blu Dipinto di Blu" is a big hit. Others on the show are Teresa Brewer, Ted Williams, Perez Prado, Carol Lawrence, Peter Gennaro, Roger Williams, Shelly Berman and Jackie Cannon.

CVO: Channel for Service

By ELISE EMERY

The telephone buzzed in the Community Volunteer Office, 1213 Cedar Ave.

"Can you supply a layette for a mother of two weeks who's a bride of one week?"

The request, from a social worker at one of the 64 agencies served by CVO was promptly filled.

There are many ways to tell the story of the Community Volunteer Office:

With statistics; by tracing its history; in terms of its civic help; in its dollars and cents value.

But the real story of CVO is a story of people—those served and the ones who reap the richest reward—the volunteers.

* * * *

MEN, WOMEN, teenagers and children. 760 of them from 5 to 82 years of age, spent 86,000 hours last year helping others. "Community service" is an intangible phrase. Let's translate it into action.

Look first at happy partners Cherel Depp and Mrs. Vesta Regli. Though many decades separate the 5-year-old blue-eyed Cherel and buoyant Mrs. Regli, they meet in perfect time when they appear at Day Nurseries, the Sunset Club, Long Beach Girls Club and hospitals, the blonde sprite singing popular tunes, Westerns and hymns to Mrs. Regli's piano accompaniment. Mrs. Regli often puts her fine musical training to use, and, an excellent typist, she also works when needed for the Red Cross office and the Exceptional Children's Foundation. Cherel, whose mother drives her from their Rolling Hills home to entertain others, is delighted when youngsters at the nurseries chime in with her singing.

* * * *

OR TAKE THE CASE of Mrs. Alphonse J. Knight of Long Beach. Month after month she has devoted four hours a day to preparing and serving snacks at the Volunteers of America's Sunset Club for senior citizens, 140 W. 6th St., where more than 200 men and women daily find recreation and special interest activities. Even major surgery a few months ago hasn't slowed Mrs. Knight's generous help.

Then there's Jan Streeter, 15, one of the many teenage volunteers. Each day this summer she has reported for work. At the Community Chest office she collaborates with Iver L. Ranum in compiling a survey of local industries. Her co-worker, 77, retired, lives with his daughter and her family. He takes satisfaction now in putting his years of training to work again in a variety of clerical jobs. Each week, too, he drives an elderly man to the doctor.

* * * *

SINCE MAY 1956, Mrs. Charles Lindsay of Long Beach and Mrs. Ethan E. Goldsmith of Lakewood have been a team at Long Beach Health Department's Child Health Conference. At Health Department, Savannah Gardens and Lexington Gardens clinics for well children, devoted to preventive medicine, Mrs. Lindsay measures and weighs youngsters and Mrs. Goldsmith records her findings. With a valuable background of work in youth groups, they understand children and find joy in contributing to their well-being. They are on call for office work and driving service as well.

UCLA home economics major Bunny Cavaliere, 19, sandwiches her CVO work between summer school classes at Long Beach State College and a job at Disneyland from 4:30 p.m. to midnight—and she thinks the filling is the best part of her day! Three times a week eager moppets at West Long Beach Day Nursery, 16th St. and Chestnut Ave., watch for Bunny and her accordion. Enraptured, enchanted they encircle her as, with accordion, at the piano or with nursery instruments, she teaches rhythms. Warm friendly brown eyes twinkling, she begins a melody and, like the Piper of Hamelin, magnetizes the tots with toe-tapping, tension-melting tunes.

* * * *

HIGH SCHOOL students, a group in the morning and a group in the afternoon, are preparing material and acting as guides at Long Beach Museum of Art. Others completely maned the Los Angeles County Crippled Children's Camp in Bixby Knolls Park. Volunteers from Women of the Moose picked up and delivered milk to the camp daily.

Members of the Hard of Hearing Club do a magnificent job, always on call for any assignment. Among CVO workers are active and retired teachers, nurses, therapists, office workers, accountants, real estate agents—pick an occupation, a profession, age, race or creed—you'll find them all represented.

LIMITED TO an annual budget of about $5,000, the Community Volunteer Office is breathed to life by these people. Not only all Community Chest agencies, but other clubs and organizations as

VOLUNTEERS TAKE OVER many agency jobs, freeing highly trained staff members for specialized work. High school student Jan Streeter and Iver L. Ranum (left center) compile data for the Community Chest. Their families' needs no longer demanding all of their time, Mrs. Charles Lindsay and Mrs. Ethan E. Goldsmith (lower left) spend hours each week working for the City Health Department Child Health Conference. College student Bunny Cavaliere (right) holds the rapt attention of Jackie Fletcher, Greg Margossian and Nancy Coughlin at West Long Beach Day Nursery.—

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

(Editor's Note: Iola Masterson is on vacation. In her absence the Wild Waves column is being written by her fellow women's staff members.)

No wonder they call themselves Nightingales. Each one an attractive thrush in her own right, the whole flock together represents a harmonious, flitting band bustling with flights from the nest plus plans for the biggest hop this side of Birdland.

This year, instead of gathering at a smattering of roosts for thirst quenching before the big annual ball Oct. 4, Nightingales in brilliant plumage and male counterparts will band together at the Petroleum Club. Less ruffled feathers that way.

Meanwhile, back on the vacation routes, the Jack Haydens and the sun have been keeping the highway 'twixt here and Vegas warm with back and forth trips. . . . Senora Ann and Senor Berry Merritt siested and fiested at the Rosarita Beach Hotel in Baja California . . . and it was natural that Kathy and Bob Blake were south of here for the La Jolla Country Club invitation golf tourney.

Fuzzy to This

Golf and swimming in the Mission Valley appealed to Barbara and Jim Evans whose headquarters were the luxurious Town and Country establishment on the outskirts of San Diego. . . . Jackie and Bob Campbell chose Lake Arrowhead for a cool, pine-scented summer's pause with Bonnie and Jeff.

Life of the dude at Alisal ranch had George and Iris Chipman saddle sore but happy. Small fry Robbie and Melinda went along, nursed the same wounds. . . . Back to the days of the dons went the Norm Stows. Fiestas this month are competing with luaus, it appears. Their trek back into early California history took place at Santa Barbara's gala doings.

Three weeks in the Valley of Enchantment for Nightingale Joan and Jerry Barber ended in disenchantment the second they returned to 20th Century traffic.

The Norm Meager family decided to let chance and imagination run their courses. They piled suitcases and children in the car and just started driving. Will stop whenever something interests them. . . . The Bernard Wishneys, on the other hand, minded their charts and compass and found themselves smack on the button at Catalina where they've been boat living and playing host to many a friend from Long Beach who swam, flew, rowed or yachted over to visit.

Nightingales with clipped wings will swim, barbecue and dance Saturday night in the Park Estates aerie of the J. Tyson Ellises. It's the last of a series of summer parties given by the ladybirds.

THOSE BUSY, busy travelers, Lili and Dr. C. A. Wensley of Palos Verdes Estates and Long Beach, have just returned from a few days' celebration at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco on the occasion of their 22nd wedding anniversary. El medico is secretary-treasurer of the Western States of the American College of Osteopathic Internists. And next month they will take off for Brussels (and the fair) for the International Congress of Cardiologists. While in Europe they will visit in Copenhagen, Denmark, travel in France and spend two weeks with friends living in Lausanne, Switzerland.

"Line up, everybody! Ice cream's ready!"

And it wasn't ice cream from stiff cylinders Nell and Louis Gunn retired to, either. No sir, by cracky, it was the real homemade thing. Vanilla it was, great scoops of it for 70 people fortunate enough to be friends of the Gunns.

Good Pickings

Lest you conjure a heartwrenching picture of Louis handcranking night and day for the starving throng, we hasten to add it was done by electric power.

To the strumming of Mexican musicians, a singer and a dancer, the guests happily spooned the cold velvety stuff and forked into several kinds of cake like grandma used to bake.

You know the old bromide about the third time being a charm. Well, Gladys and Frank Calvin aren't so sure of that charm business. When Gertrude and Will Winston made their third trip recently to the Calvin's home in Sitka, Alaska, that most excellent territory—er, state-to-be—had a severe earthquake. Gertrude told her sister it was the worst she could recall since that memorable day here in '33. She did the reminiscing after the front porch quit rock and rolling.

For the Winstons the trip to Alaska was more like going home. That's where Gertrude grew up, married Will . . . , and their first two children, now Lorraine Fulton and Willa Gilmore; were born in Alaska.

Reunion greetings eventually graduated to warm and cool discussions about Alaska's proposed statehood. The Winstons got to the core of things by conversing with the Calvins and later Will's nephews and their wives, Cy and Mary Steers and Ed and Norma Winston of Ketchikan.

Click click clicketyclickclick! Get the message? Not Morse code, ninny. Can't you interpret a secretary's sidekick, the typewriter? We heard it ratatattling on some members of Queen Beach chapter, National Secretaries Assn.

Beverly and D. G. Samuel have a new young future secretary, Debra Lynn, and so do Charlene and F. W. Tritten who, it is rumored, swear that they can read the shorthand scrawls of young Heidi Ann. It translates something like "I yike you. I yike this house. I'm hungry now."

Secretary's Lib

Instead of writing the chapter news bulletin as she did last year, Lou Burger decided to make some news of her own this year. She and Don Reichert will be married Aug. 30 at St. Bartholomew's, and then trip off to Hawaii in a wake of rice.

Wedded to a typewriter most of the year, Betty Willcoxen who is wedded all the time to Bill, took a leave from office procedure (that includes high heels, nylons and all the et ceteras) to camp out in Nature's Colorado office.

NOW YOU TAKE the neighbors up around 3900 Myrtle Ave. They're not the backslapping, "hi, neighbor" variety with a practical joke up one sleeve and hopes of borrowing the lawn edger up the other. But neither do they ignore the door chimes or stare without recognition at persons who are chalking up their umpteenth year next door.

Fine neighbors!

Up in that particular neighborhood they relish each other as neighbors. The warm regard they have for newcomers was evidenced last Sunday night when Bill and Petain Minshall found themselves guests of honor because they had moved from one part of Bixby Knolls to the Myrtle Ave. block. To their house at 3929 came the invitation from Naomi and Stan Kelso to get acquainted over dinner with all the others. Party was right next door at the Kelso abode, 3935. And not only was the welcome mat spread, but everyone's map was spread with welcome.

EFFERVESCING with enthusiasm, Maymie Krythe writers that London is still her favorite city. She's seen enough cities in the world to arrive at a conclusion. "IT WAS TIME for a visit to Long Beach, so I just took a plane from Washington and arrived here Tuesday; I didn't even tell Tom until Friday night." Thus spoke our talented and lovely Virginia Weldon Kelly who reports the social and political life in our nation's capital on the women's and editorial pages of these newspapers. (Tom is her retired admiral hubby.) The popular pair spent many years of their in-service life here . . . so of course they know practically as many people in Long Beach as in Washington. Virginia says she really is trying to get a brief rest . . . between press conferences, embassy and legation parties, VIP gatherings, entertaining their own Southland friends who are in the city, plus their own social group . . . she deserves a rest. Tom arrived Saturday and they will stay another week at the Lafayette before taking off again. This is just to let all of her friends know that if Virginia doesn't call it's because she's gathering strength to get back to her fascinating job of reporting!

FALL VOWS PLANNED

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. von KleinSmid have announced the engagement and fall wedding plans of their daughter, Shirley, and Ricardo Novo of San Francisco and Buenos Aires, Argentina. The bride-elect was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Scripps College where she was president of the junior class, and vice president of the student body in her senior year. Her fiance was graduated from the Universidad Central de Buenos Aires. The pair will reside in San Francisco following an October marriage in Long Beach.

Honor Judy Rupert With Party Whirl

The weeks immediately preceding her marriage to Melvin Rowan have been crowded with parties honoring Judy Rupert.

Her maid of honor, Kathie Flanagan, and two bridesmaids, Barbara Baker and Barbara Dunn Kepler, invited college friends and sorority sisters of the bride-elect to a kitchen shower in Mrs. Charlton Dunn's Arcadia home. Pink and blue appointments were used for the late afternoon party.

Friends of her fiance's mother, Mrs. H. Leo Rowan, feted Judy at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower in the Petroleum Club at Ricart's. Mmes. Burke Khaplan Milton Franklyn, Archie Lloyd, Harold Sloan, David Schneider, Irving Siris, Ted Phillips and Hody Lane, hostesses, circled tables with pink and white bouquets and the honoree cut a pink and white cake inscribed "Judy and Mel."

* * * *

OUT-OF-TOWN guests were bidden to another luncheon given by Mrs. Harry Cramer at Welch's. Bridesmaids Paula Chace and Lois Baker asked longtime school friends to a brunch and personal shower at the latter's home, 3900 Lemon Ave. Blue and white floral arrangements were placed about the rooms and gifts were arranged on a table decorated in blue and white to simulate a bouffant half-slip.

Paula Chace, bride-elect of Ralph Irwin, shared honors with Judy when Mrs. Sandra O'Malley entertained at luncheon in her home.

Monday Session

Emily R. Jewell Tent 15, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Veterans Memorial Building. Laura Addis will preside. Past Presidents Club will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Bertha Vaughan, 239 Orizaba Ave.

Missing Husbands

By ILKA CHASE

The pressures under which we live are mounting; and inevitably they take their toll.

There comes to most of us a time when we have to escape from the routines, the fears and frustrations that beset us. Some people make a temporary getaway by becoming ill. They are taken care of, they can shed for a while their responsibilities. Extreme cases escape into madness. The rich go round the world, the poor seek refuge in daydreams and some people simply disappear. The ones who disappear the most are married men between the ages of 40 and 50.

Dan Eisenberg, president of Tracers Co. of America, is an old hand at dealing with that vanishing American, the middle-aged husband. He agrees that kids and teenagers run away, "but they usually turn up at supper time or within two or three days at the latest."

The dedicated runaway is, if not adult, at least a grown person and a pause-giving statistic is the one stating that in the first six months of 1958 there was a 55 per cent increase in disappearing husbands over the same period in 1957. By the end of June, 8,650 had flown the coop.

* * * *

THE AUTOMATIC first reaction of most wives is another woman. The truth is less flattering. Another woman in the picture is extremely rare. The truth seems to be that in the fourth decade of their lives many men are fed to the teeth with women as a sex, their own little one leading the parade.

At the risk of being stoned I must admit to a sneaking sympathy for the poor guy who has "had" it. Adulation of the common man is currently the mode, but the common man is the one least equipped to cope with his civilization. One has to be uncommonly tough and well-balanced, endowed with a sound sense of the ridiculous to keep from going stark mad.

Eisenberg's company finds that economic factors are, as a rule, a strong goad to the runaway husband, but they are by no means the only one. As he points out, one usually has to have achieved the middle years in order also to have achieved the wherewithal with which to take it on the lam. No, it isn't financial pressure necessarily or exclusively. The standardization of life today goes a long way toward getting a fellow down. The standardization of his home, his mechanical contrivances, of his business and his social life.

* * * *

COMES THE moment, and apparently it comes more frequently to men than to women, when a human being says to himself, "I am 40, I am 45, half my life has slipped away and what have I done? Where have I been? What became of the high hopes of my youth?" And in longing or desperation he lights out.

Perhaps the dream world will materialize on a boat off the Florida coast or in the peaks of the High Sierra. Maybe, just maybe, the girl who is gay and gentle and never nags will be there too, and if she isn't, it's just as well. He is free. Sure the kids are great, but in Shangri-La there are no dentist's bills, no adenoids and no exclusive summer camps. There the roof never leaks and if you don't belong to the country club, who cares? Perhaps, after all, it isn't too late to grasp the great adventure. So off they go, these husbands, high-hearted or desperate and 85 per cent of them are quickly traced and return, not too unwillingly, to narrow pasture. That is the saddest part of all.

A large portion of the success of any tracer company or missing persons bureau is due to the fact that we never run away from ourselves. A man's tastes or hobbies do not change. If he was a fight fan or a tennis fan at home, if he liked Chinese food or gay sports shirts, he will still cotton to them in Timbucktu. Your bourbon drinker rarely will switch to rum unless perchance he is in the Virgin Islands and rum is cheaper and more plentiful.

* * * *

ALSO, LABOR unions are great nets of catching a wandering mate. Nowadays you scarcely can get a job unless you are a member of something. You always can change your name, but then what about your Social Security card? Welfare is a box.

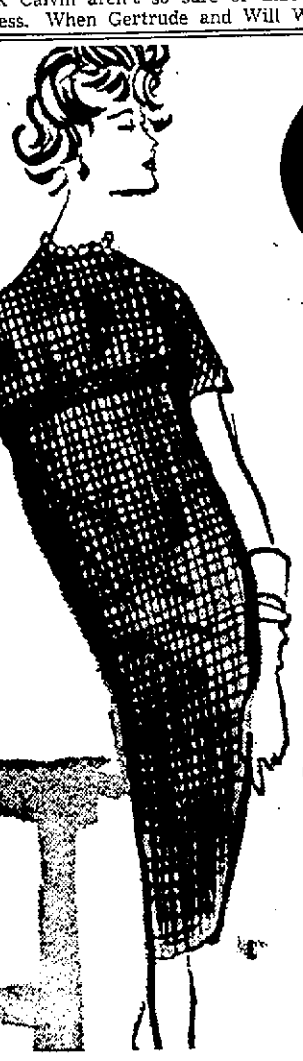

Still, running away always will have two great appeals. It is a last chance and it is not illegal. Unless a man's wife and family should become a public charge. Then if caught he can be hauled into court and forced to support them, but if financially they can manage without him, while he may be a cad he is not a criminal.

Carol McGrew Wed

Soft rays of sunset filtered into the Wayfarers' Chapel Friday at dusk when 275 guests gathered for the wedding of Miss Carol McGrew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Milton McGrew, 301 E. Bixby Rd., and William Gordon Plested III, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon Plested II of Wichita, Kan.

White tapers and white satin ribbons were delicate contrast to the verdant foliage moving gently outside the all-glass enclosure. Lighted for the solemn ceremony, the tapers cast a soft glow upon the bridal gown of ivory satin with an off-shoulder neckline traced with clipped lace flowers. The lace design was repeated about the bride's slender waist. The gown was worn by the bride's two older sisters at their weddings.

* * * *

COMPLETING THE bridal attire was a crown of pearls and satin confining the folds of an illusion veil and a bouquet of white orchids and lillies of the valley.

For her matron of honor the bride asked Mrs. Dennis Stimson. Bridesmaids were Misses Judith Plested, Karen Olsen and Barbara Bower.

All were gowned in spring coral peau de soie with harem skirts and satin cummerbunds. Their shoes and satin bow headbands matched. Little Lisa Robertson, flower girl, preceded the bridal party.

Chosen to serve as best man was William Gaunt. Wedding guests were escorted to their places by Messrs. Duane Hampton, Ray Harrell and Al Carrey. Gregory Mahone was the ring bearer.

Following the ceremony guests wended their way back to Long Beach for a gala wedding reception at the Virginia Country Club.

Mrs. William Gordon Plested III

THE NEWLYWEDS will honeymoon in Colorado before going on to Lawrence, Kan., where both will attend the University of Kansas this fall. The new Mrs. Plested was graduated from Wilson High School and attended the University of Colorado for three years before her marriage. She was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi.

The bridegroom represented the third generation in his family to attend the University of Colorado. A Delta Tau Delta there, he was graduated from that university and will enter the University of Kansas medical school in early September.

The bride's maternal grandfather and grandmother are the late Senator and Mrs. J. A. Rominger of Long Beach. Her paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McGrew who came to this city in 1901.

well benefit from the volunteers' service. Calls come from the Board of Education, Tuberculosis and Health Association, Long Beach Heart Association, American Cancer Society, Exceptional Children's Foundation, Multiple Sclerosis Drive—from dozens of groups—for aid in campaigns and special projects. No one organization could hire enough clerical help to do their work—even with CVO's total budget.

Established in 1948 by the Junior League of Long Beach as a tentative project, CVO immediately proved the need for a liaison office to recruit volunteers and direct their interests to community agencies, to coordinate volunteer service with agency needs and to counsel clubs and organizations on ways to serve their community. Through annual "Community Understanding Tours" the general public is informed of health, welfare and recreation needs and services.

* * * *

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE continued financial sponsorship until CVO could stand on its own feet two years ago and 10 Junior Leaguers each week still work in the office, which is open from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. Policy is set by a board of 23 directors, headed by Ernest Belcher. Mrs. Clara Andrews, executive secretary for eight years, recently was elected regional vice president of the National Association of Volunteer Bureaus which unites the 42 Community Volunteer offices in the United States.

Each week new demands are made on the Long Beach organization—and each week are answered by its workers, carefully screened for most effective placement. Recently California Youth Authority appealed for foster homes. CVO relayed the need through a newspaper story and 50 immediate calls assured affectionate care for boys ready to try again to be good citizens.

* * * *

EVERY TALENT, ability and training is needed and used by the CVO, but the volunteers have found that happiness, like the mythical, magic wine pitcher of Greek legend, cannot be exhausted—the more you give away the more you have.

In his 1937 coronation broadcast King George VI said it this way:

"The highest of distinctions is service to others."

Elizabeth Barrett Browning put it more loftily:

"A child's kiss
Set on thy sighing lips shall make thee glad;
A poor man served by thee shall make thee rich;
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest."

Ebell Brunch on Wednesday

Something for the Boys

Ol' Ted Deplores the Sloppy Tourist

By TED KREC

You know, I'm awfully glad that I don't live on Catalina Island. I don't think I could stand it—seeing those excursion boats full of ill-dressed clowns arriving daily.

I do not say this on the spur of the moment, it is no off-hand remark, for I, too, have taken the steamer trip to Avalon and know whereof I speak.

And then, just recently, a friend of mine went over to the island with two little boys. She took the lads over on the steamer, and upon her return confided to me that never had she seen such complete disregard for good taste in clothes as that evidenced by her fellow passengers. The two little boys with her were the best-dressed men on board.

I feel sorry for the islanders, but I'll bet they get a big chuckle out of seeing the boat come in. When the sightseers pile off in their lunatic garb, it must be a scene similar to World War II days when this country was importing unfortunate and penniless refugees from Europe.

• • • •

THERE'S ONLY one difference—people who go to Catalina aren't penniless and should know better than to go over there looking like frights.

No, Camembert, you DON'T have to wear a full-dress suit for a day on Catalina! Neat sport clothes will do nicely, for after all, it IS a resort. But, please note, I said NEAT.

Just because you're going over to the island is no reason to dress like a lout, and yet that's exactly what many people do. If they're going swimming a goodly number will wear just swimsuits or swimsuits with those ridiculous flowered two-piece ensembles on top of them.

What's wrong with wearing a nice sport coat, sport shirt and slacks and carrying your bathing suit along? Then, if you decide to go into a nice restaurant and eat, you won't look like a fool. Honest to Pete, I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see some dolt on the steamer clad in swim trunks, goggles, oxygen mask and swim fins, looking for all the world like an AWOL frogman.

Many sartorial sins are committed daily in the name of leisure or outdoor living. There are clothes designed specifically for these purposes and these should be worn; a man should not delve into his closet for his most rag-tag pair of old fishing pants and the T-shirt he wore when he repaired the car just because he's going to Catalina.

But tourists are a peculiar bunch. They like to go to beauty spots but they do nothing to make them more beautiful. In fact, they do a lot to make them look worse. Consider for example what happened a few years ago at Gettysburg, Pa. This, of course, is a Civil War shrine and a spot of great beauty. But the United States government, frantic over vandalism, wrote down all the names and addresses inscribed by thoughtless persons in the rest rooms and assessed them for a clean-up job!

• • • •

RIDICULOUS? Not at all in a nation where the latest craze centers around a fiendish device called a Hula Hoop. In case you haven't seen one of these madcap toys, it is just what the name says—a hoop of plastic. It is laid on over the shoulders, encircling the body, and then the wearer begins a mad gyration to keep the thing spinning around his waist and hips.

I thought we had seen the last of Elvis when they took him into the Army and painted his guitar olive drab, but after watching the thousands of Hula Hoop fans I fear we are spawning a whole new generation of Presleys, for their mad performances would out-Elvis Elvis himself.

These wild spasms of the human trunk are supposed to be good for us, however I fear that if I tried it, Doc Cowley would have to restitch my recent operation.

But back to Catalina, if you're planning a trip over there to see the sights, dress up a little bit and give the islanders something nice to look at, too.

SWING YOUR PARTNER!

Hand clappin', toe tappin' rhythm by Jimmy Talbert's Band is sure to inspire some fancy stepping Saturday night when Petroleum Club members "ride the range" at their annual family chuck wagon dinner at the club. PETROLEUM CLUB GOES WESTERN

"When it's roundup time at Petroleum Club, podner, we'uns don't ride the range lookin' for steers—it's the purty gals we're after!" drawls W. T. (Tex) Westergard as he ropes his attractive wife for the big Saturday night chuck wagon dinner dance at the club. Enjoying the fun are the Westergards' daughter, Paddy, and Gary Chandler, son of the Charles Chandlers.—(Staff)

• • • •

WIELDING the branding irons to prepare the decorations will be Petroleum Club wives, Mmes. Irving Dumm, Frank Ausburn, Herbert Ausburn and Orville Hastings.

Following typical chuck wagon fare, guests will be invited to swing their partners to the music of Jimmy Talbert and his band. Sixteen square dancers from the South Coast Assn. of Square Dance Clubs, directed by Urb Tretter, will entertain.

General arrangements are under the direction of "ranch foremen" Onos Lindsay, Wayne Dunn and Francis Tholen.

School Romance Leads to Altar

A romance which began when Nicoline Ann Kahler and James Oakley Pittman were students at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex., culminated in their marriage Aug. 3, wedding anniversary date of the bride's grandparents.

A profusion of yellow and white chrysanthemums, stocks and gladioli in tall white baskets flanked the altar of California Heights Community Methodist Church for the double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. James H. Hughes before 200 guests. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kahler, 4125 Virginia Rd.; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oakley H. Pittman of Dallas.

* * * *

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the young bride wore a traditional gown of Chantilliy lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. Appliqued motifs of lace were scattered on the full skirt which extended into a fan-shaped chapel train. Her floor-length veil of French silk illusion fell from a cap of matching lace and she wore her bridegroom's gift, a single strand of pearls. Tucked within her bouquet, a corsage of white roses and satin streamers tied with stephanotis atop a white Bible, was an imported heirloom lace handkerchief, gift of her godmother, Mrs. George Gilford.

* * * *

PRECEDING the bride to the altar were maid of honor Paula Smith and bridesmaids Sharon Brimmer, Connie Lu Berg and Mrs. Gabrielle Davies. They were gowned identically in aqua chiffon over taffeta designed with full ballerina-length skirts and shirred waists which draped off the shoulders and molded into tight midriffs. They wore floral headpieces and carried white wicker baskets filled with champagne carnations and Gloria roses. Petite flower girl Leigh Eppling scattered yellow and white petals from a basket of Goldilock roses.

The bridegroom asked his father to serve as best man and his brother, David Pittman, to join Charles Pyron, Richard Brown and Stephen Smith in ushering.

At the conclusion of the church reception, the wedding entourage and out-of-town guests drove to the Kahler home where Mrs. Gilford, Miss Clara Latschar, Mrs. Maurice Brimmer and Mrs. Margaret Bennett acted as hostesses for a buffet dinner served to 50 guests.

* * * *

THE NEWLYWEDS are honeymooning at the Grand Canyon, then will reside in Dallas. A Polytechnic High School alumna, she was graduated from Southern Methodist University in June and will continue work there toward a master's degree in theory and music literature. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon and Tau Beta Sigma. Her husband, a 1956 graduate of SMU, has been teaching band and instrumental music in the Dallas schools and is continuing his studies. He belongs to Phi Mu Alpha and Kappa Kappa Psi.

Needs Air, too

Many new refrigerators and freezers fit squarely into tight corners. But experts warn of shoving such equipment into too tight a niche. To remove heat from the condenser, air must circulate around the freezer or refrigerator.

Needs Some Help

A "do-it-yourself" fan often needs a little help. Share your plastic kitchen wrap with him. It will help preserve putty and plaster in their moist state. Also it keeps wet paint brushes pliable for day-to-day painting projects.

Nazareth Shrine

Social Club of Nazareth Shrine Eight will meet at noon Monday for a paid luncheon in the home of Mrs. Fred Hancock, 810 Obispo Ave. Mrs. Gladys Jordan will be chairman.

Parties Fete Bride-to-Be

Miss Mona Haberman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry E. Haberman, 4420 Hazelbrook Ave., who will exchange wedding vows with Walter R. Babcock Aug. 23, has been feted at a recent series of parties.

First of the affairs was a luncheon and miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Herbert H. Lockwood, 4421 Hazelbrook Ave. A jeweled pink sprinkling can, holding an arrangement of pink carnations and white stock, sprayed a shower of silver streamers onto the gaily wrapped gifts. Lace bells and tulle bows were suspended from the crystal chandelier above the beautifully appointed luncheon table.

* * * *

PINK ROSES and hearts set the theme at an evening miscellaneous shower complimenting the bride-to-be and hostessed by Miss Judith Cochran, her mother, Mrs. J. W. Cochran, Mrs. L. W. Chaffee and Miss Charlene Anthony in the Cochran home, 2746 Knoxville Ave.

Pink umbrellas gave a charming effect to the patio luncheon given by Mrs. Edwin Hanny in the Park Estates home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Daubney, when she was hostess at a miscellaneous shower.

Mrs. Gordon Tiller chose silver slippers as her theme when members of Mrs. Haberman's bridge club honored the bride-elect with the presentation of a personal gift during a bridge luncheon in the Tiller home, 5330 Village Rd.

Mmes. C. J. Lamb, Floyd Ray and Oscar Dryer selected a lantern motif in pastel shades for their evening party in the Lamb garden, 3972 Rose Ave., when members of Chapter DP of PEO gathered to present Miss Haberman with their favorite recipes as well as the chapter gift.

* * * *

CLEVER invitations in the form of a recipe brought former Wilson High School friends together for a kitchen shower in the patio at the home of Mrs. James P. Nielsen, 4359 Iroquois Ave. Passion flowers and pink hibiscus floating in a crystal bowl centered the buffet table which furthered the pink theme.

The bride-elect entertained Saturday for her attendants at a luncheon in the home of her parents. Honored guests were Miss Judith Cochran, Miss Lynne McCulloch, Mrs. James P. Nielsen, Miss Bethen Smith of Bartley, Neb., and Miss Charlene Anthony of Sidney, Neb. Miss Anthony, who will be maid of honor, and the bride-elect were roommates and Alpha Chi Omega Sorority sisters at University of Nebraska.

Climaxing the festivities will be a buffet supper given by parents of the prospective bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Babcock, 5802 Parkcrest St., following the wedding rehearsal.

Gollnick-Jones Names Join

Intricately patterned Chantilly lace combined with pure silk organza and tulle over bridal taffeta fashioned the beautiful gown selected by Dolores Louise Gollnick for her recent marriage to Clifton S. Jones Jr. in Hillside Church, Whittier.

The bride's gown featured high beaded Elizabethian collar, long pointed sleeves and fitted bodice embroidered in seed pearls. The V waistline held a full swirling skirt of lace over tulle in a peplum which formed the full-length cathedral train. Her headpiece, a handmade tiny jeweled queen's crown, held her three-tiered fingertip-length veil of illusion. Escorted to the altar by her father, she completed her ensemble with a crescent bouquet of Japhell orchids and stephanotis. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Gollnick of La Mirada.

* * * *

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS, Mrs. Philip Jay Smith, matron of honor, and Mrs. Charles Michael Jones and Miss Helen Wilson, bridesmaids, wore identical gowns of shrimp colored silk shantung combined with nylon organdy and silk organza over taffeta. They carried crescent bouquets of shrimp carnations with stephanotis.

Laurel Ann Smith, flower girl, wore pale yellow crystaline over taffeta and carried a miniature bridesmaid's bouquet of yellow carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton S. Jones, 4103 Country Club Dr., invited Charles Michael Jones to attend as best man and Philip Jay Smith and Roy Otto to usher.

A lavish reception followed in Los Coyotes Country Club, owned by the bridegroom's father, where the wedding cake featured two live lovebirds in a cage atop the third tier. Champagne was served from a silver champagne fountain.

THE NEWLYWEDS departed via helicopter from the country club for International Airport where they boarded a plane for a honeymoon at Hawaiian Village in Hawaii before moving into their new home in Bellehurst.

The new Mrs. Jones was graduated in 1956 from Long Beach State College and prior to her marriage was a member of Long Beach Bachelorettes. She will resume her first grade teaching position in the East Whittier Elementary School District in September.

Her husband, a junior AIA, currently is attending the graduate school of architecture at USC where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta. He attended Menlo and Long Beach Junior Colleges, Long Beach State College, and was graduated from USC School of Business Administration.

LADY LIONS LUAU

A gay "aloha" will greet members and guests of West Long Beach Lady Lions Club when they travel to the secluded garden of the Hayden Bolander home, 4345 Linden Ave., Saturday evening to enjoy their annual luau. The illusion of old Hawaii will be created by the luau torch and other decor shown here by (left to right) Mmes. John Browning, Hayden Bolander, Allen Clinkscales, William Stricklin and Earl Akin.—(Staff photo.)

Carol Ann Davis Weds

Seed pearls and sequins traced the scoop neckline and bodice on the attractive gown chosen by Carol Ann Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Davis of Long Beach, for her recent marriage to J. Ivan Schuler Jr., also of Long Beach.

The double-ring nuptials were read by Dr. George O. Peek in North Long Beach Brethren Church with 400 guests in attendance.

The bride's dress was of embroidered tulle over tiered tulle and satin with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her crown, aglow with seed pearls and sequins, held her fingertip-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, roses and stephanotis centered by a single white orchid.

Dresses of yellow cotton-satin were selected for bridal attendants, Mrs. Mary Goff, matron of honor, and Mrs. Bill Barnes, Mrs. Charles Course, and Misses Marilynn and Carolynn Kingston, bridesmaids. All carried baskets of white daisies.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mrs. V. Moorhead and J. I. Schuler of Wilmington, asked his brother, David Schuler, to serve him as best man and Jim Schuler, Hank Salcido, Gene DuPree and Frank Morandini, to usher.

A reception followed in the church social hall with Mmes. Lee Richards, Clyde Gedney, Alva Gedney, and Miss Ruth Davis of Ontario, Canada, as hostesses.

The newlyweds will be at home Sept. 1 in Garden Grove where the bride is employed as a schoolteacher.

Mrs. Schuler received her early schooling at Jordan and was graduated from LBSC where her honors included president of Delta Delta Delta, 49'er Award for outstanding graduating senior, and listing in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Her husband attended Banning High School and Whittier College and now is a student at LBSC where he is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and was recipient of the 1957 Sportsmanship Award.

Our Children

Take Kiddies Places During Vacation

By ANGELO PATRI

Children freed from school routine are likely to want to be taken places. They are indefinite about where they want to go but "going" is the idea.

This is an opportunity for parents (those who have a bit of time to spare) to take the children to visit places that are worthwhile seeing.

Strange as it may seem, until one thinks about it, there are places in one's home town that they have never seen. A monument in a park, a famous garden, a harbor view or a trip across it on a ferry, the museum. Some towns have children's museums well worth the seeing. There is, for example, a fine one in Fort Worth, Tex., and I am sure, others I do not know about throughout the country.

• • • •

SUCH MUSEUMS have collections that interest school children, special classes during the week and in vacation time, too, in the charge of experts. A visit to any children's museum will not only make the children happy but will give the accompanying parent a pleasant and profitable hour spent with interesting things and people and their own youngsters.

Then there are the big museums like the famous American Museum of Natural History, and the great Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York City, and other like ones in the big cities of other states. Stopping off when on a cross-country trip to visit these museums will be richly rewarding. There is always a place in them where one can rest weary feet. And, as they are huge, so big and extensive that it is impossible to "do" any of them in a short time, there are guides to tell you about, or take you to, the rooms that have most interest to you.

Our country is so rich in "places to go" that no vacationing child should go unsatisfied in his longing to "go." To have a definite place and purpose in the going adds to the interest in getting there and ends in satisfaction of achievement.

• • • •

LOOK OVER the possibilities in the home town. They are there. There are old houses with histories. There are old roads over which the pioneers traveled, highways and backroads carrying signs set there by the historical societies that our children would do well to read and think about.

There is reason in the children's wanting places to go and their elders would do themselves and the youngsters a real kindness to acquaint themselves with a list of the best places. A knowledge of the master works of the pioneers in art, history, religion and politics is enriching. Do take them places.

HELENA RUBINSTEIN SHOWS YOU HOW TO WASH AWAY BLACKHEADS!

Medically-Tested Treatment Banishes Blackheads, Whiteheads, Oiliness, Coarse Pores

"My skin never looked really 'pretty' before. Now it does," says Miss Charlotte Kirk, who lives in New York City.

"It's helped me a lot. I don't feel so self-conscious," says Allen Bolek of West 53rd St., N. Y. C.

Only Helena Rubinstein could have created this treatment for you. Before she ever worked in cosmetics, her interest in the study of medicine led her to specialize in the problems of disturbed skins. Doctors have recommended her corrective preparations for adolescents and others. Helena Rubinstein's Medicated Beauty Treatment washes away blackheads in minutes! And now, for a limited time—because Helena Rubinstein wants to make this thrilling help available to every young person with a skin problem, many of you now facing a new school year—you can buy Medicated Beauty Treatment at savings of 1.80!

Medically-Tested

Helena Rubinsten's new discovery was formulated in consultation with her world-wide staff of doctors. It was then put to controlled medical tests on a group of women, men and teenage boys and girls with typical blackhead conditions. Just see what happened after a single treatment! Blackheads and whiteheads washed off onto a washcloth. Excess oil dissolved. Enlarged pores looked finer. In two weeks of treatment, magnifying mirrors showed complete transformations from blackhead-loaded skins to clearer, fresher looking complexions.

Helena Rubinstein's Medicated Beauty Treatment

As simple as one-two-three—just three steps...Enlarged pores are an open invitation to blemishes. Your first step is DEEP CLEANSER, a creamy liquid that cleanses deep into the pores and dislodges even the dirt "glued" in by oil—while its exclusive antiseptic R-57 destroys the bacteria that commonly cause surface blemishes.

Step two heals and clears with MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK. Its medications are the self-same ones prescribed by dermatologists as effective in healing surface blemishes. "Unmasking" was a momentous thrill for the women tested. As they washed off the mask they actually washed off blackheads and saw a clearer, smoother, blemish-free complexion emerge!

Last is a tingling skin bath of "WATER LILY" PORE LOTION which quickly helps tighten the pores, leaving a more delicate texture, fresher color.

When those blackheads wash off like so many dirt specks, you'll know there's nothing for your skin like Helena Rubinstein's complete MEDICATED BEAUTY CARE. Helena Rubinstein personally guarantees full satisfaction when used as directed or your money will be refunded.

1. "STERILE"-CLEANSE, soften with Helena Rubinstein's DEEP CLEANSER containing exclusive antiseptic R-57. It rids pores of dirt, "sterilizes" against bacteria.

2. HEAL AND CLEAR troubled skin with Helena Rubinstein's MEDICATED BEAUTY MASK. In 10 minutes wash off mask—wash away blackheads! Skin is clearer, finer, with a smoother finish.

3. HELP TIGHTEN PORES with a skin bath of Helena Rubinstein's "WATER LILY" PORE LOTION. Tightens pores, heightens color, vitalizes complexion. Treatment done—see the difference!

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

The following is a release from the San Francisco Opera Co. announcing plans for the opera season at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

With a galaxy of internationally famous singers, new and revived productions lavishly staged and costumed, the San Francisco Opera will present its 22nd Los Angeles season in Shrine Auditorium Oct. 24 to Nov. 9.

The season will open with "La Boheme" in honor of the centennial of Giacomo Puccini's birth. The poignant work had its American premiere in Los Angeles 61 years ago in October.

American stage premieres of three operas, Cherubini's "Medea" and double bill of Carl Orff's "Wise Maiden" and "Carmina Burana," have inspired special interest in the season.

* * * *

NEW TO THE San Francisco Opera repertoire is Verdi's "Don Carlo." Revivals with new decor and staging and production of old favorites includes the following:

Rossini's "Barber of Seville"; Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore"; Smetana's comic "Bartered Bride," Wagner's "Tannhauser," Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," and on a double bill Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" and the Richard Strauss "Electra."

There is special luster to the season in the most brilliant importation of artists ever to come from Europe to the United States in a single season.

The United States debuts with the San Francisco Opera season include Italian soprano Eugenia Ratti, baritone Rolando Panerai and bass Giuseppe Modesti; German tenor Sebastion Feiersinger, French Ernest Blanc, baritone and Dutch bass Arnold Van Mill.

* * * *

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA debuts also include Lisa Della Casa, strikingly attractive Swiss singer who has been a leading soprano of the Vienna Opera since 1947 and of the Metropolitan Opera in 1953. She will sing the role of Mimi in the opening night opera "La Boheme" in Los Angeles.

Christel Goltz, German star, specializes in Strauss roles and sings regularly in Cologne, Dusseldorf, Munich, Salzburg, Cannes and Monte Carlo. She made her Met debut in 1954.

Soprano Joan Moynagh, Irish-American, has leading roles with the Boris Goldovsky group in the Eastern United States. Mezzo Irene Dalis is a dramatic mezzo from San Jose who has won remarkable acclaim in Europe, is member of the Berlin Opera and last season made a successful debut at the Met. She made her Hollywood Bowl debut Thursday. Mezzo Cecilia Ward is a gifted American singer who has appeared on NBC Television Opera and the New York City Center Opera.

Also new to San Francisco Opera are Tenors Piero Miranda Ferraro, Robert Thomas, and Richard Miller; Lawrence Winters, baritone; John Gillaspy and Richard Wentworth, basses.

* * * *

RETURNING AFTER an absence are Eileen Farrell, soprano; Jussi Bjoerling, tenor; Robert Weede, Frank Guarrera, Louis Quilico, baritones; Georgi Tozzi, bass and Salvatore Baccaloni, basso buffa.

Last season's returnees include Leyla Gencer, Dorothy Kirsten, Leontyne Price, Leonie Rysanek, Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Sylvia Stahlman, sopranos; Claramae Turner, contralto; Virginio Assandri, Howard Fried, Richard Lewis, Gianni Raimondi, tenors; Harold Enns and Colin Harvey, baritones; Lorenzo Alvary, bass.

In the conducting department are several newcomers: Leopold Ludwig will be here en route from the winter season at Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires. Bohemian by birth, he is general musical director of the Hamburg State Opera and appears simultaneously as guest conductor at both Berlin opera houses.

Jean Fournet, born in Rouen, France, studied at the Paris Conservatoire. Since 1954 he has been music director of the Opera Comique.

Returning conductors are Francesco, Molinari, Pradelli and Glauco Curiel, and Dr. Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the company. Gianni Lazzari returns as chorus director. Lew and William Christensen and Ghita Hager are choreographers for ballet sequences.

Give Music Top Priority

Van Cliburn is among the great recording artists now. His playing of Tchaikovski's "Concerto No. 1 in B Flat Minor" may be borrowed from the Long Beach Public Library, along with long-playing recordings of other famous pianists such as Geza Anda playing Schumann "Etudes Symphoniques"; Walter Gieseking playing Brahm's "Klavierstucke";

Van Cliburn

Wanda Landowska performing Mozart's "Sonata in D Major for Piano" and Gary Graffman playing Schumann selections.

* * * *

CONCERTS "under the stars" may be heard at home with the help of borrowed recordings. These old favorites are on the new LP list: Albeniz, "Iberia" (Ormandy conducting); Beethoven, "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor" (Koussevitzky conducting); Brahms, "Symphony No. 3 in F Major" (Fritz Reiner conducting); Holst, "The Planets" (Stokowski conducting); Ravel, "Rhapsodie Espagnole" (Rodzinski conducting) and Tchaikovski, "Nutcracker Suite No. 1" (Toscanini conducting).

East, West, Art Shows Abound

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

From historic murals to decorative kitchen towels is the road traveled by Ivan Bartlett, former Long Beach artist, now in New York.

Bartlett's murals decorate a number of Southern California public buildings, including Polytechnic High School.

His original tablecloths and amusing kitchen towels are featured in the National Linen Trade Show in Hotel Commodore, New York.

Among those shown are "Bounty," groups of fruits and flowers in autumn colors, "Festival," Provincial design with motifs taken from old French prints in fresh modern colors, and "Garden Fresh," brightly-colored hexagons enclosing tomatoes, peppers and artichokes.

Reproductions of Bartlett's designs appear in leading national newspapers and magazines, especially his coordinated blanket, sheet and bath towel designs.

Bartlett's philosophy of design is based on the conviction that the use of good art in decorative design for household furnishings enriches the daily living patterns of the American home.

Workshop Tells Leads for 'Carousel' in Fall

Snatches of songs repeated over and over from a downtown studio these warm summer evenings mean that Singers' Workshop is in enthusiastic preparation for the fall production, Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical romance, "Carousel."

Long Beach's widely acclaimed musical theater company has assembled an impressive cast of Southland talent for the production to be staged the second week in October in Municipal Auditorium.

Leading characters are John Blackmon, Billy; Delores Burt, Julie; Kaye Ekhardt, Carrie; Edward Clark, Mr. Snow; Bob Kyber, Jigger; Jeanette Tracy, Nettie; Ruth Gartler, Mrs. Mullin; Arthur Carah, starkeeper; Dick Hunter, Mr. Bascombe; and Bobbie Miller, Louise.

The cast, company of singers and dancers will total at least 60 persons.

"Carousel" is guided by the trio that made the spring show, "Kiss Me, Kate" an outstanding production. James Brittain, associate producer at MGM is directing; Lauris Jones, conductor of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the music, and Albert Ruiz, choreographer, is supervising the dance numbers.

Reserved seats for "Carousel" are now available. Further information may be obtained by calling the Dance-Drama Center, 518 E. 4th St.

Wed., Aug. 20—Jazz Night —Count Basie and Anita O'-Day.

Thurs., Aug. 21 — Eugene Ormandy, conductor; George London, baritone, soloist.

Sat., Aug. 23—Fiesta, song and dance presentation. Carmen Dragon conducting.

Opera House Rebuilt

The framework of the new Berlin Opera House has been completed. Located on Bismarckstrasse, on the site of the former opera house which was almost completely destroyed in a 1943 air raid, the new building will be ready for the opening of the 1960-61 opera season.

Shakespeare's Life on Film

A color film, "Shakespeare," which has been filmed entirely in England, will be shown at a Patio "Pop" Concert at Burnett Branch Library, 560 E. Hill St., on Thursday at dusk.

The life of William Shakespeare is traced from his boyhood in Stratford through his career in the London theater. There are excerpts from some of his plays.

"An Impression of London," a color film which portrays a round-the-clock typical London day, will be shown on the same program.

On recordings Shakespearean songs will be sung and Stanley Holloway presents humorous English songs.

Care for Hi-Fi

According to statistics it is men who buy the hi-fi equipment as well as the records, but they leave its care and upkeep to the women. One of the most important problems she has is to know about the care of the needle, since faulty ones can ruin the most expensive records.

Although many people believe that the diamond needle is "permanent," the truth is that there is no such thing as a permanent needle. A diamond one may have 1,500 hours of play as against 20 hours of another type needle.

Chopin Manuscripts

Representatives of Poland's Frederic Chopin Society have acquired 35 pages of Chopin manuscripts in Paris. The manuscripts will be used for a new edition of Chopin's collected works now in preparation under the editorship of the pianist, Jan Ekier.

A monument to Chopin, modeled after the one built in 1926 and destroyed by the Nazis in 1940, was recently unveiled in Warsaw's Lazienki Park. Chopin Year will be in 1960 to mark the 150th anniversary of the composer's birth.

New Post

Ralph Berkowitz, pianist and dean of the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood, Mass., has been appointed manager of the Albuquerque Civic Symphony of New Mexico.

Readings for 'Winslow Boy' Today

Tryouts for roles in "The Winslow Boy" which will star actor John Carradine will take place today at 1:30 p. m. in The Magnolia Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

The play will open Sept. 16, playing for a four week period, weekly Tuesday through Sunday.

In the cast are four women ranging in ages from 20 to 40 and five men between 20 and 60. One of the central roles is for a teen-age boy.

Readings are open to the general public for both experienced and unexperienced performers. Those interested in assisting in backstage work are also invited to attend.

"The Winslow Boy" by Terrence Rattigen is the story of a prominent English barrister's belief in the innocence of a young school boy expelled from a boy's school on a minor theft charge and the effects his fight for justice invokes on all principals involved. The setting is England preceding World War I. English accents for roles are desirable but not entirely necessary.

Currently playing at the theater is "No Time for Sergeants" starring actor Richard Erdman. The three week run will conclude Aug. 31. Reservations may be made at the boxoffice.

Herman Tours

Woody Herman, one of America's all time jazz greats, is on a three-month tour of South America, made in co-operation with the President's Special International Program for Cultural Presentations, which is administered for the State Department by ANTA.

The first concert was given in Panama City on Aug. 1, the last will be in Guatemala City on Nov. 9.

Rockin' Chair's Not About to Snatch Lively Oldsters

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UE)—The Symphony Orchestra of Sirovich Day Center may never star at Carnegie Hall. But it's playing like 60—and 70 and 80—at a lot of other places.

This little symphony is made up strictly of old folks. No one under 60 is allowed, with the exception of the conductor, Horace LoPiano, a mere baby of 56.

The Sirovich Orchestra is one of dozens of music groups among the elderly of our land who are finding that rhythm is more fun than rocking. The American music conference reports that centers for the aged from Maine to California boast glee clubs, string ensembles, rhythm bands, even jazz piano experts.

* * * *

ONE GOLDEN AGE club in Chicago has a 30-piece rhythm band started 11 years ago by Adolf Witte, an engineer and inventor, who at the time was 78. He still is active.

Albany, Calif., has a group of grandmothers who play jazz piano and gather regularly to hear this special brand of music analyzed by such experts as Dave Brubeck.

The Sirovich Orchestra is the first and only one of its kind among New York's day centers, although others have rhythm bands and other music-making groups.

The idea for the symphony originated with Harry A. Levine, consultant on the aged for the City Welfare Department, headed by Commissioner Henry L. McCarthy.

Frances King, a veteran social worker, started organizing the orchestra when she became director of the center in 1949. By 1950, she had a pretty lively band on her hands—even though she had to bail some instruments out of the hock shop. Now, the orchestra has from 12 to 18 members—"depending on the weather," said Miss King. "Our people come from all the five boroughs . . . and in bad weather some of the old folks can't make it."

* * * *

THEY REHEARSE three times weekly and it's a rare week without a public appearance. The orchestra plays for hospitals, schools, homes for the aged, and has made radio and television appearances.

All the concerts, with one exception, are free. At the center's annual spring festival, concert admission is 50 cents to help buy new music, repair instruments and such.

Many of the members are former professionals—one played with the John Phillip Sousa band more than 30 years ago another was with the Philadelphia Symphony. Some had their training and professional experience abroad—"our orchestra is a little U. N.," said Miss King. But most had retired from music making until they started visiting the center.

One member is a former porter at the center, Severino Hernandez, 73, clarinetist, saxophonist, and composer of the "Frances Waltz," named for Miss King.

* * * *

THERE IS ONE woman in the orchestra—Mrs. Ray Alpert, 64, who plays the violin, is taking regular studies at night at a local high school, and studying music at the Brooklyn College of Music.

One of the oldest members, Joseph Marasco, 83, is the tambourine man. "He can't read music," said Miss King. "Matter of fact, we only found out recently he can't read. But oh boy, has he got rhythm! You ought to hear him when we do 'Carmen.'"

The orchestra's repertory runs the gamut of the classics.

No popular tunes?

"Oh," said Miss King, "Bruce Healy, the president and a violinist, likes jazz. The conductor has a terrible time with him."

"Want to Shock the Natives?

The theatrical world has been invaded by the woman of high fashion . . . no longer will wigs be worn only behind footlights by character actors . . . they (the wigs) are becoming common sights on the woman of high fashion at soirees and cocktail parties. The wigs will be a little competition to the judges and barristers in Great Britain, who still cling to the periwig when court is in session. But, then, knowing women, they can invade any stronghold . . . even the British courts!

The fad started in Paris last season when one designer had wigs made for each of his models to wear with specific outfits. Soon, New York and Washington socialites were appearing at smart evening affairs . . . looking equally smart in their "wigs." Prices range from under $50 to more than $300 . . . some are made of natural hair, but the majority are made of miracle fabrics.

* * * *

ROBERT PALMER, millinery buyer for one of our leading department stores in Long Beach, has in stock wigs made of "Sarlon" . . . looks like hair . . . can be washed like hair . . . and set with a hair spray. And the colors . . . mint green, light blond, pink, red. Dior blue or silver grey . . . but Palmer also will accommodate the customers by ordering any color they choose.

"This is the type of fashion novelty that appeals to the very high style woman," said Palmer. "Women who like to change the color of their hair but don't like the bleaching process, may be blondes at breakfast, redheads at luncheon and brunettes at dinner simply by fitting the wig over their own hair."

* * * *

ASKED IF HE thought the style would take in Long Beach, Palmer replied, "Why not? Our women are just as fashion conscious here as any place in the world. If for no other reason, the wig is a wonderful conversation piece at any cocktail party!"

For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at HEmlock 5-1161, Ext. 249, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

FRONT . . . SIDE . . . BACK . . . of new fashion fad called the "wig." Grace Cooney, executive secretary, gleefully wore this silver-gray wig all day Wednesday to prove its versatility . . . or something! These are worn over your own hair; they can be washed and set just as you would your own, and are available in all colors. Paris has now come to Long Beach!—(Staff photos.)

Worry Clinic

Ruckus on Marriage Clinic Quelled by Brave Pastor

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Y-389: Dr. Roy Burkhart, crusading clergyman at Columbus, Ohio, asked me to conduct a marriage clinic at his famous church a few years ago.

I talked to possibly 2,500 wives in the afternoon, giving them the very same data which I reveal to you readers in this newspaper column.

That night the men's club had a big dinner, and afterwards they adjourned to the sanctuary where I gave them the identical address I had offered their wives that afternoon.

But what we didn't anticipate was the fact that the wives eavesdropped in the kitchen!

This great church was modern in all respects so it had loudspeakers in every room, including the kitchen.

When I began my address to the men, one of the ladies in the kitchen said:

"Oh, we should turn off the loudspeaker!"

But she apparently was overwhelmed, for the speaker was left on.

* * * *

THUS, THE large crew of wives in the kitchen got a second exposure to my medico-psychological address.

As I told you, it was the same in content as when they heard it earlier that afternoon.

But two of the wives, I was told by Dr. Burkhart later, had caught their husbands in illicit affairs.

And they had been making those erring mates stay right under their thumbs with threats of divorce.

So when I now informed the men's meeting that wives are usually 50 per cent to blame when their husbands stray, at least because of the wifely sins of omission, these two wives were furious.

They had not protested in the afternoon when I had uttered the same truism. But now they suddenly realized that I had helped their husbands get out from under their dictatorial thumbs.

Next week these wives asked Dr. Burkhart for letters of transfer from his big church.

But Dr. Burkhart was like the 95 per cent of editors who cannot be coerced into cancelling this column when the shoe fits and two out of 2,500 try to put on the pressure.

* * * *

DR. BURKHART met the issue head-on. He told his packed auditorium about the two requests for transfer of church letters.

And he politely informed the group that he had invited Dr. Crane to conduct the annual marriage clinic, partly because Dr. Crane was both a university psychologist (Ph.D.) as well as physician (M.D.).

He said anybody who attended a marriage clinic should certainly go there with the expectancy of getting helpful facts and not sugary platitudes about "birds and bees and flowers and trees."

So he said he would be very happy to sign letters of transfer for any other members of his huge congregation who felt they wanted to move onward.

Nobody else protested, and those two wives probably would never have done so if their husbands hadn't attended the night lecture!

Pick Delegates to Convention

Norma Gilcrease was elected delegates and Neva Blust alternate to the regional convention in Phoenix, Ariz. in November of National Secretaries Assn. Both are member of Queen Beach Chapter, Long Beach.

Their nomination was made at the annual potluck supper of the chapter in Bixby Park. A white elephant sale climaxed the outdoor festivities.

Pair to Wed in September

Sept. 14 is the date selected for their marriage by Sally Anne Spencer and Bill Don Miller whose betrothal has been made known by her mother, Mrs. Beatrice K. Spencer of Long Beach.

The bride-elect, also a daughter of Dwight A. Spencer of Toledo, Ohio, was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and attended Long Beach State College where she affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha.

Her fiance, son of Mrs. Georgia Miller of Compton and the late William Don Miller, was graduated from Compton Junior College and the University of California at Berkeley. He received a master of science degree in business administration from LBSC.

One Consolation

Persons with oily skin have a consolation. Oily skin does not wrinkle as soon as a dry skin. But to keep it fresh and clear, oily skin requires constant scrubbing with warm water, soap and washcloth.

'Date Mates' for Teeners

Because no two young figures are exactly alike, a whole new concept in undergarments for teenagers, "Date Mates," has been developed by Perma-Lift.

Ranging from the first, or "starter" bra, to those in the higher teenage category, "Date Mates" are designed for comfort and wearability. Self-fitting bras conform to the exact cup size, and as the youngster's bust develops, the cups adjust to her larger proportions, continuing to fit her exactly as her figure changes.

* * * *

ANOTHER innovation is the "neveride" band — soft and comfortable, it automatically adjusts to the individual figure keeping garments always in place.

The same emphasis placed on bra design for teen figures also is placed by Perma-Lift on styles in panty-girdles and garter belts. The "Date Mate" line is available locally.

Keep Pores Clean

Models and actresses know many make-up secrets. But one of their best ones isn't a secret, really. It is proper removal of make-up and cleansing the face and neck so pores won't become clogged. Use a cleansing cream to remove all make-up and then wash with soap and water.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Get Peace of Mind First

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My conscience is bothering me. Three years ago I saw a hit-and-run accident. A girl was killed and I'm fairly sure I know who was driving the car.

I think it was my cousin's wife, though they weren't married at the time. She tries to change the subject whenever it is about cars and accidents.

I'm soon to be married and I wonder what kind of a wife I'll make with this all bottled up inside me. I'm just a bundle of nerves. It will wreck several lives if I open my mouth, but I'll probably break if I don't.

CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN

DEAR CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN:

I suggest you see a psychiatrist. He is professionally bound to honor your confession with privacy and at liberty to direct you to the best solution.

Your bundle of nerves need a mental wash and dry. By all means clean the slate before you marry. M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have been wondering if a boy is playing me as a go-between. He writes me, but my friends and my mother say he just wants to make my girl friend jealous. She also likes him.

How can I find out if he is using me or if he likes me?

IN-BETWEEN

DEAR IN-BETWEEN:

Whatever his reason (the worm), you can enjoy the correspondence and learn to write nicely. Put your best pen forward so long as you can afford the stamp.

You may yet stamp out the competition, for all's fair in love and letters. M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My fiance went to a dance the other night and met a girl. He said he had fun with her, more fun than he has with me. Now he wants to break up so he can "get back in circulation."

I told him I thought I was pregnant, so he said he'd marry me if he had to. I just can't believe that deep down he doesn't love me still. What do you advise?

MIXED-UP

DEAR MIXED-UP:

If course, you can hold the young man to his promise to marry you — but what kind of marriage would you have? Besides, why worry about whether he should marry you when you don't know whether you're pregnant or not?

You're stretching matters to assume he "loves you still," when he has come right out and asked to bow out. M. M.

DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

Capt. John Rountree

CHEF OF THE WEEK

L. B. Coast Guard Boss Likes Steak

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Semper Paratus! Always ready! He lives by every word—every connotation and every meaning expressed in the Coast Guard motto. Ever on the alert, Capt. John Rountree as district commander, 11th Coast Guard District, Long Beach, practically has the waves of the mighty Pacific under control.

Starting out in life in Swainsboro, Ga., he won acceptance as a cadet to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, and began his extensive tour of bases and boats.

Following graduation in 1924, he spent three years aboard patrol boats and Coast Guard-manned destroyers in the area from New London, Conn., to Boston, Mass. Navigating a cutter off the coast of New York preceded a jaunt back to Georgia. He went as executive officer of the cutter Yamaeraw.

* * * *

EVENTUALLY he moved ashore to become a part of the Coast Guard intelligence unit. The Alaskan waters then beckoned and there he stayed for the next five years. In 1942, however, Rountree was appointed captain of the ports of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Charleston, W. Va.

With the advent of World War II, his duties took on an even more profound meaning. In 1943, as commander of Escort Division 20, it was his duty to safeguard convoys in the North Atlantic. For his performance of duty in this post, he was awarded the Legion of Merit with combat V. In late 1944 he was reassigned to the Pacific as commander of the troop transport Gen. William Mitchell.

Returning to the states at the close of the war, he served as deputy commander of the Western Area at San Francisco until '47, when he was transposed to Curtis Bay, Md., as administrative officer at the Coast Guard yard.

In rapid succession, Capt. Rountree continued to climb the rungs of the Coast Guard ladder, first as chief of operations, 3rd Coast Guard District Headquarters, New York City, and then to district chief of staff, the position he held until his present Long Beach assignment in November of '54.

* * * *

IT WAS while on the rocky New England coast that he met his bride, the former Mildred Venetia Morr of Rhode Island. They have three daughters, Joan, married and living in Chicago, Julianne, just graduated from University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Janet, a sophomore at UC, Berkeley.

When "hobbying," he says he goofs around a bit at golf. He's a bridge player with a reputation (excellent), and a gardener who can make growing things do what they are supposed to do.

Today he's gone "landlubber" in a big way with a sizzling steak in tow.

SIZZLING STEAKS

Prepare for cooking a porterhouse or sirloin or New York steak.

Steak never should be cooked over flames—so start your fire about an hour before you want to put the meat on, and let the charcoal burn down to a glowing bed of coals. Grease the rack lightly, place the steak on it, and put the rack 3 inches from the heat. If you're a rare steak fan, allow about 5 minutes for each side; if you like it well done, increase the time. To test for doneness, make a short cut with a sharp knife near the bone. Some of the less expensive cuts, such as prime grade top round, chuck and rump, come out wonderfully well if they are marinated.

Baths Healthful

It isn't a mania toward cleanliness that makes several baths a day essential during summer. During a heat wave, sponging yourself several times a day is healthful. You suds away pore-clogging particles and thus allow perspiration to flow freely.

Dear Abby

There Are Other Things

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady for six months and my boyfriend's religion doesn't permit him to go to movies or to dances.

There is nothing much for us to do except sit out in a car and neck. I like him a lot but this is getting dangerous. What should I do?

AFRAID.

DEAR AFRAID: Get together with other couples and play records (you don't have to dance, even if they do), play scrabble, watch TV, engage in sports (swimming, tennis, bowling), picnic with others. Too much aloneness is dangerous indeed, and you are smart to know it.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I need your help on a subject concerning my husband. He is getting bald but he refuses to do anything about it. I say he should get a hair piece, and cover up his head as he isn't even 30 yet and he is too young to be bald. He is very stubborn and says if he is going to be bald he will take it like a man and he doesn't care how it looks. I think just to spite me he brushes his hair more than he has to and harder than usual just to make it fall out. Please help me to convince him that he needs his head covered.

HATING BALDNESS.

DEAR HATING: If he is getting bald, he is wise to accept it. The only way you'll sell him a hair piece is to show him someone on whom it looks so real he could never believe it.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am in search of feminine companionship. I'd like a good-looking, clean girl between 20 and 35 who is interested in some fun on weekends and holidays. No chance for marriage. I've had it. Thanks.

LONESOME AL.

DEAR AL: Where do you think you are going to find a CLEAN, GOOD-LOOKING GIRL who would go for a deal like this? Sorry, friend, you are barking (and I did say barking) up the wrong tree.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a boy who has money. His birthday comes before mine. I am afraid if I give him a gift he will think I am doing it just so he will give me one. I hate to let his birthday go by without giving him anything, but I don't want him to get the wrong idea. Please help me.

NOT HINTING.

DEAR NOT: Send him a telegram or mail him a birthday card.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY: A woman's tears have been known to generate more power than Niagara Falls. Don't fall for it!

Manucla Nieto Business and Professional Women's Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Hody's Restaurant, Lakewood. Opal Landy, program coordinator, will present a recording geared to "personalysis," the theme chosen to characterize future club programs. Reservations may be made with Rosemary Bauman.

Bathe Baby Often

Baby will take to the heat more if bathed frequently. And also ease him into the sunshine so there will be little chance of a sunburn. His skin may not show beginnings of a burn while still in the sun, so don't use this as a measure for sunbathing.

Careful Play Is Required

South went down 1,400 points Saturday in order to save a rubber. Today's hand is the next and final one of that same rubber.

The East-West bidding was very scientific. East's two-spade bid was a definite slam try and West with 10 points was willing to show his club ace. When East continued by showing the ace of diamonds, West jumped to four hearts on account of his good trumps and East contracted for the slam.

* * * *

CAREFUL PLAY was required to bring the hand home. East won the opening spade lead and drew trumps with two leads. Three rounds of clubs allowed him to get rid of his losing spade and he ruffed dummy's last spade in his own hand.

This series of plays had eliminated all black cards from his hand and dummy. Now all he had to do was to enter dummy with a third trump, lead a diamond and finesse his 10 spot.

South won with the jack and was now helpless. A diamond lead would be up to East's ace-queen and a spade or club lead would allow East to ruff in dummy and discard his queen of diamonds.

Experts Say Now Is Time to Buy Home

Bottom Reached on Price and Interest

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Buy now, the experts say, if you're thinking about getting a house.

To a man, banking and housing authorities here agree that interest rates and new home prices have touched bottom for the foreseeable future. Mortgage money, meanwhile, continues in abundant supply.

How long before borrowing costs start turning up is one on which the experts hesitate to speculate. They agree, however, that with mortgage interest rates traditionally more sluggish than others, no noticeable upturn is likely before autumn.

• • • •

BUT THEY ALSO AGREE that the recent easing of rates and the availability of loan money has ended.

"Families today are getting a better buy in the housing market than they were just a year ago," W. Franklin Morrison, president of the National League of Insured Savings Assn., told United Press International. "But how long this will continue is a matter of serious question."

Morrison noted that half of this year's output of new houses is selling for $14,300, compared to a median price of $15,000 in 1957.

"The builders have been hungry. They've been going all out" was the way one authoritative building industry source explained it. "But with materials prices and wages rising they're going to change their tune."

MOST OPINION that the 1958 drop in interest rates has ended was based on the recent dive in prices in the government securities market. Another indication comes from the Federa' Housing Administration (FHA) which reported an increase of one-tenth of a point from July 1 to Aug. 1 in prices paid for FHA-insured mortgages traded in the secondary market. That gain compared with an average rise of three-tenths of a point per month in the first six months of the year.

The maximum FHA rate of 5¼ per cent is still competitive and will be for a while, FHA boss Norman P. Mason told UPI. "But the signs are that interest rates are stiffening on long-term (mortgage) money," he added.

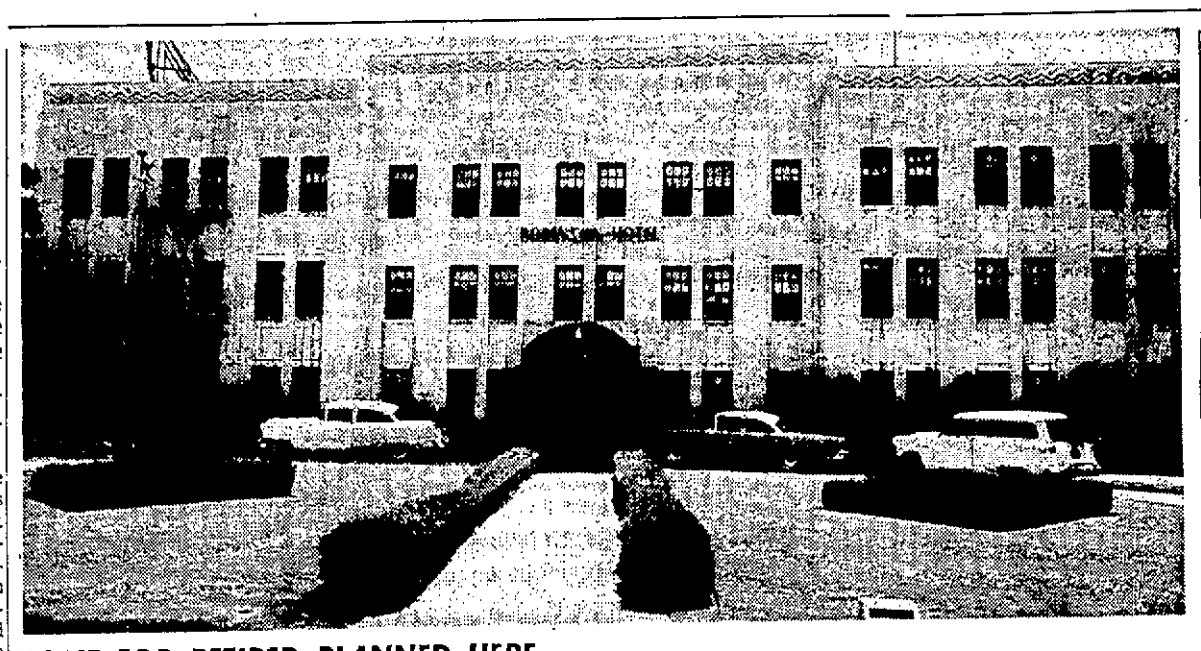

On conventional mortgages, the FHA reports, interest rates fell from a national average of 6 per cent to 5.6 per cent in the first half of the year.

• • • •

THIS MEANS A SAVING in monthly payments of about four dollars on a $15,000, 25-year mortgage.

The experts agree that mortgage money is still plentiful for qualified borrowers. The National Association of Real Estate Boards found an "ample" supply of funds for conventional financing in 80 per cent of the nation.

Mason, Morrison and others also reported that mortgage money is easily available. They contrast this situation with a year ago when lenders were turning away many qualified borrowers who were ready to pay the going interest rate.

HOME FOR RETIRED PLANNED HERE

Conversion of the Robinson Hotel, 334 E. Ocean Blvd., into a home for retired persons of moderate means, is planned by the recent buyers, a group headed by Harvey Miller, local Realtor. It will be known as "The New Robinson."

ROBINSON HOTEL SOLD

Will Become Home for Retired Folks

Purchase of the Robinson Hotel, 334 East Ocean Blvd., has just been announced by Harvey Miller, Long Beach, who handled the transaction and is head of the purchasing syndicate.

The building, to be known as "The New Robinson," possesses one of the most scenic and ideally located sites in Long Beach. Located between Ocean Blvd. and Seaside Walk overlooking the Pacific, it lies adjacent to complete transportation facilities, shopping areas, amusements, cultural facilities and other features important to the senior citizens.

• • • •

WORK IS underway to convert the facilities into fine living accommodations for retired citizens of moderate means. Featured will be a TV lounge, roof-top solarium and recreation room, two passenger elevators and other conveniences for the comfort of guests. "The New Robinson" will be nonsectarian and will provide three meals a day, prepared by a skilled professional chef in the new Seaside Dining room.

There will be no entrance fee or hidden charges Miller said. All that will be required is a payment to cover room and board for one month. Rates will be based on the size, location and facilities of the rooms. Meals will be the same for all. Suites will be available at slightly higher rates. A laundry room equipped with washer and dryer will be available to guests free of charge.

• • • •

"MY ASSOCIATES and I have long recognized an urgent need for living accommodations for senior citizens of moderate means," stated Miller, "and we are pleased to announce that "The New Robinson" will be dedicated to provide gracious and superb living accommodations for the retirement years of these people." H. A. Stevens, well known in hotel circles, has been appointed manager.

Reservations are now being taken for the grand opening which is scheduled for the early part of September.

Stinging Defeat

GLOUCESTER, Va. (AP)—Workmen replacing the roof on Ware Episcopal Church here met a stinging defeat in their first effort. Bees under the roof stung 12 of the 13 workmen. Firemen routed the bees with foamite but work had to be continued with caution with the insects airborne.

Minor Improvements Boost Valuation of Home

Now is the opportune time for home owners to increase from 10 to 25 per cent the value of their properties by making some proper improvements, declares Larry Miller, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

And, contractors, financing firms, building tradesmen and nursery proprietors all join in a statement that home improvements can be made now at prices far better than later this fall when construction work in the Southland is due for a big jump.

"If you are thinking of selling your home now or in the future, you will make yourself good money in making improvements now," said Miller.

• • • •

BECAUSE REALTORS are engaged in helping people buy homes of their choice, they are familiar with the features that make homes more popular and bring better prices, he added.

As an example of a remodelling job that brought results, Miller cited the case of a prewar house to which a patio had been added and an extra bath installed. The house had been valued at $15,000, Miller said, and after approximately $5,000 in improvements had been made it sold for $25,000.

Housing experts say that families needing more room might well consider plans for improving their present house before venturing into a much higher purchase.

• • • •

SOME OF THE ways to upgrade a home and create a better place in which to live include:

Add a second—or even a third—bathroom and if the fixtures in the present bath are antiquated, convert it to a modern bath.

Combine kitchen and living areas in older home. Install such modern conveniences as built-in automatic appliances.

Give your home a view, is another big improvement. Walls of glass make a home more enjoyable, especially if the view looks upon some good landscaping. Such landscaping can be added at a low cost.

A living room takes on luxury when you panel a wall with the many fine plywood panels offered on the market. Many of these can be installed as a do-it-yourself project.

• • • •

A GOOD PAINT JOB can mean an extra $1,000 on the sales price of a home, the realty board president said.

Interior painting will greatly boost the valuation, he added. New wallpaper brightens any home.

"Many homeowners," Miller said, "think that prospective buyers will be able to visualize the house with these improvements. Such confidence is frequently misplaced, and, moreover, the right use of color often can add $1,000 to the price of your home—it gives a sense of proportion to a house that lacks it."

The Long Beach Realtors termed the grounds of a house another vital point. If the lawn is unkempt and neglected, many possible buyers will never cross your threshold in the belief that the inside of the home will be equally discouraging. Furthermore, while you may never be able to add $500 to the asking price of your home by producing the bill for that shrubbery you installed, you may add appreciably to the sales price by the general betterment in appearance.

• • • •

ANTIQUATED bathrooms and an old-fashioned kitchen place your older home at a competitive disadvantage with the many new homes on the market, Miller warned. Therefore, he recommended for many cases the installation of modern fixtures in bath rooms—tile floors in the baths, and new cabinets in kitchens. A second bathroom in a three-bedroom house can often increase its sale price 10 to 20 per cent, he added.

In considering possible improvements and additions, the Realtor advised the use of common sense.

"You don't want to 'improve' your house out of its neighborhood,' and thus make it hard to realize the value of improvements," he warned. "An example of this would be a $25,000 house in a $15,000 neighborhood. In these matters as in many others, the counsel of your Realtor will be most helpful to you in planning the improvements that will add to the resale of your house."

Southmoor Village Sales Jump

"Marking the third week of the first Southland area opportunity for the veteran buyer to choose a Frigidaire refrigerator, O'Keefe & Merritt range, RCA washer and RCA dryer for no additional down payment, a major sales increase has been noted each succeeding week at Southmoor Village—resort-area development by Don Wilson Builders," announced Lee Halison, sales agent.

"This $1000 value combines with the attractive homes at Southmoor, the cooler, smog-free climate and beach-area location to offer unusual advantages to the home buyer," Halison stated.

* * * *

SOUTHMOOR ALSO offers the popular two-story styling, which is so much in demand at the present time. The spaciousness and privacy of this design is particularly suited to the needs of the growing family.

The terms offered to vets at Southmoor—featuring the availability of these quality-built homes for no down payment, only $375 costs and impounds on bonafide G.I. terms and monthly payments of $74.33 principal and interest — make them within the easy reach of everyone.

The homes are priced from $13,975. FHA terms for non-vets are featured, too, with a low $600 down payment, plus costs.

Easy-to-reach model homes at Southmoor Village are open daily from 10:00 a.m. til dark. From Long Beach drive east past the traffic circle on Pacific Highway to Garden Grove Blvd. and Southmoor Village. Located just east of Long Beach, these homes are accessible from Los Angeles by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Highway 39. Turn south on 39 past Knott's Berry Farm, to Garden Grove Blvd. Turn right and drive one mile to the Southmoor Village model homes.

Patio for Big Homes

A new concept of western indoor, outdoor living is being introduced in Hallmark Homes in La Mirada with "The California Patio."

The spacious, fully covered patios have separate terraces for barbecues, entertaining or cool lounging.

Priced from $14,300 to $17,950. These homes may be purchased on new low FHA terms, with no down payment for veterans. All lots in the unit are over 8000 square feet.

Previewing showing of these custom built homes is taking place this weekend, and the unit may be reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway to Valley View turnoff, left over Freeway Ramp one block to Alondra, then right. Continue east on Alondra past Stage Road to furnished model homes.

Bellehurst Homes are Big Attraction

The luxurious atmosphere of Bellehurst homes, and the attractive Bellehurst homesites have been seen by increasing crowds during the past few weeks. Discriminating home buyers have been attracted to the area by the country club atmosphere for family living.

Located one mile north of the Santa Ana Freeway on Hwy. 39, Bellehurst surrounds beautiful Los Coyotes Golf Course. The completion of the new $300,000 Recreation Center at Bellehurst has given marked impetus to sales. Three swimming pools accommodate youngsters, swimmers and divers, and since completion of the pools sporting events have been scheduled regularly. The center

Bellehurst homes feature a large selection of styles and sizes, ranging from 3 to 5 bedrooms. Homes are sold with carpeting and draperies in place, landscaping completed and sprinklers installed for easy maintenance.

Prices of models are as low as $29,700 with payments on many models as low as $120 per month. Many homes are available with no down payment on approval of credit.

Lakewood Country Club Estate Homes Built on Choice Sites

Lakewood Country Club Estates area is attracting many visitors daily as several more large executive-type homes have reached the framing stage. The area provides a choice residential site with lots overlooking the famed Lakewood golf course.

In addition to the provimity of the country club, Lakewood Country Club Estates are only minutes away from the yacht harbor, metropolitan centers and shopping areas. Fine schools, churches, and sensible restrictions to protect the investor are added attractions. Many large trees add interest and beauty to the area and assure scenic views from all homesites.

* * * *

According to Gene Nebeker, exclusive sales agent, this is the last of the truly close-in prestige locations. "It is a common thing in the Southland to pass a choice residential area and remark, 'I remember when you could buy a lot there for only a few dollars down. Wish I had bought one then!' The opportunities available today are just as great as in former years," said Nebeker. "Many of the future residents of Lakewood Country Club Estates are purchasing lots now, realizing the growth potential of this choice property."

O. J. Warren, builder, remarked that rising building costs are a signal to wise investors to get construction plans under way as soon as possible.

* * * *

LOCATED AT Harvey Way and Lakewood Blvd., Lakewood Country Club Estates area is easily reached from Long Beach by driving north on Lakewood to Carson St., turn left at the first signal north of Carson.

Five-year terms are available on choice lots, according to Gene Nebeker, and all improvements are in and paid for. Prices range from $8,450 to $26,000, and terms are available.

Miss Marshall has been with the Broadway since leaving the University of Utah in 1929 and has served in a variety of buying and merchandising positions. In her new capacity she will occupy one of the most responsible positions of any woman in the retail field.

Lyon, currently general merchandise manager of L. S. Ayres & Co. in Indianapolis, will rejoin Broadway-Hale Stores this fall, having previously served as general manager of one of the company's stores in Sacramento.

Gets Grant

CLINTON, N. Y. (UPI) — Hamilton College has announced a $100,000 grant from the Irene Heinz Given and John La Porte Given Foundation of New York. Robert W. McEwen, president of the upstate college, said the money will be used by Hamilton's teaching departments.

Magnolia Manor in Fast Sale

According to Laramore Construction Co. officers, Magnolia Manor is the most popular of their new home sites. The trend toward suburban living has created high demand for these centrally located models because of their quality construction coupled with easy commuting distances to both coast and metropolitan areas, they say.

Over 75 per cent of these popular homes are already sold with a remaining few available for immediate occupancy, reports Frank H. McFarland, sales agent.

Attractive to average income families, these lovely $12,200 to $12,500 homes offer over 1300 square feet of living area. Three spacious designs contain cheerful open living rooms with adjoining study or dining room. Kitchens with snack bars or nooks reveal step-saving work areas, full cabinet capacity and ample utility space. Three to 4-bedrooms are combined with 1½ or 2 large baths. Modern color-coordination and decorator finishes are outstandingly appealing.

SOUND CONSTRUCTION is emphasized by Laramore spokesmen as a major feature of these value-tested homes. Acoustical plaster ceilings, new cork-tone tile flooring and sturdy pre-tested building materials are incorporated throughout.

Sixteen elevations are shown in both provincial and contemporary modern architecture. Sweeping wide eaves, brick wainscotting and planters complement graceful double-garage entrances. Easy terms suited to average budgets include $195 down and $90 move-in cost, states McFarland, with no balloon payments or due dates.

Models are open daily from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Driving from Long Beach go east to 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Huntington Beach Blvd., south to Westminster then east to models.

Marina Bay Homes Final Unit Now Open for Public Viewing

Holding to the same distinctive designs and quality construction which recently won a national home-building award, Marina Bay Homes' final unit is now completed and open to the public, reported Jim Young, vice president of Brighton-Bilt Homes, builders.

The nation-wide contest covered a variety of model homes all rated by a panel of judges well known in building circles. Contest requirements were especially high in specifying the use of choice materials to insure home owners of low upkeep cost. Top quality construction may be noted throughout Marina Bay's 3-bedroom plus family room and 2-bath homes, from their hardwood parquet flooring to the extensive use of many nationally advertised, quality brand products, Young said.

VETERANS NEED no down payment, merely paying costs and impounds. Monthly payments for veterans are from $133, including everything. Excellent non-veteran terms are also available.

Included in the homes at no extra cost, are deluxe models of the newest Frigidaire refrigerator, washer and dryer, a deluxe built-in O'Keefe & Merritt oven and surface unit for the kitchen as well as a six-foot redwood paling fence, with gates, completely enclosing the rear and side yards.

Special "beach-living" features are: Boat-port in some models, in addition to the oversized 2-car garage, 2 baths with all-glass stall shower plus a "beach-goers" shower on the exterior of each house.

Model homes are open daily, located only 2 miles south of Long Beach on Pacific Coast Hwy.

HOME NEAR BEACH
Here is one of the national award-winning Marina Bay Homes, located only three blocks from the beach and the Long Beach Marina. The final unit of the homes is now open.

Cinderella's Location Is Great Asset

Equity in present homes can be used as a trade-in on the new Cinderella By the Sea Homes, it was announced by salesmen for the development which is just 7 minutes from Newport Beach.

Fully priced from $16,880, the homes may be purchased by veterans with no down except costs and impounds, and on 4¾ per cent loans with payments of $87.76 a month principal and interest. New, low FHA terms are available for non-vets.

With 17 styles from which to select a home, Cinderella By the Sea is convenient to schools, shopping and main highways leading to metropolitan work areas. Each home is built on a large lot and salesmen term them the "homes of value unmatched anywhere."

Located on Harbor Blvd., in north Costa Mesa, the homes are across the street from the new Fairview Children's Hospital.

Opens Branch in Buena Park

BUENA PARK — Branch office of the Ellis-Schrader Realty has opened here at 6941 Grand Ave., according to Ty Ellis.

The firm opened its first office in Lakewood and now have three offices serving the Lakewood-Los Altos area. Realizing the real estate potential in Orange County, the firm opened its first office in Garden Grove in 1954 and in 1956 opened a second Orange County branch at Fullerton.

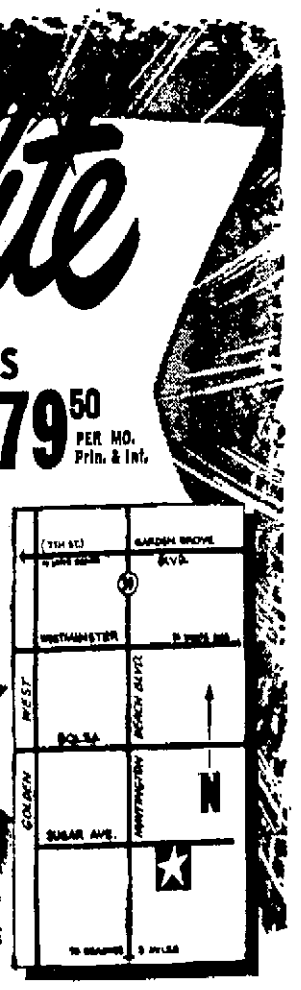

The opening of the office here provides the complete area service to buyers and sellers in the north and west Orange County areas.

TO DISCUSS AIR DEFENSE
Maj. William J. Farrell, assistant operations officer of the 47th Air Defense Artillery Brigade, Los Angeles, will be a guest speaker at the "Early-Bird" breakfast meeting of the Long Beach Board of Realtors Tuesday at the Lafayette Hotel. Maj. Farrell will speak on the Brigade's role in defending the area from air attack through the utilization of Nike-Ajax guided missiles at the 16 missile sites surrounding the metropolitan area. In addition, the major will present motion pictures of actual missile firing and a showing of other members of the Army's missile family.

OUR COVER

Down through the pioneer years of this nation, the Redskins were noteworthy for a style of barbering that left their "customers" sans a hunk of hide as well as hair. The Milwaukee Braves baseball team would like nothing more than to emulate their namesakes and lift the scalps of the Los Angeles Dodgers on the Coliseum battlefield this coming week as the teams play their final series of the season in Angeleno town. This is the thought of Earl Willis, Independent sports cartoonist, in his merry cartoon of "The Visiting Barber" that appears as today's Southland cover. Strangely enough, the lowly Dodgers have been unappreciative of the mighty Braves whenever they have met this season, dumping them unceremoniously on their sliding pads on assorted occasions. This they hope to do again, with nary a thought to the pennant aspirations of the men from the town certain brewers claim to have made famous. Will it be "Just a leetle off the top," a full scalping party . . . or will the Dodgers rise in wrath and send the Braves home minus their own scalps? It'll be an interesting series!

NEXT WEEK

Sand storm at sea! Bailing in relays for their very lives! Battling giant waves and winds of almost hurricane force! These were some of the perils met and conquered by a Long Beach boy and three young friends who are now home, safe and sound, after one of the strangest sea odysseys of modern times. Theirs is the story of a 1,500-mile ocean journey in a 15½-foot boat powered with an outboard motor—from San Felipe, Baja California, to Cape San Lucas and return. And so they're going to stay home now and take it easy? Not on your life! They're already planning their next cruise—down the outside in the open sea from Ensenada to Cape San Lucas and back to San Felipe! Only, they'll use a sturdier and roomier boat for their 1959 adventure. Southland will tell their story next Sunday.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like analysis on WEBSTER. — C. W., W. W., Long Beach; Mrs. I. M., Huntington Beach; Mrs. J. P., Lehi, Utah.

C. W., W. W., I. M., J. P.: WEBSTER was one of the primary English occupations in the Middle Ages. At first it meant a female weaver, but by the 14th century it was applied to all weavers of cloth. Yorkshire registers for 1379 list William and Robert Webester, who were professional "websters." The Webster coat-of-arms, granted in London, is a silver shield crossed by a red stripe between three red weaver's shuttles, each wound with gold yarn. Daniel Webster, celebrated American statesman born in 1782, was a descendant of early New England settlers.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will appreciate brief history on MYERS. — J. M., Lakewood; S. M., Long Beach.

J. M., S. M.: MYERS can have an English origin, taken from a home located "by the myre" (by the swampland). The English Myers family originated in Lancashire. Fourteenth century records show Henry del Myre and Richard Myre. The English Myers coat-of-arms has an ancient 3-masted ship with furled black sails, centered on a silver shield. The family motto "Non dormiat qui custodit" as translated "The guardian does not sleep." In America, the German surname Meier was frequently re-spelled Myer and Myers. "Meier" was a professional title for a steward of a nobleman's estate, comparable to an American ranch foreman.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy and coat-of-arms for FULLER.—Mrs. C. B., Long Beach.

Mrs. C. B.: FULLER was used eight centuries ago in England to identify a man who washed cloth after it was woven, thereby pre-shinking it. This trade resulted in the adoption of Fuller as a surname by one of the artisans. Gilbert Le Fuller was a Hertfordshire resident, with the motto "Semper paratus," meaning "Always ready." Edward Fuller and his wife, as well as Dr. Samuel Fuller, were Mayflower passengers who arrived in Massachusetts in 1620.

DEAR MISS RULE: We wish you would tell about the name ROCKWELL. — R. H., Bellflower; O. S., Anaheim.

R. H., O. S.: ROCKWELL has been in usage in England over 700 years. It is derived from the old French word "roche" meaning "rocky" combined with "well" portraying a hillside spring. Rockwell describes the location of the family's farm home by a rocky spring. The family coat-of-arms has three boar heads on a silver shield. The Rockwells settled in Dorchester, Mass., in 1630, among the earliest New England colonists.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like the analysis of the surname SHEEHAN. — Mrs. E. H., Long Beach.

Mrs. E. H.: The Irish SHEEHAN family are traced back over eight centuries. Their old Gaelic name O'Shiegane is interpreted as "sons of the little, peaceful one." The clan founder was apparently an unusual person among a nation of fierce, warlike clansmen who were seldom at peace with one another. Sheehan descendants lived in Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

DEAR MISS RULE: I should like data on the name TRUEBLOOD.—R. K. T., Lakewood.

R. K. T.: TRUEBLOOD is one of a number of English surnames that were applied to men whom their fellow villagers in ancient ages believed were of excellent character. Similar surnames are Trueman, Truefellow and Truebody. "Trueblood" meant "of good family."

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

Legal Aid serves persons with below average income in need of legal assistance. Nearly 4,000 persons each year literally beat a path to the door of this agency.

Jerry Silverman, attorney for the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation, interviews a young husband seeking legal help. Agency was set up through Long Beach Bar Assn.

With Justice for All

By Renee B. Simon

LEGAL PROBLEMS ARISE for the rich and the poor alike but the poor often cannot afford to do anything about them.

"All men must be equal before the law," said Charles Rhyne, president of the American Bar Assn. "But unless someone stands ready to inform the poor man of his rights and to take his part against a stronger adversary, equality before the law is a myth."

In Long Beach, that someone is Jerry Silverman, attorney for the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation. Young, energetic and a graduate of UCLA Law School, Silverman sees hundreds of people each month who cannot otherwise get legal counsel and cannot afford to pay a private attorney.

Skeptics often scoff at the pretty phrases about equal justice for all regardless of income. And attorneys and judges are often the first to realize that this ideal has not always materialized. However, the Long Beach Bar Assn., 2½ years ago, set about making a reality of this basic principle of their profession. In October 1955, the Legal Aid Foundation, organized as a non-profit corporation, opened its offices in downtown Long Beach.

NOW SKEPTICS BEWARE! Today, Legal Aid serves nearly 4,000 people a year furnishing advice and legal services to the indigent at no cost beyond a $1 registration fee. Let's take a look at how it works.

The elevator ride up to the fourth floor of the Enloe Building at 115 Pine Ave. is slow and unpretentious. A sign at the end of the corridor indicates the way to Room 420, offices of the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation. The modest waiting room and outer office is usually busy with people—quiet people whose faces reflect the worry and problems which have brought them there.

These are average people with below average incomes. What kinds of legal questions do they have? Generally they fall into three categories: domestic relations, financial matters, and a smattering of general law. Partly, because these are the problems that beset the poor, partly because the office is limited in the kinds of cases it can handle.

"About 40 per cent of our cases," Silverman says, "are domestic relations." Take the case of a young woman we can call Mrs. Adams. She was first interviewed by the secretary to get the facts and determine if she was financially eligible for legal aid. A maximum wage scale which varies with the number of dependents is used by most legal aid offices. That used in Long Beach is comparable to the Los Angeles schedule.

MRS. ADAMS STATED on her application that she has an income of less than $45 a week, is divorced, has two small children and was referred to the office by a social worker.

The questioning is tactful and courteous. Although a court had ordered her ex-husband to pay child support for their two children, he had recently left the state and his legal obligations for points unknown. She had applied to a welfare agency for help with what seemed to be a hopeless financial emergency. Mrs. Adams would have been more optimistic had she known that nearly half the cases in the Legal Aid files are domestic problems like her own. How the law could help her will be seen a little later.

Unmet payments, wage attachments and bankruptcies are usually lumped together as financial matters and total another 40 per cent of the cases handled.

The remaining 20 per cent is a mixture of general legal problems. To the Legal Aid office come uninsured drivers involved in auto accidents resulting in bodily injury to another person. Unlike most such cases which are defended by insurance company attorneys, the uninsured must fend for himself and the indigent uninsured turns to Legal Aid. To the Legal Aid office come people served with eviction papers from a variety of landlord-tenant problems. To the Legal Aid office come people being sued for non-compliance with a contract—people who, perhaps foolish, perhaps gullible and unrealistic, have promised to buy something they can neither use nor afford. Yet they signed on the dotted line contracting, as one little old lady did (she was over 70), for a year's supply of samba lessons costing several hundred dollars—more money than she had in the world.

Two bucks borrowed from Pop—on long-term loan basis—gets boat from the man who rents them. (Gosh, how important can a young man ever be?)

Sobs of frustration are manfully restrained while casting off stubborn mooring line that, finally giving way, has entangled young fisherman.

First Fishin' Trip

There comes a boyhood day when there is a definite break in a young man's ways of life . . . childish things are left behind and important things—like going fishing with Pop, for instance—become the essence of the dream that growing up is made of. Yes, that's it! That first fishing trip with dad cuts ties with the past and opens up a whole new future. Now the dream is, "When are we goin' again, Pop? When are we, huh?" Along about the seventh year the big break comes.

Gotta show Pop he can row a boat. (How in heck does a guy keep it going straight 'stead of in circles?)

Here we are at last. Now let's get some bait on the hook and show up Pop by bringing in the first fish!

Yow-ee! A bite! Or did the line just snag on the bottom? In either case, Pop stands by to lend a hand.

Story and Pictures by Eric Wahleen

When day is done, a tired fisherman shrinks back to boy size, doing what seagoing men call "Fore and aft drill, athwart ships." Sleeping, that is.

"I'VE JUST BROKEN a hip. . . . Can you send me a nurse?"

"My wife is home from the hospital with a new baby. Gosh, we need a nurse! Get one over quick, could you?"

"We need a nurse for an industrial plant. We want one that is young and pretty (to give the boys a thrill), but not pretty enough to get married right away."

"I want a nurse, a good, calm, middle-aged motherly type. One that I won't get embarrassed when she gives me a bath."

That's the kind of calls that pour into the office of the Long Beach Nurses' Assn., Inc., District 18, California State Nurses' Assn., Room 311 Kennebec Bldg., 141 W. Ocean Blvd.

THE LOCAL ASSOCIATION, organized in 1921, has maintained a nurses' registry since 1951. It gives service to the public, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. If you need a nurse, and you call the Nurses' Assn. you'll get a nurse—and the chances are very good that she'll be a very good nurse.

"Every job is different. . . . Every nurse is different. We try to match up a nurse to the job," explains Gean Methwig, executive secretary and registrar. A nurse herself, she has held the job since 1954. She is a graduate of St. Mary's in Rochester, Minn., and received her B. S. at Long Beach State College.

REGISTERED AT the office are approximately 600 nurses who may be sent to assignments in Long Beach or nearby towns. Of this number, 3 per cent are male nurses. Most of the 600 nurses are professional registered nurses; one-seventh are practical and licensed vocational nurses.

"We screen all of our nurses," explains Gean Methwig. "We screen them for registration, education, experience. We require personal and professional references in the case of registered nurses. . . . We screen them clear back to their high school days."

Employers do not pay for this service. Professional registered nurses pay through their dues to the association, practical and licensed vocational nurses pay a percentage of their salaries.

If an employer or doctor complains about a nurse, the nurse is counseled.

"If you take care of enough people, somebody somewhere is bound not to like something you do," says Gean philosophically, "but if there is a trend, the nurse is warned to hold her standards."

MOST NURSES registered range from 25 to 40 years of age. One competent professional registered nurse is 72.

"We find lots of times that the older nurses want to do a good job—they want to prove that they still are useful," explains the registrar. "We are pleased when we get a repeat call for an older nurse."

An "older nurse" is considered to be from 62 years up.

A "permanent" nursing job is from 90 days up.

Nurses occasionally are dispatched to foreign countries. They have been sent from the local office, for instance, to England, Holland, France and Germany. And nurses from foreign countries are "shown the ropes" on employment in the United States.

THE PAY SCALE for nurses in the Long Beach area is: Professional registered, $18 for eight hours; starting salary $315 a month for staff duty. Licensed vocational nurses get $13.50 for eight hours, and for hospital duty they get 75 per cent of the salary paid professionals. Practical nurses get $11.75 for eight hours, and for hospital duty they get 8 to 10 per cent below the licensed vocational nurse.

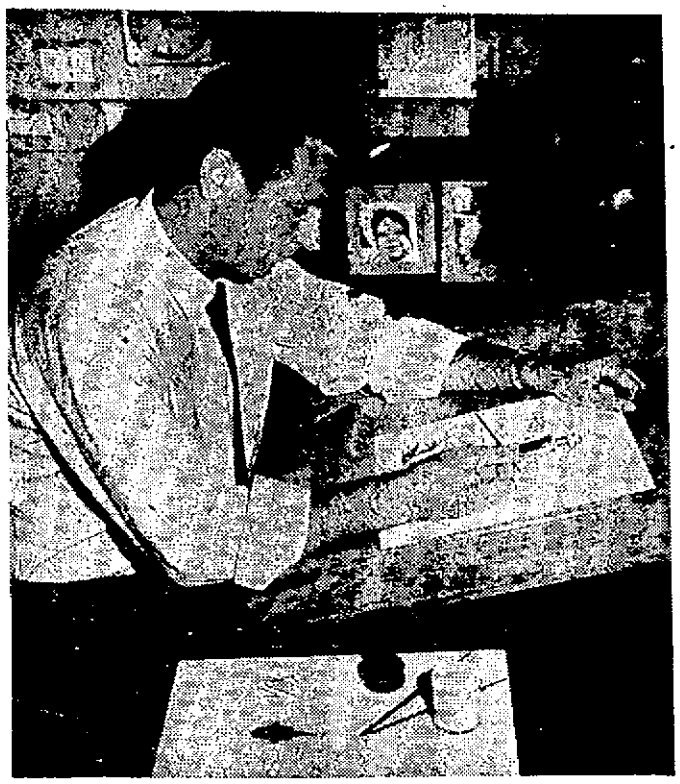

Unless it is specifically understood to the contrary, eight hours means eight consecutive hours.

Male nurses, too, are on the registry list when called for. Norman Leslie, seen administering water to oxygen tent patient, is skilled in the profession.

Some patients want a nurse with long professional experience. Louise Schroeder is one of many to fill bill.

Earl Willis, "Daddy" of the "Leetle Dodger" who often enlivens Independent sports items, is shown at work.

Leetle Bum's 'Daddy'

By John Ronson

MODERN giants of sports cartooning are such great wits and artists as Walt Ditzen, Willard Mullin and Karl Hubenthal.

This select group is now welcoming another to their set—a soft-spoken ex-GI by the name of Earl Willis, who in the short space of eight years has earned the distinction of being one of the brightest sports cartoonists in the country. His work has been a regular and exclusive feature of the sports section of The Independent since 1950 and today his work is brought to the attention of Press-Telegram readers as well on Southland's cover.

The "Leetle Dodger," who took the place of the Little Bum of Brooklyn as a new sports symbol in Southern California when the Brooklyns became the Los Angeles Dodgers, is the brain child of Willis.

WHEN THE BUMS moved West, Willis, like all sports cartoonists, was faced with the problem of developing a new symbol. Mullin's famed "Brooklyn Bum" no longer was suitable.

EARL QUICKLY solved the problem by taking the Little Bum, changing his features to look a little Spanish (to carry out the Southern California background), dressed him up in a baseball outfit, topped him with a big sombrero . . . and thus he has since appeared.

Willis, like Ditzen, was brought into The Independent fold through the interest of Sports Editor Dave Lewis in sports cartoons as a medium of expression. Willis began contributing in the fall of 1950, and his work has given solid backing since to Lewis' judgment in securing his services.

Willis is a native of Southern California and obtained his schooling in Los Angeles, graduating from Dorsey High School there. His major interests have always been art and music. In fact, while attending high school he played the drums in a number of small bands.

He spent two years in the infantry during World War II, serving 18 months in the South Pacific. He received the Purple Heart in the Philippines.

His first real introduction to art came after the war while in occupation duty in Korea.

WHEN HE returned home, he attended the Art Center School in Los Angeles for two years under the GI bill, and during this time he decided to concentrate his efforts on sports cartooning.

But this particular line is one of the toughest in the business to crack. Most newspapers do not carry such specialists.

Earl, naturally, tried the Los Angeles newspapers first. But he ran into blank walls. At that particular time, the uptown papers were cutting down their art departments.

So he decided to free-lance his cartoons and contacted Lewis at The Independent, who was immediately interested.

His first cartoons were devoted to the undefeated Long Beach City College football team that went on to defeat Boise, Idaho, in the Junior Rose Bowl classic.

Since then, Earl's cartoons on all major sports events have appeared regularly and have gained nationwide recognition.

THE ACTUAL drawing of the cartoons is the easiest stage of the operation, according to Willis, one of the finest technicians and craftsman to be found anywhere.

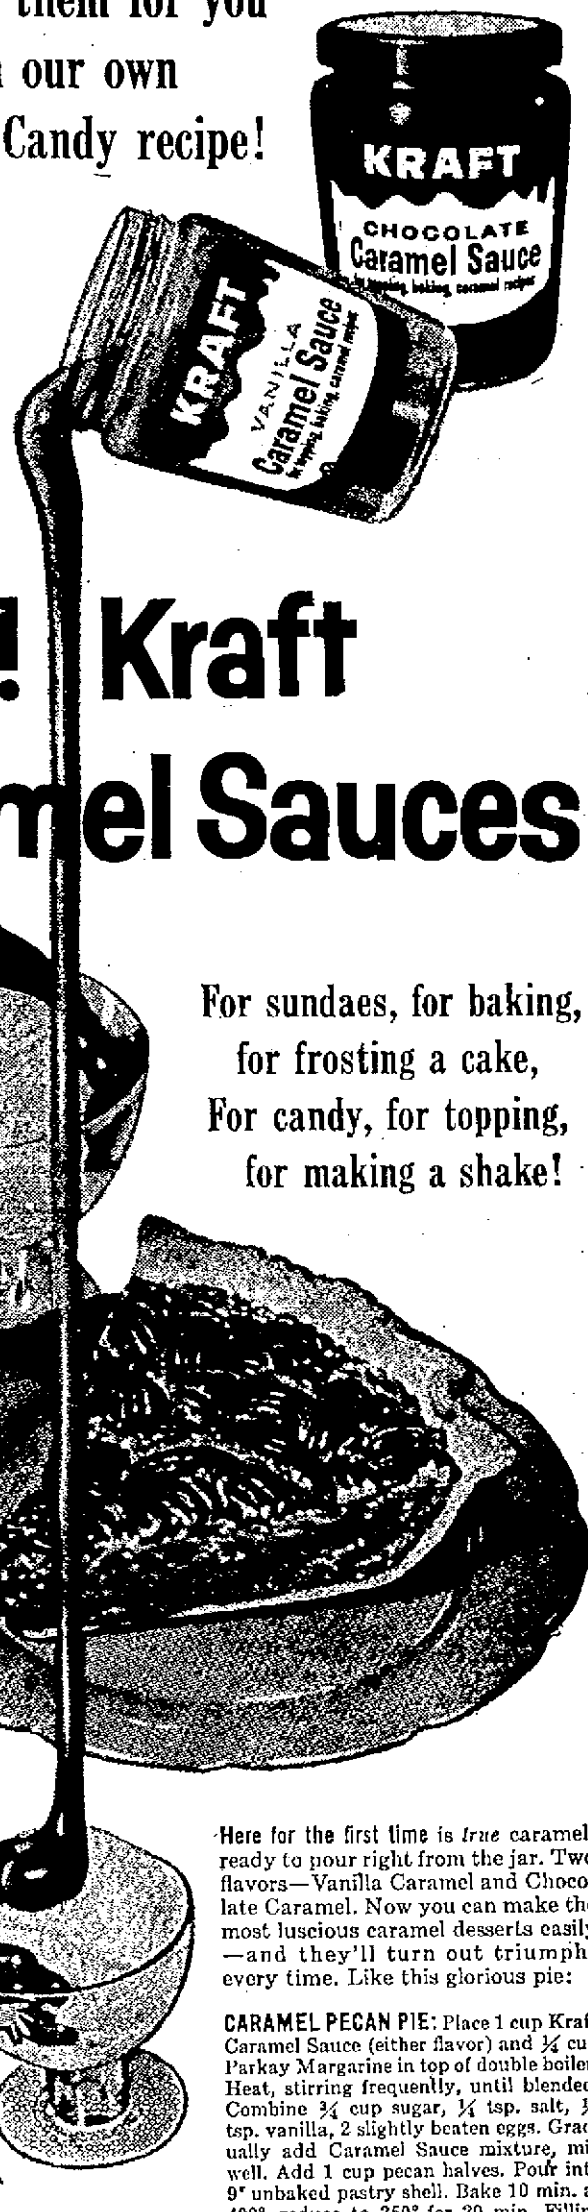

The hard part is the "ideas." There'll be no cartoon at all unless the idea strikes.

In order to reach peak effectiveness, a cartoon must be simple, yet tell the broad story of the subject and inject a humorous note.

BETWEEN HIS cartooning and technical illustrating, Willis still finds time to carry on a normal family life with his wife and two sons, Curtis, 10, and Glenn, 5.

"And that's something for a cartoonist," he adds. "Most of them go around in a world of their own most of the time as they struggle for ideas.

Jayne's a Singing Knitter Now

Howard Benedict

Associated Press Writer

STOP JAYNE Mansfield from cooing about her forthcoming baby long enough and you learn she may no longer play dumb blondes and that she's about to jump into the lucrative business of making records.

The latter is most surprising because the beauteous film star with the ample measurements has never been known as a singer.

"I'm going to start by recording three ballads I sing in my new picture," says Jayne, back in Los Angeles after European trip. "Then I hope to close a deal with a major company to do eight sides a year.

"THE BALLADS are simply wonderful. I'm going to dedicate them all to my new baby."

The 24-year-old actress and her husky husband, Mickey Hargitay, expect their first child about Dec. 5. Although she has a 7-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Jayne seemed as excited as a first time mother-to-be.

"It's a wonderful time in the life of a woman when she's expecting a baby," she says, with an air of discovery.

Blonde Jayne's new picture is as unique as her statistics. Titled "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," the picture is a comedy about an Arizona frontier town that was filmed in London and Spain the last three months.

Jayne Mansfield's knitting these days—looking ahead to having a baby and making debut as recording singer.

"THOSE SPANISH hills where we filmed the outdoor scenes look more like Arizona than Arizona," said Jayne.

Jayne plays Kate, a hard-boiled saloon owner who runs the tough town of Fractured Jaw in the 1880s. "The town doesn't have a sheriff, but the boys generally listen to me," she said.

"It's a complete departure from the dumb blonde, cream puff role I've always played," said Jayne.

ASKED IF that meant she was considering more serious—or ice cream — parts, Jayne said: "Yes, because I know I have the ability. I'm studying several meatier scripts now.

"You know," she said, getting back to her favorite subject, "I was pregnant during the whole filming of the picture and the studio didn't know it. If the studio had known, it might have taken a lot of unnecessary precautions that would have delayed the picture until I never would have fit into those wasp-waisted dresses I had to wear.

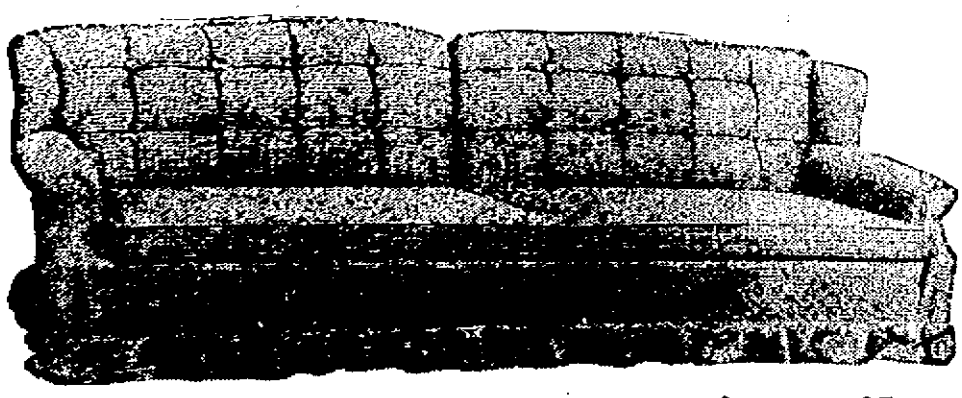

"I even rode horseback in one scene because my stand-in, who is also pregnant, wasn't feeling well. I understood perfectly. Mickey almost died when he heard about it.

"WHEN THE PICTURE opens next Christmas, we're going to take the baby to see it, even if he's only a few days old. Not many people make their picture debut that young."

Jayne shrouds her famous figure in a chemise these days.

"I wear them for obvious reasons," she smiled. "At first I didn't think I would like the sack look, but an incident in Madrid changed my mind. I walked down a street wearing a sack, a big hat and dark glasses. The way the Spanish men—who usually are pretty particular about their women—whistled, you'd think I was in a Bikini."

Pheasant for Dinner

Among pheasant fanciers in Long Beach area is Wm. McDonnell (above).

By Betty DeWeese

NO LONGER is pheasant-under-glass a dish enjoyed only by kings.

To a growing number of Long Beach residents the delicacy is—well, not as common as hamburger, but common enough to rate as a Sunday dish!

Among local pheasant fanciers is William McDonnell, 6518 Orange Ave.

McDonnell started raising Chinese ring-neck pheasants 10 years ago and recently added two adult birds of the larger Mongolian variety to his stock. His present flock numbers two adult cocks, 11 hens, and more than 100 six-week-old chicks.

"ALTHOUGH pheasants are harder to raise than chickens or other poultry," McDonnell said, "it's worth it when the results are on the dinner table."

"Pheasant has a slight game flavor and the meat is whiter, finer textured and firmer than chicken," he said.

McDonnell's favorite recipe for frying pheasant is:

Roll pieces in flour, garlic salt and pepper, dip in milk, roll in flour. Then brown in deep butter, add ½ can mushroom soup, 1 chicken bouillon cube and 1 bay leaf. Cover and simmer for two hours over a slow fire.

During the pheasant mating season from March to July, McDonnell puts one cock with five hens in separate pens. Each hen lays approximately 100 eggs throughout the spring laying season.

THE EGGS ARE picked up each day and should be incubated before two weeks old.

McDonnell has found the best method for starting out young pheasants, due to their susceptibility to pneumonia, is in a brooder or box heated to 98 degrees. He lowers the temperature one degree each day until reaching 70 degrees.

"The biggest problem in raising pheasants is cannibalism," he said.

"A red light in the brooder blinds them to blood spots and frequent clipping of the upper bill with a fingernail file helps to control their picking each other."

McDonnell takes his pheasants from the brooder at six weeks and puts them in a 10x10 pen, tightly fenced in by ½ inch galvanized wire mesh.

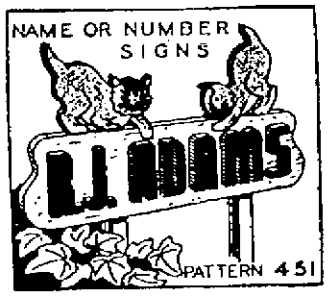

Exercise or walking boards are placed around the edges of the pen at various heights.

"The higher the pen, the better," McDonnell said.

An Apartment Gets a Restyling

Photos by Joe Risinger

Applying decorative skills and carefully selected furniture to the task of revising an older apartment, the Boyd Rileys have wrought a true home.

By Eileen Ball

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Riley bought a multiple-unit apartment building at 1033 Hoffman Ave., they decided to move into the manager's apartment and to make certain improvements to suit their personal tastes and to fit the needs of permanent occupancy.

The building is of an older type and the unit into which they proposed to move, on the second floor, offered less than spacious floor footage and had little to distinguish it except a veranda vantage point overlooking the court below. With no desire to launch into a major remodeling project, the Rileys decided to make do with what was at hand—and what they did is an interesting story.

First of all, the entire apartment was treated to fresh, clear color schemes that visually opened up the rooms and let the light flood in. Ponderous, over-scaled furnishings were passed by in favor of smaller pieces. Each item has a particular elegance all its own and, consequently, each piece goes all-out to prove this pretty point: that, given half a chance, even a frankly old domicile can take on a refreshing new lease on life!

A SMALL PORCH fronting the Rileys' apartment was merely a landing at the top of the stairs—an unattractive deck covered in heavy-duty tar paper. Right here is where the rejuvenation began. The deck was resurfaced with durable, silver-toned material that is more pleasant to walk on and far more pleasing to the eye. An aluminum awning in bright stripes was installed to shelter the porch and lend it a nice feeling of seclusion. An assembly of comfortable and attractive garden furniture was installed, thereby turning the porch into a usable outdoor living area.

Inside, the living room has a small alcove that provides a hint of an entry area. A sea-foam sculptured carpet meets walls of matching green brightened by a chalk white ceiling, creating a cool, restful air. For contrast, and demure as a blush, are soft rose antique satin draperies that cover and camouflage rather stingily proportioned windows with generous cascades of fabric.

AS FOR FURNISHINGS, these follow the dictates of the French provincial style which borrows softly undulating lines from the period of Louis XV—a happy choice, both for its delicate scale and graceful line. Included in the group are lovely tables in cherrywood, occasional chairs and a stunning dining group. Less definitely styled is a sofa upholstered in soft brown damask interwoven with gold to fabricate a subtle floral motif. A channel-back ladies chair is upholstered in rose to match the draperies.

More decidedly provincial in flavor is a chair upholstered in muted plaid tweed, blending cocoa-to-beige tones. Adding spark to the scene are crystal and cranberry appointments used throughout the living room and dining room. One notable exception is seen in a handsome table lamp of Italian hand-decorated ceramic capped with an ivory, bell-shaped, taffeta shade defined with moss green silk ruching.

An interesting feature of the Riley's apartment is the manner in which the unseparated living and dining area has been given a feeling of division by the simple arrangement of furniture. In this instance, the sofa has been placed with its back to the dining area. Against it, on the dining side, stands a cherry French provincial server, a handsomely styled, functional item of furniture that happens to be the same length as the sofa, thereby forming an ideal "unit." Hence, with the sofa facing one way and the server the other, the room quite agreeably takes on a "split" personality."

THE END WALL of the area, in the dining room, has been decorated with a scenic-print paper in tones of moss rose, green and cocoa. The dining set of rich, warm cherrywood adds considerable prestige to the furniture group as a whole. A dropleaf table stands out of the way where it serves as an attractive console between dinner parties. Companion provincial chairs, elegantly crafted, are upholstered with delustered brocade in pale green figured with tiny blossoms in moss rose. A cherrywood break-front displays Mrs. Riley's fine china and cut glass. Throughout the living and dining room are hand-made bisque figures, extraordinarily fragile objects made by the

Figurines of bisque that decorate this table were made by Rileys' daughter.

Placement of a traditional sofa has enabled Rileys to turn large living room into visually separated areas.

Rileys' daughter, Mrs. Mary Hoffer. With a delicacy of workmanship comparable to that of fine European imports, these lovely pieces are not only aesthetic treasures but are of great intrinsic value to the family.

Located off the dining room is a tiny room—an alcove, really —that serves handily as a den. It accommodates a writing desk and file, as well as Mrs. Riley's "African violet tree"—a tall, revolving, three-level metal bracket that holds a dozen or more clay pots of the African violets. It is truly surprising what special charm is given a room with even such a contrived addition of natural greenery.

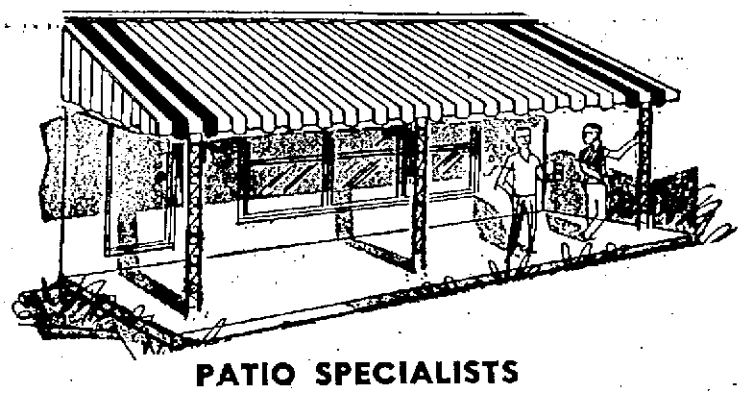

THE KITCHEN has undergone no major face-lifting, save the wondrous changes brought about with paint and paper. Walls are enameled pinkish-mauve, a delicate flush of color that blends perfectly with the dinette wallpaper that has a gourmet motif expressed in tones of coral, turquoise, pink and soft lavender. Carrying out this delicate, parfait color scheme are double-tiered, polished cotton curtains, scalloped and embroidered in white butterflies.

The guest bedroom is as delicately feminine as one might imagine a boudoir might have been to the taste of Marie Antoinette. Antique ivory, French provincial furnishings are pale reflections of the fruitwood pieces used throughout the living room.

TAFFETA WALLPAPER has been flocked in a plush Victorian print, the tone-on-tone effect establishing an excellent background for the furnishings. Nutria carpet blends compatibly. A bedspread of handmade Queen Anne's lace overlays champagne satin. The room's single large window has been given dramatic treatment with shell pink nylon panels diaphanous under dusty rose satin swags trimmed in looped silk fringe in matching rose tone.

Mrs. Riley surveys newly decorated porch-patio which has extended living space of apartment to outdoors.

Arizona's Fighting Pig

By Joe Houston

THE ferocious nature of the javelina is the subject of more wild rumors and adventure stories than any other big game animal in the United States. The fierce way this native pig charges a hunter is often due to his blind blundering rather than belligerence.

Though not actually blind, he is extremely near-sighted and when startled by a gun or sudden sound, he will bolt in the direction he is pointed. Frank J. Hardesty III, who hunted javelina in Arizona last season, said:

"Actually, the javelina is quite docile and will turn and run rather than stay to fight. But if he is cornered, he attacks with surprising speed. The slashing hook of one's sharp tusks ripped open a dog's side from shoulder to hip.

"For a little guy, a javelina can put up quite a fight when cornered, but it is mighty hard to corner him."

That is because the animal's highly developed sense of smell and keen hearing compensate for his notoriously bad sight.

Hunters, therefore, must develop stalking abilities and patience so they can remain absolutely silent for a long time while hidden in likely feeding or rooting areas.

JAVELINA LIVE in desert country but the hunting season is usually in February when temperature conditions are ideal. Arizona javelina range in the central and southeastern portions of the state at elevations up to 6,500 feet.

If hunters can familiarize themselves with the washes and canyons where they plan to hunt, they will have better luck. It also is important to understand the javelina's habits.

The javelina group into packs of from 10 to 50 and set out in search of food. For the first 3 or 4 hours of the day they scatter over a space of 50 yards eating their favorite foods. Of these, the first choice is prickly pear cactus. They munch not only the fruit but also the thick flat pads and roots. Mesquite and century bush are also basic to their diet.

WHILE FEEDING, individual members of the herd will often stop to stand perfectly still and sniff the breeze. They are testing the wind for unfamiliar sounds or smells which would warn them of danger. Jaguars are their special menace. To warn the pack, the observing javelina utters a series of short, loud grunts.

Immediately all set out on a dead run followed by a trot which takes them swiftly away.

The herd more often than not will return to the same place when the animals think it is safe unless it is getting hot and is time for their siesta.

They sleep through the heat of the day. As the day begins to cool, they move out again to feed.

Javelina are pronounced hava-lena from the local Mexican name given these collared peccaries along the Rio Grande. The "collared" designation is due to the whitish band around the neck and shoulders.

The basic color is gray though

1557 RIVER STREET. A home-made sign, on a fresh cardboard, tacked on the shack like a quarantine sign. Or a warning.

I stopped in the shade of the big eucalyptus in front of the house and pulled off my hat, wiped my forehead; wiped the damp band inside, then fanned my face with it. I wished that I was somewhere else — anywhere else — on the shores of a lake, preferably, or an assignment up at Arrowhead, maybe.

But instead of that I had to find Tony the Mug—try to locate his hideout, if possible. And no clue whatever, except that it was somewhere in Geery, California.

Well, it could be this house as well as any of a hundred sordid small buildings on the outskirts of this hot little town. Why not? 1557—on a new cardboard. Not too neat, but squarely placed. Could be. . .

I WALKED AROUND the house slowly, looking it over. The blinds were down. There were car tracks leading to the rear of the shack. But the door was open. . . .

I stood still and listened, watched, too, of course, but didn't know what I was watching for. Listened for the swift staccato of Italian words, maybe; the click of a lock at my approach; the purr of a car too good for this district. Watched for the slight movement of a window blind; for recent changes, a new patch on a leaky roof, maybe, a reinforced door.

Suddenly I disliked the little town of Geery, sprawling along the roaring highway in the sun. I didn't like River Street, either, sloping away to its sad little dried-up creek, overgrown with weeds.

At a sudden harsh blare of sound, my nerves tightened. It was the mill whistle, probably. Noon. Just 12 o'clock.

IN THE ACT of checking my watch I was alerted by a scream—a woman's high, full-throated scream of terror. There was a crash, then the sound of running feet inside the shack. Then the door of 1557 framed the figure of a man. A young man, big, with a shock of blond hair in his eyes. He was clothed only in undershirt and slacks. And even in that first moment my eyes were riveted to the horrifying splotch of red that widened on the whiteness of his T-shirt.

He staggered, came on with distorted face, turned half around. His knees buckled, and he fell full length almost at my feet. His head bent weakly. He clutched at his side. Then, writhing, he came up on one elbow — gasped; drew a long shuddering breath.

An then came the most surprising sound I'd ever heard in my life — an astonishing sound, uncanny. A long-drawn, convulsive peal of laughter!

AT THE SAME INSTANT I became conscious of another person in the doorway. A woman's figure. Tall and strong and straight, her eyelids drawn tight to fighting slits, her fists pushed hard onto slender hips. And the dish towel apron around her waist was splotched with red!

She stamped her foot, advanced a step, glaring at the fallen man.

"Jack Scott, if I'd got my hands on you, just one minute sooner, I'd have murdered you! What's the big idea, anyway: Sneaking up and grabbing me. And I thought—I thought you were—" She choked, caught her breath.

"What are you doing here this time o' day, anyhow? You said you wouldn't be back till six. Special job up at Pearson's. Bosh!" She fairly shook in her rage.

HE LAY ON THE GROUND, holding his side, writhing again. Groaned, gasped. Her eyes widened. Her expression changed. Quickly she was at his side.

"Honey! Are you hurt? Did you? Are you - - -?" Now she was on her knees beside him, kissing him, smoothing back his hair. "Shall I get the doctor?"

He relaxed a little, controlled himself.

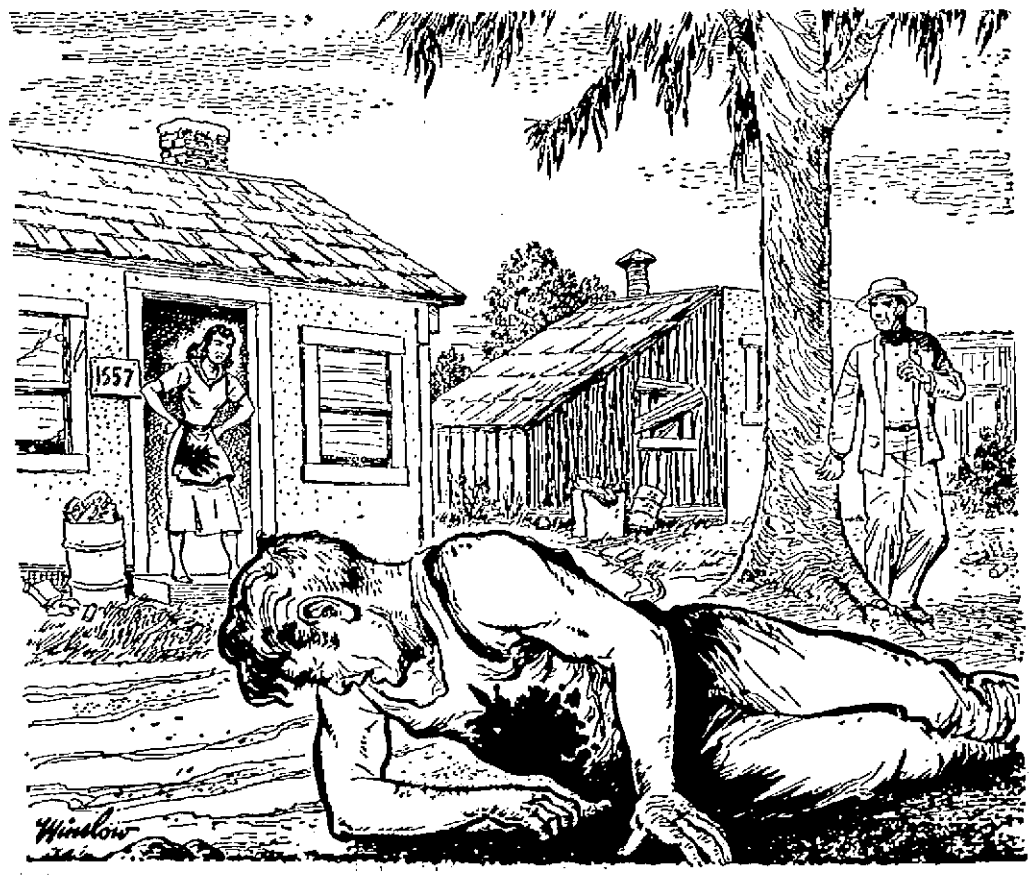

"No, No—I'm all right," he gasped. Just an awful—awful pain in my side . . ."

She got up, grabbed him under the arms, began to hoist. Weakly, with her help, he struggled to his feet.

"Jack Scott, you get in that house. And help me clean up that awful mess. It's all over the place . . ."

WELL, I TOOK a long breath. My arm remained extended, where I raised it to check the time. The watch still stared up at me, its hands now pointing to exactly two minutes

She stamped her foot, advanced a step, glaring at the fallen man.

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

Basketry's an Art

Surrounded by examples of her artistry and craftsmanship, Mrs. Helen Geiger works on a pine-needle basket.

By Fanny M. Leasure

NOT EVEN total deafness, suffered in infancy as a result of scarlet fever, has prevented friendly, 83-year-old Mrs. Helena Geiger of 3310 Vista St. from setting a challenging pace in originality for other hobbyists. Meanwhile through her pine needle basketry she is capturing a breath of forest fragrance for the seaside homes of friends, neighbors and relatives — recipients of gifts resulting from her creative activities.

It was under the direction of the Long Beach Recreation Dept. that she learned to value the long leaves of the Torrey pine. "They can be picked up right here in Bixby Park," Mrs. Geiger says. "They are pliable and adaptable when moistened. Then, too, I make rapid progress with them, because the Torrey needles are not only long but coarse as well. This builds bulk for faster workmanship."

HER ONLY tool is a needle which she threads with the grass-like raffia available at nurseries. This fiberous material she uses in its natural beige tone or dyed a magenta red or brown.

In preparing her materials she removes the sheath from the base of the moistened needles keeping the bundles-of-five intact for speedier weaving.

A center (usually circular or oval) of quarter-inch plywood often forms the starting point and the bottom of her basket. Holes are made by a one-eighth-inch drill one-half inch from the edge and a like distance apart.

Fastening a single strand of raffia in one of these openings, she feeds in a few needles. By adding more gradually the needle-rope soon reaches the desired size and becomes continuous to the basket's finish.

THE TERM basketry seems a misnomer on seeing the articles created by Mrs. Geiger—a decorative table top, an attractive suitcase, and a bassinet to name a few. The bassinet, inspired by the arrival of a grandson, was so durable that it gave service to seven neighborhood babies in all before it began to show signs of wear.

To those who contend that a hobby helps to preserve youth and vigor, Mrs. Geiger gives point to their argument.

BOOK REVIEWS

The King Who Lived

DO YOU remember from your school days the tales about Theseus? The thread that guided him through the Cretan labyrinth of King Minos? The dreadful Minotaur and the lovelorn Ariadne? The white sail that should have been hoisted to tell his anguished father he had survived the ordeal?

That legendary hero is brought warmly to life for you in Mary Renault's fine novel "THE KING MUST DIE" (Pantheon, $4.50), with Theseus himself the narrator from his childhood until he returns past fateful Sounion promontory to become rightful king of Athens.

The boy hears of the ancient tradition from his grandfather, ruler of Troizen citadel. He has grown fond of the proud and untamed King Horse, seen the sacrifice, and heard it explained that it is a king's fate to die an early death, that the longer the life the less the glory. With this harsh lesson, he reaches for manhood, learns to ride, to wrestle and fight, to meet an enemy on the battlefield, to brave the fierce bull, to love the maidens at court. And at last he learns, too, something of his birth: To appease an angry god, his mother had been given in a sacred grove to the first comer, Aigeus, the hitherto childless king of Athens who had swum up out of the sea like Poseidon himself.

So the boy speeds off to announce himself to his father on the towering Attic rock. On the way he overthrows the matriarchy of Eleusis, and for a time he delights in the company of the beautiful queen whose master he vanquished in fair combat. In Athens he outwits Medea and then at last commits himself fearlessly to the lot of his friends packed off to the lair of the ravenous Minotaur.

The gaunt foundation stones of Knossos, the law-making ruler of Athens, the Eleusinian matriarchy—these are some of the materials known to history. So facts have been combined with this novelist's fine free fancy. Miss Renault tells no child's story, but here, out of the dim dark past is conjured up the lusty, romantic, youthful hero Theseus for all to admire.

Christopher Hibbert

London came near being leveled by riots in the 1780s, and the man behind the violence was Lord George Gordon, an eccentric. A sharply-drawn account of the riots and the man behind them is told by Christopher Hibbert, English historian, in "KING MOB" (World, $4.95). A strange book, but good reading all the way.

"THE TIME OF THE DRAGONS" by Alice Ekert-Rotholz (Viking, $4.95): The author of this lengthy novel seems more concerned with the workings of the Far Eastern mind and Far Eastern traditions than with the telling of a story. However, the story is clearly defined and the characters delineated distinctly despite the hard way she does it. She goes out of her way to talk about the many customs, religions and points of view of that part of the Orient she knows. All of these she takes pains to contrast with those of Europe and America. It also is something of a historical novel, although the story deals with modern people and events. The time runs from the 1920s to the 1950s. Main characters are members of a Norwegian famlly whose father's consular positions have made them more familiar with Southeast Asia than with Norway. Most of the action is in Bangkok and Shanghai before, during and after World War II. But the setting also includes Trondheim, Paris, Tokyo — and a town in New Hampshire. The story includes adventure, horrors, intrigue, counter-intrigue and counter-counter-intrigue—and a generous sprinkling of romance. It is to be read not only for "the story" but for the appraisals of the Asiatic mind as opposed to the Western way of looking at life—and death. Because of this it is of real value in the striving and hope of civilized peoples everywhere for common grounds for understanding and peace. This book, translated from the German language, is a Literary Guild selection.

"THE APRIL ROBIN MURDERS" by Craig Rice and Ed McBain (Random House, $3.50): If you're a Craig Rice fan you know Bingo and Handsome, partners in street photography who shuttle in and out of some mighty strange mystery and adventure. Now they're back to get into more hilarious, if not ridiculous, situations—not the least of which is murder — after making a down payment on an old mansion that was the home of April Robin, a big star whose light went out when talkies came in. Craig Rice had the book two-thirds finished when she died and it was completed by McBain. Who's he? Hey, you, Bingo and Handsome, you found out a lot about Miss April Robin. What about Ed McBain?

"HIDDEN POWER FOR HUMAN PROBLEMS," by Frederick Bailes (Prentice-Hall, $4.95): Have you ever said "I can't go through with it!" or "This is more than I can bear?" If you have, Dr. Bailes, who frequently has lectured in Long Beach and counts many friends and followers here, wrote this book for you. He thinks if you expect the best you will get it; if you expect the worst, you'll meet delay, frustration, obstruction. Competition, he believes, becomes an opportunity of accomplishment when the thought of hostility gives way to the thought of the world as a friendly place. He believes that parent thoughts of illness, lack, bad treatment bring about those results. He gives definite techniques for developing what he calls Creative Force and putting it in motion.

"A NOVEL, A NOVELLA AND FOUR STORIES" by Andrew Lytle (McDowell, Obolensky, $4.95): Mr. Lytle demonstrated last year that he could write a powerful story with his best-selling "The Velvet Horn." He writes with no less authority in this collection which is representative of the wide range of a fine talent. The novel, "A Name for Evil," is a ghost story; the novella, "Alchemy," and one story deal with Spanish adventurers who followed Columbus to the New World; and the other three stories are set in the South, of which the author is a native. In addition, Mr. Lytle has an introduction on the craftsmanship of fiction writing.

Barbecued Turkey: Buffet Delight

Turkey gets a continuing play on Southland tables as a barbecue specialty, either in halves or in quarters.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

TURKEY is more than a holiday specialty in modern times and, with the summer beckoning to fun in the out-of-doors, turkey is on many a barbecue menu in the Long Beach area. The respected bird also can be fitted to dining on any scale, with quarters to suit the small party and eliminate the leftovers for days afterwards.

Make your next buffet dinner a turkey barbecue party and plan this type of gathering often during the warm summertime. California turkey is widely available and plentiful with many markets featuring the turkey quarters at very reasonable prices. The new quarter style of merchandising turkeys is gaining popularity. Quarters are particularly suitable for smaller gatherings.

Cook the turkey over glowing coals using a zippy barbecue sauce prepared California style with a delicious soy sauce, plus orange juice, wine vinegar, peanut oil, onion, assorted seasonings and salt.

TO THE MENU add zucchini cooked over coals in aluminum foil, an assorted platter of pineapple, cubed jellied cranberry sauce, sliced cantaloupe, bananas and oranges. Serve with a cranberry nut sour cream dressing. Complete the menu with Roquefort cheese bread, and for dessert, burnt sugar layer cake and coffee.

Thaw California turkey quarters and sprinkle body cavities with salt and pepper. Skewer wing to breast or tie leg to tail, depending upon whether fore or hind quarter is used. Place on grill six to eight inches from glowing coals. Turn occasionally, and baste frequently with California basting sauce. Turkey is done if meat is tender when pierced with a fork or no red appears when small portion of meat is cut close to the bone. Total cooking time is 1½ to 2 hours. If meat thermometer is used, insert at last turning and continue barbecuing until thermometer reaches 185 degrees. (Note: Additional briquets may be needed to maintain proper heat for cooking.).

California Basting Sauce

½ cup peanut oil
⅓ cup wine vinegar
⅔ cup fresh or frozen orange juice
2 tblsp. soy sauce
½ cup catsup
1 small onion, minced
Dash Tabasco sauce
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. chili sauce
1 tsp. oregano

Combine all ingredients in pint size jar. Cover and chill several hours. Shake sauce well before using.

Assorted Fruit Platter

Choose a ripe pineapple and remove top. Cut around the sides almost to the bottom; cut center in quarters and remove meat, leaving sides of pineapple intact. Fill hollowed out pineapple with cranberry nut sour cream dressing. Remove core from pineapple meat and slice into long strips. Arrange around filled pineapple on serving tray with cubed jellied cranberry sauce, and sliced cantaloupe, bananas and oranges. Garnish with whole strawberries.

Cranberry Nut Sour Cream Dressing

1 large carton commercially soured cream (2 cups)
½ cup orange juice
½ cup whole cranberry sauce
¼ cup powdered sugar
½ cup chopped walnuts

Combine all ingredients and chill before using.

Roquefort Cheese Bread

1 loaf French bread
½ cup soft butter or margarine
⅛ tblsp. finely grated onion

Slice bread diagonally in 1½ inch pieces, leaving one side hinged. Combine butter or margarine with Roquefort and onion. Spread on bread and wrap in single thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Put bread on grill and barbecue, turning often, about 20 minutes, or until thoroughly heated.

Foil Barbecued Zucchini Squash

Cut zucchini squash into ¼ inch round slices. Place enough for an individual serving on a double thickness of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Add seasonings such as salt and pepper to taste, butter or margarine and any additional vegetable desired such as a hint of chopped green onion, fresh tomato or diced celery. Wrap in foil square securely and heat over coals on grill for 20-25 minutes, turning once.

Corned Beef and Panned Cabbage

6 to 8 slices cooked brisket of corned beef
2 tblsp. butter or margarine
1 small head cabbage, shredded
¼ cup water
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Melt butter in skillet. Add cabbage, water, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over low heat 5 minutes. Arrange slices of corned beef over top of cabbage. Cover and continue cooking until meat is hot and cabbage cooked, 5 to 10 minutes. Serve immediately.

SERVE WITH: Tomato Juice, Browned Potatoes, Cornbread, Mustard Sauce, Pear and Grated Cheese, Baked Peaches.

Mourning doves once were numerous in the Southland. Now, to photograph two, the author had to go to zoo.

The Case of the Vanishing Doves

By Tamara Andreeva

RELENTLESS harassment has finished up the passenger pigeon as a species. The Great Auk was hunted out.

The fashion for a tall beaver topper sent brigades of cutthroats and "mountain men" after the beaver plews. They hunted the beaver until nature's little engineer was nearly out of the picture. The species was saved by a felicitous stroke of the presidential pen which put the beaver and his work under governmental protection.

The Whooping Crane was pursued by trophy hunters until its numbers were reduced to an all-time low of 28. The barn door was closed after the cranes were almost extinct. Conservationists are now hovering over the pitiful little flock remaining, treating them as if they were made of gold.

SO-CALLED SPORTSMEN have done their bit to deplete the population of the prairie chicken, woodcock, woodland caribou, key deer and tule elk. Ranks of all of these are dwindling, while the arms companies are supplying hunters with more and more powerful rifles, equipped for killing with greater deadliness.

The outlook for many species is dark, but it is the darkest for the California mourning dove, a beautiful small bird, for centuries associated with the symbol of peace . . . dark on almost the eve of another season of shooting which starts Sept. 1.

Warmongers took care of the olive branch. Now the dove is about to be blasted out of the American skies by none other than the nation's own sportsmen . . . Twenty million doves were bagged LEGALLY in the U.S. by licensed hunters last year. The study now under way by the Committee for Dove Protection in California uncovered that this number is not covering all of the doves killed. Fifty per cent were maimed, but unretrieved; thus an estimated 10 million more were destroyed. Add 20 per cent more — the young left in the nests to die of starvation.

CRITICS POINT OUT that while shooting doves—which is about as difficult as hitting a barn door—is not truly sporting, the shooters also kill them during nesting season, for the Mourning dove nests almost the year around. Its young cannot fend for themselves for longer periods of time than the young of other birds. They have to be fed special "dove milk," half digested food the dove disgorges from her own crop. Without this care the young die.

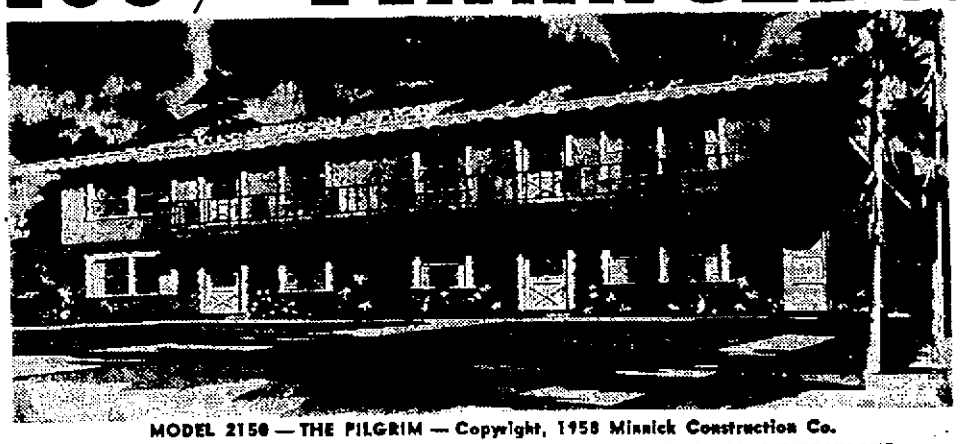

The Committee for Dove Protection, a militant body of farmers, scientists, conservationists, and common sense laymen, claims that unless the slaughter is stopped, the dove as a species is doomed. In addition to legalized killing, the dove, possibly through continued harassment, is now also prey to some mysterious disease which is destroying it in large numbers.

The committee points out that by allowing the killing of doves the farmer is cutting off his own nose. Doves have been designed by nature for weed control and farmers lose from the depletion of these birds. Audubon once found 9,200 various noxious seeds in one dove's stomach. Yet, in Los Angeles County alone, an estimated 50,000 armed boys and men bang away at these birds, using them as live targets.

MILTON D. THOMPSON, assistant museum director of the Illinois State Museum, says that actually the dove cannot be considered a game bird, for it lacks essential characteristics of this classification—rapid reproduction and young which can readily shift for themselves. Realizing that the dove is on its way out, 17 realistic states have banned dove killing. Canada has the dove under protection. But California still permits dove hunting.

Law violations, damage to property, endangering lives of humans and livestock, danger of extinction of doves and increased cost of farm weed control are some of the adverse factors related to dove hunting cited by authorities.

Claudia Dehring of NBC plays with dining table and chairs, child size, developed from pattern.

Here's a Table for Playtime

By Steve Ellingson

OUR neighborhood philosopher says, "by the time the children are 7, their parents will have done at least half of all that can ever be done to determine their chidren's future enterprise."

All little girls dream of the day when they will be grown up and have a husband. And lucky is the man who marries a girl that learned to be a homemaker as well as a wife. That is one of the purposes of the little dining table and chair set pictured here with NBC's child entertainer, Claudia Dehring. It helps to inspire little girls to take a lifelong interest in cooking and other homemaking activities. And, of course, they do have lots of fun with their tea parties.

ANY FATHER (or mother, for that matter) can build this set by using a full-size pattern. All that's necessary is to trace the pattern on wood, then saw out the parts and finally put them together. Simple tools are all that's needed. The cost is slight and the project can easily be completed in a couple of evenings.

To obtain the full-size child's table and chairs pattern No. 103 send 50 cents in coin to Steve Ellington, Long Beach Independent, Press - Telegram, 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuy, Calif.

Short Story

after, twelve.

The man was speaking again. "Gee, Sugar—you sure did tickle me! I'm almost dead, I laughed so hard. Boy, oh boy! What a stitch in my side. Believe it or not, I almost passed out." He put his hand on her shoulder. "Don't be sore, Sugar. All I did was play mad dog. Just growled a little. Unexpected like."

"Well, listen, Big Boy—if you must be funny—if you can't act your age, have to show off worse than my little brother . . ."

STILL LISTENING, unseen under the old eucalyptus, I put on my hat, gave it a jerk. Started to leave. Disgusted. But hey—what about that blood-Maybe they were only pretending not to have seen me. Putting on an act. Then, distinctly, I heard the girl say, "Well, next time you try to scare me, Big Boy, pl-ease wait till I've got nothing in my hands. Just supposin' I'd thrown the baby, as I did that jar of beets?"

Suddenly they were in each other's arms, laughing together. I watched them a moment, then started down the road again to try for Tony the Mug's hideout . . . It certainly wasn't 1557 River Street.

Outstanding L. B. Area Private Schools

BELMONT SHORE School and Day Nursery, 30 Termino Ave. and COUNTRY LANE Pre-School, 4161 Green St., Los Alamitos are proud of the variety of interest they offer children in the greater Long Beach area.

Mrs. Ruth Baker, director of Belmont Shore School and Day Nursery, and Mr. and Mrs. Darold Baker, directors of the newly opened Country Lane Pre-School, remember in 1946 when they opened the Belmont Shore School with only one pupil. At the time it was the smallest facility of its kind in the area. They now have the largest enrollment in the city. Locations both on the beach front and in rolling countryside provide a healthy atmosphere for youngsters. All areas of Long Beach, including Belmont Shore, Rossmore, Lakewood and Seal Beach, are within the areas serviced by these two schools.

The schools are for children aged 2 through 8 years and are housed in beautiful modern buildings. Transportation and hot, nourishing meals are provided. They are open 6 days a week.

Horseback riding and hayrides have been added to the schools' recreational programs.

HOBBY HORSE NURSERY, 1710 Redondo Ave., in operation 7 years, has built up a full program for children aged 2 through 6 years. The nursery features Spanish lessons, dancing, music appreciation and many other activities pleasing to youngsters.

The modern building, which has been completely redecorated, was designed especially for a nursery and the large, well equipped playgrounds have all the facilities to keep children happily occupied. Half-day sessions are now available. The large, experienced staff is headed by Mrs. Ina Cunningham, director. Mrs. Cunningham is particularly proud of the delicious nutritious hot meals served to the youngsters. Various educational field trips throughout Long Beach are scheduled for private kindergarten pupils. Reservations should be made now for the kindergarten class which starts Sept. 15 by calling GE 4-2015.

PROGRESS SCHOOL, 647 Locust Ave., enters its 25th year with the opening of school Sept. 15. A complete academic course is offered for normal and superior mentalities, from primary grades through high school. A testing program is maintained whereby the individual's needs are analyzed and special instruction given to build a balanced personality. Emphasis is placed on instruction in the basic skills and development of good study habits. Classes in typing begin with the sixth grade and a basic commercial course is available in the high school. A speech program is offered beginning with primary grades, with special speech correction work given when needed. A special reading program is maintained, emphasizing vocabulary development, comprehension and speed in reading.

FOR ONCE in their lives, 140 boys and girls will return to school with a gleeful rush. They are the elementary school pupils enrolled at COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL and they are looking forward to the use of the school's new 40-foot open air pool when the new term begins September 8. They will have many hours of swimming but the new pool was really constructed for teaching something of value while making learning a pleasant experience. Classes in swimming and water safety will become a regular part of the physical education program during the warmer months of the term.

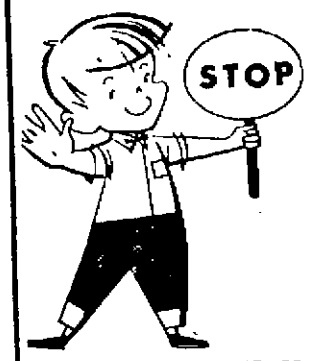

Three new classrooms have been completed for the new pupils from Long Beach, Santa Ana and Garden Grove who will now benefit by attending school in a rural setting where the neighboring farmer and his crops as well as the care of the school's farm animals will be part of busy days with the highly regarded Three Rs.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MILITARY ACADEMY has long had the motto: "Character Before Career." While entirely non-sectarian, this academy is pledged to develop wholesome Christian Americanism. Weekly chapel services and sympathetic counseling of the individual cadet by the academy chaplain make a valuable contribution in each cadet's training. On Sunday mornings each resident cadet is taken to the church of his faith.

The academy's education program, covering pre-school through grade 9, stresses fundamentals in small classes. Rapid and accurate reading which is considered a necessary tool for learning all subjects is

PLAYMATE DAY SCHOOL, 2650 Pacific Ave., is now starting its seventh year under the direction of Mrs. Elbe Harris and Maurine Smith, enrolling children for kindergarten, first and second grades. Mrs. Harris stresses there is a limited number of vacancies for the fall term which starts September 15. The directors are particularly proud of the two modern buildings that were built expressly for the purpose of conducting school and caring for youngsters of nursery age. There are three large playgrounds for supervised play. Several outside buildings permit the children to busy themselves with activities in the fresh air. Both morning and afternoon classes are held with or without extended day care.

TOWN AND COUNTRY SCHOOL, 4829 Long Beach Blvd., stresses individualized attention for its 2½ to 8-year-old pupils, with experienced teachers conducting small classes. According to Mrs. Edith Drollinger, owner-director, accredited teachers instruct the pre-school and kindergarten children in singing, dancing, arts and crafts, number concepts, social studies, and reading readiness. Well-balanced meals at noon, followed by a rest period, also help keep the youngsters happy. Play time is supervised. Town-and-Country School is open from 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

MORRIS MANOR SCHOOL was established about 22 years ago at 1130 Locust Ave., the same convenient location in use today. Parents have found the combination of good care, fine schooling under excellent teachers at moderate rates, and trained supervision until called for or delivered to their homes, is a service essential to the welfare of children ranging from kindergarten age through seventh grade. Ethel Morris, the founder, invites inspection of the school, and says a brochure will be mailed on request.

CAROUSEL PRE-SCHOOL, 366 Cherry Ave., was purchased April 28, 1958, by C. E. Robison. Mrs. Emma Pepping, who has been with the school approximately six years was appointed director.

As director, Mrs. Pepping praises the efforts of the highly qualified teachers with whom she has been associated for many years. The school is for children in the 2 to 6 age group, and is now accepting enrollment for kindergarten class which begins Sept. 15. A large, supervised playground with a special "2-year-old yard" enables the children to play with others of their own age. Hot, nutritious meals are served daily. Special emphasis is on music and group singing. The school is open Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGE OF COMMERCE offers to selected secondary school and college graduates a sound program of business training and higher accounting, including background courses in secretarial training and business administration under the supervision of a California state certified faculty. With enlarged facilities and staff, the secretarial department will offer courses in stenotype, speedwriting, and Gregg shorthand, in executive secretarial and secretarial service, and specialized refresher courses for the short-term student. Jack Flanders, director and dean of the accounting department, announces many new courses in higher accounting, business administration, and CPA coaching. He announces the beginning of a new term for the career-minded young person who wishes to take executive training to qualify for the business office, in the near future.

Opening date for evening classes will be Sept. 8 with classes in session each Monday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. All business subjects are available. Full day classes begin Sept. 22.

California College of Commerce is located at 851 Pine Ave.

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL for Boys and Girls, 1416 East Ocean Blvd., is now enrolling children for upper and lower kindergarten, first and second grades. Directors and owners, Mrs. Florance Lewis and Miss Eloise Wallace, are particularly proud of the large turf playground, which includes hand-made custom play equipment designed on an animal motif and is completely fenced for the children's safety.

The school is the oldest private school in Long Beach, founded approximately 27 years ago. All teachers are accredited and hold degrees in education. Balanced diet meals are served daily. School hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Transportation is available. A summer camp program also is offered.

Justice for All

WHAT CAN BE DONE for the 300 people each month who come here for help? Although he spends an average of two days a week in court, Silverman finds that a large percentage of the cases can be handled by phone calls, letters, mediation and an abundance of advice. However, as in the case of Mrs. Adams, the ways of the law are intricate but efficient. Her husband was located in an eastern city. Through a reciprocity system, the district attorney there ordered him to appear in court where it was proved that he was deficient in his support payments in California. The eastern court then had the authority to enforce the California ruling that he make equitable monthly allotments for his children. Daily co-operation with legal officers in other states is just one of the many techniques at Silverman's disposal.

In the cases of debts and wage attachments, often the mediation of an attorney will work out a solution of gradual repayment equitable to both parties. At other times, problems can be resolved in one office conference where Silverman makes use of the lawyer's best known resources — time and advice.

HOWEVER, HE IS quick to add that these services, though free, are not charity. "In a complicated judicial system such as ours," he explains, "there really can be no equal access to law and justice without the services of a qualified lawyer." If only the financially able could retain attorneys, something would be obviously wrong with our concept of justice.

According to a Legal Aid pamphlet, "this service will not be furnished to any applicant who simply does not want to pay—it is only for those who cannot pay." For that reason and because of limited personnel, certain cases are automatically excluded. Matters, therefore, involving the recovery of money or property, criminal cases and divorce (except in certain emergency situations) are referred, upon the client's request, to a revolving list of private attorneys through the Lawyers' Reference and Criminal Reference Services or to such public offices as the City Prosecutor or Public Defender.

THE LONG BEACH Legal Aid Foundation is entirely lawyer-supported. However, it has been extremely fortunate in getting invaluable assistance from various service organizations. Volunteers from the Junior League and the Community Volunteer Organization come in regularly to assist with interviewing applicants, while the Lawyers' Wives have taken the responsibility of furnishing the offices.

Free legal service to those in need goes deeper than the mere sense of obligation of the Bar. Justice Brennan of the U. S. Supreme Court recently said, "The very foundation upon which a democracy is founded and without which it must inevitably fail is that equal justice shall be available to all citizens."

Throughout the country, lawyers are supporting legal aid offices because they know that justice is indeed a right—not a privilege.

FULLER'S SPECTACULAR NEW HOUSE PAINT

ADDS AT LEAST 2 EXTRA YEARS OF PAINT BEAUTY TO YOUR HOME

Revolutionary new kind of paint for wood! Gives your home a fresh new-painted look for 2 years longer than the finest paint you've ever used! Holds its colors, keeps its gloss for years! Spreads faster, easier than the best of them! Dries hours sooner! And costs no more than ordinary house paint!

THERE'S NEVER BEEN A PAINT LIKE IT BEFORE . . .

The original formula was developed in 1951.

Fuller chemists, through know-how and continuous research, found that by combining certain new "miracle" materials, they could produce an exterior paint so resistant to wear, so amazingly superior in every way that it made even the finest house paint seem old-fashioned by comparison.

Two of America's largest chemical laboratories tested and confirmed these findings.

FULLER WANTED TO BE SURE

Out into the field went Fuller's men. Homes all over the West were painted with this astonishing new kind of paint. As the number of these test-painted homes grew . . . and today there are hundreds of them . . . Fuller's chemists watched, tested, compared.

RESULTS WERE PHENOMENAL

Fuller House Paint met every rigorous test of weather and wear . . . it outperformed the finest house paints.

Today, because of this tremendous 7-year field experience, Fuller can offer you this revolutionary new house paint, without qualification, as THE FINEST HOUSE PAINT YOU CAN BUY.

If you're going to paint . . . get 2 extra years of beauty for your home . . . at no extra cost! Get new Fuller House Paint!

This native American swine, the javelina, is noted for his poor vision and occasional belligerence.

the bristles are marked by rings of gray, straw-color and black. The peccaries are the only native swine in America and are especially prevalent in Mexico.

After the kill, the musk sac has to be removed at once in the field lest it taint the meat.

The game department considers any centerfire rifle legal for shooting in Arizona but suggests small bore guns as they don't tear up the meat so much. Bows and arrows also are used. One section of the Tucson Mountain Game Management Unit is restricted to archers. The only license needed is the javelina license and seal.

NOT SURFACE WATER THAT RUNS OFF AS FAST AS YOU APPLY IT BUT DEEP DOWN WATER AT THE ROOT SYSTEM

Terr-O-Vite will correct this fast BECAUSE:

The exclusive ingredients in Terr-O-Vite makes WATER WETTER for maximum penetration deep down to the vital root area.

This deep penetration in all types of soils not only eliminates surface run-off of the vital life-giving water but it carries the fast acting plant nutrients and the magic working Chelates (Kee-lates) down to the area where they can become immediately available to the deepest roots. The combination of plant nutrients plus the available life giving water should immediately check all premature leaf-drop and restore your weakened trees to their full vigor. Tips on Cymbidiums

By Joe Littlefield

CYMBIDIUMS grow and bloom just about as easily as do camellias, provided they are fed periodically during their active growing season, watered regularly, their foliage is bathed frequently, and the plants get lots of light. They seem to like the filtered sunlight of a lath house, or the light and shade of tree.

Ask a half dozen cymbidium specialists what fertilizer to feed the plants, and you'll possibly get four different answers. The consensus seems to be, to feed them a fish base fertilizer for about the first half of the feeding season. Last half of the feeding program is to use a complete balanced liquid fertilizer that contains more phosphorus.

Feeding season starts about the time they're through blooming. Then they begin their vegetative active growth. Last feeding takes place in late summer.

POTTED CYMBIDIUMS may be sunk in the ground during hottest part of the summer. Last inch of plant pot top should be above the soil level, so dirt doesn't wash into the pot. An inch of pea size gravel in bottom of hole discourages soil worms from burrowing into the plant root zone area through the hole in bottom of the pot, possibly clogging up the drainage hole. Soil is firmed around the pot, as if the plant were set out in the ground. Watch for snails, and particularly slugs. Snail and slug powder scattered frequently and lightly over the soil surface around the plants prevents possible damage from this source.

Cymbidiums need porous soil, frequent watering and periodic fertilizing.

Now is the time to pull up your old sweet peas, if you haven't already done so, and begin preparing your soil for the new ones.

Preparation of the soil is highly important, and doing so about three weeks before planting is advisable.

Due to the fact that many sweet pea plants succumb to pests and disease before they have a chance to get started, one of the most important things you can do to safeguard their early health is to disinfect the soil in which you are going to plant them with a combination of copper and ether (dichlorethyl ether) . . . a material widely used as a soil disinfectant.

New Queen Among Camellias

All-America Camellia Sections winner for 1959, a pink beauty, takes its place among the greats of the garden.

By Ralph M. Dasher

"SWEETHEART," the All-America Camellia Selections Winner for 1959, is a lovely pink, formal double C. japonica, beautiful in form and coloring and as attractive as its very appropriate name.

The All-America title, the most important honor which can be attained by a camellia, is awarded by All-America Camellia Selections, Inc., an independent organization of America's leading hybridizers and nurserymen.

Sweetheart was placed under test in 1953 in competition with other important new varieties and, during its three-year trial period, was scored upon many different qualities considered essential in a camellia worthy of AACS honors.

A HANDSOME shrub, bushy and compact in habit, Sweetheart has foliage of thick texture, dark green and profuse, which makes the plant attractive even when not in bloom. Buds are produced quite evenly throughout the plant and, as plants age, are borne very generously. Young plants seldom are overloaded, but blossoms are of such quality that each is a treasure.

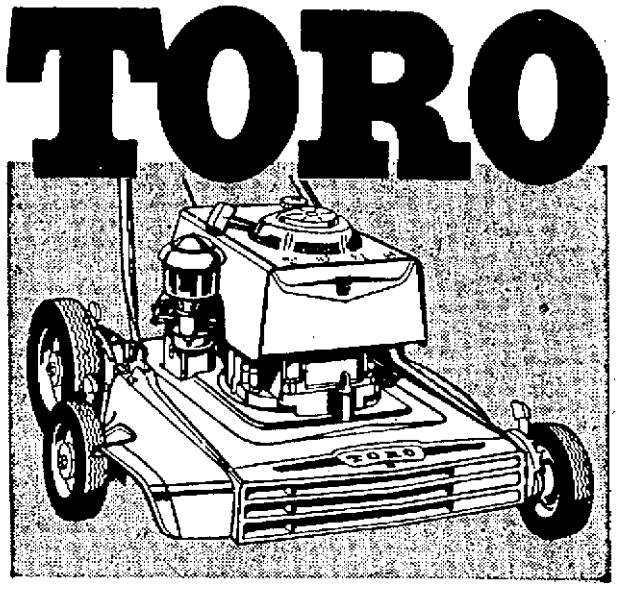

The flower form of this All-America winner is best described as full formal double, tight bud centered until complete maturity, when a cluster of short, golden tipped stamens may appear. Occasionally, there may be a semi-double flower with fluted petals, which displays the attractive golden stamens. Flower size averages about 3½ inches, but has been known to attain 4½ inches, particularly along the West Coast.

Coloring of Sweetheart is unique and to term it pink is to do the flower an injustice. Shadings are more of an apricot pink, as observed at times in tuberous-rooted begonias, a color rarely found in camellias. Such coloring constitutes a shade difficult to reproduce, either by the printer's or photographer's art, but it possesses the advantage of avoiding the bluish cast which other pinks often show under artificial light. Sweetheart remains a clear and pure pink, even under fluorescent lighting. Veining may be a deeper pink on occasion and, infrequently, a bloom may be softly marbled with white, an attractive variant.

SUBSTANCE is excellent, making Sweetheart excellent corsage material, and florists who have worked with the blossoms find it a most rewarding subject. Cut flowers last exceptionally well.

During testing, plants survived temperatures of 15 degrees above zero in Atlanta without apparent injury, and the variety appears equally adapted to outdoor and greenhouse culture. It is adapted also to container culture, remaining compact, well-foliaged, producing quantities of flowers. In Southern California, where the variety has been observed since 1943, the year of discovery, blossoms will appear as early as Thanksgiving and will continue to appear as late as the middle of March, an exceptionally long period for bloom.

Deep in the green forests of Oregon is Red Higgins' Wallowa Horse Ranch, a spot which the Nick Pastor family (above) of Los Angeles terms "ideal."

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

'Lucky' Dude Ranch

By Al Krieg

NICK PASTOR, a Southern California businessman, reined up his horse on the crest of Backbone Ridge and said, "I sure was lucky to find this place."

He was talking about Red's Wallowa Horse Ranch, a cluster of neat log cabins lying in a narrow grassy valley near La Grange, Ore. The ranch, surrounded by tall pines and low-growing ferns, vine maple and huckleberry, had been the vacation home for his family for the previous three weeks.

Before Pastor remarked about his good fortune he had been thinking about the dozen foot-long rainbow trout in his creel, the four jack salmon he had caught on previous afternoons in the Big Minam River just a mile from the ranch, and his daughters Lisa, 5, and Michele, 11, who had been introduced to horses this trip and now rode like Indians.

HE WAS ALSO thinking about the remoteness of the ranch which can only be reached

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We have a two-day stopover in Shannon. Can we see much by renting a car?"

BETTER, there's a two-day excursion tour out of Shannon now. Less expensive and less bother. You can get information on this by writing Shannon Free Airport, Ireland.

* * * *

"What about Guatemala for a two-week vacation?"

I think it is pretty good if you get out of Guatemala City. That's a rather uninteresting town. Nothing much to do. Mediocre hotels and restaurants.

The country though is great. There are a couple of good tour agencies there — I use Hayter Travel Service.

If you want to stay in one place for awhile, Antigua is the place. This is the old capital. But wonderfully built up for the tourist trade.

"Do you think it is all right for three girls to hitchhike through Europe? We do not have too much money. . . ."

NO. Save just a little more money and ride second-class trains and buses. Stay in youth hostels for $1.50 a night.

Hitchhiking is very uncertain. Mainly because there are not as many cars in Europe. The cars are smaller than ours. And you'll be lucky to catch cars that can add three more passengers to the load.

If you hitchhike, you can't be certain where you'll end up at night. And that means you may be forced to take more expensive hotels instead of the youth hostels.

* * * *

"What was the Japanese barbecued chicken you wrote about and where can you get it?"

It is called yakitori. Served in bite-size chunks on a bamboo skewer. And I have never seen it in the States. Too bad because it is great.

* * * *

"We are going to Hong Kong and want to buy some of those handmade lace tablecloths. Can you suggest a store?"

THERE is a store run as an outlet for refugee work, a half block from the Peninsula Hotel toward the ferry. Same side of the street.

They may have them. But most of the lace work you want comes from interior China and will NOT pass U.S. Customs. Any work like this must have a clearance slip from the U.S. Consulate—a Certificate of Origin, they call it.

That is, it must show the work was not done inside China. Be sure you get it or they'll take the stuff away from you in Honolulu. A paper from the store may be offered to you. But this is not enough — even though the store may tell you it is.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

on horseback or by flying in with Oregon bush pilots, and of how his wife, Evelyn, was enjoying her vacation "roughing it" in a new log cabin, all fitted out with a fireplace, a modern bathroom, maid service and the pleasant murmur of the river just outside the front door.

Red's ranch represents quite a change from most dude ranch operations. It is out-of-the-way and will remain so because it is surrounded by a national forest the law says is and must remain a primitive wilderness area. That's why the fishing is so good — salmon, rainbow and steelhead trout in the Big and Little Minam Rivers, golden trout in Swamp Lake, eastern brook trout in Chavel Lake, and rainbows in Diamond, Tombstone and Steamboat lakes. Even with a liberal 30 fish-a-day limit, those under 12 inches are reserved strictly for streamside fish-fries, a picnic experience guests never forget.

In the fall the emphasis is more on hunting. First with the blue and ruffled grouse season in September, then deer in October and elk in November. Some of the largest deer and elk herds in the Northwest hang around these mountains—which helps account for the record of 100 per cent hunter success on deer and about 85 per cent on elk.

THE OWNER and operator of the ranch is Red Higgins, an unforgettable character whose personality continues to add to the charm of the place.

Red says the ranch was first established in about 1860 by horse thieves who used it as a base for stealing horses in Washington and selling them in California and vice versa.

In 1894, a doctor built a hunting lodge here which has been enlarged and is used today as the main lodge and dining room. In 1900, the first legal deed was issued on the 190-acre spread and a second log building was put up four years later by a logging company. The wranglers bunk there now.

Red says Chief Joseph, leader of the Nez Perce Indians, used the valley as summer hunting grounds and spent much time there when he carried on his pesky four-year resistance against the U. S. Army.

RED SAYS he likes his regular guest operation, but his real pleasure comes from the boys' and girls' camps operated in conjunction with the main ranch. Here he takes city youngsters, teaches them the fundamentals of horsemanship, fishing, tracking and camp cooking, then puts them with cowboy guides to explore this wilderness area and become intimately acquainted with the outdoors.

One thing all guests find themselves saying is the prefatory phrase, "Red says." You may try to hold off, but you won't see the first sunset at this ranch without finding it a regular part of your conversation, because Red Higgins is the authority on the horses, the fishing, the history and the lore of this area, and the best friend of every guest on the ranch, horse thieves excepted.

Break for Golfers

Golfers who fly to Scotland via Scandinavian Airlines System can leave their clubs behind and avoid excess baggage costs. SAS will arrange for a set of clubs for their use at many of Scotland's celebrated links—or golfers can purchase a set of famous "Master Makers" from the pro at St. Andrews. This is only one of hundreds of useful tips for the overseas traveler in "Shopping Your Way Through Great Britain and Ireland," a new guide prepared by Sally Ann Simpson, SAS' shopping expert. The booklet is available at all SAS offices.

CAMERA ANGLES

Wives Click Shutters

Warmth and appeal of a prize-winner is found in this box camera snapshot, taken by wife of a news photog.

By The Shutterbug

WHAT DO you need to be a photographer?

Some folks would say, a gadget bag of fancy lenses, light meters, flashguns, exposure meters and other equipment that totals up to several hundred dollars investment.

Not necessarily, declares one group of individuals who should know—the wives of some of the leading news photographers in the nation.

To the delight of 80 members of the National Press Photographers Assn., their wives have snapped pictures that stand out as good photography.

THEY DID THIS in a novel experiment.

Before the recent national convention of the Press Photographers in Minneapolis, 80 photographers and their wives were guests of Minnesota resorts for a week. The occasion: a picture-taking salute to the Minnesota State Centennial.

Naturally, the men brought along the expensive cameras that are tools of their trade. Each of the women on this pictorial holiday was provided with a Brownie Starflash camera outfit.

Candid shots, scenic landscapes, indoor flash pictures and snaps that had the human interest their husband's editors would welcome showed up when the wives' photographs were judged by a panel of leading newsmen. In all, these judges looked at 7,000 pictures made by men and women.

Here are 10 quick tips for better snapshots:

1. Hold the camera steady. Most box camera shutters are set for about 1/50th second. That's fast enough to freeze some action on the part of the subject . . . unless the photographer jiggles the camera.

2. Squeeze the shutter release gently. Jabbing jars the camera and causes fuzzy pictures.

3. Shoot when there is enough sunlight to cast shadows. Mid-morning or afternoon sun is kinder to the people in pictures than the straight down sun that can cause harsh shadows over facial features at high noon. Let the sunlight come from over your shoulder and a little to one side.

4. Shoot from as close as you can without cutting off any important part of the picture. Some simple cameras can be used as close as 3½ feet. Five feet is minimum for many others.

5. Snap from a viewpoint which lets your camera catch the meaning of what's going on in a situation.

6. Keep backgrounds simple. Good backgrounds for pictures of people are these: sky, trees, grass, sand or a wall.

7. People in snapshots should be doing things. Catch them busy and unaware or ask them to pose as if they were in action.

8. Speaking of action, the best method for snapping moving people is to have them come right toward the camera.

9. When shooting landscapes, have a foreground object lead into or frame the picture. If the picture is primarily a scenic and you have a person in it, have him look at the scene instead of the camera.

10. To do justice to a sky full of puffy clouds, your camera needs a cloud filter. Black-and-white snapshots pack more punch this way.

PET PARADE

Tale of the Shy Dog

By Eleanor Avery Price

BECAUSE dogs, like people, vary in disposition just as they do in size, coloring and other features, the subject of a dog's temperament is difficult to discuss.

Most people prefer the friendly, bold puppy that comes eagerly forward to be petted and cuddled, and those who attend the dog exhibitions admire the showy canines that are not afraid of crowds, confusion, the show ring, and examining judges.

In spite of puppy testing laboratories, the complete answer as to whether a puppy's unsoundness lies with its owner or with its inheritance is not known, although it is generally assumed that temperament is mostly hereditary but that the potential of the puppy is strongly affected by the environment in which the pet finds itself over a period of time.

EVERY PUPPY should be given a chance to belong to society. It should live with the family, come into the home, see and hear television, look into mirrors, be taken into stores, into traffic, ride in the car, visit strange homes and meet strange people.

If it becomes a one-man dog, be proud of this fact or keep looking until you obtain a gregarious pet. Be kind, get to know the dog, play with him, feed him by hand, groom and tend him, talk to him, forgive his imperfections as you would be forgiven by your fellow men.

If, however, the dog seems afraid of any member of the family, or if it runs for cover when it hears noises or strangers approach, it should be given a "try" in a new environment if a suitable home can be found. In some instances, after being safely settled in another home, the shy dog has changed almost miraculously.

THIS DOES not necessarily reflect badly on the original owner. The first owner usually is the one who housebreaks the pet, corrects it when it chews at the furniture, and all attendant restrictions. A new owner might not have to do more than love and care for the dog. There is no tension between this master and the dog, so it becomes a contented, happy and useful part of the household, even to the point of eventually accepting noises and the presence of strangers.

If the dog does not adjust in any home, there is one more alternative. Providing there is money enough to pay for professional help, the dog can be put in the hands of a reputable trainer.

Adoration for little Christine Latimar shines through the eyes of Suzie, a happy, emotionally sound boxer.

EVERYTHING FAILING, the dog should be considered permanently harmed or irrevocably weak and it would be better off if quietly and humanely put to sleep. A miserably unbalanced dog is completely unreliable even to the point where it might attack its owner, or, worse yet, a child.

HOW TO Get New Look for Garden Structures

1. PAINT THE FENCE: Scrub off loose, powdery flakes with a wire brush before you start, so the paint will stick better. Remove rain-splashed dirt and dust with a whisk broom or dry paint brush. For renewal painting, thin the paint only enough to get smooth brushing qualities.

2. LOOK FOR LOOSE nails, weak joints. When ordinary nails are used on garden structures, they often work loose. If heads pop out, pull the nails and replace with rust-resistant nails. Tighten up bolts and lag screws in benches and gates at the same time.

3. STRENGTHEN POSTS. Trellises, arbors, and screens last no longer than their posts. If a post is weak at the soil line, reinforce it with an angle-iron brace. A 36-inch section is about right. Drive flush with the post, using another section to simplify hammering.

4. USE TWO ANGLE irons at opposite corners if the post is very weak and must support a heavy structure. Fasten with three or four heavy screws, staggered to give maximum bracing. Paint the angle irons to match the posts, and the repair will be inconspicuous.

A New Wrinkle in Men's Shirts

By Walter Finch

CARE AND folding of men's shirts often causes bickering between husbands and wives. Husbands naturally view with alarm any scorched, wrinkled or spotty starched condition of their shirts after ironing. Many a wife has sprinkled her spouse's shirts with tears while vainly trying to iron them perfectly and fold them precisely the way it's done at the laundry.

At this point, the wife could answer, "The laundry doesn't iron shirts the way I do. If I had the equipment they have I'd do shirts perfectly every time, too." But she doesn't say this because she probably has never visited a modern laundry to see the six different machines upon which each shirt is fitted in turn, to be pressed or baked dry and smooth before folding and packaging. It is most unlikely that she has seen the newest wrinkle in automatic shirt folding machines because there are only two on the West Coast.

THIS FOLDING machine operates by a new method. Its flying steel arms move rapidly to tuck under the sleeves and tail while it folds the spread-out shirt into a compact size upon a stainless steel projection. Then an attendant slips over it a polyethylene plastic bag to keep it fresh until used.

The new-style fold leaves a shirt collar at its natural angle, as worn, and folds under the lower section of the shirt, not across the pocket but below it, in a less conspicuous place. The resulting packaged shirt can actually be stepped on by a heavy man without being marred at all. The automatic table which does all this in a few seconds is called "Prosperity" by the manufacturer and the cost runs into four figures.

The new method of ironing shirts is done by two operators working six machines. The folding table is only one. First, a worker shakes out a washed wet shirt and then puts the sleeves over two adjustable frames, cuffs up. The frames are then tightened to fit the sleeves which are smoothed over it quickly by hand. A button is pressed and the shirt sleeves are guided into a cabinet of this first machine which releases them automatically when thoroughly dried and pressed by metal sleeve irons inside. The cuffs are next on a mangle press, padded and curved for correct fit. The device is electrically gauged and controlled to raise the hot iron when the cuffs are just right and not scorched. Cuffs are not turned up.

Machine No. 3 is a collar press, shaped like a collar and able to iron inside and out without wrinkles or buckles. Like the other ironing devices, it has a safety starting-control feature which requires two starting lever on either side to be pressed simultaneously.

The yoke, difficult to do by hand, is ironed on the next device which is molded to fit the contour of a man's shoulders. Like the cuff and collar machines, it is padded with sponge material which is covered with doube-faced nylon.

THE FINAL OPERATION finishes the body of the shirt. Placed over steel springs, shaped to body form, it is stretched to proper tension for smooth, unwrinkled results.

BOAT TALK

Speedboat Showdown

By Bob Ruskauff

"I'LL GUARANTEE," said driver Bob Martin "that you'll see the closest racing you're likely ever to witness in Long Beach Marine Stadium."

Martin is one of 152 members of the United Speedboat Assn., which today plays host to final race action of the Western Divisional Stock Outboard Speedboat Championships.

On hand from 10 western states are more than 225 drivers in the prime racing fleets of stock outboards, both hydroplanes and runabouts.

For those emerging champs in some 10 classes, it will mean they're in free, a week hence, when 1958 National Championships are held at Miami, Fla.

ALL 225 WON'T battle today. They were to separate the men from the boys in elimination heats Saturday. Only the top 12 boats in each fleet (the maximum number APBA safety rules allow on the course) will see action, starting at noon.

By the numbers, stock outboards rate 3-to-2 over all other divisions in the huge roster of the American Power Boat Assn. —including the unlimited, racing outboard and limited inboard hydroplane-runabout classes. In all, more than 3,800 drivers race stock throughout the nation.

Youngest of the speedboat breed, stock outboards are strictly post-War II racing babies. They jumped by numbers from the beginning, but only in the past three years has an important ingredient (spectator-wise at least) been added. The item is speed.

THIS IS IN SOME part due to advanced hull designs, but mostly because of tremendous strides made by the manufacturers of stock engines—all engaged in a mighty struggle for supremacy. To win it, the kingpin must come up with two items: Performance and horsepower. With both, speed is an important item. The proving ground is stock racing. The willing guinea pigs are the drivers.

Some of today's boats will be able to hit 75 miles an hour before they skid into those dangerous, single-buoy turns of Marine Stadium. Speeds are 15-25 miles faster than they were three years ago.

Bronco-busting outfits and sell-for-leather drivers will be needed. Action is close-knit—which is why Martin was doubtless right.

BOAT HOOKS: Star boat sailors, 30 strong, Monday sail the first of five world championship races off San Diego; Newport Harbor Yacht Club's traditional "Race Week" ends this afternoon; fall-summer series sailing continues at Alamitos Bay.

CHARLIE COLE
They're Large

FOR YEARS the cuisine at Hoefly's, 4911 E. 2nd St., Belmont Shore, has enjoyed a reputation which has attracted the patronage of local civic leaders, top businessmen and quite often a movie or TV celebrity from Hollywood.

It's no coincidence that during all these years the head chef at Hoefly's has been Charlie Cole.

Charlie, who was hired by owner Irving Solomon 'way back in 1946, is known in the trade as a chef's chef. Or an expert's expert.

He has an extra sense which tells him how long a steak should be left on the charcoal broiler so it comes out perfectly seared outside and the exact shade of pink inside. He also has a remarkable talent for preparing prime rib fit for a sultan's taste. A 16-ounce cut of prime rib (eastern quality, of course) is $3.75 at Hoefly's and worth every penny. The price includes an elegant tossed salad with choice of dressing, a quality baked potato with cheese sauce and chives or melted butter, and choice of beverage.

CHARLIE'S STEAKS run large. The handsome 16-ounce fillets, New Yorks and top sirloins are priced from $3.95 to $4.50. For persons whose appetites are smaller, he prepares an eight-ounce top sirloin for $2.75. The steaks are accompanied by the same side dishes as the prime rib.

In the complete dinner department, Hoefly's offers such entrees as charcoal-broiled northern whale halibut steak, $2.50, swordfish steak, $2.50, and charcoal-broiled chicken (a two-pound portion) for $2.75. These items are accompanied by soup du jour, tossed salad, potato, choice of beverage and dessert.

The restaurant, which features piano entertainment nightly by stylist Keith Carver, serves from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, dinners to 1 a.m. Sunday dinners are from 3 to 11 p.m.

A young boy's heart-to-heart talk with the President

CURLED UP for a film scene, Sophia came to U. S.—land of her benefactor—to make That Kind of Woman.

I'll always remember . . .

To me, he was 'Giorgio'

by SOPHIA LOREN

During World War II, the Nazis bombed us out of our home in the little town of Pozzuoli, Italy. My mother, sister and I went to live with relatives in Naples. Seven of us shared one tiny room. I was 8 years old.

We had almost nothing to eat. A half pound of bread, divided among all of us, seemed like a feast—when we could get it. I was ragged, skinny and sick with malnutrition. One day I went hunting for food in the streets. I had no luck.

On the way back, I wandered into a shoe-repair shop. There sat a tall, handsome soldier having his shoes shined. I had heard someone say that the American G.I.'s had just come to town.

He must have known I was hungry. Although I didn't understand his language, I realized that he wanted to know my name. I told him, and asked him his. "George," he said, repeating it in Italian—"Giorgio." From a knapsack he pulled a package of G.I. food. I thanked him and ran all the way home.

That day we had a feast—concentrated coffee and other G.I. rations. After that I saw George quite often. I remember him best seated at a piano in a room where the G.I.'s gathered. He wore glasses and played boogie-woogie.

Once he took me to the medical station at his camp where the American doctors fixed a wound on my chin. It had been hurt during the bombing. And always, George gave me food to take home.

During those lean months, he helped keep me and my family alive. He was my first contact with America. Then one day I didn't see him any more. George had gone to fight the war somewhere else.

Now I am in his country to make a motion picture. I find myself staring at faces in the street in the hope of meeting him. I don't know his last name or what state he came from. Probably I shall never see him again. And yet, maybe he will read this and know that all these years later, I still thank him from the bottom of my heart. 18

On Parade

On today's cover you see a scoop in the making. The scoop: an unprecedented heart-to-heart talk with President Eisenhower. The scoop-maker: Glen Bayless, Jr., of Arlington, Va., all of 11 years old.

At the request of PARADE, Glen was allowed into the White House to peep behind doors marked "Private," to talk to the President's top aides, like economic adviser Gabriel Hauge (below), and finally—as a surprise—to chat with the President himself.

While Ike took time to answer Glen's questions, photographer Larry Fried documented the meeting with candid pictures.

Our Glen was a news-getter. Escorted by PARADE's Fred Blumenthal, he learned Ike's favorite popular song, discussed the nation's economy with expert Hauge and learned from Ike's own lips what he considers the hardest part of his job. For Glen's scoop, turn to page 8.

What's your opinion of the Salk anti-polio vaccine?

Some 3,500 Americans were recently asked this question. Their answers, reported today by PARADE's Robert P. Goldman, revealed some startling misconceptions. As a result, some 40 million Americans are risking death or paralysis — needlessly. To find out if you are, see page 24.

Wesson Oil

takes the smoke out of frying!

SOLID SHORTENINGS SMOKE BECAUSE they contain an emulsifier. This additive is good for baking, but smokes at frying heat. Shortening that smokes is breaking down, and that can hardly be good for you.

WESSON OIL DOES NOT SMOKE BECAUSE it is vegetable oil in its purest form—nothing added. So clear and delicate, you never taste it. No other oil as fresh, as pure and as light—or more highly rated for good nutrition.

New idea—
Wesson Schnitzel Skillet

Dip veal steaks into beaten egg and then into bread crumbs—remember the salt and pepper. Chill slightly—it helps hold on the crumbs. Brown meat very slowly in Wesson Oil. Remove veal to warm platter and top each serving with a sunny-side-up, Wesson fried egg. Garnish with lemon wedges and perky sprigs of parsley.

Smoke's out! Flavor's in!

Enjoy cleaner frying with no clinging odor

Brighter flavor in foods—no greasy film even after they've cooled

Thrifty, too—you can use Wesson again and again

For good nutrition—Wesson is America's most readily available source of pure vegetable oil—unsaturated and unhydrogenated.

CURAD®—the bandage that won't pull the scab off

New CURAD® with non-sticking Telfa® pad won't hurt when you take it off...won't reopen healing wounds

Not this!

Bandage with ordinary gauze pad sometimes pulls off scab, reopens wound, causes bleeding.

Now this!

CURAD Bandage with Telfa pad, free of scab, peels off without sticking to wound, doesn't hurt.

CURAD bandages for small wounds.

TELFA sterile pads for larger wounds.

Here's why: The pad in the Curad adhesive bandage is the exclusive new Telfa.

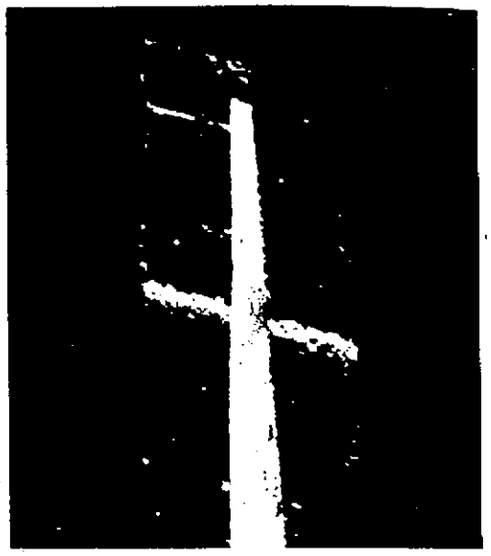

Telfa is "the mercy dressing" that the nation's leading hospitals are using to prevent damage to healing skin tissue . . . speed wound recovery.

It has a plastic surface with scores of tiny holes in it that does the trick—allows wound to drain, but doesn't stick to the scab. So when you take it off, it won't reopen the cut.

Don't take a chance on hurting your children. Get a new Curad (the waterproof plastic bandage with germ-fighting medication right in the pad, too).

Now you see it. Now you don't. Under the floodlights at night, the steeple of the new South Miami Lutheran Church appears to have a cross. But comes daylight and the cross vanishes.

The phenomenon is caused by an unplanned flaw in the poured concrete which manifested itself only after the church was completed and lit. ■

How to keep your head —in 12 languages

WHEN NINE U. S. AIR FORCE men were shot down over Soviet Armenia last June, one of them was almost lynched by farmers because he couldn't tell them who he was.

"Americano! Americano!" shouted Major Bennie Shupe. But the farmers prepared a noose. Only after he screamed the names of a half dozen U. S. cities, did his captors stop the hanging party and realize that the airman was an American.

If Major Shupe had known the eight Russian words printed below, he might have been spared an anxious hour and several kicks and bruises.

As Charles F. Berlitz, vice-president of the Berlitz Schools of Languages, who helped PARADE prepare this glossary of self-help phrases, points out, "It's not enough to know the word for something in a foreign language. You also must put the stress on the right syllables."

By learning this chart, you will be able to communicate — in an emergency — with over one billion people, or about half the world's entire population. These languages, plus English, are called world languages, which means that each is spoken by at least 50 million persons.

This phonetic system, developed for the Berlitz self-instruction books, uses letters instead of marks. Pronounce italicized letters as you would in English, and put the stress on capitalized syllables. For languages with different alphabets, only phonetics are given. ■

Eleven-year-old Glen Bayless, Jr., makes an unprecedented tour behind the scenes at the White House and is thrilled by...

A heart-to-heart talk with the President

by FRED BLUMENTHAL
Parade Washington correspondent

Today PARADE is proud to present a unique story. It is a simple story, but one as rich in humanity as it is in importance. It is the story of the biggest day in a boy's life—the day that Glen Bayless, Jr., 11-year-old seventh-grader of Arlington, Va., scooped the world by securing a candid and moving statement from President Dwight D. Eisenhower (see opposite page).

Not only was Glen accorded 15 minutes of the President's precious time, but drew from him—with a single, direct boyish question—a revealing glimpse of Eisenhower the Man, which any of the world's great reporters would be proud to call his own. What the President told young Glen is more than news. It is history. For the President opened his heart and for the first time revealed his innermost thoughts about the burdens that rest upon him. Here is the story of Glen's memorable day.

"SURE," said White House press chief James Hagerty, "the younger generation should know how the White House works."

So began the great adventure of Glen Bayless, Jr.

This is the season when thousands of American boys and girls come to see their capital and gain inspiration from its beauty and history. Because PARADE wanted its readers to share in a dream of youth, the editors requested and received Jim Hagerty's permission to accompany young Glen on a tour of the White House. Not just the tourist trip of the White House, but a peep behind those doors marked "Private," where the work is done, and a meeting with some of the men and women who are shaping the country's destiny.

Hagerty cautioned that a meeting with the President would be a million-to-one chance. But unknown to PARADE and Glen, luck and the President himself were on his side. Glen not only met the President but got from him a rare assessment of his daily problems and personal philosophy.

Glen was chosen by PARADE to visit the White House because he is a typical, alert, intelligent, inquisitive American boy. Sturdy, crew-cut, a student at Fairlington School, Arlington, Va., he also is a left-handed first baseman and a pitcher in Arlington's Little Major League. He comes from a typical, comfortable middle-class home. He has a pretty sister, Cindy, two years older, who can be critic or confidante as occasion demands. But most important of all, Glen is at the age when youth's dreams are brightest.

Glen's big day actually began the previous evening. As his mother and Cindy were busy pressing and polishing, inspecting shirts and selecting a tie, Glen paid a special visit to the barber and then came home to study up on White House lore. He learned that:

• The White House, whose cornerstone was laid on October 13, 1792, stands on 18 acres of ground, was originally called the President's Palace, has been called the President's House and is officially known as the Executive Mansion. President Theodore Roosevelt first labeled it "The White House."

Washington Never Slept Here

• The White House was designed by Irish-born architect James Hoban in a competition that won him a $500 prize, and is supposedly based on the Duke of Leinster's house in Dublin.

• Although George Washington selected the site, he never lived in the house. The first President to do so was John Adams, who took up residence in November 1800.

• The White House really should be called the President Eisenhower's reply to: 'What is the hardest part of your job?'

WHEN YOU SIT IN THIS CHAIR you are faced not only with the problems of the United States, but with those of the entire world. Every position you take and every decision you make is like throwing a pebble into a pool. Thus, the ripples spread out touching the lives of millions of people here and abroad.

In studying all the problems that come to this desk you have to ask yourself always two questions: What will be the short range effect of a decision? What will be the long range effect?

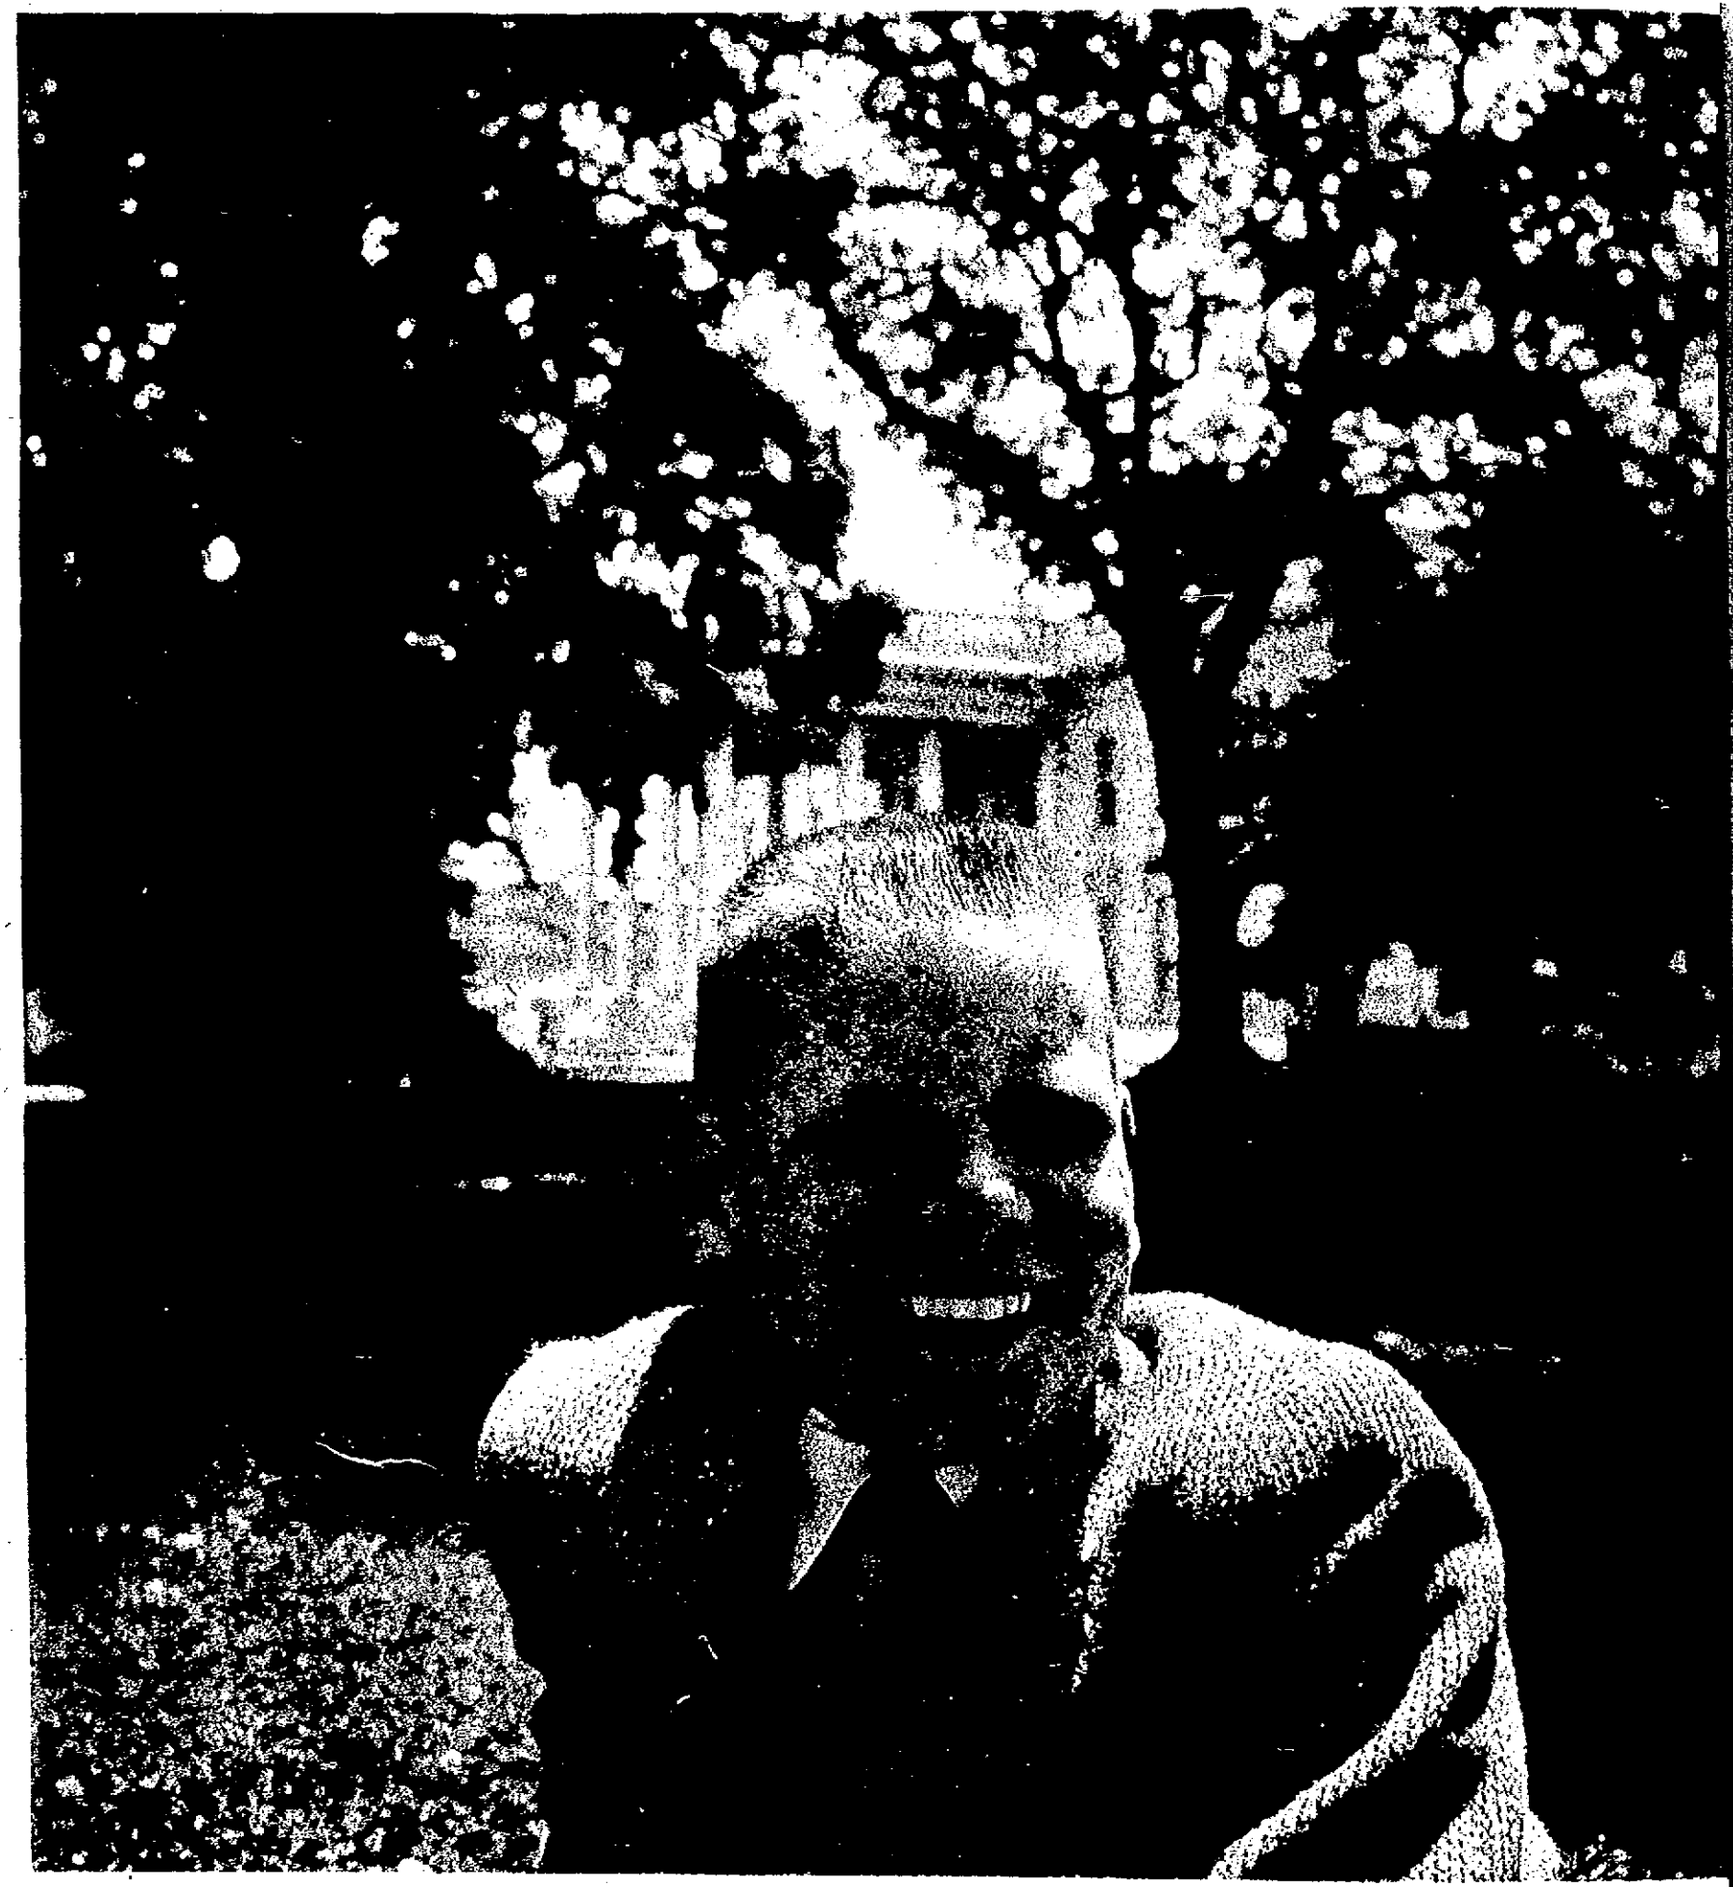

When I first sat down behind this desk I used to think that weighing the problems was the most difficult part of my day. But over the years my opinion has changed somewhat. Many problems come across this desk—economic problems, foreign policy problems, military problems, even space-flight problems. Possibly today there are more problems than ever. On the surface it would appear that working on these problems and trying to resolve them is the hardest part of the job. But the fact is that this is only the beginning.

As President I am first of all responsible for the welfare of the American people, not only for today, but for tomorrow, too.

What I do today cannot fail to influence the work of the man who follows me. Knowing that, I have come to the realization that making a decision is only the beginning. The true test is that it must be the very best decision of which I am capable and the test for that must be one's own conscience.

If I had to answer your question in two words, I would say the hardest part of the job is satisfying yourself. And by that I mean satisfying yourself that you have done your level best for the American people for today and tomorrow.

Gray House, because its walls are of gray sandstone, quarried at Aquia Creek, Va. But after it was burned by the British on August 14, 1814, the walls were whitewashed to hide the marks of the fire.

• The White House was rebuilt a second time — by President Truman in 1948 — for safety's sake.

• There are 54 rooms and 16 baths in that part of the White House used as the President's living quarters, and in the entire building 132 rooms and 20 baths and showers.

A Policeman Clears an Obstacle

Early next morning, Glen was standing at the West Gate, looking up at the tall, blue uniformed White House policeman and explaining that he had an appointment with Mr. Hagerty. As the guard telephoned to check his credentials, he looked across the lawn and thought at once what a wonderful baseball diamond it would make. "If I were President," he mused, "I'd take out the fountain, cut down the trees on the right and have my own diamond. I could probably get a team together out of the Cabinet."

At last, cleared by the big sergeant, he strode briskly up the curving drive. Close by, tourists were making their way towards the public tour entrance to the White House. He could see them pointing at him, nudging each other and saying: "Why that must be the President's grandson, David." Glen didn't mind being a case of mistaken identity at all.

After that, impressions came so fast that Glen had a hard time keeping up with them. And there were so many questions to be asked. Those dazzling lights which seemed to be everywhere. How much electricity did the White House use? (159,000 kw per month.) Those portraits in the Cabinet room of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. He knew the Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington from his history book, but was it the original? (It is.) And were the portraits of Jefferson and Lincoln originals, too? (They are.)

He peered, one by one, at the name plates on the backs of the chairs of Cabinet members, and was intrigued by the fact that chairs used by other officials, called in to Cabinet meetings, had lower backs.

Suddenly, history took Glen in her arms. There, in the cool room, with its thick green carpet and massive windows, he sensed the glorious past and the challenge of the future. The thunder of great events echoed here, historic names took life.

Glen moved to the window and looked out, as he was to look out every window he came to during his visit. He was hoping for a glimpse of the President, the man in command today.

But now it was time for his appointment with James Hagerty ("the most important man I thought I'd ever meet") and to take his place with the White House press corps at their morning briefing. Glen was excited as he edged into the crowded office and found himself standing right beside Hagerty. But he did not expect a V.I.P. introduction, and he blushed as the President's press chief announced: "Gentlemen, we have a new correspondent with us today, Glen Bayless, Jr. Here's today's press release, Glen."

Glen Gets a Souvenir

Glen was not quite sure what a press release was, but before he could gulp twice, he had been handed some papers and the briefing was on. A good deal of it was baffling to Glen. But it was a thrill just the same. And when the briefing was over, there was a private chat with Hagerty and a souvenir to carry away—the press release, inscribed: "To Glen Bayless, Jr. Glad to have you at my news conference today. All my best. Jim Hagerty."

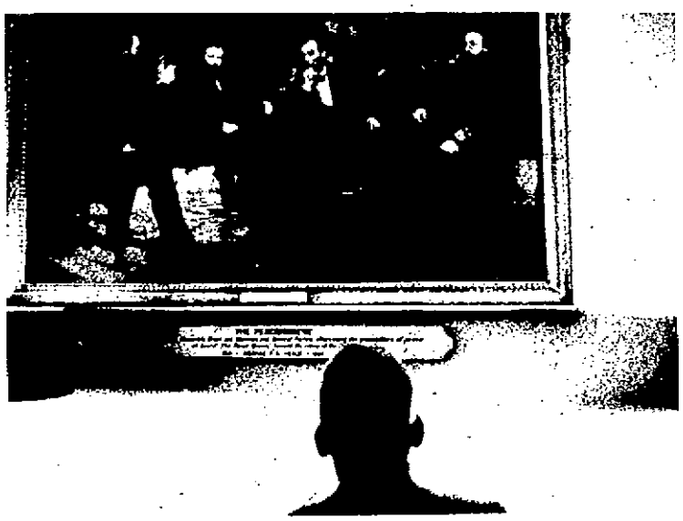

The moment now came to go behind the scenes: To meet Dr. James Killian, the President's chief scientific adviser and expert on such fascinating things as earth satellites, rocket ships and flights to the moon. To meet Chief U. E. Baughman of the Secret Service, the man responsible for the President's safety, and Capt. Robert Richardson of the Army Signal Corps, head of the White House's vast communication network. To meet and discuss stocks with Gabriel Hauge (see page 2), the President's economic adviser, and finally to meet Bob (Red) Redmond, the chief gardener, who mercifully was not told about that plan to convert his front lawn into a baseball diamond!

Moving through the corridors, Glen was puzzled by a soft buzzing sound. It was a new discovery in White House security. Glen learned that whenever the President moves through the White House the Secret Service men on duty always are warned in advance that "the President is approaching your post."

Dr. Killian was fatherly. He knew the kind of questions a boy of 11 would want to ask, and tried his best to answer them. He made it clear to Glen that flights to the moon still were some way off.

Captain Richardson told Glen that he was the youngest visitor ever to see the White House communications room where all the President's speeches and statements are recorded, and from which in a matter of minutes he can address the nation.

Glen makes a happy discovery: history can be exciting

He was told that the President always speaks into two live microphones—"because we cannot risk a mike going dead when the President is on the air." He was told about the elaborate recording equipment, the coding machines, two-way radios and teletypes which travel with the President so that no matter where he may be, Ike is always in touch with the world.

Naturally, Glen wanted to know President Eisenhower's favorite music. The answer: the theme song from High Noon and songs of West Point, which the President likes to hear in the evenings.

Secret Service Chief Baughman is the man with probably more answers about the White House and the President's habits than any other. Glen asked about the President's routine. (Up at 7:00 a.m., breakfast at 7:30 a.m., at work by 8:00 a.m., lunch at 1:00 p.m., then an hour's nap and back to work, sometimes till late at night.)

A Career for Glen

Impressed by lean, athletic Mr. Baughman, Glen decided there and then that he would like to be a Secret Service man, too. How many were in the White House and how many were in the Service?

Said Mr. Baughman: "The number of Secret Service men on duty here is a secret. That is part of the President's protection. But there are 270 agents throughout the United States in 57 offices."

It was a breather for Glen to get out in the sunshine with chief gardener Redmond and to admire his silky grass and priceless trees, each with a history. All presidents, Glen learned, plant trees. The oldest tree, an American elm towering 90 feet, was planted by President John Q. Adams. The youngest are those planted by Ike, a scarlet oak and a black walnut.

Then came a message that Mr. Hagerty wanted to see Glen again. "Golly," Glen later confided to Cindy, "I thought I'd done something wrong."

But there was a bigger surprise in store for him. Jim Hagerty smiled and said without any preliminary, "I think it may be possible for you to see the President. Just wait outside."

Glen's eyes bulged. His lips formed words that somehow got lost on the way out. He still could only nod, when Associate Press Secretary Mrs. Anne Wheaton hurried out and said: "Follow me, Glen, the President will see you now."

Glen does not remember how he came to the President's door and passed through it. His eyes only started to focus and his brain to register again when he faced a sun-tanned man in green sports jacket and dark slacks sitting behind a wide desk. It was the President.

The Biggest Moment

Ike looked at his young visitor for a moment, then took off his glasses and rose, stretching out a welcoming hand and grinning his famous grin. "How are you, young man? I've been anxious to meet you."

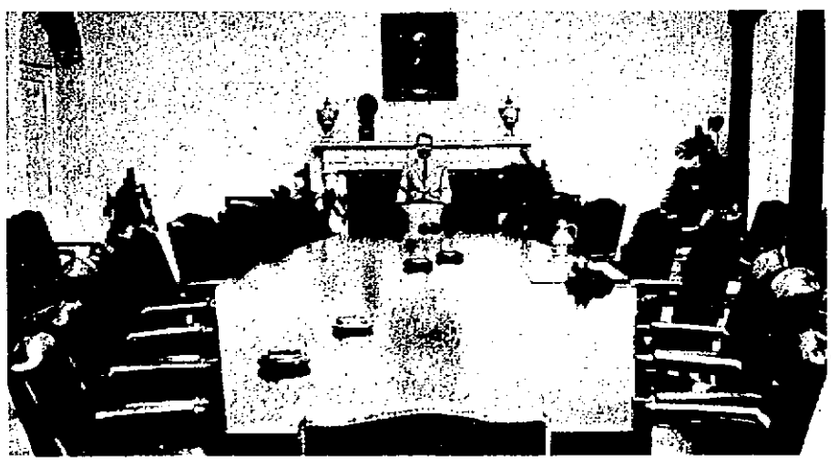

Glen was standing rigidly at attention, thumbs to the seams of his trousers. With his back like a ramrod, he marched to the desk and took the firm hand held out to him. His words came out crisply, though just a little hoarse. "How do you do, Mr. President." Then he proceeded to lose his tongue again.

But Ike, as a father and grandfather, knows how to deal with small boys. He coaxed Glen along by asking about the things he knew and gradually restored his confidence. At first it was a rather one-sided conversation. Questions about school and what Glen was studying. A series of "yes, sirs" from Glen. Glen was studying history, of course. "Yes, sir." What kind of history? "All kinds of history, sir." Had Glen heard of the Battle of Thermopylae? "No, sir, we haven't come to that yet." Had he ever heard of Carthage? Glen perked up at once. Yes, he knew about Carthage. The President listened, obviously pleased. The President agreed that Glen had the broad outlines of the Carthage story. He listened raptly as the President enlarged on the story of that famous city. (Later, Glen told Cindy: "I sure wish history was as interesting at school!")

His White House visit over, Glen goes home to wrestle with a pal

And then filled with new courage, Glen put his own question to the President—the one that had been in his mind all day:

"What, sir, is the hardest part of your job?"

For a moment the President was taken aback. Then he threw his hands up, with a big laugh, and said: "Sit down, son, I want to talk to you about that."

What the President said (see page 9) is one of the most moving statements he ever has made. His language was simple, for he never forgot that he was talking to a boy. Yet he talked as he has talked so often, over the greatest issues, to his closest colleagues in Government—thinking aloud, as he loves to do, not searching for fine phrases, but for the words that will express just what is deepest in his mind.

"Goodbye, Young Man"

He did not count the time. A boy of 11 had asked a question which was as important to the President as it was to the boy. And Ike meant to answer it.

And then, satisfied at last that he had done so, Ike was rising and holding out his hand again, as a signal that the interview was over.

"Goodbye, young man, I am delighted to have been able to meet you."

"Goodbye, Mr. President."

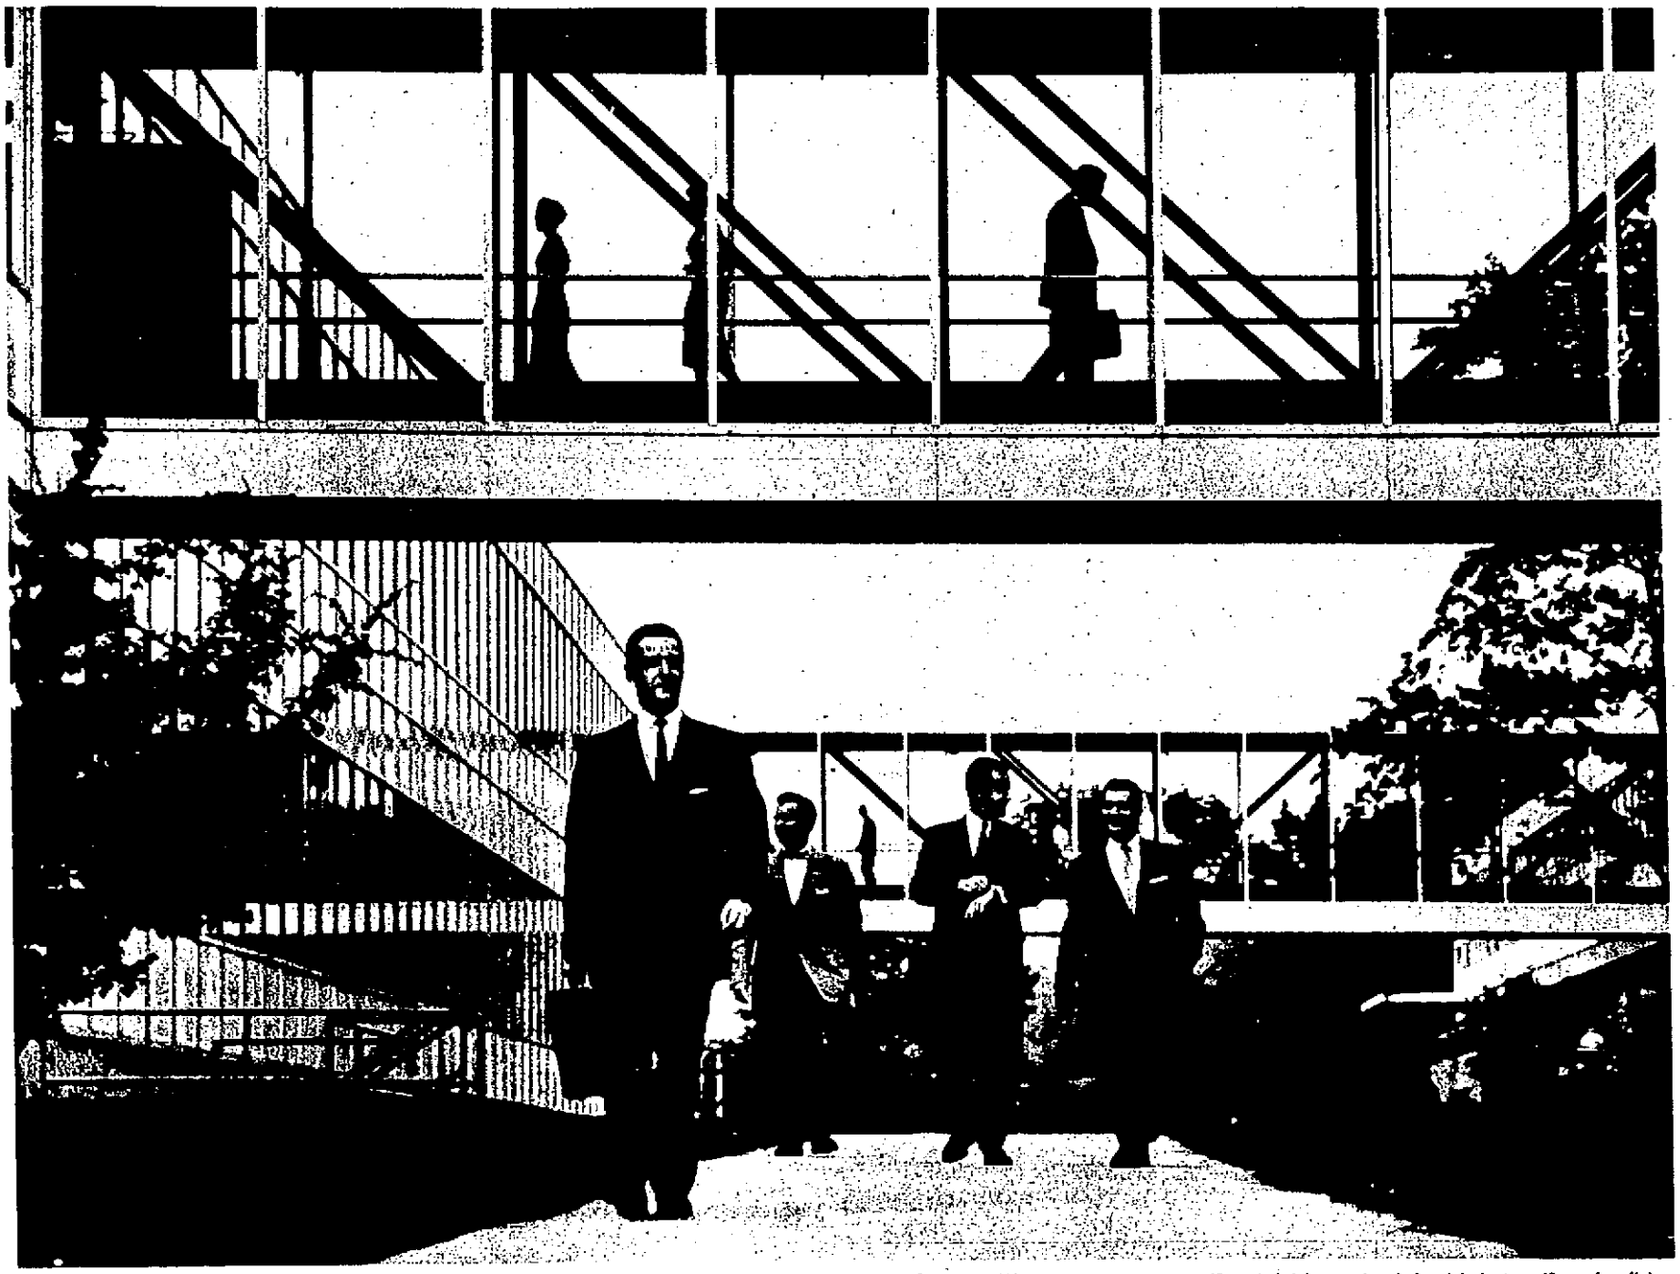

It was a sparkling-eyed Glen who met Dr. Killian once more on the other side of the President's door, where he was waiting for an appointment. But there was no impatience in Dr. Killian's smile. He knew that this had been the biggest moment in the biggest day of a boy's life, and there are occasions when even affairs of state can mark time.

And so Glen's day was over. All the way home in the bus he was quiet, absorbed. Hardly saying a word to his mother and dad, he changed into jeans and T shirt and went off to find his friend, Mike Griffin, to wrestle him in the yard.

It was a late bedtime for Glen Bayless, Jr. He had so much to tell to Mother and Dad and Cindy, so much to say about the man who had made a boy's dream come true.

Glen's farewell handshake with Secret Service Chief Baughman outside White House ends an 11-year-old's rarest day.

Open your rooms with grillwork

by MARY ROCHE
Parade home furnishings specialist

One of the oldest forms of decorative pattern—the grille—has surged strongly back into favor this year. Airy wooden fretwork, metal filigree, open work in wrought iron, sculptured screens of cast cement are ornamenting houses, gardens, interiors, even furniture. Their lacey designs also have been borrowed to make decorative motifs for fabrics and wallpaper.

This "see-through" trend was sparked, say designers, by a recent development in contemporary architecture—the new use of a three-dimensional screen in place of a solid wall and a window or sliding glass wall. Similar grille-walls have been used for centuries to filter the strong Mediterranean sunlight that floods the houses of Morocco and southern Spain. Wrought iron grilles, too, are native to Spain.

Still another type of grille—a lattice of flat metal—has become a familiar sight this year, thanks to its use by architect Edward D. Stone for the United States Pavilion at the World's Fair in Brussels. All grilles, whatever their form or substance, have one quality in common—a look of airiness. On a wall, a grille pattern actually tricks the eye. The illusion that you can see through the open work makes the wall seem less confining and the room larger.

A great movie era ends with

Robert Taylor

Last of the big stars to leave MGM, he now looks to TV, independent films

Taylor and present wife, Ursula Thiess, were married in 1954.

by LLOYD SHEARER

HOLLYWOOD.

Twenty-five years ago, Spangler Arlington Brugh, a tall, blue-eyed cello player from Filley, Neb., went to work at $35 a week as an actor for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The studio changed Brugh's name to Robert Taylor, seasoned him in a series of short subjects. In one of these, Buried Loot, Taylor struck pay-dirt when he tapped a strong vein of feminine fan mail.

MGM decided the handsome young actor was blessed with star potential, and in 1934 began to feature him in full-length movies. In 1935 he was loaned to Universal Pictures to act opposite Irene Dunne in Magnificent Obsession. His stardom was assured, largely because women found his near-perfect features (6', 170 lbs., wavy black hair, natural widow's peak, glistening white teeth) cinematically irresistible.

Last month, after a steady but undistinguished career of 58 films and a quarter of a century at one studio, Robert Taylor left MGM. His last film as a contract player was a cheapie opposite Cyd Charisse called Party Girl.

Enviable Record

Taylor left the studio as he came, quietly, sedately, without fuss or fanfare. In 25 years at Metro, he had seen the company decline from a position of first rank to one of greatly reduced production. He had seen the biggest MGM stars of his era leave or die: Greta Garbo, Jean Harlow, Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, Rosalind Russell, Robert Montgomery, Wallace Beery, Jimmy Stewart, Norma Shearer, Mickey Rooney.

Now the last to depart, Bob Taylor has left behind an enviable record: He had never quarreled with studio executives no matter how wrong he considered their reasoning, how outrageous their demands. He had never been suspended or turned down a part, and had stubbornly insisted that "these fellows must know their business, or they wouldn't be where they are."

He had never caused any trouble, hurt any player's feelings, been involved in any Hollywood scandal. He had proved a shining credit to the industry.

True, he had divorced actress Barbara Stanwyck (four years his senior) after a childless, 12-year marriage (1939-51), but the divorce had been amicable. Unassuming and reserved, Taylor had taken his $5,000 a week, bought horses which he loves to ride, planes which he loves to pilot, a Wyoming cabin in which he likes to vacation with his second wife Ursula Thiess, stepchildren Manuela and Michael, and 3-year-old son Terence.

For a movie star of his magnitude, Taylor has been exceptionally modest. A few years ago he was having a cup of coffee at a restaurant counter in New York. A man approached. "My wife says you look like Robert Taylor," he began. "Anybody ever tell you that before?"

Taylor merely grinned sheepishly.

The man apologized. "I should've known better," he conceded. "A movie star like Robert Taylor with all his dough—he ain't gonna be drinking coffee in a joint like this."

SHYNESS was characteristic of young Brugh, shown here as Pomona College graduate in '33.

Imperturbable Cook

His fans probably don't know it, but Taylor is recognized as the foremost chef in the movie colony. His specialties: roasts, steaks, sauces, cakes and pies. Possessed of the most unruffled temperament in the movie business, Taylor has been angry, intimates say, only once in his life, and that was about food. It happened in London. Taylor and Ralph Couser, his best friend and co-pilot, ordered steaks sent up to their hotel room. When the steaks arrived, they were spoiled.

"Bob didn't say anything, of course," Couser relates. "But he shut the door to the room a little extra hard when we walked out."

In 25 years, Taylor has played opposite enough female stars to qualify as something of an authority on the subject of women. What does he say about them? Just this: "The first thing I notice in a woman is her voice. After that I look for sincerity. I can't stand coy women, clinging vines and domineering women who think they know all the answers."

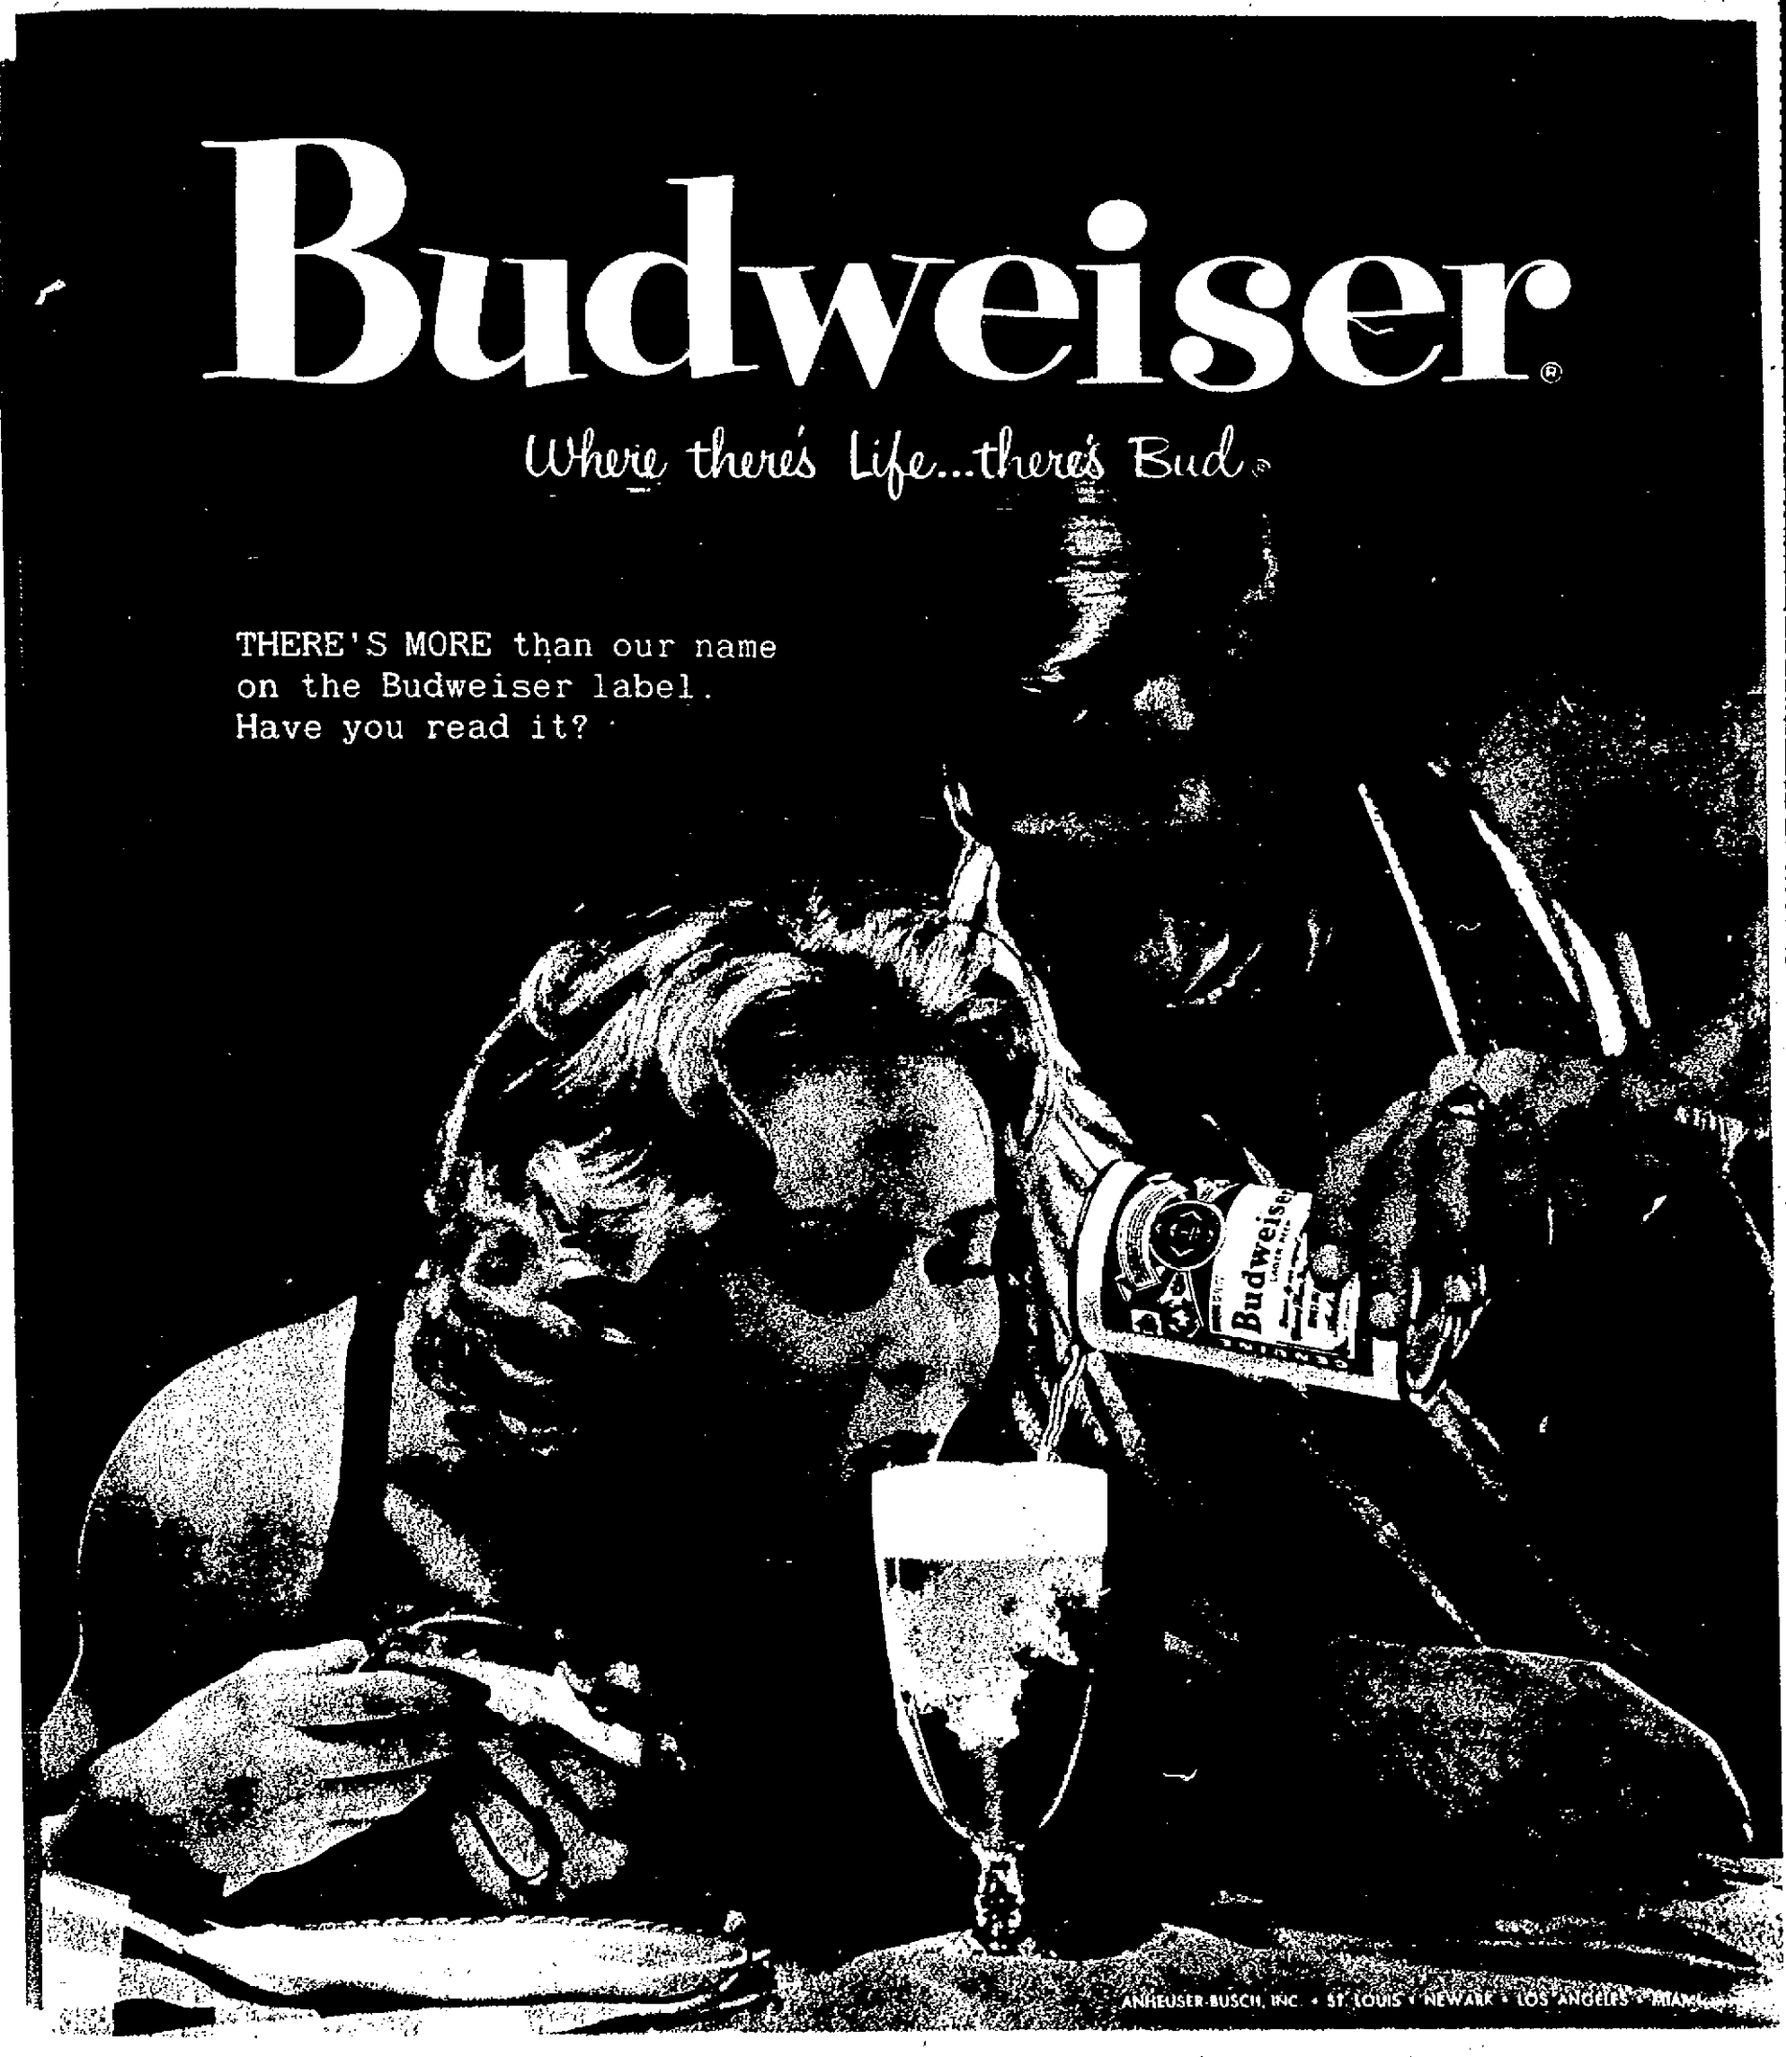

Although he has never been nominated for an Academy Award, actor Taylor at 47 has played everything from westerns to sophisticated comedies, knows as much about film-making as any actor alive. Like other studio-free stars, Taylor plans to investigate independent film production, perhaps even wet his feet in television. In today's star-shortage market, he is worth a minimum of $250,000 a film.

When Taylor drove off the Metro lot last month, one of the few remaining executives said with quiet regret, "There goes the nicest actor we ever had. In all the years he worked on this lot, he never once behaved like an actor." ☆

PARTY SNACK FOR KIDS

Blackberry Mallows and Frosty Pink Fizz are the kind of cool, good-tasting mid-afternoon refreshment kids love.

by BETH MERRIMAN
Parade food editor

Part of the success of a children's party lies in keeping the refreshments simple—easy to make, easy to serve and not too difficult to eat.

Even more important, party treats should be dreamy to the taste and just different enough to appeal to a child's sense of fantasy. Luscious, fluffy Blackberry Mallows (recipe below) that melt in the mouth will whet the most finicky appetite, especially when accompanied by Frosty Pink Fizz.

The food is so light, the youngsters will have a mid-afternoon quick pickup, yet not go home too droopy-eyed or stuffed for dinner. It's party fare they'll remember with delight.

BLACKBERRY MALLOWS

2 packages blackberry gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
¾ cup light corn sirup
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ cup confectioner's sugar

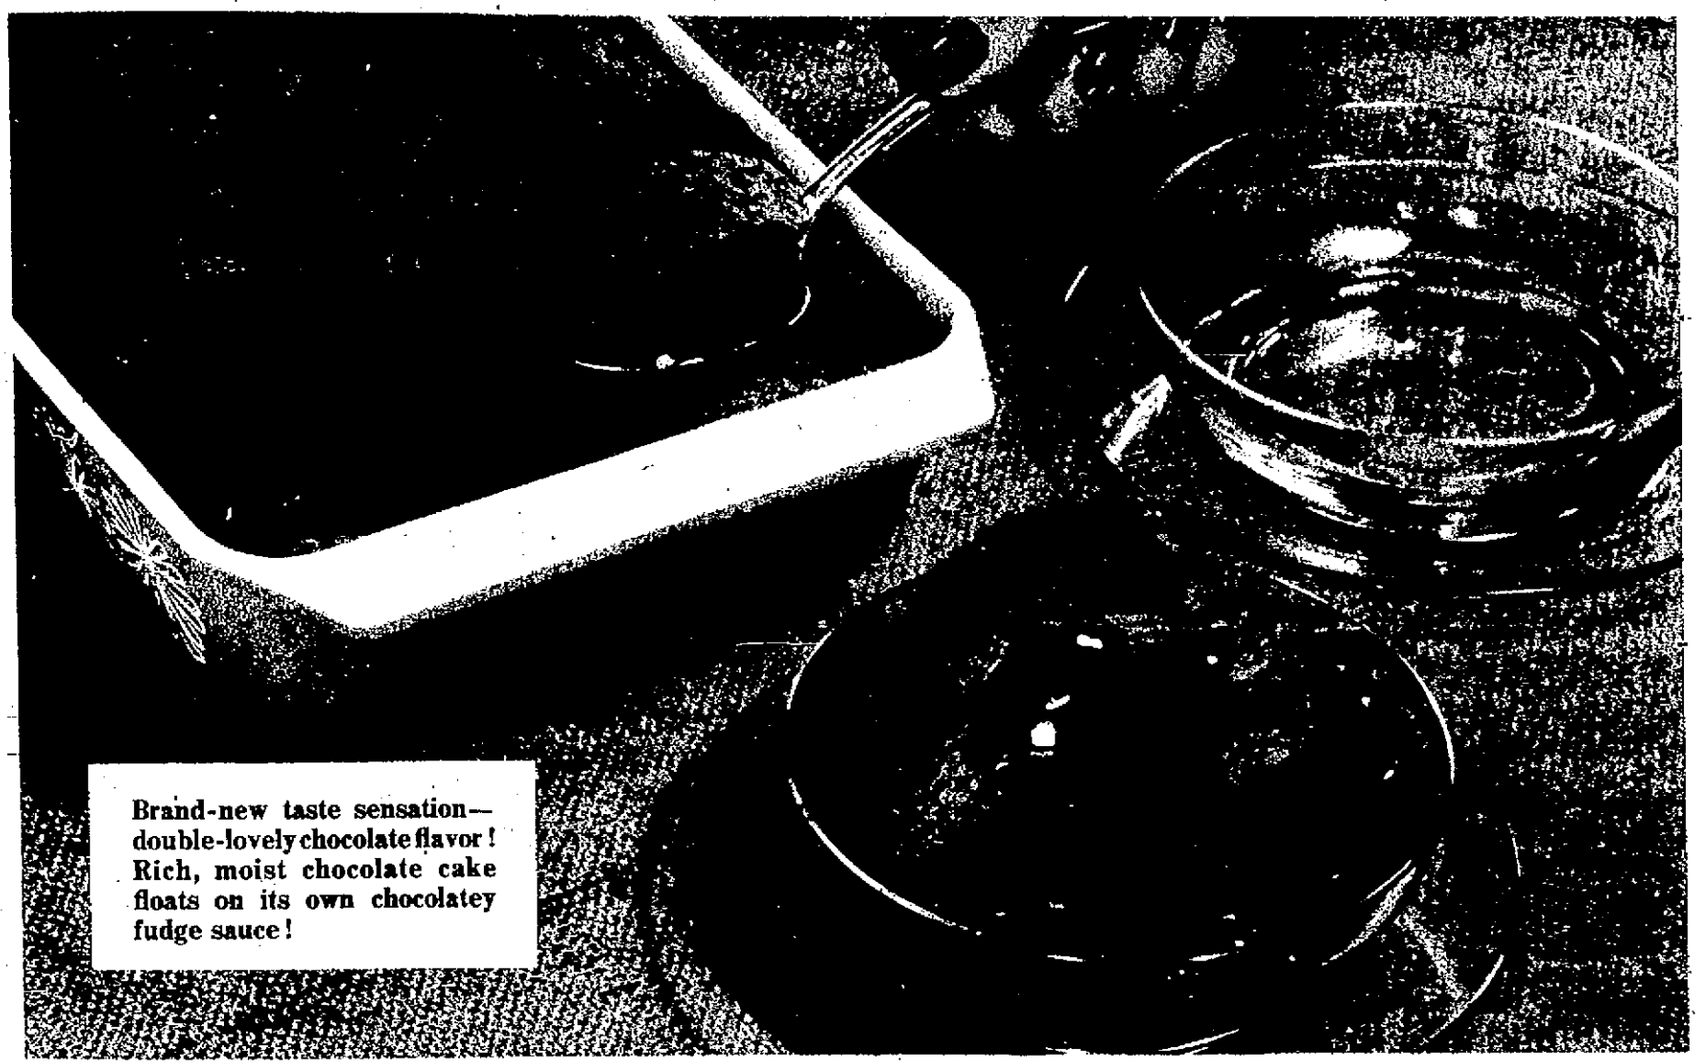

Empty gelatin into small saucepan. Pour boiling water over gelatin; stir well. Stir over very low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved. Pour corn sirup into large bowl of electric mixer. Add dissolved gelatin; beat 15 minutes on high speed or until mixture is thick and of marshmallow consistency. Combine cornstarch and sugar; sprinkle two tablespoons in bottom of 10" square pan. Pour marshmallow mixture into pan; smooth top. Sprinkle with two tablespoons cornstarch mixture. Let stand in cool place (not refrigerator) about one hour. Loosen around edges with knife dipped in cold water. Turn out on a board sprinkled with two tablespoons cornstarch mixture. Cut into 1½" squares with wet knife; sprinkle cut edges with cornstarch mixture.

FROSTY PINK FIZZ

Place one scoop of lemon sherbet and one scoop of raspberry sherbet in each tall glass. Fill glasses with carbonated lemon-lime beverage.

Salk vaccine wastes away, but...

Millions still are

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

The photo (above) points up a distressing irony of our times. While millions of batches of polio vaccine rot on the shelves, 40 million Americans under age 40 have not yet received a single Salk shot.

What's more, 10 million of the unvaccinated are under age 5—the most vulnerable of all groups to polio. This, despite the vaccine's proven value (see timetable, right) in preventing paralytic, sometimes fatal, polio.

Disturbed, the National Foundation (formerly the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis) has asked more than 3,500 people across the U. S. their opinions about shots. The replies show:

1) Some parents of teenagers do not believe polio strikes the teen group. Thus, they do not feel a strong need for Salk shots.

2) Most uninoculated persons are in below-$5,000-a-year income groups. They are said to be less aware of the availability of vaccine than higher income groups.

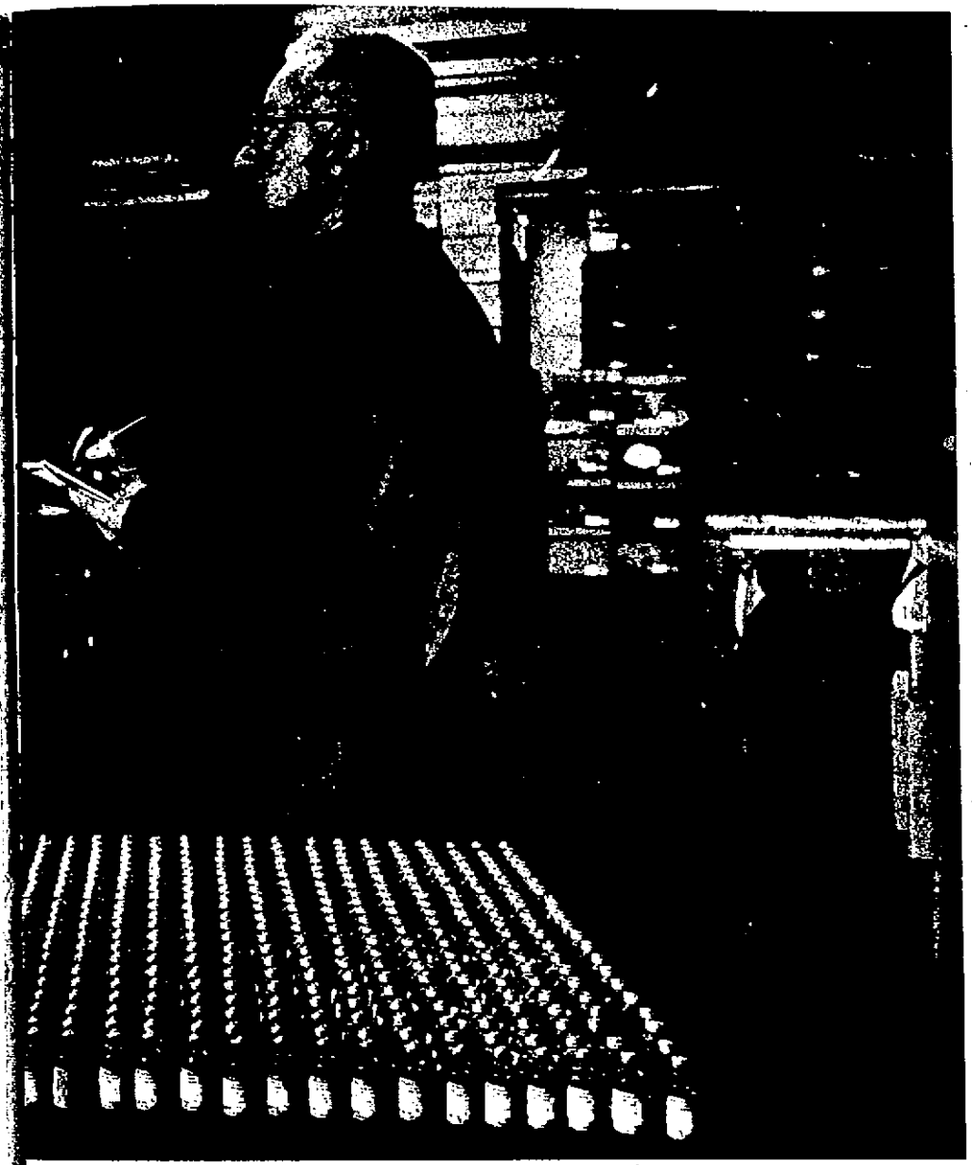

3) Some doctors are lax in recommending shots to parents.

4) Some parents resist the vaccine because they say they cannot afford it.

Despite these and other reasons, more than 65 million Americans have received shots. Still, Dr. Leroy E. Burney, Surgeon-General, U. S. Public Health Service, points out:

"During the first half of 1958, about 300 Americans became crippled or were killed by poliomyelitis. The number would have been far greater except for the Salk polio vaccine.

"There is still danger of polio outbreaks, however. Late August and early September are times of special risk for the unvaccinated and partially-vaccinated (three shots are recommended) because this is the time of year that polio usually reaches its peak.

"Many a child and adult now in perfect health will be stricken before the season ends.

"Since protection is so easy to obtain, it is hard to understand why so many have failed to act. Hardly a day passes that I do not hear of some family that took a chance and lost—a young father, too busy to see his doctor, who is now a lifetime cripple; a mother who failed to take her pre-school child to the clinic and is now childless; a young woman who believed 'it couldn't happen to me.'

"Health agencies throughout the country are working hard to change such attitudes. The readers of PARADE can help this vital cause by getting vaccinated and urging their friends to do the same.

"Until everyone under age 40 is reached, none of us can rest easy." ■

Hay Fever Patients now open Nose-Sinus Zone with New 3-Layer Tablet

Clear, free breathing restored in minutes as congested nasal zone is decongested—stops sneezing, watery, itching eyes

Chicago, Ill. (Special) Observers here are hailing a remarkable new advance against the most unrelenting misery of hay fever — congestion in the nose-sinus zone.

A way has been found to decongest this congestion. This is the central fact which has aroused so much interest on the part of hay fever sufferers who have never found satisfactory relief from other medications.

Up to now, nose drops, eye drops, inhalers, sprays and antihistamines have given some measure of relief. But today you can expect much more complete comfort. This new compound reaches all the congested nasal areas from all sides, through the blood stream. It opens stuffed-up, blocked nasal passages. Free breathing is restored in minutes. Stops unpleasant sneezing; watery, itching eyes are cleared.

New Tablet Discovery

It took a new kind of tablet—made in three separate layers—to combine the special ingredients which make this formula so amazingly effective. Among them is a new decongestant substance so effective it has become the single ingredient most prescribed by doctors for relief of congestion in the nose-sinus area.

Available without Prescription

Now available without prescription—this new 3-layer tablet is called Dristan®. Its unique combination of ingredients—(1) opens up blocked breathing, (2) stops unpleasant sneezing, (3) clears red, watery, itching eyes. At the same time, Dristan helps the body meet the great demands put upon it by the stress and strain of hay fever, and bolsters the body's resistance to infection.

Hay fever sufferers who want faster, more complete relief than they have ever before obtained are advised to try Dristan Decongestant Tablets—satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.

THINK ABOUT DEATH and START TO LIVE!

It is human nature to put off thoughts of death as long as we can.

This is especially true when our years are young, our health is good, and we're having a wonderful time.

But even in this life, the true values and real joys of living come into clear focus only when we face up to the facts of death and ask ourselves: "What does it mean?"

Once we do this, the terrifying specter of death becomes less fearsome. We see it as a teacher, cautioning us to shape our lives in a manner pleasing to God. We see it not as a Grim Reaper, robbing us of our worldly pleasures, but as the golden gateway to God's greatest of all gifts—eternal life.

There are some people, of course, who believe that after this life there is no more. The pure and the sinful, they contend, all meet the same gloomy end of eternal nothingness; there is no judgment, no punishment, no reward. But if our reason did not tell us this is wrong, we have the clearer assurance of God Himself that man shall live on earth, shall eventually meet death, that he shall be judged and, upon that judgment, shall live eternally either in joy—or misery.

This has been the teaching of the age-old Catholic Church since the time of the Apostles. It is a doctrine that compels a Catholic to think of his life in terms of his death. It sounds like a gloomy doctrine to those who dislike to face up to the facts of death and the certainty of divine judgment, but Catholics are inspired rather than depressed by it.

However gloomy the prospect of death may be, Catholics are constantly reminded by the Church of the importance of facing up to it instead of trying to ignore it. In the month of November each year, the thoughts of the faithful are especially directed to the special considerations of that occasion when every human being must take off on that final "flight" to God's vast unknown.

If you would like to know how to think about death, what happens after death, how to think about heaven, how the Church helps its people at death, what's the right attitude toward death as Catholics see it, write today for our free pamphlet. It will be sent in a plain wrapper . . . nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. PR-53.

HOW TO COURT A JURY

by HERMAN E. KRIMMEL

A Milwaukee man who failed police sobriety tests was acquitted of a drunk driving charge when he suddenly flipped over and walked steadily across the courtroom on his hands.

• • •

An Iowa attorney, charged with running a stop sign, won his case by flipping a coin. "Under the law of gravity," he told the court, "the coin had to stop before it fell. However, you didn't see it stop in the air. I think that proves I stopped at the sign, but so fast that the officer didn't see me." Judge agreed, dismissed the case.

• • •

A Syracuse, N. Y., man was excused from jury duty when the judge discovered that the plaintiff in the damage suit was the prospective juror's daughter and the defendant his wife.

• • •

Acquitted of a wife-beating charge, a defendant in Galena, Alaska, was so overjoyed that he rushed over to the jury and blurted out: "I promise never to beat her again!"

• • •

In Torquay, England, a man, who was fined for being drunk and entering a lady's bedroom, remarked: "I thought it was the Y.M.C.A."

• • •

When a municipal court judge in Dayton, Ohio, asked a woman accused of bigamy if she wanted to waive to the grand jury, she promptly turned around and waved to the spectators.

• • •

A California judge ordered a new trial for a man charged with receiving stolen goods. He discovered the defendant had been escorting one of the lady jurors home from court.

• • •

In Chicago, a man asked to be sent to the county jail instead of the city jail because, he said, the latter didn't have a chorus and he already was committed th "the talent scout at the county jail." Request granted.

• • •

Told to raise her right hand to testify, a witness in Maryland raised her left. When the judge repeated the instruction she said indignantly: "This is my right hand. I'm left-handed."

In an Arizona courtroom, a solid wooden railing was built in front of the jury box after lady jurors complained spectators were ogling them.

• • •

Protesting to police that he had not been driving while drunk, a man in Colwyn Bay, Wales, proved it. He got down on the floor, placed a jar of water on the back of his neck, picked up a coin with his teeth, then rose without spilling a drop.

• • •

A Vancouver, B. C., woman who drove her car for the first time in 14 years was charged with "driving while her ability was impaired." Her lawyer contended it was impossible for her ability to be impaired "because she had none to begin with."

• • •

Accused of larceny for tampering with slot machines in order to hit the jackpot every time, a man in Illinois offered this defense: He said he had not violated any law because "slot machines are illegal in the first place and have no business being where they are. So—legally—they aren't there. And you can't take money illegally from something that isn't there." ■

Scheffy

Peter and Mary, teamed up for laughs on their own daytime radio show (CBS, Monday through Friday) and in the current Broadway hit, Who Was That Lady? chose these cartoons by Luther Scheffy for today's laughs. Scheffy, 44, was born in West Mansfield, Mass., and now lives in Fallbrook, Calif., with his wife and teen-age daughter. A graduate (cum laude) of Harvard University, he studied art in France and Italy on a Harvard fellowship, later turned to cartooning. How a borrowed cup of sugar helped me make $102 in 3 weeks!

Where we live, neighbors are forever dropping in to borrow something or ask about a recipe or just chat a bit — and frankly, I enjoy it. Ordinarily, I wouldn't dream of selling them anything, but for quite a while I'd been feeling sort of depressed — what with Christmas coming and not much extra money around — so I decided to send off the coupon for Chilton cards, just to see if I could earn the extra money I needed, too.

Well, the day my four-box sample kit arrived, my friend Elaine dropped in to borrow a cup of sugar and right away she spied those cards. Like me, she just loved them — and before I knew it, she'd bought one of the boxes and ordered three more! That was just the beginning! In the next three weeks, just by showing my Chilton cards, I made $102! Call it selling if you like — but I call it the nicest, easiest way to make money I ever heard of! Now I know how our club can get the new chairs we need . . . and how I can have enough money for all kinds of extras!

Why not make extra money this pleasant way yourself?

NEW!
A SAFE DRY CHLORINE BLEACH THAT BEATS ANY LIQUID BLEACH!

POWERFUL...but not a liquid bleach!

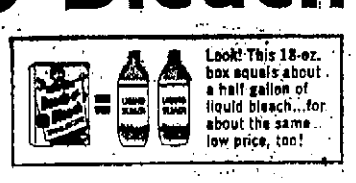

DRY...but not a weak "preventive" powder!

Imagine! Amazing new Safety Beads packed with concentrated chlorine bleach. Safe!...because the powerful built-in bleaching action only begins when the Safety Beads dissolve in your washer.

There's no pre-mixing—no splashing, spilling worries—you pour or sprinkle Beads-o'-Bleach right from the new foil box. You'll like the clean smell...the new built-in "brightener" that even gets dingy shirts extra white (no liquid bleach has it). Try a box this week!
